SPANISH PRISONS LIKE INQUISITION, IS CHARGE

MADRID, March 7.—That barbarities equal to those committed under the Inquisition are still practiced in Spanish prisons is the charge made by the Prisoners' Committee, recently formed by an association of ex-convicts to investigate the subject. In a manifesto the committee cites a number of cases of almost unbelievable atrocities which, however, it claims are fully authenticated. "In one instance," says the manifesto, "a prisoner was nailed to a cross and died in agony. Pieces of flesh were torn from the arm of another, a third had his eye gouged out, and still another had his arms broken. The director of a prison at Figueras (Catalonia) a man named Milena, has had a subterranean dungeon built known as the "Siberia." Prisoners who are taken there are bound and beaten until they become insensible. The victim is then put into another cell apart from the others until his wounds heal, and he is there made to fast until he is hungry enough to eat the salt.

DOGS TO GUARD CEMETERIES.

PARIS, March 7.—Dogs are to be used to guard Paris cemeteries, according to a decision of Prefect of Police Hennion. Ghouls have committed so many crimes of late that reinforcements were asked by the police of the district and as dogs get about among the tombstones better than men, police dogs will be added to the force.

EX-EMPRESS EUGENIE FEEBLE.

CAPE MARTIN, France, March 7.—Ex-Empress Eugenie, widow of the Third Napoleon, is said to be in rather feeble health. She rarely leaves her villa here. Formerly she took long drives and walks. Amateur snapshotters still hang about her gates waiting for an opportunity to "snap" her.

which was on the spot when the submarine A-7 disappeared off Devonport in January, the occupants of the illfated vessel must have lived for at least an hour after the submarine sank, and during the greater part of that time were engaged in the hopeless task of trying to bring her to surface. The crew of the Pigmy saw during that time periodical cone-shaped upheavals of water growing gradually less until they ceased. This, say the experts, proves that an effort was being made to restore buoyancy by blowing-out the trimming tanks until the last ounce of compressed air was exhausted. How the surplus buoyancy, which every submersible retains when diving, was lost is a question which may never be solved. It might have been caused by a mishap to the tanks or failure of the torpedo-tube door to operate.

There is now little hope of ever bringing the A-7 to the surface. She lies in 27 fathoms of water, while no submarine has yet been raised from a greater depth than seven fathoms. Besides, the boat lies with her nose tilted at an angle of 30 degrees, and her quarters buried in the mud to the base of her coning tower, so it would be almost impossible to get a grip on it.

WOULD STOP SLAUGHTER OF BIRDS FOR ORNAMENT

VIENNA, March 7.—"Sacrifices to civilization and Civilization's Epidemic" is how Professor Hugo Salomon characterizes the tremendous slaughter of birds and animals to satisfy the craving of the modern woman for articles of adornment, in an address here pleading for the prevention of the extermination of various birds and animals. In Venezuela, said the professor, 1,738,000 birds were slaughtered last year for their feathers. An average of 360,000 Brazilian and 247,000 tropic birds from India, are sold to dealers in London for their feathery ornaments. No less than 10,000,000 squirrels and 200,000 beavers were killed last year for their skins. "But, the women cannot be held responsible. They adorn themselves to please the men."

DEPORT SICK BABY FROM RUSSIA WITH BRUTALITY

MOSCOW, March 7.—Escorted by two soldiers with fixed bayonets, that the majesty of the law might be upheld, the two-year-old son of a Jewish dentist, has been solemnly deported from Kursk, Central Russia. Kohan, the dentist, and his wife were ordered to leave the town a few weeks ago, and they complied, but they left their infant son with friends, as he was too delicate to travel during the winter. The Governor of the town promptly arrested the baby and ordered Kohan's friends to send the boy away. The friends begged for a delay but the brutal official ordered two soldiers to join a convoy of criminals with the boy and turn him over to the parents. It is not expected that little Kohan will survive the hardships of the journey.

KAISER HAS NEW WORRY OVER SHORT MOUSTACHES

BERLIN, Mar. 7.—The kaiser's worrying again. And again the mustaches of his soldiers are keeping him awake nights.

Some time ago he issued an edict against officers shaving the upper lip; said it was effeminate, and that real men would grow plenty of hair there.

Now he's caused the following order to be read to the rank and file:

"Non-commissioned officers and men are to be instructed that the modern fashion of wearing the mustaches as a trifling tuft of hair under the nose is unsuitable for Prussian soldiers and irreconcilable with the true German character."

The order is aimed at the "tooth brush" style of mustache borrowed

HELP WANTED—BADLY.

LONDON, March 7.—"Brittisher, slightly bald and of no particular social standing, tired to death of the needy clamor of the young, the well-born, and the well-educated, desires to meet with some charitably disposed person of more money than brains, who will enable him to taste the unwonted and peculiar joy of living in luxury on someone else's bounty," reads an advertisement in the Morning Post.

BILL TO STOP SALOONS IN FRANCE

Measure to Be Presented as Opening Wedge for Anti-Alcoholic Campaign.

PARIS, March 7.—A bill to stop the opening of any more drinking establishments in France is to be presented to Parliament as the opening wedge for the anti-alcoholic campaign which is being taken up anew by temperance advocates.

Here are some of the facts with which they are trying to drive home the need of restraint:

If the drinking places already established were so apportioned there would be one for every group of 80 inhabitants of France.

In some districts drinking places are so thickly placed that there is one for every 17 persons.

New drinking places are springing up throughout the country at the rate of six a day.

More alcoholic drink, including wines, is consumed in France than in any other nation in the world.

In the form of spirits alone it is estimated that $236,000,000 worth was drunk in France during 1911.

AGAINST NEW SALOONS.

Complete prohibition is beyond the wildest dreams of any French temperance reformer," says Henri Schmidt, who is author of the bill about to come before the House of Deputies, "and the most we can hope at present is to forbid the opening of any saloons. By refusing to grant new licenses we hope in the course of time as some of the present drinking establishments fail or cease to exist for other reasons, to reduce the average of drinking places to one for four hundred inhabitants. We shall not, however, try to prevent the opening of restaurants where drink is sold with meals.

"But even such a mild anti-alcoholic measure as this is likely to meet with much opposition in Parliament. How difficult it is to pass temperance legislation in France may be judged from the fact that in 1912 only 126 out of 600 deputies voted in favor of a milder bill which originated in the Senate and was twelve years passing through the upper House.

NO PARTY CAMPAIGN.

"We hope, however, that the general elections this spring will considerably increase the temperance vote in the chamber and we are organizing an energetic non-party campaign throughout France, urging each political group to obtain from their can-question and if possible a pledge to support anti-alcoholic legislation.

"After the passage of the law at present before the House there are two other projects which we hope to realize in course of time. One is the absolute prohibition of the sale of absinthe. Official statistics show that the consumption of this liquor which stood at 700,000 litres in 1874 had increased to 28,000,000 litres in 1910. The increase of crime in France during recent years is largely due to absinthe-drinking. Our madhouses are filled with lunatics who would have been sane and healthy men and women but for absinthe.

ABOLISH FREE PRIVILEGE.

"The second anti-alcoholic measure will be for abolishing the "privilege" of spirit distillers to manufacture a quantity of spirit free from taxation for consumption by themselves and their families. The amount of spirits thus manufactured is enormous, especially in the cider districts such as Normandy and Brittany, where every peasant is a distiller of spirit in a small way. The government has no checks whatever on spirit manufactured under the "privilege" and of course it is not by any means consumed by the distiller and his family. It is estimated that if the spirits manufactured under the privilege were taxed at the same rate as other alcohol it would bring a revenue of at least $25,000,000.

"We propose no legislation at present against the drinking of wine. In districts where nothing but wine is consumed there is very little alcoholism. Unfortunately inhabitants of the famous wine-growing districts of France are no longer content to drink wine alone. They have acquired the taste for more pernicious drinks and at the same time more absinthe is being drunk each year in the Midi than in any other part of France."

Mme. Leon Brunschwieg, general secretary of the French Union for Woman's Suffrage and a prominent temperance reformer says: "Anti-alcoholism is one of the chief planks in our platform and I believe the granting of votes for women will be the only means of securing a temperance majority in the French Parliament."

SECOND QUEEN YADURGA BOWS KNEE TO RUSSIA

ST. PETERSBURG, March 7.—A young baroness of 20 who had a vision of herself as a second Queen Yadwiga (who fought valiantly for Polish freedom) and throwing off the Russian yoke, has been acquitted of treason and has escaped Siberia by promising to be good and marry a Russian.

The case, which came on for trial at Wilna, engaged widespread attention on account of the standing of the accused. Baroness Mare von Rosenberg and Eugenie von Kobykinski are both aged 20 and they only left school a year ago. Their joint offense was to interrupt the service at Wilna cathedral by chanting a Polish hymn of liberty. The baroness' diary occupied much of the court's time. One entry crystallized her sentiments: "Give us Poland back; we bought it with our blood. Through battle to victory. If I could but arise a second Queen Yadwiga of glorious memory!"

All of which sounded heroic, and might have impressed the court but for the humiliated and weeping figure of its author in the dock. On a Russian government official stepping forward and claiming the girl's hand she was sentenced to a nominal term of one month's imprisonment, the Czar ordering her immediate release with her companion next monring.

THINKS KING MAY YET RULE U. S.

French Military Authority Sees Development of American Monarchy in Future.

PARIS, March 7.—The United States may yet be ruled by a king according to Commandant Haillot, a military authority here. The statement was made in all seriousness in a discussion of what Haillot terms the development of the American offensive. Contrary to popular notion, he declared, the American has an underlying, but exceedingly strong, love for conquest and war and his capacity for hero worship appears to be unlimited. To support his theory he calls to witness Theodore Roosevelt's dash to power on the back of a bucking broncho, via San Juan Hill in Cuba; the rapid spread of American frontiers and the report circulated in Europe that the United States is soon to augment materially her army and navy.

"Up until the war with Spain in 1898," Commandant Haillot said, "everybody believed the American republic to be the world's principal exponent of peace. In view of the marvelous economic prosperity of the country, people willingly forget the warlike America of Washington's day which went singing to war with England. The America which fought with Mexico in 1848, and waged civil war for five years during the sixties. And the impression was aided by a seeming unpreparedness for war. But the war in Cuba set the world to rights.

MONROE DOCTRINE TRANSGRESSED.

"The opening of the Panama Canal accompanied by the seizure of all approaches, places every country in both North and South America directly in the unescapable control of the United States. The same republic which evokes the Monroe Doctrine against the countries of Europe is thus constrained to transgress herself, for today her ambitions go far beyond her own confines. A defensive policy explains well enough the occupation of Hawaii and other similar points, but a distinctly offensive one is responsible for the Philippines, Guam, etc. And it is clearly the spirit of conquest, at least commercial, which auses America to watch with the eye of an eagle the affairs of China and the development of Japan.

"In the meantime the United States is taking every precaution against European—even English — competition in South America, and the moment is near when Venezuela, Columbia, Ecquador and even Peru, will fall under the tutelage already accepted by Hondras, Haiti, Saint Domingo, Porto Rico, Cuba, and Panama and which now threatens Mexico. Military and naval strength, of course, is necessary to carry out these projects. America must stand ready to compete with the eager German and Japanese. But there is already talk of a navy second only to that of Great Britain while the little army of 65,000 soldiers of yesterday is even now perhaps 100,000 strong.

WHAT IS MORAL EFFECT.

"What is to be the moral effect, on the people, of all these transformations? What will the public state of mind be when 1925 comes around with an army of 500,000 well trained and splendidly equipped men, and a navy counting 80 dreadnoughts? What changes of the American viewpoint are to be expected as the result of war-budgets of almost a billion dollars, of class and caste formations, of military traditions, of perhaps two or three successful wars and three or four important annexations of territory?

THIS YEAR IS "THE TIGER" IN JAPAN

Jungle Beast Emblem of Present Period of Twelve Months.

TOKYO, March 7.—The current year is 1914 of the Christian era, 2574 of the Japanese era (which is reputed to have begun in 660 B. C., with the accession of the first Emperor Timmu), and 3 of the period of Taisho (great righteousness). In the sexagenary "Cycle of Cathay" it is the 51st year of the current cycle, which began in 1864, and it is called "Ki-no-e tora no toshi," or "natural wood, tiger year." According, however, to the lunar calendar, the year does not really began till January 26, and it will continue for thirteen lunar months, 384 or 385 days, until the middle of February, 1915. That is what is called a leap year in the orient, with an extra month (two fifth months) instead of only an extra day!

ANNIVERSARIES OF 1914.

The year 1914 is the sixtieth anniversary of the first treaty of peace and amity made by new Japan with an occidental nation, the treaty with Perry. It is the fifty-fifth anniversary of the opening of Yokohama, Nagasaki and Hakodate to foreign commerce, and of the arrival of the first Protestant missionaries (Williams and Luggins, Episcopal; Verbeck, Brown and Simmons, Dutch reformed, and Hepburn, Presbyterian). It is the 50th anniversary of the bombardment of Shimonoseki, which led Ito and Inonye to steal away to England to learn the secret of the strength of western civilization. It is the 45th anniversary of the opening of Yedo (now Tokyo) to foreign residence and of the young emperor's "charter oath," which was to be the policy of his eventful reign. It is the 35th anniversary of the visit of General U. S. Grant to Japan and of the anexation of the Loo Choo islands. It is the 30th anniversary of the introduction of the English language into the school curricula. It is the 25th anniversary of the establishment of local self-government for cities, towns and villages, and of the promulgation of the constitution, which took Japan out of the pale of Oriental absolutism and placed her among the progressive nations of the world. It is the 20th anniversary of the war with China, which indirectly resulted in the admission of Japan to the comity of nations.

It is the 15th anniversary of the going into effect of the first revised treaties, which formally admitted Japan to the comity of nations on terms of equality. It is the 10th anniversary of the beginning of the Russo-Japanese war, which resulted indirectly in making Japan one of the "great powers" of the world. It is the 5th anniversary of the assassination of Ito by a Korean fanatic, and of the visit of representative Japanese business men to the United States. From this list it may be seen that 1914 is the anniversary of many of the important and interesting events in the evolution of modern Japan.

ASSOCIATED WITH BAMBOOS.

The tiger is often associated with bamboo in Japanese art. One says that tigers, being afraid of elephants, hide in the bamboo jungles. Another reason assigned is because the tiger is so powerful that "it can traverse a thousand miles at a stride, even through a bamboo forest." On the other hand, the tiger is "very often depicted in a storm cowering beneath bamboos, symbolizing the insignificant power of the mightiest of beasts as compared with that of the elements."

It is said that, while tiger year is generally a lucky year, it is not a fortunate year for marriage. It may be that this is so, because the Japanese word (tora) for tiger resembles the verb toru, which means "to take away." That is to say, it would not be safe to make a matrimonial venture because one party might be taken away! Yet one famous fortune teller in Tokyo says that this year of the tiger will be good for marriages, especially in case the bridegroom was born in a tiger year, such as 1890, for instance, or 1878, or 1866, or 1854, although the last mentioned might be too old, unless he is attractive on account of wealth!

It is scarcely necessary to say that merchants make the most of old crazes. Tiger fur is in great demand. Early in December of last year the fur stores of Tokyo had practically exhausted their supply and the price had gone up. It is said that many wealthy families had planned to surprise their New Year callers with a fine display of tiger skins, but the dealers could not meet the demand. A certain big store had planned to make a feature of stuffed tigers in one of its show windows, but was similarly disappointed. Korean tigers furnish a good pelt, but the Siberian tiger's fur is the softest and best. They sell for about 300 yen ($150) apiece.

CHICAGOANS ENTERTAIN AS HOSTS IN BERLIN

BERLIN, Germany, Mar. 7.—Professor and Mrs. Paul Shorey of Chicago and Professor Archibald Coolidge of Harvard were the hosts today at a dinner to the leading professors of the University of Berlin and other friends, the event marking the closing social feature of the exchange professorship season. More than 100 guests attended. Among them were Dr. Max Planck, rector of the University of Berlin; Dr. Adolf Harnack, the royal librarian; Professor Eduard Meyer, historian; Professor Wilhelm Doerpfeld, archaeologist; Johann Koppel, a banker, who is one of the sup-ships: Colonial Secretary Solf, Ambassador and Mrs. James W. Gerard, and Secretaries Joseph C. Grew, William Spencer and Albert B. Ruddock of the American legation.

Professor Coolidge proposed the toast to the kaiser and Professor Shorey, speaking in the German language, proposed a graceful toast to German science and the University of Berlin. The Shoreys will leave Berlin early in March and take up their residence temporarily in Rome.

Oakland at Play

WHY DON'T YOU JOIN US IN PLAY?

Recreation Parks Offer Every Citizen Chance for Health-Enjoyment.

By GEORGE E. DICKIE.

How many of the citizens of Oakland have learned to make use of the free opportunities for recreation offered by the municipality? The Oakland Recreation Department maintains ten playgrounds and recreation centers the year 'round and fifteen in the summer time. In addition to the playgrounds for children many sports and pastimes are provided for the adults. The recreation grounds are becoming more popular every day. Tennis, baseball, football, volley ball and folk dancing are the favorite sports for grown ups. Social center buildings are available for club meetings, lectures, entertainments and dancing. Each recreation center or playground is in charge of trained supervisors whose duties are to lead and protect the children in their play and to promote and organize games, sports and other activities for all patrons of the grounds. Good behavior is the password to all these opportunities. The playground is one of the greatest preventives of poor behavior and delinquencies and many boys and girls who were difficult to manage at home and in school have become models through the constructive influence of the playground. The following are some of the principal activities to be found in the recreation grounds:

ATHLETICS.

Both informal and organized athletic games of all kinds are provided on the playgrounds. Five baseball leagues will soon start in the playgrounds and any boy who wishes to may engage in the National game. Many may find an opportunity at his nearest playground. There are ten public tennis courts in Oakland which receive constant use during the leisure hours of the people. The courts are frequently used for exhibition and match games by expert players. Maurice McLaughlin, world's amateur tennis champion occasionally uses the courts at Mosswood Park for exhibition games and pronounces these courts to be equal to the best. Several basket ball courts are provided at each playground and leagues are organized in which as many as five or six teams are entered from a single playground. Volley ball is a new game but during the past year has become very popular. During the Fall season football is given much attention, the soccer, American and rugby games all being played. The Oakland and Polytechnic High School used the Bay View football field last season for practice and match games. Field and track meets are frequently held during the Spring season. Classifications, events and leagues are provided in the above sports so that any amateur athlete may enter regardless of age.

GYMNASIUM.

Outdoor gymnasium apparatus is provided on nearly all the playgrounds. Here the supervisors instruct on the rings, bars and tumbling, wrestling, and gymnastics.

MANUAL TRAINING.

On several of the recreation grounds opportunities for boys' and girls' occupation work are offered. Model building, clay modeling, basketry and raffia are the principal branches taught.

SMALL CHILDREN'S DEPARTMENT.

Supervisors are required to teach a great number of circle, singing and running games for the benefit of small children coming to the playgrounds. Story telling hours are occasionally held when professional story-tellers from the Oakland Library Department come and entertain the children with tales of adventures, fairies and folk lore. The sand box is always in evidence and is well patronized by the little tots.

FOLK DANCING.

Folk dancing is an important department for girls and small children. Almost every day on each playground classes are held and the children learn to dance the folk dances of the Old and New World.

CLUBS.

A favorite method for handling groups on the recreation ground is by organizing clubs for various purposes. There are outdoor women's clubs for the mothers, older sisters and friends of the children; "camp-fire girls" clubs for girls between twelve and eighteen years of age." "Blue Bird" clubs for girls under twelve; numerous boys clubs formed also for dramatic clubs. The clubs are organized with a president and secretary and are responsible for their own activities with such assistance as may be given them by the supervisors.

Any person may join a club by vote of the members or a new club will be organized when a large enough group is formed.

FIELD HOUSES.

The field houses on the various playgrounds are equipped with shower baths, dressing rooms, toilets, lavatories and lockers. Clean towels are supplied for the shower baths. There is also maintained on each playground a supply of athletic materials such as base balls, foot balls, basket balls, bats and games. These supplies are issued to the patrons very much in the same manner as books are issued from the public library, except that all supplies must be used on the playground and must be returned before closing time each day. All these facilities are free to the public.

RECREATION CENTER BUILDINGS.

Several recreation center buildings are maintained by the department and are equipped with halls, game rooms, committee meeting rooms and dressing rooms. These buildings are used for club meetings, dramatics, entertainments, games and social purposes. Free permits for the use of these buildings may be obtained by any responsible organization which will comply with the rules and regulations.

WALKING TRIPS.

During the summer season frequent trips or "hikes" are planned and conducted into the nearby woods and hills. Many boys and girls cannot go away for the summer vacation and these trips afford them an opportunity of enjoying the country without expense.

FESTIVALS.

One of the most interesting activities in the playgrounds is the preparation and production of festivals, pageants and celebrations. Every national holiday such as Independence Day, Washington's Birthday, and Admission Day are celebrated with suitable ceremonies upon each playground. The annual playground May festival is a fixed institution in Oakland and is looked forward to by thousands of our citizens. In 1913 the May festival was held in Lakeside Park. Fifteen hundred children participated in the various pageants. About 10,000 people witnessed the production. The May festival this year will be held on Saturday afternoon, May 9, and plans and rehearsals are well under way. A complete account of the program has been printed elsewhere on this page.

The following is a list of the recreation grounds showing the locations and principal features of equipment:

Noted Players at the Park

Superintendent Tells of Happy Season With Noted Stars of American Game

(By R. F. O'HARA.)

For three months the baseball player has been forgotten. Now he comes forth and joins his old companions in loosening up their stiffened joints and listening to their tales of how they spent the winter. The questions "Did you have a good winter?" and "Where did you spend the winter?" are on every lip.

Quite a few [illegible] youngsters can make this answer, "Yes. Had a great winter. You know I worked out at Mosswood Park, in Oakland. Great place! Lawn baseball field, basketball courts, hot and cold showers, and say! the city furnishes the balls and bats and gives you the towels for the shower baths, gives you the use of lockers to keep your duds in. It's a great place, is Mosswood Park. They play a game there that's called volley ball. That's the best ever. Have you ever played it? Well, it's played a good deal like tennis, and you count the score like handball. You bat a big, soft, ball over a net about eight feet high, try to make it hit the ground on the other side of the net. Fine game, that volley ball. You ought to play it. My, but I sure hated to leave Oakland this winter, and Mosswood Park sure is some place."

Just who among the great army of ballplayers are spreading this account of their "winter home?"

Well, there's Charlie Sletz, the classy little infielder, whom Oakland sent back to the Texas League. Charlie goes to the Houston Club.

And there's Tom Fitzsimmons, the husky shortstop whom Detroit drafted from the Northwest League.

Herb Renner was there. He goes to the Sacramento Club as a catcher.

Another one is Jimmie Dunne, manager of the Moosejaw team in the Twilight League in Canada. Dunne is taking with him two local "bushers," Gene Kersten and Haley. Haley is a first baseman and Kersten is a pitcher.

Bill Malarkey and Tyler Christian, hold-outs from the local Coast League Club were for a time members of the winter colony at Mosswood.

Billy Menges, the fast little shortstop who plays with Helena in the Union Association, was another.

Then there was Fred Brown, the former Stockton State League star pitcher, who used to be among the best in the business. And Kraft, a catcher who numbers among the best; and "Big" Healor, the pitcher who tried out with the White Sox; and Girot, the former Olympic Club pitcher who made a great hit in the Northwest League.

Among the local boys who stuck around the Broadway recreation center there were [illegible] are due to play in the Union Association this year. Ed Tucker, a Trolley League star, and Red Lynch, a former St. Mary's player who seems to have a home in the Northwest League, also made Mosswood their training quarters.

There was a whole host of others, too, among them Carl Jones, Dode Glavin, Carl Roumann, Bill Glavin, Ed Threckeld, Frank Stewart and Jimmy Powell.

When these men began to drift in along in November, the question of what kind of influence they would exert on the younger fellows and on the children, came up. As supervisor of Mosswood, I wondered if they would not be inactive, and show the traits of the loafer after their long season's grind; whether in their free, unrestricted lives they had not developed characters not desirable for children to copy. I put aside decision in the matter, and awaited further evidence. Soon I was compelled to admit that to a man they were serious, clean, fine men, and withal possessed of a great amount of physical "pep." Instead of chewing tobacco incessantly, as I had feared they would, these men took out their spite on a bit of swamp root. Instead of being inactive, they were leaders in all activities. Many were the hikes led by Charlie Sletz, and it will be long before we forget the excellence of Herbie Remmer's volley-ball team. The basketball games they played resembled football very closely, but the spirit of fun was in them, and all the roughness was good-natured. To see big Tom Fitzsimmons, towering a foot above everyone else, trying to drop a basketball in the basket was a revelation in itself.

Well, it was a wonderful winter, made so by a bunch of fine, clean-minded fellows. Luck to all of you men; a hearty welcome awaits you when next you come to your "winter home" at Mosswood playground.

DE FREMERY FIVE IS WINNER AT BASKETBALL

The first in the series of basketball games to determine the championship of Oakland in the unlimited division was won on last Saturday by the team representing De Fremery Park. The score was an overwhelming one, 55 to 26, and seems to indicate that the De Fremery bunch is all the class in the unlimited division. Stars of the game were Meyers, center for the victors, and Smith, who played at forward. The lineup of the winning team follows: Cate and Smith, forwards; Meyers, center; Ferguson and Salpaugh, guards. Campbell James refereed the game.

LIBRARY CLUB LEAGUE TRACK MEET IS HELD

Before a large and enthusiastic crowd the Oakland Library Club League held its first annual triangular track meet last Saturday at St. Mary's track. The meet was won by the Sursum club team. The Sursum club thereby wins the handsome trophy donated by the Drier & Nevis Company.

The meet was hotly contested throughout. The winners, though smaller than their opponents, easily captured the sprints and jumps. The Junior Progressive Club scored heavily in the weight events and distances. On account of the condition of the track the times were not up to standard.

The individual star of the meet was Edward Drew, captain of the Sursum team. He scored two points for the winners, capturing four first places and three seconds, besides running the winning relay lap. Drew's team mate, Smith, walked away with the sprints. Abernathy and White were the most consistent men of the "J. P. C." as was Lindley and Kelermeyer for the Querculi. The final score was, Sursum, 65 points; J. P. C., 41; Querculi, 10.

Following is a summary of the meet:

MANY IMPROVEMENTS ON SCHOOL PLAYGROUND

Commencing today, the Tompkins playground, situated at Fifth and Linden streets, will be open on Sundays. This was the decision adopted at the last meeting of the Recreation Commission. The action was taken at the request of the supervisor of Tompkins, who stated that the need of Sunday opening of the Linden street playground was great and that the Sunday attendance would be very large.

Extensive improvements are under way at Tompkins. Surfacing of the playground area is under way, and gymnasium apparatus will be installed in the near future. A new fence has just been constructed around the grounds, and a tennis court has been provided. A fieldhouse has recently been completed, and new shower-baths are now in the process of installation. A backstop for the baseball diamond, and several handball courts, are other improvements that are being contemplated.

Young Students Tender Novel Reception

The Associated Young Women Students of the Oakland High school tendered a novel reception and entertainment to the members of the freshman class last Wednesday evening in the Oakland High gymnasium. The program was extensive, and all the stunts were cleverly carried out. A feature of the evening' fun was a Punch and Judy show, with the following cast of characters:

Punch .... Naomi Allay
Judy .... Helen Maclise
Hangman .... Elmata Brennan
Chorus of Marionettes—Elizabeth Barker, Doris Jacobs, Lyndall Jacobs, Irene Ray, Virginia Johnston, Annie Smith, Margaret Martin, Lorraine Neilon, Margaret Leech, Bernice Blaisdell, Marion Felton, Florence Bogart, Ruth Berlin and Dorothy Shane.

A Colonial dance lent variety to the program. It was performed by the Misses Ruth Eckelston, Mary Eckelston, Maxine Wenger, Ruth Wilson, Eleanor Jennings, Jessie Cutting, Lucia Watson and Claire Morris.

"The Rule of Dame Fashion" provoked much merriment. Miss Barbara Miller enacted the role of Dame Fashion and led the chorus in doing the tango, the hesitation and other new dances. Musical numbers completed the program. Prominent among these was a solo by Rose Harrington. The affair was under the direction of Miss Helen Roeth, a student in the senior class of the High school and commissioner of girls' affairs there. The dancers were coached by Miss Gladys Garish, a talented student, assisted by Miss Eggers, a member of the Oakland High faculty.

BOYS' CLUB TO "HIKE" INTO CONTRA COSTA

The new wine of spring has caused the veins of amateur hikers to tingle, and has instilled in them a desire to roam over the rolling roads and through the woods and fields. Many walking parties are being planned, and the genus "Sunday Picknicker" is again beginning to make its appearance. One of the best of the early hikes is that to be taken by the boys of the Virginian Boys Club today. The party will number about eighteen, and an ambitious trip has been planned. The party is to start out early this morning, and will walk along the line of the Oakland, Antioch and Eastern Railway to Lafayette, through the beauties of Redwood Canyon. The party will stop for rest and refreshment at Lafayette, and will return to Oakland by way of the Tunnel Road. Among those in the crowd of hikers are the following: Ed Porter, Joseph Allen, Frank Cumbra, William Stickel, "Babe" Lemos, Frank Cardoza, Phillip Stickel, Louis Page and William Viera.

OAKLANDERS PICNIC IN WILDCAT CANYON

A party of Oakland's young people held an enjoyable picnic last Sunday in Wildcat Canyon. The day was spent in tramping over the hills and lunching in a cool spot in the canyon. Although rather early in the year for such an event, the young people all announce that they had a "most glorious" time. Those in the party were: Masters Ward Smith, Donald Johnston, John Merringer, James Russo, [illegible] Zimmerman and the Misses Elmira Bullington, Ora Taylor, May Taylor, May Renwick, Myra Limmer, May Mathias and Pearl Brown.

AMUSING BASKETBALL INCIDENT.

An amusing incident happened at one of the local recreation centers last week. At all the city parks balls and other athletic material are loaned to children and charged to their name. A little girl came up to the attendant and demanded a basketball. She was asked "What is your name?" whereupon she replied: "I don't want it sent, I'll take it with me."

Gaelic Football Is Attracting Big Crowds

Among all the athletic games played on the local recreation grounds, the one that is probably least familiar to the layman is the game of Gaelic football. Still, there is an enthusiastic crowd of husky Fenians who play this game for a whole Sunday at a time at Bay View Park, situated at Eighteenth and Wood streets. They have a team, too, these brawny sons of the "ould sod," a team that they call the Geraldines, and which stand high in the California League of Gaelic football.

The Gaelic game is played with a round ball, similar to an association or "soccer football, but rather larger and heavier. The game is played on a regular Rugby field, and the regular Rugby goals, with the high crossbar, are used. It is like Rugby, too, in that there are fifteen men to a side. The ball is advanced by kicking, there being no restriction against the use of hands, as in "soccer," but carrying of the ball is not permitted. The ball may be caught in the air, and kicked from the hand, or it may be caught on a bound, but it may not be picked up when it is rolling on the ground. It may be knocked on with the hand; advanced, as in basketball, by bouncing it on the ground with the hand; dribbled with the feet, as in soccer; or kicked from the hand. There is no tackling, as in Rugby, but the charging and bucking are extremely violent, and carried on with true Irish fighting spirit. The object of the game is to kick the ball between the goal posts, either under or over the crossbar. A goal kicked under the crossbar counts three points, while a goal over the cross bar scores but one tally.

PLAYGROUNDS LEAGUE IN SOCCER CHAMPIONSHIP

The first game in a series of three to determine the soccer championship of Oakland in the Intermediate division of the Oakland Playgrounds League, took place last Saturday at Allendale field, where the lads from De Fremery bested their Allendale adversaries by a score of 4 to 2. The game was strenuous and hard fought throughout, but in the end the superior weight and skill of the visiting team brought them victory. Bertola of the victors kicked two of the goals, while Captain Meade and Forward Mullins each kicked one. In addition to their speed, the De Fremery boys all showed a good knowledge of team work and the finer points of the game. The line-ups of the teams were as follows:

De Fremery.		Allendale.
Gavello	Goalkeeper	Capt. Monk
Luna	Fullback	Tysen
McAllister	Fullback	Andy
Henderson	Center half	C. Monk
Stickel	Right half	Cooper
Bertola	Center forward	Foster
Mullens	Inside right	Hilton

OLYMPICS AND GIANTS IN BANTAM BALL SERIES

The Bantam Baseball series of Bushrod Park was started last Monday with a game between the Olympic team and the Giants. Both of these teams are composed of boys under 11 years in age. The Olympics won the first contest by a score of 17 to 9. The line-ups were as follows:

Olympics—Gerald Barr, Earl Johnson, Harold Vincent, Herbert Bendel, Chris Schmitz, Will Jones, Merle Wood, Milton Baker.

Giants—Ed Terrea, Henry Grandison, Ed Willis, Walter Methman, Fred Ahll, Charley Elias, Robert Waterman.

The Giants got their revenge on Wednesday, at which time they bested the Olympics by a score of 18 to 6. A third game will be played shortly.

"Merry Maids" Plan an Evening of Dramatics

The Merry Maids Club of the Oakland Social Settlement will entertain Tuesday at a social and dramatic evening to be given at the Settlement House, 309 Linden street. The Campfire girls of Tompkins Playground will be the invited guests of the Merry Maids, and a merry time is in prospect.

The big feature of the evening will be the presentation by the Merry Maids of a one-act play from the pen of Miss Ruth Alma Farley, a local playwright and a member of the Writers' Club. The title of the sketch is "Sassy Susan Sulks," and the plot treats of an incident in a girls' boarding school. Two girls, deprived of their privileges for some infraction of school rules, are shut up in their room. They are plotting revenge on the school warmen when they fall asleep. They have a dream in which their world of school appears upside down, and [illegible] their teachers in the midst of a feast of toasted marshmallows and dill pickles. The acting of this drama is the central motive of the play.

The cast of "Sassy Susan Sulks" is made up of the following young ladies: May McClean, Katherine Quirk, Sarah Pergola, Effie Miller, Margaret Garvy, Mabel Triguero, Romano Ring, Myrtle Doody and Regina Moraglis. The production is being coached by Miss Farley who directs the activities of the Merry Maids.

ALAMEDA PREPARING PRETENTIOUS MAY FETE

Preparations are being made by the Recreation Commission of Alameda for one of the most pretentious May festivals the bay cities have yet undertaken. It will be held in Lincoln Park at the east end of the city bordering San Leandro bay. Although the exact date is not yet fixed it will probably be the first of May.

The children of the different parks are rehearsing some interesting playlets and take great delight in the work. There are also folk dances and the inevitable May Pole with accompanying dances. A better place for such typically out-door exercises could hardly be chosen than Lincoln Park, carpeted with lawn and pine needles and affording through shady vistas beautiful glimpses of the Hayward hills and the dairy country.

The details of the big fete are in the hands of Miss Eleanor Tolhurst of Washington park, Miss Mabel Swisher of Lincoln park and Miss A. Saml of McKinley park. Mrs. Allen of the Recreation commission is anticipating great things of the little people of the playgrounds. It will not be long before the parks of our bay cities shall make every day a May day.

McCULLUM DIRECTOR OF ATHLETIC WORK

The Virginian Club, which has its headquarters in the Oakland New Century Club gymnasium, has obtained a valuable physical director in Francis B. McCullum, who assumed charge of the athletic work of the club last week. McCullum is attending the University of California, where he is a prominent member of the Gymnasium Club and an instructor in the freshman gymnasium classes. His instruction will enable the Virginian Club boys to retain the high place they have established for themselves in indoor athletics.

LENTEN CONCERT SERIES IS PLANNED BY CLUB

The second of a series of Lenten concerts is to be given at the Oakland New Century Club hall at 15? Peralta street, next Saturday evening at 4:30 o'clock. The program on this occasion will be furnished by talented people of this city, assisted by a number of young artists from the University of California. Among these will be N. J. Clerak, a pianist of rare ability, and James H. Doonan, a clever singer of Hawaiian songs, who will accompany his own songs on the native instrument, the ukelele. Marino Martino will be heard in operatic selections.

Sierra Club Plans Many Trips for Season

Spring is hardly out of its babyhood before the Sierra Club, awaking from its winter hibernation, blinks at the warm days and sniffs the foothills. Already the regular spring walks have been announced. Knapsacks and boots are once more in evidence after the long rains. They had their first work-out last Sunday when the club to the tune of about sixty hiked from Fairfax to Cataract Gulch via the Bolinas road. The lunches disappeared at Big Falls. Returning by Laurel Dell and Rock Spring the devotees of outdoors entrained at Mill Valley after negotiating sixteen healthy, husky miles.

Today, under the leadership of J. L. Wilson, the club is walking from Redwood City to San Mateo and taking in on the way Crystal Springs Lake, a total distance of about thirteen miles. Next Sunday a trip to Redwood Peak is scheduled. While far from wild, this peak affords an excellent view of the bay region and the Diablo range. Members are urged to bring their friends on all these walks. The crowd is good, the leaders are able and the scenery is free.

From now until July every week will see the Club on the road and in the silent places. There are many beautiful trips to be made in this district, none of which are so inaccessible that the average mortal need entertain the slightest doubts of his eligibility. The committee on local walks expects a very successful season; for the heavy rains have made a great improvement on the landscape this year. The wild fields look so fine now that they almost stand upon their back legs and shout.

Y. W. C. A. GYMNASIUM CLASS IN FINE WORK

Those girls and women who wish to become thin or plump or to have deformities or deficiencies corrected, or to have needed exercise and training in breathing, etc., should join the Y. W. C. A. gymnasium class now meeting on Monday and Friday evenings at 7:30 o'clock at the Oakland High School gymnasium, Twelfth street, between Grove and Jefferson streets. Miss Alda Place, instructor at the University of California, and several able assistants instruct the large and enthusiastic class in the use of dumb bells, Indian clubs, bar bells, etc. Floor work and breathing exercises of all kinds, folk dances, basketball and other games occupy the time until 9:15, when hot and cold showers may be had. New members may join at any time, at a very low price. Visitors are welcome.

Connected with this class is the Romany Club, which goes a-gypsying over the hills Thursday evenings, Sundays and holidays, and has many jolly "business" meetings at homes or at the Playter bungalow in Piedmont. The members now have their new club pins, and on Thursday evening celebrated the first anniversary with a dinner at the Playter bungalow.

BOYS WORK TO MAKE PLAYGROUNDS PERFECT

When is a playground not a playground? This riddle was answered yesterday at Tompkins playground, Fifth and Linden streets, where about 200 boys spent the morning and the greater part of the afternoon in a Labor Day celebration, where work was the rule. As a result, the playground has been levelled and cleaned. A baseball diamond and a track have been laid off, and everything made ready for a boom spring season in athletics.

The boys worked in gangs, which were [illegible] according to nationality. There were the "Coons," the "Greasers," the "Natives" and other gangs, each under a boy leader or foreman. The field was divided into areas, each of which was handed over to a foreman and his gang. The foreman showing the best results at the end of the day was given a prize. All the workers were given an ice-cream feed at 3 o'clock, and the afternoon was concluded by an impromptu circus, in which novel races and various funny contests were the features.

MACDONOUGH.

The concluding exhibitions of the five-reel moving picture, the "Inside of the White Slave Traffic," will be given at the Macdonough theater today. The performances are continuous from one o'clock in the afternoon until eleven o'clock at night.

Many prominent people, clergymen, lawyers, critics and the press in general praise the moral effects of the five-reel picture which has been made under the direction of the well known investigator of the white slave problem, Samuel H. London. Children under sixteen years of age are not admitted.

Harry Lauder, the well known Scotch comedian, will be the attraction at the Macdonough theater matinee and night, March 9, when Lauder will make his last American appearance for some time, sailing the next morning for Australia from there he will tour the world before he returns to the United States.

Lauder carries with him his Scotch pipers and also an all star vaudeville cast of English players. Heading the cast is Mona Garrick, the well known English dramatic actress who will appear in a playlet.

By special arrangement with Manager F. A. Giesea of the Macdonough theater, the production of Robin Hood, Wednesday matinee will be given at the Greek theater, Berkeley. This theater is devoted to the classics and this opera has been so considered by the University authorities. By selecting it, one of the greatest honors has been conferred upon its authors, Reginald de Koven, the composer, and Harry B. Smith, who wrote the book.

If it should rain Wednesday the matinee will be given instead at the Macdonough where the two evening performances Tuesday and Wednesday are scheduled.

This elaborate production is the same as that given at the New Amsterdam theater, New York.

At an early date the Macdonough theater will close for several weeks during which time the entire interior of the theater will be redecorated, remodeled and repainted, besides being refurnished.

ORPHEUM

Bessie Clayton, one of the world's most remarkable dancers, comes with a big company of dancing artists to the Oakland Orpheum next Sunday.

Her appearance in vaudeville is an event second to none. Here she will be assisted by a company of carefully selected European dancers and will be seen in a series of her own creations.

Miss Eva Taylor, an expert farcesse, supported by a small but capable company is playing Lawrence Grattan's newest farce, "After the Wedding." The piece is said to contain as many laughs as a Christmas pudding does good things.

Francis Dooley, a very popular song writer and comedienne, assisted by Miss Corinne Sales, a dainty comedienne, presents a melange of fun and song, which he quaintly calls "That's Silly." It is all good-natured nonsense.

Hans Robert, whose present vaudeville tour is his initial one, is one of the best known of the younger set of players. Mr. Robert is playing a comedy with a tear called "A Daddy by Express," by Edgar Allen Woolf.

Novelty is the keynote of the musicomedy "turn" presented by Binns, Binns and Binns. Their playing on various instruments will delight the musically inclined.

Alcide Capitaine has perfected her exhibition on the swinging trapeze to a fine art. She is adept, skillful, remarkably strong in the arms and intrepid to a degree.

Welcome and Welcome, the Physical Culture Girl and the Man on his Hands are European gymnasts who perform many marvelous stunts, both on the trapeze and hand balancing on pedestals.

Miss Nina Barbour, "The Sweatshop Prima Donna," comes to the Orpheum as a part of the other regular bill and a treat is in store for the lovers of strange voices.

COLUMBIA

In looking back over the long string of successes presented by those past-masters of stagecraft, Dillon and King, during their stay in Oakland, the patrons of the cozy Columbia will find none that can approach the new show, "Dillon and King's Follies Revue," to be presented for one week only commencing with the matinee today.

Space does not permit a full description of this sensational entertainment. Fondest expectations of theatrical enjoyment will be realized. The title of the new skit suggests in a measure the contents. The action takes place upon the Columbia stage where the mysteries that exist behind the asbestos are exposed to view. The audience will become acquainted with the actor folk, their actual work, their troubles and joy. It will see them rehearse their songs, lines, etc. The scenes are set before their gaze and the stage manager, the carpenter, and the property boy will be in all their glory. In short, the mystery of theatrical life is unfolded in a most natural manner.

The members of the company will appear in a most entertaining revue. For instance, Will King will amuse with a monologue and a violin solo. Ben Dillon, assisted by Honora Hamilton and Madeline Mathews, will introduce his sterling specialty, "Upper Ten and Lower Five." Ivan Miller, the leading man and several members of the company, will enact a dramatic scene from one of the season's most popular political plays. Jack Wise, aided by the chorus, will be heard in his spectacular song number, "The Little Girl in Blue." Dainty Vilma Stech promises to introduce something startling in her selection, "Belinda, the Belle of the Chorus." A specialty by Ernest Van Pelt, up-to-date songs by the Columbia four and a ragtime melody by Millie Pedro complete the novelty numbers.

There is a thread of a story running through the piece which chiefly concerns the adventure of Mike and Ike. The pair upon this occasion appear as wandering musicians and their comedy scenes are frequent and rich with humor. The Ginger Girls will be attired in glittering costumes and will be seen in several cleverly arranged ensemble numbers. The "Prize Country Store" will be given next Monday evening, with the usual chorus girls' contests on Friday night.

PANTAGES

"Merry Masqueraders" is the title of a new tuneful absurdity to be headlined at the Oakland Pantages for the week starting Sunday. It is one of the new celebrated Bothwell Browne's concoctions of frothy, light, tabloid musical comedy. As essentials, there will be two well known comedians as principal funsters, Frank Davis and Nate Cole, a "Bothwell Browne" bunch of chorus girls carefully chosen by the author of the piece and from the Browne workshop comes the special scenery, costumes, properties and electrical effects. For song numbers there will be opening choruses and finales and a half dozen of the season's latest hits, so take it all in all, the "Merry Masqueraders" promises well for entertainment in sight and sound.

For the first time in the history of the Oakland Pantages, it will stage a High School act, when Miss Rhoda Royal, Irene Marietta, Miss Donavan and John Agee will ride three champion blue ribbon thoroughbreds. Agee is the noted equestrian director of the Ringling circus. From advance reports, the limit of sensational daring in high tight wire walking has been achieved by the Melnotte-La Nole troupe of young men and women performers. From these reports it would seem that a limit should be set as to which circus performers on vaudeville stages should be allowed to go in their intrepid daring. The people hold their breath during the Melnotte-La Nole act and the police of more than one city has stopped the young people from risking their lives and limbs. "Stockton's Busy Day," a farce to be presented by Hal Davis, a well known comedian and his company of six people. Murray K. Hill, monologist, with a bunch of side splitting stories, the Brighton quartet of harmony singers and motion pictures complete a fine array of vaudeville offerings.

YE LIBERTY.

Jean Gerardy, the world's greatest violoncello virtuoso, will give a brilliant program at his concert at Ye Liberty Playhouse next Thursday afternoon, March 12, at 3:15, assisted by Gabriel Ysaye, the young Belgian violin virtuoso, son of the illustrious Eugen Ysaye, and Carl Bruckhausen, a German pianist of splendid reputation who, at the last moment, was secured to take the place of Frank La Forge. The latter was taken ill last week and had to forego the journey to the West.

Gerardy is said to veritably sing on his cello; his tone is like that of a glorious contralto voice and his technique is simply astounding. At the age of 9 years he astonished the world of music by his remarkable proficiency on the difficult instrument and now, at the age of 35, the world hears him in the very zenith of his powers and with his musicianship recognized by all. There are today only two genuine geniuses of the violoncello before the public and Jean Gerardy is one of them.

OAKLAND PHOTO

An unique story of the life and love of two castaways on a deserted South Sea Island, powerfully set forth in pictures of scenic impressiveness, and centered about the personality of Mary Pickford as the heroine. "Hearts Adrift," the feature of the Oakland program starting today and continuing until Wednesday night is the feature.

The story is told in the primitive outdoors, and by the sea. Back from the beach rise great caved cliffs. From their elevation we look down at times on the gently rolling surf, at other times we are among the rocks with angry waves breaking at the bottom of the screen. Some scenes there are of civilization—of spacious stuccoed homes, surrounded by lawn and garden.

In this romance of tangled lives it is always Little Mary that holds our interest. As she is for years the only human being on the island where she has been shipwrecked as a child, so in many of the scenes she is the only person in the action. As Mina, the half-wild maid, in her abbreviated garb of skins, she bounds from rock to rock with the agility of the chamois, and along the beach she runs with the lightfooted speed of a deer. The hardships of her five years' battle for existence on the island have converted her into a half savage. With a rod she spears fish; yet she is always intensely feminine, "with the heart and hopes of a woman." There is the love of companionship as exemplified in her friendships with the wolf and later in her coy demeanor toward the man so strangely sent into her life.

And even after the same sea that has cut her off from the rest of the race brings her a companion in the man who is first her foe, then her friend, then her sweetheart, and later her husband, it is upon Mary Pickford that the interest of the spectator is focused to the end. Her personality, displayed against a background of nature in its wildest and most awe-inspiring guises blinds one to a tensity of plot here and there. She enhances and strengthens the essential simplicity of the action with her bewitching womanliness.

A simple story, yet, from first to last, it holds tight. Mina's first appearance in the likeness of little Mary is where she breaks through thickly-leaved bushes and discovers a wolf. Her attempt to escape and later her effort to establish a friendship with the animal thrill. The beast comes slowly to her. His tail is as inflexible as that of a bird-indicating pointer. He seems about to tear her to pieces. The fast friendship is broken by the fatal injury of the beast. The grief of Nina as she falls on the grave of the animal brings the first touch of pathos in the picture.

BROADWAY

The present delightful weather has induced the Broadway Musical Comedy company, with those popular laugh makers, Lew Dunbar and Sol Carter, to go traveling, with the result that this afternoon they will present the sparkling musical tabloid, "The Tourists," dealing in an amusing way with the inconveniences of traveling, at the Broadway theater. While the locale of the play is not more than a thousand miles from this city, its location is being kept a secret.

Miss Lucile Palmer, who sang the title role in the New York "Madame Sherry" company, has been specially engaged as prima donna for the Broadway company and will open this afternoon in "The Tourists." She has a charming personality and possesses a clear soprano voice.

The presentation of this musical comedy will also mark the initial appearance of Miss Ruth Adams, a petite, vivacious soubrette. Both the new members will have prominent roles in the play. All the principals, including Miss Gwyneth Dorsey, Lawrence Boyes, Fred Snook and Miss Lylian Mason, will be well cast.

As for that galaxy of lively beauties, the "1915 Girls—the World's Fair-est Chorus," they will again come forth and break numerous hearts. Under the direction of Miss Dixie Emmerson, the girlies of the merry-mery will be heard in "Willie Has a Motor Boat," "I'm Tired," "Down Where the Watermelon Grows," "Looking for a Husband and Chesapeake Bay."

The vaudeville portion of the "Three-in-One" show will be featured by the return of Reuble Sims, cartoonist and comedian, who will present "A Little Talk, A Little Chalk, A Little Drawing." If the audience will consent to be tied, he will also try to sing. A real musical novelty will be presented by Unholtz brothers, and there will be several reels of first run motion pictures.

AROUND THE LIBRARY TABLE

BY MOLLIE E. CONNERS

"Crowds," (Doubleday, Page & Co.) is one of the wonderful books of the day. It is by Gerald Stanly Lee, who wrote the two successful books, "The Lost Art of Reading" and "Inspired Millionaires. Mr. Lee's book is so good that one might copy at random any chapter and produce one of the best essays of the year. Also it is full of wit and wisdom. It is clever, and it is the work of a most careful student of human nature. The book is styled "A Little Introductory Run Through Crowds." For instance, there is one sketch which reads:

"The crowd is dumb, massive and silent. There seems to be no one in the world to express it. It is the classes or little crowds—the little pulling and pushing, helpless lonely, mean, separated crowds—blind, hateful, and afraid, who are running about trying to lay their little wills upon the earth. The world for the moment is being interpreted, expressed and managed by people who are afraid. It is the same in all the nations. [illegible] everybody.

"Everybody is afraid of the Government.

"Everybody fights because everybody is afraid.

"And everybody is afraid because everybody is shut in with some little separated crowd.

"People who only see a little way out over the edge of the little crowd in which the are penned up, are naturally afraid.

"A world that is run by little shut-in crowds is necessarily a world that is run by People Who Are Afraid.

"And so now we have come to the fullness of the time. The cities and the nations, the prairies, and the seas and the mines, can be seen by all today to be full of a dull groping and of a great asking, 'Who are the men who are not afraid?'

"The moment these men appear who are not afraid, and it is seen by all that they are not afraid, the world (and all the little blind, helpless crowds in it) will be placed in their hands."

The point of view is all so unusual that one becomes mightily interested:

"The precise measure of the governing power a man can get out of being President of the United States today is the amount of advertising for the people, of the people, and by the people he can crowd every morning, every week, into the papers of the country.

"A President becomes a great President in proportion as he acts authoritatively, tactfully, economically, and persistently as the Head Advertising Manager of the ideals of the people. He is the great central, official editor of what the people are trying to find out—of a nation's news about itself.

"Society has always had to do what it could for the poor, but in our modern civilization, in a new and big sense, we have to see now what there is, if possibly anything, that can be done for the rich.

"We have come to have them now almost everywhere about us—these great spiritual orphans, with their pathetic, blind, useless fortunes piled up around them; and Society has to support them, to keep them up morally, keep them doing as little damage as possible, and has to allow day by day besides for the strain and structural weakness they bring upon the girders of the world—the faith of men in men and the credit of God, which hold a world together."

The reason the book brings such an appeal is because "the goodness" it preaches is so possible—so much in the heart of every day life. One feels instantly the truth of what the author is saying.

"It is more comfortable and has a fine free look, to be blunt with the beautiful—the way a poet is—to dump all one's ideals down before people and walk off. But it seems to some of us a cold, centimental, lazy, and ignoble thing so do with the ideals if one loves them—to give everybody all of them all the time without considering what becomes of the ideals or what becomes of the people.

"The real solid idealist will have to care enough about his ideals to arrange to have two complete sets, one set which he calls his personal ideals, which are of such a nature that he can carry them out alone and rigidly and quite by himself, and another which he calls his bending or co-operative ideals, geared a little lower and adjusted to more gradual usage, which he uses when he asks other men to act with him. Saying 'God and ,' and saying 'God and you and I' are two different arts. And it is clear-headedness and not inconsistency in a man that keeps them so."

It is a book in which one finds fair measurements, a wide outlook, and that clear vision which sees truth revealed, and ready to shine upon the hearts of men.

PERCY MACKAY'S IDYL.

"The Sanctuary, a Bird Masque," by Percy Mackaye is attracting the attention of the literary world. It is an exquisite idyl, one teaching a beautiful lesson in a most poetical way. The publishers are the Frederick A. Stokes company and in their forward they tell us that "This poetic masque is a plea for the conservation of wild birds, an issue of international importance. The masque was first presented before President and Mrs. Wilson on the outdoor stage of the bird sanctuary at Cornish, New Hampshire, and was enacted then by a distinguished cast, among whom were Miss Eleanor and Miss Margaret Wilson.

"Its practical purpose, its lyrical verse, its underlying symbolism, and its dramatic merit make it of true importance to all who are interested in nature, poetry and the drama. Already its influence has effected constructive legislation."

It reminds one of the play of Aristophanes, "The Birds," which was produced so successfully in our own Greek Theater, and the author tells us that "The movement today for the conservation of birds and their more intimate study might well take on significant, lively forms of symbolic expression in pageants, festivals and dramas. There could be spectacles of astonishing beauty, [illegible] where such spectacles as the 'Bird Masque'" might be represented.

Among the birds represented in costume in the "Bird Masque" were—or among the "bird participants" were: Blue bird, humming bird, Baltimore oriole, yellow warbler, blue heron, goldfinch, cardinal bird, owl, scarlet tanager, wood thrush and other birds of brilliant plumage.

The Masque was enacted on two planes, the natural plane and the supernatural, and the outdoor effects were planned in a most charming fashion.

"THE SCUTTLERS" FASCINATING.

"The Scuttlers," (Neale Publishing Company), by Clyde Westover, is a California story full of romance and adventure. It is a fine story of the sea, a detective story, and it is romantic literature at its best. Mr. Westover is conspicuous as a writer of brilliant, virile fiction. He belongs to the group of young California authors who have so greatly enriched American literature during the past ten years. He is the author of that picturesque romance, "The Dragon's Daughter," which was a romance of the Chinese quarter of San Francisco.

The story begins with a most fascinating description of San Francisco. The writer tells us that he had read of a fairyland named California, and so he came to "The City of the Golden Gate." In the introduction one reads:

"On arrival I beheld a new city built on ruins caused less than two years before by fire and earthquake. Energy! Energy! Energy! There was energy in the very air, besides a comaraderie that appealed to me. Ask a man about 'the shake' and he had forgotten it. Speak about 'the fire' and he would shrug his shoulders. That, too, was a thing of the past. Perhaps I had become imbued with this spirit of optimism that pervaded the great, gay city. In no place outside of Paris are there so varied types as in this cosmopolitan community, where there are a hundred different tastes and chefs to satisfy them all. There are innumerable French restaurants whose cuisine and vintages, varying in quality, are suited to the purse of the diner. There are Mexican cafes, where wonderful dishes of fiery seasoning are set before you. Of especial interest to me were the Italian restaurants, under the shadow of old Telegraph hill, which guards the Latin quarter."

There is a picturesque description of Coppo's, and perhaps Californians who have never been there will care to read of Sanguinetti's, the "restaurant on the water front, with its sawdust floors, crowded on Sunday night with shop girls and chorus girls and their sweethearts, who stand patiently in line near the bar until a table is vacated, for there is an ever-moving throng at Sanguinetti's."

There is a vivid description of the resplendant "Chinese restaurants with their quaint seats of ebony inlaid with pearl, the air heavily laden with incense and the perfume of golden hearted narcissi, and everywhere the felt shod attendants shuffling noiselessly about."

The introductory chapter alone would indeed make the book worth while to Californians. Then the adventure begins, and it is mostly on shipboard, when one finds the Captain and his daughter, pretty Laura Machen, a true blue girl. The book is not lacking in interest a moment for the tale is admirably told. It is full of action, and the plot develops in an unexpected way. The world pictures are forceful and this latest book shows a great improvement in the literary technique of the author.

SARATH-ROY ON KIPLING.

Perhaps the most interesting literary article of the month is that appearing in the North American Review, entitled "Rudyard Kipling Seen Through Hindu Eyes." It is written by a Hindu, Sarath-Roy, and it begins with this line:

"Rudyard Kipling is an ingrate."

Then one reads:

"He owed to India his first breath, livelihood, and fame, yet he has misrepresented, maligned and ridiculed the people of India without cause or provocation."

We read: "Kipling describes Indian scenes with the hand of a master and his pictures are full of interest and realistic details, carefully, artistically and beautifully wrought. They are so vivid and true to life that the black letters of the pages are transformed into the landscape he writes about. With a bounding sense of joy one recognizes the old landmarks, it is India. The picture is perfect.

"What a pity that Kipling did not describe scenes continually under his notice. He might have entered the massive palaces of pompous Rajahs and the humble home of the poverty-stricken peasant and told us in his wonderful language what he saw there. Instead, he has spoken indifferently of what he heard. Kipling had such great opportunities! If he had taken them he would not have ridiculed the native he never understood.

"Kipling is not an authority on India or things Indian. He is only a writer of the life of foreigners in India—not of Indian life. He has not written about the Indian or about his living and thinking.

"Kipling is a keen observer of men and things, but the greatest genius could never learn to know the people of India in six short years."

There is an extended analysis of almost all of Kipling's important books, and it is done with an intellectual keenness that is as startling as it is amazing.

"Kipling is not popular with the people in whose land he was born, and about whom he gives so much unreliable and unworthy information. His style and his stories arouse as ready an interest among Indian readers as they do in England or America, but it cannot be expected that he should be personally liked or admired, aside from his entity as a writer, by people whom he has so grossly misrepresented in the greater number of instances, and whom he despises or ridicules so openly. His attitude admits of a very simple explanation. He does not know the Indian. He knows the Anglo-Indian, something of the machinery of the Indian Government, the ways the strings of the Indian Service are pulled, the men and women in that Service, and the stories of their lives, but that is all that Rudyard Kipling knows about India and the Indian. It is a false impression, that because Kipling was born in India and lived there for a short time he consequently knows all about that country.

"Only for his art as a great storyteller can Kipling ever be tolerated in India, for in his pride of race and ignorance he has wronged a great nation by not placing it before an unknown public in the best and truest light. Kipling has misrepresented a continent and out[illegible] million units, and must he never be censured? EN DANCING YOUNG PEOPLE.

Lenten days see dancing some- in high places. The young peo- are never tired enough for a en rest, and they are managing a ances on their own account here and there. And in New York, as well as elsewhere, Lent has not entirely barred out all dancing. One hears that "youth must be amused, and the dancing classes at the various smart hotels have been largely attended. Many matrons who have closed their ballrooms are dropping in at the tea and dinner dances at the hotels, which proves the tentacle-like grip which dancing has got on the older members of society as well as the young."

There is, of course, the micareme dance to look forward to, to break the monotony of the long six weeks of Lent, and private dances for just a few friends are among the events of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wickham Havens were hosts of the week, entertaining at a dinner dance in their Piedmont home. About forty friends accepted their hospitality and the evening was perfectly planned. The Havens have a very beautiful home in which to entertain their friends, and the ballroom of the home, with its beautiful tones in pale pink, is one of the most attractive halls in our city. The Havens are very hospitable, and they share their home so gladly that an evening with them is altogether delightful. Every one dances so well now that a dinner dance is full of enjoyable possibilities.

The Friday Night Club is preparing for the last dance of the season, the Hotel Oakland is to give a micareme dance, and the West Oakland Home is planning a soiree dansant, and so it seems that there is to be no lack of dancing in the days to come.

HERE'S COMPARISON FOR YOU TO STUDY.

Apropos of dancing, there is a forceful comparison drawn between the American and French methods by a [illegible] woman now in Paris:

"[illegible] tea hour the Rue [illegible] is crowded [illegible] fashion-ing tea to the sound of the fiddle and the patter of feet.

"The women whose names spell aristocracy are not lending their presence to the dance in the tearoom, but no one misses them, for all the rest of the world crowds in the doors between the hours of 5 and 7.

"Paris is as dance mad as New York. It is here that the tango is danced and the one-step. Here the dance is sinuous, deliberate, graceful; there it is rapid, alert, and often awkward. Americans will never dance the Argentine tango and France will never dance the Castile walk.

"Nothing shows more sharply the difference in the national characteristics of Europe and America than the dances they prefer in this epoch of dancing."

PRIVATE EXHIBITION OF PAINTINGS ATTRACT.

One of the largest and most important of the Lenten receptions was given at the Palace Hotel on Thursday evening for the private view of our exhibitions of paintings by the mural painters of the exposition. The hostesses were Mrs. Hearst, the honorary president, and the following well-known society women from around the bay.

Mrs. Frank B. Anderson, Dr. Mariana Bertola, Mrs. John C. Bidwell, Mrs. Philip E. Bowles, Mrs. Frank L. Brown, Mrs. George J. Bucknall, Mrs. Francis Carolan, Mrs. Aylett R. Cotton, Mrs. William H. Crocker, Mr. Edgar de Pue, Mrs. Edward R. Dimond, Mrs. Joseph A. Donohoe, Mrs William Grant, Mrs. Joseph D. Grant, [illegible] Mrs. Andrew B. Hammond, Mrs. Ralph C. Harrison, Mrs I. W. Hellman Jr., Mrs. Lewis Hobart, Mrs. C. Edward Holmes, Mrs. Timothy Hopkins, Mrs. Emma Shafter Howard, Mrs. John Johns, Mrs. Caroline Rixford [illegible] Kincaid, Mrs. [illegible]thal, Mrs. Isadore Lowenberg, Mrs. Eleanor Martin, Miss Laura McKinstry, Mrs. John F. Merrill, Mrs. Louis B. Moore, Mrs. Charles C. Moore, Mrs. Louis F. Monteagle, Mrs. Arthur Murray, Mrs. Robert Oxnard, Mrs. George Hough Perry, Mrs. Horace Pillsbury, Mrs. Willis Polk, Mrs. George A. Pope, Mrs. James Rolph Jr., Mrs. Alexander Russell, Mrs. Frederick G. Sanborn, Mrs. Irving M. Scott, Mrs Henry T. Scott, Mrs. Laurance Irving Scott, Mrs. William T. Sesnon, Mrs. Caroline Severance, Mrs. Ernest Simpson, Mrs. Charles W. Slack, Mrs. Louis Sloss, Mrs. M. C. Sloss, Mrs. George B. Sperry, Mrs. C. [illegible] Gaillard Stoney, Mrs. John F. Swift, Mrs. William Hinckley Taylor, Mrs. William S. Tevis, Mrs. Isaac N. Walter, Mrs. Bertha D'a. Welch, Mrs. Lovell White, Mrs. Charles Stetson Wheeler, Mrs. Benjamin Ide Wheeler, Mrs. E. C. Wright.

There was a large attendance from [illegible] and the mural paintings are quite wonderful, both in design and execution. Wall paintings, or mural decorations as they are called, are coming much into vogue now, London leading the way. One reads of them there:

"Futurists have become West End house decorators. A number of persons recently, by invitation, viewed some Futurist decorations in a dining-room at 40 Wilton Crescent, just completed for Lady Drogheda.

"Probably because eating is a serious business the decorations are sombre, the main effects being in black. There is a black ceiling, a black carpet, and black paneled walls with strips of mirrors.

"Over the door is a canvas painting called 'Three Dancing Women,' which, it is admitted, the uninitiated may mistake for an aeroplane smash.

"A feature of the decorations is a frieze in a series of brilliant colors—scarlet and canary yellow—representing articles of food such as bread, meat, fish, birds, and fruit.

"Two other West End houses will possess similar wall paintings by the same artists.'

Among the mural decorations on our side of the bay, the finest and altogether the most artistic, are those in the dining-room of the Irving Lundborg home at Linda Vista. They were done by Mr. Lundborg's sister, the well-known artist, Miss Florence Lundborg.

LENTEN LECTURES HEARD BY SOCIETY.

Lenten lectures represent the leading social activity everywhere this winter, and one hears that all Paris is divided into two classes, those who lecture and those who listen. In Paris people rush to two or three lectures in an afternoon and cards for them are being eagerly sought. Often the affair concludes with a tango, or with some act from the vaudeville theaters of Paris.

In our own cities the lectures are solely for the improvement of one's mind, and they are most successful features of the Lenten season. Miss Gray's lectures at the Ebell have been extremely well attended, and her descriptive talks on Paris at Mrs. Henshaw's home have been most successful. Another series is to be given at the home of Mrs. George Hammer on Vernon Heights, the subject being "Spain and Algiers," two countries full of fascination.

The recital, "Julien," at the home of Mrs. Eleanor Martin was largely attended from this side of the bay, and Mrs. Rudolph Spreckels will no doubt have an equally large audience in her home next Tuesday.

CLUB LIFE BUSY; 'THE PHILANDERER' PRODUCED.

Since there are not so many dances club work has come prominently to the foreground this month. The largest gathering was at the Home Club on Thursday evening, when "The Philanderer," a play in four acts, by Bernard Shaw, was given by The Players' Club of San Francisco. The club announced that:

"In presenting 'The Philanderer,' by Bernard Shaw, for its second matinee performance, The Players' Club is staging a play which has never been seen in this country outside of New York, where it is at present being played at the Little Theater. Its literary brilliancy as well as its dramatic value renders it of special interest to all lovers of the drama."

It was given with the following cast: Mr. Leonard Charteris, Joseph Macaulay; Colonel Daniel Craven, Charles H. Dray; Mr. Joseph Cuthbertson, Craig W. Ward, Dr. Paramore, Jardine B. Whyte; page, Chester K. Cohn; Grace Tranfield, Mrs. Carolyn Green; Julia Craven, Mrs. C. A. Meusdorffer; Sylvia Craven, Virginia Scott.

Act I, drawing-room at the Treadwells'; act II, library of the Ibsen Club; act II, the same; act IV, sitting-room at Dr. Paramore's.

Mrs. Easterbrook, the president of the club, was assisted in receiving her guests by Mrs. A. P. Black, Mrs. W. R. Pond, Mrs. A. L. Brown, Mrs. M. C. Austin, Mrs Joseph Fife, Mrs. Glen Barnhardt, Miss Christine Hart and Miss A. E. Dugan.

A delightful dance at the Home Club followed the presentation of the program.

The Ebell Club announces an "Irish Day," and there will be a lecture on Ireland and the singing of Gaelic songs. Mrs. Thomas Hogan will be the receiving hostess, and she will be assisted by the many members of the club.

The Civic Center announces in its course of lectures two for next Friday afternoon. One is entitled : "Lessons From the Recent Election," and the other, "Turning the Weapons of John Barleycorn Against Him."

GOWNS IS SUBJECT FOR MILADY'S STUDY.

Now that the springtime is here, that the spring days smile upon us, the subject of gowns is of absorbing interest. Our smart set is so much in evidence at luncheons and teas at the hotels that the following paragraph is of interest:

"Restaurant and luncheon frocks continue to be exploited in dark or neutral shades, and this idea is likely to continue through the spring. This fashion has found tremendous favor with the Parisienne, and it must be confessed that with the small hats which are never (in the very nature of things cannot be) dressy, the dark shades are much more appropriate. Some few of the foreigners in Paris—the Austrians and the Russians, who are always well-gowned—have adopted light gowns for luncheon wear. For instance, one well-known Russian countess, who has lived in Paris for years, was lunching the other day garbed in white velvet heavily trimmed with lace."

It is remarkably interesting to note some of the first hints which cross the Atlantic [illegible] today:

"One sees the recrudescence of old French styles in the ruffles, the powdered hair, and the panniers; and the new coiffure which is brushed up straight from the middle of the forehead and behind the ears, with ringlets on the temples, is an admirable adjunct to [illegible] tinged gowns, with their stiffened overskirts and bodices of fine old lace.

"Here are some of the straws that show the quarter from which the wind is blowing—the hair, the high coiffure with the five points of beauty strongly marked on the forehead; the decided pannier on house gowns; the rush of flowered and figured fabrics; the skirts of flowered silk over petticoats made from ruffles of lace; the huge, glittering buckles on the shoes; the return of the decolletage which is high at the back and widens well toward the arms in front; the popularity of the pastelle shades.

"One of the newest bodices for house wear has a high back with a standing square collar of lace, continued [illegible] the bust, and dotted with single rhinestones imbedded in small bows of Saxe blue velvet."

And some of the women who express all these fashions for us are:

Mrs. George McNear, Mrs. Fred McNear, Mrs. Joseph Chanslor, Mrs. Louis Titus, Miss Ernestine McNear, Mrs. William Crocker, Mrs. Warren Palmer, Mrs. William Henshaw, Mrs. Frank Mott, Mrs. Robert Fitzgerald, Miss Mona Crellin, Mrs. William H Morrison, Mrs. Wickham Havens, Mrs William Taylor, Mrs. John McNear, Mrs Henry Rosenfeld, Miss Marian Stone, Mrs. Frank Proctor, Mrs. Francis Carolan, Miss Lee Girvin, Mrs William Miller Graham, Mrs. Gus Taylor, Mrs. Will Taylor, Mrs. Edgar Peixotto, Mrs. Minor Goodall, Mrs. Oscar Long, Mrs. Henry Nicholls, Mrs Oscar Sutro, Mrs. Leon Bocqueraz, Mrs. Percy Walker, Miss Marjorie Mhoon, Mrs. George de Golia, Mrs. Challen Parker, Miss Else Schilling, Mrs. H. C Capwell, Misses Capwell, Mrs. J. Walter Scott, Miss Adele Scott, Miss Carmen Ghirardelli, Mrs. Thomas Cushing, Mrs Charles D. Bates, Mrs J. R. Burnham.

About forty guests enjoyed the pleasure of the afternoon. Included in the number were Mrs. Joseph Hoyt, Mrs. James Dunn, Mrs. Alfred Swain, Mrs. A. B. POLICE HALT STAGE CAREER OF MAN HATER

ST. LOUIS, March 7.—Miss Margaret Jones, 34 years old, who hates men and doesn't like to have her picture taken, was halted in what seemed a start towards real accomplishment on the stage when Detective Sergeants Hecke and Drennan arrested her following the performance at the Gayety Theater. She is held for her mother, Mrs. Frank Shotridge of Indianapolis.

The girl says she left home to avoid working to support her stepfather.

Miss Jones had been with the company just six days when she was arrested. John H. Sutter, manager of the company, gave her a job last Sunday, and he had already raised her salary. He declared Saturday that she is unusually adept as a dancer and sings well.

Held at Central Police Station, Miss Hamilton indignantly declined to be photographed and said she is not a chorus girl of the lobster-devouring type.

"I hate men," she exclaimed.

"Mother, my brother and I were happy until mother married Mr. Shotridge, five years ago," she said. "I left school when I was 15 years old and went to work in a tailor shop, sewing all day for $6.15 a week. I gave it to my mother, but my stepfather wanted me to help support him, too."

DIDN'T LIKE FRENCH, SO SHE BECAME BURGLAR

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 7.—Because she didn't want to study French when she was a junior in a Philadelphia high school, Mrs. Mary Waker started on a career that has ended in the jail at Clayton, where she is held on a burglary and larceny charge.

She was arrested as she left the home of Henry Kauffeld Jr., a millionaire. A male burglar fled and left her "in the lurch." Mrs. Waker told a reporter she ran away from her Philadelphia home when she was 16 years old because French was part of the curriculum in the junior year at the high school she attended.

She was born and reared in Cherry street, Philadelphia, she said, never had known her father and had been deprived of her mother by death when she was [illegible]

She is the mother of a child 5 years old, she said, bursting into tears when she added she had no idea where the boy is.

"I settled down for two years," she said. "Then I started running around with chorus girls and living a gay life. I flirted with a man in a theater. He was Thomas Welden, the man I was with when I was arrested. He told me he was a real estate man, and I left my husband for him." She halted when fleeing from the Kauffeld home when a watchman fired at her.

RANCH LIFE NOT TO HER LIKING

Miss Lucia d'Aragon Willing to Forego Delights of Truly Rural.

NEW YORK, March 7.—Living on a lonesome ranch in the wild and woolly west, or southwest, as the case happens to be, might be all right for those with a hankering after things truly rural, but in the case of Miss Lucia d'Aragon there exists no such hankering. It is the great, big town for her every time, and more especially New York town.

You see, Miss d'Aragon knows all about ranches and all that goes with them. She has had actual experience, and any information that she imparts—and she has seen fit to impart much—is strictly first hand. To sum up her idea of ranch life:

"I like it at a distance."

Miss d'Aragon has just returned to the city of the Great White Way, after an absence of 18 months on the ranch of her deceased uncle, near Pajarito, N. M. The uncle, Jose d'Aragon, a man of great wealth, willed her an estate of about $100,000, but with the distinct understanding that she pass the rest of her life on his ranch. Naturally, Miss d'Aragon did not care to take chances with her legacy and so, much against her wishes, took up her residence in New Mexico, abandoning all hope of ever again mixing with the five million odd souls who taste the delights of life in Manhattan.

THANKS LAWYER'S SHREWDENSS.

But, presto! how shrewd old lawyers, versed in the tricks of their trade, can twist the provisions of wills left by eccentric old relatives! It is to the genius of just such a lawyer that Miss d'Aragon owes her return to our happy midst.

After pining for the lights and sights of old Broadway these many months, the fair daughter of one of the oldest and most aristocratic Spanish families in the southwest took her troubles to an attorney in Albuquerque who knew what's what.

He went over d'Aragon's will with a microscope. He found loopholes here and there, and finally informed Miss d'Aragon, with full confidence in his judgment, that her return to New York for nine months each year would in no way imperil her legacy.

CAN STAND THREE MONTHS.

So Miss d'Aragon has taken rooms at the Hotel Sherman Square, Seventieth street and Broadway, and announces that she will be a New Yorker nine months out of each twelve. For the remaining three months—ah, well, she guesses she can stick it out on the ranch that long, considering the stakes.

Miss d'Aragon is a well-built, olive-complexioned, dark-eyed daughtetr of Spain, born in Saragossa, Aragon, about 21 years ago. Her ancestors were pioneers in the west and through industry and thrift accumulated large fortunes. A glimpse of her is enough to determine that she is an aristocrat to the fingertips.

Miss d'Aragon, despite her liking for the gay life of Manhattan Isle, is by no means without ambitions of the kind that counts. She intends to study abroad.

"Will I stay abroad for any length of time to pursue my studies?" asked Miss d'Aragon. "Well, not so you could notice it. I am for little old New York first and last."

HEN'S WHOLE HOUSEHOLD MOVED BY LOCOMOTIVE

OAKTOWN, Ind., March 7.—A brown hen belonging to Daniel Coleman, who lives near the C. and E. I. passenger station here, used the rolling stock of the C. and E. I. Railroad for a nest. She laid an egg every day, sometimes using a flat car, sometimes a box car, sometimes the coal dust and sometimes the steel frame under coal cars.

The hen delivered the customary fowl announcement of the arrival of an egg for several days, but members of the Coleman family were unable to find her nest. When egg prices suffered upward revision close watch was kept on the hen. She was seen to fly in a box car, partly filled with baled straw. There she disappeared for a time only to reappear in the car door, cackle for a few minutes, then fly to the ground.

The hen disappeared for good a few days ago when the door of a box car into which she had made her daily pilgrimage was closed on her by a railroad employe and she was soon on her way to Terre Haute.

HAS UNIQUE EXAMPLE IN ARBORICULTURE

EMBARASS, Wis., March 7. — John Kubsack of Embarass has a chair which he "grew" from twenty-eight small box elder trees by training them so as to form the various parts. The process took eight years. He says he has refused an offer of $3000 from a natural history collector. He will take the chair to the Panama Exposition in San Francisco next year.

Mr. Kugsack first planted four [illegible] positions for the legs. Then began the laborious task of training these four and others that he later planted into their proper positions. As each small tree grew into the required size it was then [illegible] over to grow into the place designed for it. Eighty joints were made by grafting. It required almost daily attention.

He cut the finished chair from its roots some time ago. It now stands in a room at his home at the service of visitors.

VIEWS AND REVIEWS OF WHAT WORLD IS DOING

ERTILLON, SORTER OF MEN

ench Detec-ve Was Bene-actor to Race Sinister Way

[illegible] a noted general dies the newspapers devote columns to the printing of a carefully collected obituary in which the history of his victories, his life, and his relatives' lives, infinitum, are carefully rehearsed. is fame. The public wonders, often-, how the world can stand its loss, measured in space in the leading jour- of the land.

four line cablegram, a few days ago, ght from Paris the news of the death man not famed as a soldier, not not- as a speaker and not renowned as a anthropologist—but a man who was re-sible for more than half the inmates ur prisons today—Alphonse Bertillon. was the sinister trade of sorting minals out from the mass of humanity. success was the triumph of crimin-, and to him, perhaps, the world more for the prevention of crime by insuring of punishment than to any criminologist that ever lived.

touching tribute to the great investi-or and creator, for Bertillon created ystem that is today noted as the axiom police work—is contained in a recent rial in the Chicago News, which, menting on Bertillon's life and death, :

WAS REAL BENEFACTOR.

It is too much a tradition with most us that the famous general or the amous politician deserves to be emoralized, while the great detec-ve, using the word in its broad ense, should be held to possess in some vague way some of the stigma which attaches to those whom he pursues. "Set a thief to catch a thief" is he absurd old maxim which underlies our attitude toward the men who, like Bertillon, devote their lives to the pursuit of criminals.

Yet the plain truth is that the generals and politicians may be great criminals, by furthering needless wars and plunging whole communities or nations into conditions which readily breed crime and criminals, while the man whose genius assumes the form of a sleuth-like bent for picking the black sheep out of the flock may be rendering the world countless benefits.

Bertillon performed a work which put an end to much of the unscientific work of police departments. When men are confined on suspicion, and subjected to various degrees of coercion which are practiced by most officers of the law, there is always the chance that a great injustice may be done, and that an innocent man may be detained under the searchlight while the real culprit has an opportunity to make his escape. Figures lie, sometimes; but the measurements of human beings, taken scientifically and exhaustively, are as dependable as anything can be, and the process of identifying men by measurements may therefore be said to be as exact as most sciences are.

A man who contributed greatly to the sum of human efficiency passed with the death of Bertillon.

The Portland Telegram adds a word praise to the great detective, in the following:

Announcement of the death of Alphonse Bertillon—which, if you desire to be correct, you should pronounce Bar-te-yon—denotes the passing of a man of peculiar fame. There are few names more widely known, and because of the curious fact that Bertillon was the greatest criminal catcher in the world, without ever having engaged in the active, personal detection of criminals.

Bertillon was a philosopher of human dimensions and of all marks of anatomical identification. He discovered the natural law in this field, and gave to the world the key by which the identity of an individual might be established as against all other human beings in the world. His service was to the protection of society against the criminal, and it was of such certain and effective sort that it undoubtedly held the world's criminality in check.

SYSTEM IS NOT KNOWN.

Many people know more or less about the system of Bertillon measurements upon which the police in every city of considerable size depend for the identification of those who transgress the law, but there are many more whose ideas upon the subject are vague indeed. Just a synopsis of the details of some of these measurements is of interest.

Comprehensively, the system includes photographs, the recording of scars, tatooing, moles and other readily distinguished marks of identification. Supplementing these are the physical measurements which show the length and the width of the head, the length of the foot, the forearm, the little finger, the full height of the person, the reach of the arms, the color of the eyes and the length of the ear. Each of these measurements is made to serve for index classification, and when the later devisement of finger prints is added to the record the unerring description of any particular criminal is in hand.

Bertillon was not solely responsible for this system in all its details. His ideas and discoveries are the fundamentals of it, but these were combined with the discoveries of other criminologists along the same line.

The value of the system can hardly be appreciated by the person who does not come in contact with criminal affairs; but the police authorities of Europe and the United States will testify to it most emphatically.

THE SMOKER, THE CAR AND REFORMERS' CRY

"I would not smoke tobacco,
It is a filthy weed.
I would not put it in my mouth,"
Said Little Robert Reed."
—Old Jingle.

The little Robert Reeds of today are again raising a hue and cry against poor King Nicotine. "A woman is only a woman," says Kipling. "But a good cigar is a—Abomination!" shouts the clubwoman who demands that smoking be abolished in street cars, and "Crime!" shouts the Anti Tobacco League. Kipling where art thou?

At any rate, the agitators are after the habit of smoking and spitting in street cars in the cities of the land, and reforms have come of it. For instance, in Oakland the smokers must all confine themselves to the front of street cars—and strange to say actual count will show that as a rule the women congregate there in preference to the back platform? Of course, it's not because of the smoke, —but it suggests that the ladies may some day demand that the smokers be put in the rear of the car. And then will the ladies frequent the rear of the car again, that the gentlemen may once more be moved?

Chicago, at least judging by the editorials in its newspapers, is having some trouble with this street car smoking proposition. The Chicago News says:

Before the council committee on health the other day strong reasons were given for the proposed abolition of smoking in street cars. Spokesmen for the motormen, representatives of the street railway companies, leading physicians and delegates from women's organizations told the aldermen why in their opinion the smokers' privileges should be withdrawn by city ordinance.

MOTORMEN ARE SICKENED.

The motormen are shut up through long hours in the little compartments where smokers ceaselessly smoke and continually spit. The conditions thus produced are sickening to the men confined in such quarters, according to their own testimony. The spitting tends to spread diseases.

President Busby of the Chicago Surface Lines told the aldermen that many women and men also refuse to use the front exits from the street cars because of the odors and filth produced there by smokers. The result is that cars are delayed while passengers wishing to alight crowd back to the rear exits.

Officers of the Chicago Medical Society and Dr. John A. Robinson, president of the state board of health, declared that smoking in street cars is unquestionably a prolific source of sickness. One doctor said: "Tuberculosis, pneumonia, grip, cancer and other diseases are spread through these two practices — smoking and spitting in the front vestibules of street cars."

Shall smoking in street cars continue in the face of this grave indictment?

One must think that even a large proportion of those passengers who up to the present time have habitually smoked in the front vestibules of cars while going to or from their work will voluntarily give up the practice when the serious objections to it are brought to their attention. The others might well be required by city ordinance to refrain from smoking there.

The Chicago Record-Herald, also commenting on the same situation, offers the following.

If any aldermen entertain lingering and irrational doubts regarding the necessity or propriety of an ordinance prohibiting smoking in street car vestibules, such a hearing as that held by the health committee on Wednesday is calculated effectually to dispel them. There was hardly any disinterested opposition to the proposed ordinance. Those, on the other hand, who spoke for it spoke with a conviction, a sincerity, a logic, an authority that cannot fail to impress any alderman who knows public opinion when he confronts it and has a decent regard for it.

UNIT FOR LAW.

The physicians and social workers of the city are a unit for the anti-car smoking ordinance. The traction companies admit that the nuisance among other things causes delay and [illegible] ordinance. The motormen are demanding purer air and cleaner vestibules to breathe and work in. The women are demanding exits that can be used with reasonable comfort. The health board is denouncing vestibule smoking and the inevitable filth and contagion bred by it as a grave public danger. If there was ever a stronger case for an ordinance, memory finds some difficulty in recalling it.

Another meeting is to be held to give speakers who could not be heard on Wednesday an opportunity to present their arguments. The final hearing should lead to a favorable report on the ordinance by a unanimous committee.

The question is, can any smoking habit be cured while the desire to smoke really exists? The Portland Telegram offers a smoke cure, which, perhaps, barring its disagreeable features, might be of interest. Here it is:

In Hoboken, N. J., they think they have found a practical cure for the cigarette habit among boys. It appears that a physician discovered that a throat wash consisting of a mild solution of nitrate of silver would effectually destroy the taste for the cigarette, and that by agreement with the justice and Juvenile Court officers the first considerable experiment was tried at Hoboken.

DOCTORS SEE EXPERIMENT.

The experiment was conducted under supervision of doctors connected with the health department, and as a first trial about one hundred boys were treated. The treatment was repeated at intervals covering a period of two weeks, and according to report the result of it was satisfactory. During the treatment there was some supervision of diet, though it does not appear just how that was managed, or how far it was necessary or responsible for the cure of the habit.

It is claimed by the Hoboken authorities that the treatment is absolutely harmless, even if the result of it should not prove what is desired. We are left with the inference that the experiment will be tried more extensively.

If any physical treatment of this sort can be found that will prove to be effective, and at the same time harmless, the entire subject matter is well worthy of careful investigation by the health and Juvenile Court authorities of every city. It is frequently the case in such matters that the facts are at variance in some essential particulars with the report, but that does not necessarily follow. In this instance the end sought is of great importance. The remedy, if it is effective and harmless is simplicity itself, and its merits ought to be generally determined.

AGE, WHEN, WHERE AND WHAT IT MAY BE

How many years does a man or woman have to live before he or she is old? That's the question Cupid, the government, and the insurance companies are all looking for an answer to—and haven't found it yet, either. There is such an age—but it can't be located anywhere this side of the grave, and that's why Cupid, the insurance companies, and the rest of them are scratching their heads and wondering.

A recent editorial in the Wichita Beacon, telling of a certain laugh Cupid had on age, brings up the subject, and, because of this, and also because the editorial is amusing, it's quoted to start off with. Here it is:

The other day a woman of 35 married a man of 30, whereupon the critics went into session and began to grouch.

Of course it wasn't primarily their business; but, nevertheless, they proceeded to point out that, a dozen or more years hence the wife will be going down life's sunset slope while the husband will be just entering his prime. They were quite sure such a marriage couldn't end happily.

Theoretically they may be right; but luckily life isn't wholly a matter of theories.

AND CUPID LAUGHS.

The facts in this case were that the woman was possessed of that type of soul which doesn't grow old. Given a mate who will love her and be kind, one with whom she can always live in a partnership of interests, and she will not age as her years multiply, but will keep the spirit of youth in her heart.

Likewise, it so happened that this man was older in insight, in experience, in sympathies than his age implied. The difference of a few years between them measured no substantial difference in the things that count. True love bridges all such incidental gaps.

There's no hard and fast rule of mathematics where the affections are concerned. We are all of us as young [illegible]

This has introduced age. Now, what is it, and why? The Chicago Record-Herald says it isn't at all, if proper rules are lived up to. It offers the rules in an editorial, which reads as follows.

There are people who stare at the man who says he would like to break all modern records in the matter of longevity. And they are not necessarily pessimists. On the other hand, almost every week some eminent person of advanced years comes forward with advice as to how to round out a century of existence on this lively little planet. The octogenarians and nonagenarians are evidently very happy and desirous of sharing their rich store of wisdom with the younger generations.

LONGEVITY MAXIMS.

Sir James Sawyer, a British physician, is the latest author of a set of longevity maxims. Some of them are old friends, to be sure, but others are really individual, and these are worth reproducing. No doubt other savants will warmly attack the new rules, but controversies on longevity themselves make for longevity, for they stimulate the mind and give zest to existence. Here are the more interesting or original rules:

Sleep on your right side.

Have a hat at your bedroom door.

Keep your bed away from the wall.

No cold bath in the morning, but a bath at the temperature of the body.

Exercise before breakfast.

Drink no milk. (This applies to adults only.)

Eat plenty of fat to feed the cells which destroy disease germs.

Watch the three Ds—drinking water, damp and drains.

Have change of occupation.

Take frequent and short holidays.

Limit your ambition.

Keep your temper.

Not a few of these maxims are, alas, counsel for perfection to the average man. But we can all follow most of them, and they will do us good even if we do not care to attain the century mark.

THE CENSOR, HIS WORK, AND HOW HE DOES IT

All Things Fall Under His Hand, One Way or the Other

PLAYS, literature, art — all may come and go, but the censor we have always with us. There is the censor who is a censor because he believes himself divinely appointed to guard his fellow beings from what he thinks is harmful—the censor who is censor for political or business reasons, and the censor who really knows something about his job. And, strangely enough, the latter [illegible] former censors, who in turn are looked on with amusement by the public.

Censorship, then, it would seem, is all right if the censor has power and knows what to censor, and how, and does it without fear, favor or mistake. censorship is a task, and a hard and puzzling one, whether it applies to the press, the drama or the movies.

Apropos of censorship, the Free Press recently published a summing up of the matter, as it applies to the drama, perhaps the most [illegible] against of all things censored, as follows:

ON THE DRAMA.

The drama of any period, to be vital, must reflect and criticise the characteristic struggle of that period. The struggle characteristic of our time is the social struggle—the conflict of the individual with society. Great European playwrights have treated of this theme and the American playwright is increasingly feeling his way toward its expression.

Any present-day censorship or guide in matters theatric that directly or by implication cries anathema on the social drama, that seeks to center interest on the drama of sentiment or individuality at its expense, is not contributing to the larger enlightment of public taste and understanding in the theater or to the enlargement of the theater's function beyond the purveyal of temporary amusement, of individualistic morality and detached aestheticism.

Censoring the "movies," another indoor sport popular among the well-meaning, is taken up in an editorial in the Chicago Record-Herald, as follows:

One of the magnates in the moving-picture business, just back from Italy, where the largest and most elaborate efforts now seem to be making, prophesies that Chicago audiences will soon be paying $1 and $1.50 a seat for "spectacular picture productions and masterful photo dramas." He adds that the best seats for the best picture shows in the leading European capitals only cost $2.50 —the full equivalent for the half-guinea of the London stalls.

With the increased scale of the productions in view, the best people in literature are beginning to devise scenarios; the best people of the stage are coming more and more to act them, and it is is to be expected that for the more elaborate substitutes for the higher forms of drama and opera the price of admission will correspond to the cost of production.

But it is to be hoped that the 5 and 10-cent houses, where the larger use of the film began, will not feel the upward trend in prices. They have their necessary role still to play, and they represent a sort of "irreducible minimum" that should not be disturbed.

CO-OPERATIVE CENSORSHIP.

If the drama must be censored, says the Chicago Record-Herald, a wide co-operative censorship, perhaps, would be the best. Commenting on such a project, it offers the following:

If drama is to be censored, probably a wide co-operative censorship is the best. At least it is far removed from the drawbacks that commonly attend on the whims and idiosyncracies of individuals.

And if the censorship is to be exercised collectively, probably a negative censorship is preferable to a positive one—a censorship involving praise of the good rather than condemnation of the bad.

Organizers of the new movement believe that a play which fails to secure the favor of its censors will have a hard time establishing itself. Notoriety, founded on simple reporting, sometimes has an influence greater than either praise or blame as such; yet all who wish for a more decorous stage will join in wishing that this effort may have the success it deserves.

While the critics are seeking to censor the drama, others are seeking to censor the press. The press censorship move may have certain merits and certain demerits; it has not been much investigated yet, at any rate. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat, in summing up the matter in a recent editorial, said:

Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska does well to attack the stock exchange regulation bill introduced by the chairman of the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency, which would deny use of the mails to stock exchanges that violate restrictions imposed by the bill. He is strictly within the letter of the Baltimore platform, the character of Democratic faith, in assailing efforts "to enlarge and magnify by indirection the powers of the Federal Government." That it is a subject of state rather than federal regulation is obvious. But his more effective argument is directed against empowering the postmaster general to censor stock exchange news in the newspapers.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL.

The use of government control of the mails to stamp out practices that were objectionable has grown with the years. American lotteries were wiped out in this way and by use of the interstate commerce clause of the constitution. The Federal Government is suppressing swindling in the same way. But recently there has been an increase of this power that warrants the alarm sounded by Senator Hitchcock. Acting under its right to supervise the mails, Congress some time ago passed a law that denied second-class mail privileges to periodicals that did not furnish certain information which was of no real value to the public. Some of the provisions were not equitable, since they did not apply equally to all classes of publications. By compelling the publication of a list of creditors, it worked a hardship on many newspapers in securing credit, bankers declining to make loans where they might be subjected to a charge of "subsidizing" a newspaper. But the proposed stock exchange law would work a greater hardship. It would not prevent the printing of stock exchange news altogether, but would force publishers to employ detectives or legal experts to determine what news could be lawfully printed. The postmaster general, acting through some subordinate, would have virtual power of censorship.

That the present power has been occasionally abused, resulting in ruin to men and concerns denied the use of the mails, has often been asserted. The official tendency to become exceedingly technical is almost as strong as the bureau tendency to spin red tape. That hasty action might bring ruin to a business that would on full and impartial investigation be found legitimate is not impossible. Liberty of the press was secured after the bitterest fight of the centuries, and encroachments upon it should be jealously guarded. As publisher of one of the leading newspapers of America, Senator Hitchcock recognizes the tendency and its peril, and not only the press, but the public, the real beneficiary of freedom of the press, should be grateful to him for his determined stand.

ONCE MULATTO COLORED, NOW ENTIRELY WHITE

PERRYSBURG, Ohio, March 7.—Thirty years ago James Wilson, colored, aged 79 years, was as brown as the usual dark-complexioned colored man. Now he's completely white. Wilson has been examined by physicians at the Jefferson hospital in Philadelphia and at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore and by hundreds of other doctors.

His blood has been tested and the skin studied as it was turning. They all gave up an explanation of the phenomenon, Wilson says. He never used anything externally or internally to produce the change.

Wilson's wife discovered the first white spot on his shoulder when she was bath[illegible] nickel. That was when Wilson was 45. In subsequent baths the growth of the spot was noted. At 50 his entire back had become white.

Wilson was employed as a barber in Perryburg at the time, but was forced to give up the trade when later his hands began to turn white in spots. People feared it was leprosy or some other contagious disease. Twenty years ago he was all white except his face, which was the last to completely turn.

BE NATURAL AND SWEET, YOUNG MISS

SAYS LILLIAN RUSSELL

Fifteen year olds like this overdressed miss are what make foreigners ask, "Are there no young girls in America?"

Youth is the greatest charm of all.

With an interesting book and a box of chocolates a girl lets her palate run away with her good sense.

A simple, charming style for the fourteen year old's hair.

For grace and bodily symmetry the rhythmic dance is wonderfully beneficial.

DON'T you know, girls, that in the making of a pretty girl nothing scores like sweet simplicity? And simplicity is something each and every one of you may have if you will only be willing to be girls while you are in your teens. One thing you girls in your teens should leave entirely alone is cosmetics.

[Copyright: 1914: By Lillian Russell.]

IF you are a normal girl, of course you will want to be a pretty girl. At least you will want to be just as attractive as you can possibly be. But, O, the sins of apparel and the sins of cosmetics some of you misguided, foolish little girls do commit in your desire to attract! If it weren't for the saving grace of your tender years, what dreadful things you would hear said about you when you adopt that bizarre manner and parade the boulevards in costumes bold in design and niggardly of dimensions, stopping every now and then to supplement with powder puff and rouge pot, eyebrow pencil, and peroxide the charms with which nature has already endowed you.

Such a shock I got recently when I met on the boulevard the daughter of a good friend of mine, a girl of 15, with a line of smut right on the edge of the under eyelid and a heightening of the eyebrows suspiciously born of the same unlovely blackening. The baby blue of her eyes had suddenly turned hard and steely under the operation, and the lovely auburn tint to her hair somehow turned "worldly" with the touch of rouge on her cheeks and the Cupid's bow of her mouth most boldly defined with carmen. If I had not known the child's mother was away I would have been filled with grave misgivings. But I knew the silly child was simply taking advantage of her mother's absence, and that the mother's return would dispel in short order any idea on the girl's part that she was accomplishing anything in the name of beauty, if it didn't involve a deserved punishment.

Foreigners visiting this country often ask, "Are there no young girls in America?" It does look as if our young girls jumped from grammar school into grownup women. Don't you know, girls, that in the making of a pretty girl nothing scores like sweet simplicity? And simplicity is something each and every one of you may have, if you will only be willing to be girls while you are in your teens. One thing you girls in your teens should leave entirely alone, and that is cosmetics. If they are to be used at all, leave them entirely to your elder sister, or to your mother, whose added years will teach discretion in their use. You have youth, which is the greatest charm of all. You can cultivate simplicity if you are inclined to bizarreness. And daintiness, which is akin to beauty, too, is right within your reach.

Begins with the Bath.

The foundation of daintiness, of course, is cleanliness. So let us begin with the question of the bath. When you think that almost every home today has its bathroom, with hot and cold water on tap, we wonder that the habit of daily cleansing the skin of the entire body has not become universal.

"What kind of a daily bath should I take?" you ask. The kind which makes you feel strongest and takes the least vitality from you. Many people thrive on a cold plunge on rising, followed by a brisk rubbing with a rough towel, but this is a form of bath that cannot be recommended to every one. A physician can given general directions which will be of great assistance to a girl in choosing the kind of bath best suited to her special constitution.

The morning bath, however, best suited to persons of all ages is probably a quick, hard scrub of the body in sections, first with hot and then with cold water, drying each part before wetting the next. The entire body should be uncovered meanwhile and the rubbing done with enough vigor to produce the glow of warmth even in a cold room. Such a bath strengthens the skin, improves the circulation of the blood, and invigorates the body in general. A bathroom is not required, and little water can be made to answer the purpose, if need be.

After your gymnasium work the "needle bath," hot, followed by a dash of cold water, is excellent. And there is the never to be omitted weekly or bi-weekly soaking bath in warm water with the use of a good, pure soap and a rinse off with cold water.

I know of nothing that has a greater power to make a girl sensitive, morbid, and unhappy than a bad complexion. The remedy for this unhappiness may be found in the bath or in the diet. Girls in their teens are apt to work untold damage to their skins with the food they choose to eat. For a general diet I would advise you to eat simple and nutritious food. At breakfast omit meat, substituting a soft boiled egg. This with buttered toast may follow a cereal with cream and sugar. Seasonable fruit—oranges, grapefruit, apples, or berries—may be included. Coffee and tea are better ruled out. For lunch a cream soup, bread and butter, a simple custard or pudding is sufficient. For dinner a generous portion of well cooked meat—beefsteak, roast beef, lamb, or fowl—well cooked potatoes, a vegetable, and stewed fruit with wafers or a simple cake.

Digestion Affects Complexion.

Many girls are distressed on account of pimples that they are not able to get rid of. Candy eating is often the cause of pimples. The skin is so closely related to the digestive organs that any disturbance of the latter is apt to show itself in the complexion. As a rule, if a girl finds herself with an interesting book and a box of chocolates before her, she is apt to let her palate run away with her good sense, and the next morning when she wakes she has a "dark brown taste" in her mouth. Unfortunately this is not her chief complaint. An unpleasant breath is the result of the upset stomach following a large consumption of candy.

The other day an extremely pretty girl told me confidentially that for the first time in her life she had discovered that her breath was not sweet. I asked her if she ate much candy. She said that frequently she ate half a pound or a pound of chocolates in one afternoon. She stopped the candy eating after our talk, and since that time none of her frank friends has had cause to mention this uncomfortable subject and she is happy once more.

When you do indulge in candy buy only the finest grades, eat it in moderation, and eat it immediately after meals. As to the injurious effect of sugar on the teeth there has been much discussion. But candy, eaten in quantities, is liable to produce acids that eat away the enamel.

Rules for Correct Standing.

You can work wonders with your appearance if you will not allow yourself to become "creatures of habit" in your ways of standing, sitting, and walking, as schoolgirls are apt to do. There is one habit in particular that young people are guilty of—that of the forward poked head, which is always followed with round shoulders and flat chests. Almost as bad in effect upon [illegible] side figure, so common among schoolgirls. Both shapes are due to bad habits of posture in standing and sitting. In addition to the harmful influence of these postures upon the health, such shapes often become a hindrance to social and professional advancement later in life.

I am inclined to believe that most fast growing children are self-conscious and more or less physically unhappy between the ages of 13 and 16. The unfavorable criticisms which they constantly hear regarding themselves, and the unwise advice often given, make them grow more crooked in body, morbid in mind, and sensitive in soul.

Do try to find out just why you are round shouldered, awkward, and sensitive, and set about to prevent it as far as possible.

Here are some rules for correct standing which will help you: With knees near together, place the feet in position for walking, the right foot a step in advance, toes pointing straight forward. Lift the head high, chin well in. Sway the entire body gently forward until its weight is felt to rest on the ball of the forward foot. Find an easy balance in this position. It may help you to imagine you have a book on the top of your head. Hold your head in a position which would keep the book there, in standing, walking, or sitting—not stiffly, of course, but easily pushed upward.

In walking, point your toes forward. To turn them out locks the ankles and makes it difficult to bend the knee and to raise the heel as high as we must to acquire an elastic step. Each leg should do its share of pushing the body forward. Many people in walking form the habit of using but one leg forcefully, while the other is practically swung forward with the pelvis. In walking, the chest and head should lead the rest of the body, as it does when we hurry forward. Carry your head high, as if you respected yourself.

Carrying books under one arm produces a curvature of the spine and causes one shoulder to lower considerably.

Dancing Lessons Beneficial.

I wish that every girl in her teens could have dancing lessons—especially in rhythmic dancing, that does so much for grace and bodily symmetry. Nothing more quickly helps a girl to forget her self-consciousness than dancing.

Some young girls I have known, especially those who have pretty sisters, have let themselves believe their lives were started with a dreadful handicap. Sometimes mothers are responsible for this, through their constantly telling the pretty daughter how sweet she is and the ugly duckling how ugly she is. If you happen to be one of the "ugly ducklings," don't despair. Find out what good points you have. Everybody has one, at least. Cultivate that one point. If it is your hair or your hands, the way you walk, or the quality of your voice, make the most of it. Don't think that you can let yourself go in any way, either in your dress or manners, because you are not as good looking as the other girls.

When you have exhausted your outward resources of beauty, remember that there is a great field, an undiscovered country of the mind and lovely disposition which has attractions greater than has a pretty face for many men and women, and that is a field in which you can own just as much as you are capable of developing.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

EMMA: Sight is a much abused gift. There are a great many simple ways of caring for one's eyes. They should be washed every day with a boric acid solution in an eye cup, and particularly should this be done after riding in a motor or on the steam cars. If one gets a cinder or any other foreign substance in the eye it is much better to consult a reputable specialist and have it removed.

[illegible]: One should wash the eyes each morning. Use boric acid to the strength of ten grains to six ounces distilled water; heat and strain and when cold use in eye cup. If you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope I shall send you a set of splendid exercises for strengthening the eyes; also formula for hair tonic for dandruff.

S. T.: The fine wrinkles are the menace of a fine skin. They are the result of a drying up process. [illegible] removed by massaging with almond oil. Avoid the use of soap and astringent mixtures. Wash the face as little as possible. If you have no tendency to [illegible], and fortunately such skins are not often troubled in that way, use oil for cleansing the face instead of water.

Appeal for National Cathedral at Washington

Former Secretary of Legation at London on the Subject

George Washington, the anniversary of whose birth was recently celebrated, wanted to plant a great national cathedral in the Nation's capital. Now, 115 years after his death, such a cathedral is being built. The purposes which it will serve, the gap which it will fill, the great services which are held in such cathedrals abroad, are upon this occasion written for this paper by Hon. Henry White. Mr. White was long secretary of legation at London, was later Ambassador to Italy and to France. Altogether he spent twenty-five years in the diplomatic service. There is no man in the nation whose experience has better fitted him to write upon the subject in hand.

(By HENRY WHITE.)

WASHINGTON is the only capital of a great country which does not possess a national cathedral, church or other great shrine symbolical of the religious feeling of the nation. All the important capitals of Europe, save Berlin, have cathedrals dating for the most part, from the Middle Ages, and no sooner had the German Empire been founded than steps were taken with a view to the erection in Berlin of a cathedral which has only been completed within a recent period, and is one of the finest of the many great buildings commensurate with the importance of Germany which have been erected in that city since it became the imperial capital.

Constantinople possesses the beautiful Mosque of St. Sophia, originally built as a Christian church by the Emperor Constantine and used as such until A. D. 1453. when it was adapted to the use of Mahometan religion. In the Far East the spiritual side of the people of Japan is symbolized by the temples at the old capital, Kioto; that of the people of China by the Temple of Heaven at Peking.

In more distant times the Jews built their temple at Jerusalem; the Greeks crowned the Acropolis at Athens with temples which still serve as models of all that is most beautiful in classical architecture. The Romans erected temples to their gods in the Forum at Rome. We Americans alone of all civilized nations have not thought it necessary thus far, although eminently a religious people, to build in our capital city a great national place of worship.

There are doubtless many good reasons for this omission, and it is perhaps as well that no attempt should have been made at an earlier period in the history of our nation to rectify it. Had a national cathedral been built earlier it would not have been of dimension and still less of architectural design and dignity at all in keeping with the importance of our country.

NO CATHEDRAL AT WASHINGTON.

Nothing strikes the traveler from other countries or the American who has traveled extensively in foreign lands more than the absence of such a cathedral church in Washington. As an instance of this feeling I venture to quote from that brilliant American author, Henry James, who wrote in his "The American Scene" (page 365) as follows:

"Washington already bristles, for the considering eye, with national affirmations—big-builded forms of confidence and energy; but when you have embraced them all, with the implication of others still to come, you will find yourself wondering what it is you so oddly miss. Numberless things are represented, and one interest after another counts itself in; the great Congressional Library crowns the hill beside the Capitol, the departments and institutes covered their acres and square their shoulders; the obelisk to the memory of Washington climbs still higher; but something is absent, more even than these masses are present—till it at least occurs to you that the existence of a religious faith on the part of the people is not even remotely suggested. Not a federal dome, nor a spire nor a cornice pretends to any such symbolism, and, thought your attention is thus concerned with a mere negative, the negative presently becomes its sharp obsession. You reach out, perhaps in vain, for something to which you may familiarly compare your unsatisfied sense. The field of American life is as bare of a church as a billiard table of a centerpiece."

WASHINGTON WANTED CHURCH.

It is probably known to comparatively few of our country people that in the original plans of the city of Washington, as accepted by its founder, the illustrious man whose name it bears, space was provided for a national church; but such is the fact. At the beginning of our history as a nation authority was given by Congress to President Washington to select a site for the capital of the new republic. One can imagine the interest wherewith he assumed that great responsibility, for which, with the experience gained in his early youth as a land surveyor in Virginia, he was peculiarly fitted. Doubtless not a single detail of the entire project escaped his attention.

Major L'Enfant, who he selected to prepare plans for the new city, was a French engineer officer of American nationality because of his greater familiarity with European capitals, especially Paris ,than any of our own engineers were likely to have possessed at that time. L'Enfant had served under Washington and had done constructive work for the army. It is not impossible, therefore, that they may have discussed together the cities of the Old World in comparison with our own—a subject which is frequently a topic of conversation even in these days between our people and strangers. In any case, L'Enfant sought and obtained from Jefferson the plans of many foreign cities which our third President had collected during his residence abroad as the representative of this country.

In June, 1791, L'Enfant submitted his first plan to the President at Georgetown and in a letter attached thereto he wrote, in quaint English and spelling, "In planning the plan here annexed for the intended Federal city I regreted much being indered by the shortness of time from making any particular drawing of the several buildings."

It requires little imagination to picture Washington, with his plan before him, studying out every detail, and objecting, perhaps, to what L'Enfant calls "the Presidential Palace," which on the second map appears as "the President's House," for it is evident from Washington's correspondence that frequent discussion took place on the subject.

What is chiefly interesting, however, for the purposes of this article is the fact that on this old, well-worn map of L'Enfant's, which may still be seen in Washington, about seven blocks east of the Presidents' House is a large square around which is drawn a circle in dark brown. Below this square, on one side of which has since been erected the Pension building, is the letter "D," and on the margin of the map is the following explanatory note:

"D—This church is intended for national purposes, such as public prayer, thanksgivings, funeral orations, etc., and assigned to the special use of no particular sect or denomination, but equally open to all. It will be likewise a shelter for such monuments as were vited by the Continental Congress for those heroes who fell in the cause of liberty, and for such others as may hereafter be decreed by a grateful nation."

Evidently the intention of the founders of Washington was that half way between the White House and the Capitol this church should stand, equally accessible to te President and to the members of the judicial and legislative branches of the government.

Washington, as he paused to consider this proposed church on the map before him, may have remembered reading somewhere of the great service at St. Paul's in London to celebrate the peace of Ryswick, or of Queen Anne going time after time to the same cathedral to attend public services of thanksgiving after English victories or for the union of England and Scotland. He must have felt that even in those early days the people of his own country had already had reasons for solemn services of thanksgiving as a nation, and this idea of a great central church, called in one of L'Enfant's reports "a grand church," should have appealed strongly to a man of Washington's character and temperament.

Not long before, in 1778, when William Pitt, the famous Earl of Chatham, died, his attitude of opposition to the English Government's American policy must have made his name so well known in America that the newspapers doubtless gave accounts of his remarkable obsequies held at Westminster Abbey and of the monument erected by the government to his memory.

Westminster Abbey was then and still is rich in memorials, not only to British monarchs, but to statesmen, soldiers, men of letters and those who in one way or another have contributed to the greatness of England and of the British empire. It is not impossible—indeed, it is highly probable—that Washington may have contemplated in connection with the national church provided for in the plan which he accepted a similar series of traditions of the great men of the nation toward the foundation of which he so materially contributed.

"NO PARTICULAR DENOMINATION.

Appreciating the wisdom of the separation of church and state in our government, the President himself may have been responsible for the expression "and assigned to the special use of no particular sect or denomination." But under such a proviison the building of the church became practically impossible. Congress could not appropriate the necessary funds, and to attempt to create some special body or organization to secure the amount by public contributions would have proved futile.

The reason for such a great national church in the capital city of this country, as in those of other countries, are obvious

When one of our great statesmen, soldiers, or an American otherwise eminent in the service of the nation dies, there is in Washington no place of worship in any way comparable in size or beauty to the great cathedrals of England and of other European countries in which a funeral or memorial service can be held, worthy of our country and of the man whom it wishes thus to honor. What place have we in the national capital in which to lay the ashes of our mighty dead, and over which may hover the inspiration of their memories as England has in Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral? Nor is there any great place of worship in the national capital to which the President, with those eminent in the councils of the nation and the public at large, may repair for a national thanksgiving service upon the termination of war, or the passing of some other great calamity affecting the entire nation.

IMPRESSIVE MEMORIAL SERVICES.

Of the many interesting memories connected with the writer's service of more than a quarter of a century as an American diplomatist in Europe, none stands out more vividly than those of various memorial services in Westminster Abbey in which he took part officially. These services were not only in memory of British subjects, such as Mr. Gladstone, Lord Tennyson and others of eminence in the service of their country, but of our own General Grant, President McKinley, John Hay, Whitelaw Reid and other Americans of distinction, to whose memory Great Britain wished to pay signal honor, the last such service being for the late J. Pierpont Morgan. At these services in the Abbey there were present official representatives of the King and of other members of the royal family, Cabinet Ministers, the great officers of state, members innumerable of the army, navy and civil service, besides as many of the general public as could find room in the building.

Thinks Structure Would Be Sign of Religious Progress

It is impossible accurately to describe, much less for any one who was never been present at one of those services to realize the solemnity and dignity of the scene produced by a combination of the exquisite architecture of the Abbey, the dim religious light within its wall, the silence prevailing before the beginning of the services, the reverent bearing of those present, the singing of the choristers and, above all, the music of the organ, especially the rendering of "The Dead March in Saul" at the conclusion of the service, beginning with a distant and scarcely audible rumbling sound and winding up with the most glorious notes which that instrument is capable of producing.

In contrast to which it may be recalled that when Presidents Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley died the Capitol, under the dome or in the Senate chamber, neither of which is connected in the public mind with a church or religion, were the only one places in which their memorial services could be held in Washington.

And in further contrast to the honor paid in England to the memory and to the remains of our late Ambassador in that country, which were escorted by an imposing military procession through the streets of London to the Abbey, it should be noted that when Lord Pauncefote, British Ambassador to the United States, died in Washington a few years ago, our Government realized that there was no church of national importance in which to hold the service wherewith it wished to honor the man who had been for so many years a loyal servant of his country and a faithful friend of our own, although fortunately we were in a position to send his remains to England in one of our battleships, as those of Mr. Reid were sent home in a British ship.

THE BEGINNING OF A CATHEDRAL.

It may be said that in a country wherein no religion is supported by the state the idea of a national cathedral is impossible of realization, inasmuch as Congress cannot, of course, vote money for the erection of such a church, and a cathedral built by any particular denomination could scarcely with accuracy be called a national church. Doubtless this will be the feeling—and a very natural feeling—on the part of many of our fellow citizens. On the other hand, that the erection of such a cathedral in Washington would fill a need in the nation's life long felt by a very considerable section of our people is beyond a doubt, and the Episcopal church of this country is making the attempt to do so.

Afte rthe signature of the Treaty of Paris, whereby our war with Spain officially terminated, a Peace Cross was unveiled upon a beautiful hilltop above Washington, which had shortly before been purchased as the site for the new cathedral. The unveiling of this cross was combined with a service of thanksgiving for the termination of the war, at which President McKinley, many officials of the government and a concourse of people estimated at upward of 25,000 were present. Upon this land has since been built the Gothic crypt of the choir of the proposed cathedral, and in this crypt cathedral services have been regularly held for more than a year past.

It is hoped that this modern American Gothic cathedral will be found to compare, not unfavorably, with its great predecessors across the seas. Its proportions are exceedingly fine, and its position unrivaled.

It is furthermore hoped that the fact of its being built by a particular branch of the Christian church will not prevent those belonging to other branches of the church universal from feeling—at all events, when services are held there in connection with events of national import—that it is a national House of God.

When the revision of the Bible was undertaken, the scholars who were to carry on the work and who represented almost every branch of the Christian faith, assembled before entering upon their duties at service in Westminster Abbey, and the writer will never forget that one of the most interesting features of the national services there, at which he was present, was the fact that practically every branch of the Christian religion was represented at those services, usually by some of the most eminent of its members.

May it not be hoped that in days to come the services at the cathedral in Washington which will certainly be equally open to all," as the national church contemplated by President Washington was to be, may be characterized by a similar representation of different denominations, and a step or two thereby gained in the approach to that unity among Christians in matters essential which is so earnestly desired by many of our best citizens.

SHORT STORY FOR YOUNGSTERS

(By DAVID CORY.)

"Hurrah," cried Jack, "here comes the snow!" Sure enough, the air was full of snowflakes, whirling and dancing on the wind that tore madly down the street. Sister May came to the window and looked out. "If it keeps on like this, Jack, we'll be able to build a snowman today. "We'll take that old silk hat of father's to put on his head and he will look so jolly."

"I'll tell you what we'll do," said Jack, laughing at the ideal that suddenly came into his head. Uncle Jimmy is expected late this evening. Now, we'll make Mr. Snowman close to the walk—we might almost put him on the walk, and then we'll dress him up in some old clothes, so he will look very natural. Perhaps we can fool Uncle Jimmy."

"I don't see just how," remarked May thoughtfully, "unless it is so dark that Uncle Jimmy will almost run into him."

"That's just it," answered Jack. "If it keeps on snowing all day, and doesn't stop even when it's dark, our snowman will have a good chance to fool almost anybody."

THE PLOT.

In an hour or so there was enough snow on the ground for the children to commence operations. "May," said Jack, as he finished rolling the ball which was to be Mr. Snowman's head, "I'm going to build this snowman on top of my sled, so that when it gets dark I can pull him up close to the walk and cover the sled up with loose snow. He will look just like a man standing by the tree, and perhaps we can think up something to make Uncle Jimmy imagine he is going to be attacked by a highwayman."

"You goose," said his sister, laughing; "how will you manage that?"

"You just wait," said Jack, "I'll work out some sort of a plan."

The snowman grew bigger every minute under the industrious hands of Jack and May, and finally developed into quite a fine specimen—at least Jack and May thought him a wonderful piece of workmanship, and regarded him with much pride as they carefully pulled the sled into the front yard, up to the tree that stood close to the walk leading up to the front door. It was getting dark, and at a little distance the sonwman looked as natural as life. But how to make him scare Uncle Jimmy was the question. All the afternoon Jack had cudgeled his brains for an idea, but in vain, and here it was almost time for the climax.

THE COAT SLEEVE.

Suddenly Jack gave a whoop of delight. "I've got it! I've got it!" In a moment he was rushing inside the house, and in a few minutes returned wtih a long rope. "May, stuff the right coat-sleeve with snow, while I climb up the tree." In a few minutes Jack had the rope over an overhanging limb, and having tied one end to the wrist of Mr. Snowman's right arm, he led the other end around the side of the piaza.

THE GREAT MOMENT.

"Come on, May," he cried excitedly, "I see Uncle Jimmy coming!" Both children darted behind the house as the front gate clicked. Up the walk came Uncle Jimmy and just as he got abreast of the tree Jack let go the rope and the right arm of Mr. Snowman hit Uncle Jimmy on the shoulder. There was a smothered exclamation, and then Mr. Snowman's hat flew off his head like a cannon ball.

A hearty laugh followed, and before the children could escape Uncle Jimmy, guided by the long rope, darted around the side of the house and Mr. Jack Joker was being treated to a face massage of cold snow. Uncle Jimmy was not any too particular about some getting down Jack's collar, either. When his nephew finally begged for mercy Uncle Jimmy let him up and gave chase to May. What a scramble! And what a lot of screams! May had seen Jack's good-natured punishment, but nevertheless she didn't want any of Uncle Jimmy's facial treatment. Just then kind fate intervened, and mother opened the door. "What are you children doing?" she called, peering into the darkness. "Come in at once!"

"All right," answered Uncle Jimmy, and with a rush they all ran for the open door.

JACK'S PUNISHMENT.

After kissing him mother turned to Jack and said: "Goodness, what makes your face so red? Why, it's all wet!"

"I'll run upstairs and fix up," answered Jack, hurriedly, and off he went. Uncle Jimmy smiled. "That snow-man of yours, Jack, tackled the wrong fellow, don't you think so?" But Jack kept right along going upstairs, so good-natured Uncle Jimmy didn't say another word.

Return of the Bustle

The Fashion Seer announces the return of the bustle. There are signs which the Fashion Seer has learned to recognize and from which to deduct. For example, the pannier which is already shown in the fashion illustrations, is the advance guard, the forerunner, preparing the way for the return of the bustle. Women understand. Nature's lines, which have been a little overworked of late, are soon to be held up, interrupted, cut in two, by this additional article of underwear.

A whole generation has passed since the last era of the bustle. Women classified according to the material used in the bustle: women of mental resource utilized the newspaper. Newspapers up till that time were sold to the rag peddler, were useful to kindle the fire, and were esteemed for the pantry shelves. Any woman having initiative and independence could manufacture a bustle in about a minute by folding a newspaper over a yard of tape, adjusting the gathers to the correct width, and then tying the string around her waist. As soon as the bustle grew old and useless she could make another and no expense [illegible] hung her bustle over the back of a chair. The bustle was a secret, a personal, family affair.

A DEFINITION.

The dictionary takes the bustle quite seriously. "A pad, cushion, curved framework of wire, or the like, worn by women on the back part of the body below the waist for the purpose of improving the figure, causing the folds of the skirt to hang gracefully and preventing the skirts from interfering with the feet in walking."

In the return of the bustle many women recognize the homecoming of an old friend. Why, the bustle was such an indispensable accessory in a woman's costume that when Fashion pronounced against it, years elapsed before the conservative woman laid it by. The woman who abandoned her bustle suddenly had courage, indeed, and her sanity was likely to be questioned. At least she was a daring person from whom almost anything unexpected might be possible. She would bear watching. To leave your bustle off was to be an extremist. Now the bustle is coming back again. But it is a secret—what it is made of—like the material in your pompadour!

WOMEN IN RECENT MAGAZINES

One is reminded of the lion-tamer who quarreled with his wife. After an all-night search she found him asleep with the lions. Grasping the bars of the cage, she shook him until he awoke. Then looking him squarely in the face, she hissed the one word:

"Coward!"

In women also is a kind of inverted cowardice. But how different!"

They may run from mice and scream at the thought of burglars, but they don't shirk matrimony.

Yet 18 per cent more married women than single ones die between the ages of 20 and 29. After 29 their chances over unmarried women increase rapidly. From 30 to 39 years it is 17 per cent greater; from 40 to 49 37 per cent greater, from 50 to 69, 32 per cent greater.

When a man tells a girl he'd die for her is he merely trying to trick her into a marriage to save his own precious life?

Or when one proposes marriage to a girl is it proof that she has so completely charmed away his fears that he really wants to live for her?

And the 500,000 bachelors who have so far escaped death that they are now between 45 and 54? Their chances have come to be less than half those of the married men of the same age. How comes it that no women have come into their lives with sufficient attraction to make their selfish old hearts yearn toward the safe anchorage of matrimony?—The Delineator.

It is your affair and mine as girls and women,—your duty and mine—to attract men—to attract the right kind of men in the right kind of way. [illegible] made for each other and the world will be a better place when we admit this frankly, and do our share toward making the relation a fine one. To sum up, then: we should choose to make these bodies of ours more lovely, not by extravagance of dress, nor by brilliant and noticeable means; but by a conscious effort to render the mind and spirit more lovely. I never saw a girl engaged in making her mind and spirit more lovely and attractive who at the same time was decking her body in the insincerities of paint and powder, high heels, false hair and cascades of willow plumes, and whose tongue was lent to insincerities and affectations.

The girl who makes a conscious effort to be attractive intellectually and spiritually takes on charm and loveliness of a high order. For these bodies of ours are not mere forms of flesh and bone. They are delicate instruments played on by a thousand psychic and spiritual forces.

These things are not matters of chance, but of law and nature. You and I cannot alter them. And they are proved over and over by all those finer types of girls who always have attracted and always will attract the finer types of men. —Ladies' World.

"And with women—through generations of keeping the home as the abiding place of the family, they have acquired a certain housewifely instinct. But sometimes the presupposed instinct fails to materialize. The ingredients get mixed, and the woman, who by all calculations should feel a certain instinctive thrill at the sight of a broom and a quiver of joy at the aroma of the kitchen, has a positive dislike for these domestic lures and finds her complete joy in a chemical laboratory or a musty law office. So be it. but if the job of homemaking is entirely distasteful, then she should find it out before she marries and either avoid that estate if it entails making a home, or enter it with a complete understanding with her partner as to her antipathy and her disabilities. Of course, she should be sure that the antipathy is genuine, for many a woman has overcome the dislike of a broom when it is used to sweep a house clean for the homecoming of some one she loves."—To-days.

From the time a girl is born until, for one reason or another, she leaves her father's house, her education and training should be one direct, ceaseless, calm and intelligent effort to put into her hands the concrete gift of living which will ultimately make her worth so much to the world in dollars and cents. This need not be done at the expense of any of those feminine qualities which I should be the last one in the world to depreciate. She will be the richer and the better trained either for her continued daughterhood or for wifehood and motherhood than if she had not been so prepared. There will be in her the seeds of a tradition, her acquired self-possession and efficiency, her education and culture will be handed down to her children without a doubt. A girl brought up in such a way could not, in the case of her own offspring, tolerate any haphazard method of education for them.—To-day's.

GOSSIP FROM SAN FRANCISCO WEEKLIES

Dante and His Beatrice Up to Date

That Dante should find his Beatrice in a desert maiden rather upsets one's preconceived ideas about Dante. One doesn't think of the sultry desert air as blowing down those spacious glades where Dante moves. But Dante is one poet; the reincarnation of Dante is another. George Sterling is the reincarnation of Dante, according to Miss Stella Tuttle, the charming girl who is to marry our starriest singer. Perhaps she uses the word in its strictest meaning. In the flesh George certainly resembles the man who wrote the Vita Nuova. But in the quality of his genius? On that side he seems to represent a commingling of Byron and Shelley rather than a recrudescence of the Florentine. Miss Tuttle knows that she lived many years ago in Egypt. It is knowledge [illegible] many, especially since Langdon Smith wrote "Evolution." She speaks with equal confidence of the desert maid that was herself and of the Dante that was Sterling in previous incarnation. At least she seems to. But may she not be borrowing her lover-poet's license? It is an extraordinary singer who knows where the real leaves off and the dream begins. [illegible] a singer Miss Tuttle is. Her announcement of the engagement was a lyric cry. It sounded as by anticipation the exultant joy of the prothalamium.

"Marriage should be a soul union and not a physical one," says this twenty-year-old "missy who dances." It is a high ideal, and not all poets have attained it, though many have tried. Byron didn't even try. Shelley did, say some with the Epipsychidion in mind; while others will not admit that even he aspired to so lofty a renunciation. Sterling was not interviewed. But his poems to Stella speak for him. They are passion-heavy with the "drugs of Circe" and tangled in the locks of Lilith whose golden wine whoso drinks, he sings, "shall lose his hope and need of Paradise." Clearly Sterling is a bit timid about an ideal of which Miss Tuttle speaks so easily. He finds her kiss "a consternation to the soul and scarlet trumpets pealing in the blood." If the poet speaks of a soul union in such terms the layman naturally is puzzled.—Town Talk.

Mrs. Wm. H. Crocker Signs Up "Farmer"

Mrs. William H. Crocker is a farmer, according to her registration affidavit, which she signed at Hillsborough the other day before leaving for Paris. The other chatelaines of the Hillsborough mansions registered as housewives. When they heard that Mrs. Crocker had given her occupation as that of a farmer they were chagrined to think that they had not likewise distinguished themselves by professing their favorite vocation. Mrs. Crocker has probably no innate objection to the sobriquet of housewife, but she prefers to go down to political history as a farmer. The one thing that she cannot and will not stand for is being called a "society woman." Once upon a time a debutante, newly born to the social world, chanced to stand next to Mrs. Crocker at a big reception. Mrs. Crocker, with her usual straightforward manner, was discussing some sociological question with a guest. When the guest passed on, the little debutante who had been listening, gushed in girly-girly fashion something about how wonderful it seemed to her that a great society lady could interest herself in matters of this sort.

Some kind friend took the little wilted debutante, all scorched by Mrs. Crocker's answer, into a dressing room and mopped her eyes with cold water, and dabbed powder over her little red toptilted nose, and patted and prodded her along until she looked less like a crumpled Chinese lantern, and then led her back into the room a wiser lassie who would never again make the mistake of calling Mrs. Crocker a "society" woman. Knowing her distaste for that term, it has sometimes been difficult to know just how to pigeonhole her, but now Mrs. Crocker has herself settled the groove in which she wants to go, that simple, solid, ample groove in which the farmer is categoried. Hereafter the inspired hostess wishing to do special honor to Mrs. Crocker, will present her as a "farmer," and her place cards may typify the bucolic delights of the farm—and her corsage bouquet flaunt the simple field flowers that snuggle in the field and do not demand any hothouse pampering.

No one can justly challenge Mrs. Crocker's claim that she is a farmer. New Place, the Crocker estate, produces some of the finest garden truck raised in the State, and Mrs. Crocker supervises the vegetable gardens, the orchard, the chicken yard, all the things that go to make a complete farm in one corner of the estate. To be sure, she does not do any of the actual work, but neither do the women who have registered as housewives.

They superintend the work of the house, just as Mrs. Crocker superintends the work of her house, via butlers and secretaries and intermediaries. But Mrs. Crocker does not superintend the farm in that fashion. She has a nodding acquaintance with every growing thing; she reads up the agricultural reports and the men who do the actual work have the greatest respect for her practical knowledge along these lines. When she is not at home, they send her written reports about the progress of the farm, and if that does not entitle her to register as a farmer, then the "housewives" of Hillsborough have still less right to their title.—News Letter.

Reformers of All Kinds Are Busy

The infinite variety and meddlesome character of the investigation fury that animates contemporary reformers may be illustrated by the recreational inquiry commission, recently appointed, consisting of one member from each branch of the legislature, and one representative each from the schools, playgrounds, juvenile courts, public and private charities and the police—to study, investigate and report with recommendations upon recreation for both young and old in California, including recreation in rural communities as well as small and large towns and cities." The committee has already begun work, and hopes to report to the Governor by November 1, 1914. Doubtless we shall be instructed how to be officially amused. What we really want is a well paid commission to instruct people how they should fall off a log.—News Letter.

State Civil Service Commission's Labor

The question is asked, Is the civil service law enacted by the late legislature a piece of political bunk, intended merely for campaign consumption, but otherwise inoperative? The doubt expressed by this question has inspired the organization of an association of the civil service employes of the State to protect their interests, which in theory are guaranteed by law. The immediate cause behind the organization is the summary fashion in which State Treasurer Roberts turned down the eligibles certified to him by the civil service commission, and appointed a San Bernardino friend to a vacancy in his office. This means of course that appointments shall go by favor. It is the old political rule that enabled an official to pay off at the expense of the tax payers the debts he [illegible] or the polls. Of course, there is no more politics of that sort now, and Roberts would not be guilty of anything of that sort, but still the rank and file of State employes don't want to see the door left open.

It was a rather interesting conflict when the State civil service commission went up against Roberts and got beaten. There was a vacancy in the motor vehicle department of the State Treasurer's office, and three men were certified to Roberts by the civil service commission as competent to fill the place. One of these, Edward Keasby of Sacramento, who stood the highest, would be the one in whose name the suit against Roberts will be brought. The civil service commisson several weeks ago informed Roberts that he might accept a man from the eligible list, and that Cole's salary would not be paid. Roberts answered that he would resign were he forced to accept a civil service employe in Cole's place. Since then the civil service commission has allowed Cole's salary as a temporary employe.

The significant fact in this brief history is that the State civil service commission appears to have been caved down the bank by Roberts. The law gives the commission absolute power and cogent means of discipline to compel the heads of departments to obey orders and make their appointments from the lists of eligibles certified by the commission. This power arises from the provision empowering the civil service commission to hold up the payroll of any office wherein the law in this regard is violated.

The commission now refuses to act on this law, and puts on the organized employes of the State the burden of fighting a lawsuit to vindicate their rights. It seems intolerable that the commission should pass the buck in this fashion and leave a set of men not too well paid to carry the load.

Roberts' threat to resign if he was not permitted to break the law was a piece of gross impudence, but it seems to have worked, for the commission, instead of calling the bluff, backed down. Would the heavens fall if Roberts resigned? The question answers itself. Obviously the cowardice of the commission is only explicable on the theory that they had orders from above. The weak point in the law is that it pretended to make the creature greater than the creator, but things do not work out that way.—Candid Friend in News Letter.

Defective Sense of Humor in South

The sense of humor is not very highly developed in Los Angeles businessmen. The real estate agents are particularly lacking in this regard. A prominent member of our Chamber of Commerce learned this a few nights ago. Dining in one of our cafes, he was joined by a friend who had in tow a real estate dealer from Los Angeles. He presented the man from the south, and that enterprising gentleman immediately produced his business card. It was a striking piece of card board with his name and address and the legend, "Capitalized for fifty thousand dollars." After acknowledging the introduction the member of our Chamber of Commerce inspected the card and then said facetiously:

"Fifty thousand! I didn't know there was that much money in Los Angeles."

"I didn't come here to be insulted," said the real estate man; and he stalked away. Our Chamber of Commerce member had to apologize profusely for his facetiousness before amicable relations were restored.

"You may say what you please about Los Angeles," said a well known lawyer the other day, "but it's the best city in the world for a man looking for investors in legitimate amusement projects." He went on to tell me that he took one of the World's Fair concessionaires to Los Angeles recently and introduced him to a rich man who loaned him half a million dollars in cash after two meetings. The concession is a big and promising feature of the Fair, and the half-million is quite safe. With its prosperous beaches Los Angeles knows what a lot of money may be made out of amusement enterprises. That is probably why it is easier to get money for them in Los Angeles than in San Francisco.—Town Talk.

Bush and the Twisty Beard

Robert Reid, the well known sculptor who is out here doing work for the World's Fair and who was Mrs. Peixotto's rajah in the Mardi Gras pageant, is a giant of a man with a great mustache and an original beard that nature and the barber have twisted in a sort of trellis style. At the Bohemian Club the other day Bush Finnell, an incurable wag, was made acquainted with Reid. Bush's eyes were fixed in fascination on Reid's whiskers.

"Mr. Dickens," he said, "I am glad to meet you."

"But," began Reid, "my name is not—"

"Do you know, Mr. Dickens," continued Bush, [illegible] the convoluted beard, "my greatest favorite of all your books is 'Oliver Twist.'"

"But my name is not Dickens, and I didn't write 'Oliver Twist,'" explained the mystified Reid.

"Never mind," said Bush encouragingly, "it's a great book just the same."

Reid still thinks that he was talking to a mad man.—Town Talk.

Larry on the Fair and Other Things

Larry Harris was down south recently and dined one night with some well known Los Angeles people. One of the men in the party was a "kidder" who did not take very seriously the efforts of others to magnify the importance of Los Angeles at the expense of San Francisco. He leaned across the table and asked Larry very gravely:

"What's this I hear about your Custom House?"

"We're going to close it," answered Larry as seriously; "doing no business."

"And your Board of Trade?"

"Practically out of business right now," said Larry.

"And your Chamber of Commerce?"

"Couldn't make it go," answered Larry. "Bad times and no recovery in sight."

[illegible] drinking in every word. She trembled with suppressed excitement as she addressed Larry:

"Tell me about the Fair."

Larry looked extremely uneasy as he replied:

"That's something we don't like to discuss. Can you keep a secret?

The lady was sure she could.

"There won't be any fair," said Larry in a melancholy voice.

"Won't it open?" asked the Los Angeles lady.

"Probably some of the concessions will," said Larry, "but the main buildings—" and he shook his head dolefully.

"Do you know," exclaimed the Los Angeles lady, her eyes gleaming, "I just knew that would be the case all along; but you're the first San Franciscan I've met that had the courage to tell the truth!"

The "kidder" reached across the table and grasped Larry's hand.

"Put it there," he said; "I've got to hand it to you!"

The lady is still wondering what he meant.

In San Diego one of the prominent officials of the San Diego Fair took Larry to see the fairgrounds. Larry was greatly impressed, sincerely impressed. After making the rounds the official took Larry aside.

"Now that you've seen it," he said, "tell me this: Is it true that you could put our whole fair into your machinery hall?"

"It is," said Larry.

"I thought so," said the San Diegan.—Town Talk.

Wheels Within Wheels in Wealthy Mansions

The other day at tea at the Burlingame Club a very wealthy matron told a story which illustrates the wheels within wheels in these mansions. She found with her mail a notice that duty to the amount of $200 on some lingeries sent from Paris was requested by the customs officials. She had not ordered any lingerie, and turned the letter over to her secretary to inform the officials that there must be some mistake. The secretary puzzled over the letter for a moment, and then announced that the letter might be intended for her as she had ordered underwear from the Paris firm, and the firm had probably addressed it to her employer, which proved to be the case. "I asked her why she was so extravagant in the matter of lingerie," confided the chatelaine of one of the handsomest homes down the peninsula. "You see, she has just come to me very highly recommended from New York, and I had been informed it had been a choice between a parasite on her relatives or earning her living, and she had chosen the latter and had successfully filled the position of secretary with a New York friend, who was only willing to lend her to me for a year because she felt that the change to California would be good for her health. Somehow, her extravagance in the matter of lingerie did not square up right with all that I had heard about her and expected of her. Her answer made me realize how little we know of the psychology of below stairs. 'It may be different here in California,' she said, 'but I don't believe that there can be any great difference. In New York a secretary has to have the most exquisite lingeries in order to keep the servants in their place! The position of secretary is sort of anomalous, anyway. Her employer might resent it were she to dress too well, and the servants always go through her things, so she has to have underwear to impress them!'"—News Letter.

A Natural Mistake of Louis Hill

Louis Hill who has just been made president of the Great Northern, has been sojourning for a few days at Del Monte. His young son is with him, and the two have been touring the country around Monterey in a big automobile. Everybody who knows Monterey remembers the pond near the old cemetery. It is not easy to forget because it's one of the most evil-smelling ponds that ever offended the nostrils. Hill and his youngster were motoring past the Monterey cemetery the other day when the light breeze brought the malodor of the stagnant pool to their olfactories. The junior Hill looked at the cemetery with disgust.

"Gee, dad," he said, "they don't bury 'em very deep, do they?"—Town Talk.

Tipping the Hat Boy Is Nuisance

The discussion was of tips and tipping habit:

"I don't mind most tips," said a prominent San Franciscan who lives in one of our biggest hotels, "but I do object to the ten cents' ransom I must pay for my hat every time I come out of the dining room. I take luncheon and dinner at my hotel, and I pay the hat boy twenty cents a day to wear out my hat for me. That's what it amounts to, wearing out [illegible] brushing or not. A derby lasts me two months, when it would last me much longer if it weren't worn out by the hat boy. Now I pay five dollars for a derby. I pay the hat boy twenty cents a day or twelve dollars in sixty days. So my hat costs me five plus twelve or seventeen dollars apiece. No, sir, I don't like that tip to the hat boy!"—Town Talk.

Heney Rampaging Again in South

According to a story in the Los Angeles Times of a few weeks ago Bombastes Furioso Heney has been representing that he has in his possession copies of letters written by Governor Johnson to Meyer Lissner which show that Chester Rowell was entered by the Governor in the gubernatorial race. As soon as Lissner read the story he wired to Heney, asking him if the story was true. Heney replied in his familiar style: "The story is an infamous falsehood made out of whole cloth and published solely for malicious purpose of injuring me and the Progressive cause generally." He added: "I have not seen the article mentioned in your telegram, but if libel suit can be predicated upon it I shall institute suit against the Times upon my [illegible] A campaign libel suit would hardly cause any uneasiness in the Times office. Plaintiffs in campaign libel suit pending, a suit by which he might enrich himself to the extent of $100,000 did he care to prosecute. It is the suit against William H. Crocker, which he started in New York several years ago. Depositions have been taken in this case, but Mr. Heney has permitted it to languish. Perhaps he doesn't need the money. Or perhaps it looks as though Mr. Crocker may be able to prove what he said. One of the risks a man incurs by prosecuting a libel suit is the risk of having mere rumor or gossip bodied forth in judicial decree.—Town Talk.

Zealous Mr. Preston and His Work

Mr. John W. Preston, the new District Attorney appointed by President Wilson, is a very zealous young man, as is evident from the fact that he was no sooner in office than he personally conducted the arrest of a citizen who had taken passage on a steamer for Napa. Preston probably thinks that Napa is somewhere near Thibet. At any rate he was determined that the man should not escape. So revolting to him is the idea of the freedom of a man who might make a very satisfactory convict that he stands ready to do more than his duty to reduce the floating population. The other day, I learn from the Chronicle, the District Attorney protested against the transfer of the case of Henry Ford to Eureka where Ford lives, and where the crime charged against him is said to have been committed. "Ford," said Preston, "has friends and a pull in Eureka and he expects to get a hung jury there." This argument did not impress Judge Dooling, who, it appears, is not at all disposed to swell a zealous district attorney's record for convictions. "Pull or no pull," said Judge Dooling, "he is entitled to a trial in Eureka." Further evidence of Mr. Preston's zeal is to be found in the indictments that he has already drawn. From these indictments it also appears that Mr. Preston is not much of a stickler for accuracy. His indictments have the looseness of a clown's trousers. This may be due to Mr. Preston's temperament. Mr. Preston is primarily an orator, and probably when he is drawing an indictment he is thinking of the speech with which he will electrify the jury.—Town Talk.

He Is "Close Up" in National Politics

Benjamin F. Spellman, the New York lawyer who came here to aid Otto Irving Wise in the fight to have Walter McCreery restored to competency, is said to be "close up" in national politics. His law partner is Senator Charles A. Towne of New York, one of Democracy's innumerable silver-tongues. It was Towne who recently brought about an entente cordial between the White House and the Albany capitol. For some time the big wigs of administration politics had been trying to put President Wilson and Governor Glynn on a footing of friendliness, but with little success. Glynn gruffly declared for the reporters to hear, that he would not be an appendage to any old administration. But Towne finally succeeded in smoothing matters out. Spellman has been kept in touch with the situation by telegraph. Delmas became a member of this law firm a few months after the Thaw case. The association did not last very long. If you ask Spellman about it he doesn't say much, but you may infer from his manner that our Napoleonic Delphin is not the most congenial legal associate in the world.—Town Talk.

Indignant Mrs. Jones Angry Rightfully

Speaking of handsome, eloquent Charlie Towne reminds me of an amusing incident which occurred during the Democratic National Convention at Denver, the convention at which Bryan was nominated for the third time. The delegation from California had commodious headquarters in one of the second-class hotels and entertained all comers with fruits and wines. One evening Nathan Cole Jr., Charles Towne and two very handsome women entered the room when the beverages were being dispensed. A member of the delegation hastened to serve them with wine. Towne presented him to the two ladies, introducing one of them as Mrs. Jones. Knowing that Towne is something of a lady-killer our gay Californian Democrat referred facetiously to this latter guest as "the lady whom Senator Towne calls Mrs. Jones." Unfortunately the lady overheard this doubtful pleasantry. She turned upon the joker, her eyes flashing through a lorgnette.

"The lady whom Senator Towne calls Mrs. Jones!" she exclaimed in the iciest of tones. "And pray, what do you suppose is the lady's name?"

[illegible] tempted none.

"Allow me to give you my card," continued the indignant fair one.

And as she stalked away our Democrat glanced at the pasteboard and read: "Mrs. Langdon-Jones, Toledo, O." Then he opened an extra bottle of sparkling Burgundy for Towne and Nathan Cole.—Town Talk.

Courtenay Ford as a Shopper

This is the story of how Courtenay Ford, most beautiful and best dressed of all blond Bohemians, skilled equally to manage a Mardi Gras or discuss a masterpiece of art, literary or culinary—the story of how Courtenay Ford was buffaloed by Dean Duke. Draw closer, children! Dean Duke, the cowpuncher of the Bohemian club, wrote Courtenay Ford a courteous note from his ranch in the far north asking Courtenay to please do a little shopping for him. Courtenay replying in a note equally courteous, said he would be most happy. In his next letter Dean Duke asked Courtenay to obtain for him some tooth paste, towels and other household necessaries. And then, impelled by some imp of the perverse, some mischievous spirit of spoof, he directed Courtenay to purchase for him three cow buffaloes, in calf if possible, and one bull buffalo not related to the cow buffs. He further directed that crates be made for this stock, that they be held in San Francisco till April and then shipped to the Duke ranch. Duke added that he would send a check immediately after he took delivery.

Need I say that Courtenay was flattered at having such a trust imposed in him? He parcel-posted the tooth paste, towels et cetera, and then set himself seriously and unsuspectingly to buy the buffaloes. There was much hurrying and scurrying hither and thither; there were interviews, conferences, bargainings with the Park authorities (for Golden Gate Park is our only local haunt of the buffalo), and finally Courtenay wired Dean Duke that he could get the buffs but that delivery must be arranged for at once. Duke answered that they must be held until April, a condition which failed to excite Courtenay's suspicion. "Hold buffs till April first and I'll pay for the hay," ran the wire which might have suggested to some that there was an April fool's jest afoot. Duke also asked Courtenay if he was positive the buff bull was not related to the cows. Ford was positive on this point, and as to holding the stock he wired tersely: "Nothing doing. It is now or never." Not waiting for a reply he wired again: "Have used my own judgment. The buffs are yours. Bought and paid for." And since then it has slowly dawned upon Courtenay that Dean has neither room nor use for buffaloes. In other words, Courtenay seems to have been buffaloed!—Town Talk.

Aked and St. Augustine

"Dr. Aked," said a clerical friend of mine, "is a greater man than St. Augustine."

"You are joking," I remonstrated.

"Well," he said, "let me leave it to you. When the great Bishop of Hippo was engaged on one of his theological treatises, the story goes, he went walking one morning on the sea shore. He was pondering the mystery of the Trinity, turning it over and over in his mind and seeking some solution of it. Presently his attention was called to a little child playing on the sands. The little boy had dug a hole and was filling it with water from the sea. St. Augustine asked him what he was doing. 'I was putting the ocean into this hole,' said the youngster. 'But that is impossible,' said Augustine. 'You can never put the mighty ocean into that little hole.' 'It is easier for me to put the ocean into this little hole than for you, Augustine, to comprehend the mystery of the Trinity with your finite mind,' was the reply. And Augustine knew he had been rebuked by an angel from heaven. A pretty legend, is it not? You see, Dr. Aked must be greater than St. Augustine, because no angel has dared to rebuke him and he has solved the mystery of the Trinity within the space of one newspaper column."—Town Talk.

Paul Pry and Peeping Tom

The searchlight is an awkward and impertinent vistor, a cross between Peeping Tom and Paul Pry, poking a long nose where it is not wanted. Last week, after having paid a fine of $50 for annoying the students of a fashionable girls' school by throwing the rays of his motor-car searchlight into the dormitories at night, A. N. McAdams, a wealthy young resident of Pasadena was sued for $10,000 damages by Richard Robinett in the Superior Court. Robinett is watchman at the school. He attacked McAdams while the latter was working his searchlight, and in the papers filed in court he avers that McAdams mauled him severely, breaking several ribs and doing other bodily damage.

To such base uses may the searchlight come. On the campus of the University of California it is different, because there the searchlight is used as a conservator of morals to restrain promiscuous love making under the oaks. But on festive occasions the searchlight is condemned because it is likely to hurt business, and so when Oroville some time ago planned a water carnival, a Butte county newspaper told the spooning couples to come on and fear no impertinent prying searchlight in this wise:

"Spooners will be able to enjoy the coming water carnival at Oroville without fear that the hateful searchlight that played such havoc upon past years will be thrown upon them. During the last two carnivals no little amusement was afforded the crowd present by throwing the rays of the big searchlight on the top of the Feather River bridge up and down the banks. Loving couples by the score, who had sought out some shaded and secluded spot to view the carnival and spoon and spoon and view the carnival, would suddenly find themselves the cynosure of thousands of eyes, while a delightful shout would go up from the crowd. This year there will be no searchlight. Entirely new effects are to be used this year, so that spooners who wish to view the carnival may spoon to their hearts' content, and no one will be the wiser. Which announcement is expected to materially augment the [illegible] at Oroville's big celebration."

Now in Venice, on the beach near Los Angeles, there is a tremendous kick about the use of searchlights, which apparently have been making awkward disclosures of too aggressive love making. Indeed, Venice has been aptly named "The Devil's Playground."—Candid Friend in News Letter.

Mrs. Crane's Instructor Another Dave?

Years ago Dave Belasco was called a wizard for having made an actress of Mrs. Leslie Carter. He dragged her around by the hair of her head, so 'twas said, till her heart came to throb with real grief, her eyes dim with real tears, her whole frame vibrate with emotion. Mrs. Carter became a star between two days. She displayed craft and charm in the first blush of her scenic career, and Dave Belasco was pronounced one of the cleverest teachers of the histrionic art. Now, in view of what Mrs. Douglas Crane has been doing at the Alcazar I would ask, Is Dave more of a wizard than brother Fred? For be it known Frederick Belasco is the only instructor that Mrs. Crane has ever had. She never spoke a line on the stage till she made her appearance at the Alcazar. It was Fred Belasco who trained her and drilled her for the part of the simple, unsophisticated little dancing girl from the rural regions. He gave her lessons in enunciation, he showed her how to gesticulate, how to express her feelings, and above all, how not to act, which is probably the hardest of all things for an actress to learn. To simulate the manner of the unsophisticated maiden the actress must practice repression, and so realistic is Mrs. Crane that some folks thought she betrayed evidence of inexperience. They saw none of the little tricks of dramatic portrayal that mark elaboration of method, and they concluded that it was because she was "green." Now it was "greenness" or rather simplicity that she was simulating, and the fact that her technique was no apparent was proof of her art. In other words, she concealed her art so completely that she attained fidelity to truth. This is more than Mrs. Leslie Carter was ever able to accomplish. Mrs. Crane has proved so apt a pupil that I would advise her to quit dancing and devote herself to the drama. Fred Belasco, by the way, used to conduct a school of acting in this city years ago, and he developed many a successful actor and actress.—Town Talk.

Sun Is Sarcastic Over California

The New York Sun assumes a most irreverent attitude toward our glorious state, its best products and its grandest, best and most righteous citizen. The other day a clerical orator in New York observed that the Pacific was destined to be "the storm center for the nations of this twentieth century." Even now, he said, "they are gathering for Armageddon," and he asked, "What will the Armageddon be?" The New York Sun thus: "It will be an epoch-making oration by the Hon. Hiram Johnson, who has long since been destined to be the sole survivor of 'modern times,' inclusive of the twentieth century. As to the Pacific Coast being 'the storm center' there can be no question. It is the perpetual conflict of the native sons with bears on their expansive chests to force the rest of mankind to appreciate their Governor in his historical aspects."—Town Talk.

Shadowing Clarence Is Some Job

A chap who has just returned from New York tells me that in nearly all the discussion of the Mackay divorce he heard there, Mrs. Mackay was severely criticized. She is spoken of as a woman whose vaulting ambitions, social and literary, were incompatible with domestic happiness. Incidentally he brings rather a good story. It seems that Mrs. Mackay hired a private sleuth to shadow Clarence. The operative did not know Clarence by sight, but he picked up an acquaintance with an employe of the cable company and one day asked him to point out Mr. Mackay. This the employe did, but it was not the Mr. Mackay the sleuth had been hired to watch. Ignorant of this the shadow followed his victim for several days and reported that he was a daily visitor to a very fine-looking woman who lived in Ninety-second street. He furnished Mrs. Mackay's lawyers with voluminous reports, but when Mrs. Mackay saw them she tossed them into the waste paper basket. She knew that on many of the days when he was supposed to be making these clandestine visits Clarence was at his shooting box in North Carolina. Then it was found that the Mr. Mackay who had been shadowed lived with his wife in Ninety-second street.—Town Talk.

Fresno Poet Gets in His Word

The city beautiful fad has taken on a furious vogue in Fresno, so much so that in the esthetic rage that possesses some ambitious Fresnans, it is proposed to pull down the ancient landmarks which have become respectable in their ugliness by the lapse of time and association. So when they talked of uprooting the porch of the Grand Central Hotel, Brother Mappes broke into indignant verse like this:

"Beautifiers, spare that porch,
Don't apply the ax or torch;
For beneath its grateful shade
National politics were made
By tobacco chewing sages,
Full of wisdom of the ages,
Also full of other things—
Of beans and prunes and booze that sings
Of the dim and distant periods,
When jackrabbits reigned in myriads
O'er this fertile vale of ours,
And there was a dearth of showers,
Who'd abolish that dear stoa
Put a man with heart of boa.
Beautifiers, spare that porch,

Force of Friendship Could Go on Further

The acerbities of an ecclesiastical trial may be illustrated by the fact that the Rev. E. J. Baird, of Woodland, Yolo county, found it necessary to deny on oath that he had applied such words as [illegible] cur," and other such profane and abusive epithets to some of the local pillars of the church. To demonstrate his earnest support of Dr. Baird in this trouble the Rev. John Barretta, of Vallejo, testified that he had given up "two funerals, a marriage and other business" to come to Woodland to give testimony for his friend. The force of friendship could no farther go.—News Letter.

Mrs. Stevenson's Will Is Strange

The strangeness, almost weirdness, of Mrs. R. L. Stevenson's will, may not be astonishing to friends who knew her in late life. She executed the document in November, 1912, when about seventy-four years of age. One clause reads:

"To Katherine Durham Osbourne, of incredible ferocity, who lived on my bounty for many years, at the same time pursuing me with malicious, false slander, I bequeath $5."

Katherine is the wife of Lloyd Osbourne, Mrs. Stevenson's son. The Osbournes are separated.

Whatever were the facts of this family squabble, it would have been well had the decedent written her will with less animus. As widow of Robert Louis Stevenson, her formal acts must be considered [illegible] writer will increase. To cast into biographical literature the stigma of "incredible ferocity" is certainly an injustice upon a woman who, deserted by her husband, had to look to her mother-in-law for support.

Mrs. Stevenson's income was large. She built, for herself and the Osbournes, a double house; and here Osbourne, with the advantage of his stepfather's fame, made his own beginnings in [illegible] Success did not bring happiness into his married life. He traveled considerably and Mrs. Osbourne remained. Stevenson's widow was rapidly accumulating a large fortune; the wants of her aged body were few; and there was no reason why she should have begrudged Mrs. Osbourne the necessities of life. Close daily relations with a mother-in-law have brought about unfriendliness ere this case; and there are those who say that Mrs. Stevenson was not one to endure anybody's ferocity, credible or incredible. There were even milder human traits to which she was not always mild.

The bulk of the estate goes to her daughter, Mrs. Isobel Strong. Faith in Lloyd Osbourne's ability to handle a fortune was not evidently part of the decedent's love for him. He is to receive a life insome of $300 a month.

The complete works of Stevenson are difficult to obtain, so shrewdly has the publication been managed in separate volumes. The dead writer's literary property was handled to the highest degree of financial advantage, and public intimacy with his works no doubt suffered thereby.

Lloyd Osbourne's two brothers did not profit as materially as he from the writer's genius. Each gets $5. Katherine Durham Osbourne (perhaps for virtues uncontaminated with ferocity, malice and slander) also gets $5.—Wasp.

Mrs. Francis Carolan as a Bibliographer

Mrs. Francis Carolan might, without challenge, register as a bibliographer, for her knowledge of the history of books, the requirements of a thoroughly well equipped library, and the selection of the books for her own excellent collection, has taken her out of the class of collectors who establish a library out of a sense of duty, and at the entire bidding of experts. Mrs. Carolan registered last year as a housewife, but now that Mrs. Crocker has established a precedent, there are a number of vocations that Mrs. Carolan and others might profess on their registration blanks. There is no doubt that a great many women will now inscribe themselves on the political roster as farmers, with Mrs. Wm. Crocker heading the list. Miss Beatrice Vrooman was the first San Francisco society girl to so register, and now that Genevieve and Hazel King own a fullfledged ranch, they are also qualified to register as farmers. Miss Helen Wheeler has an intensive farm and a few acres down the peninsula, and she practically spends all her time down at Gray Gables, as she calls this place, which is highly productive under her skillful management. Miss Howard is the latest recruit to the ranks of those who have entirely set aside social diversions for the responsibilities of actual management of a farm.

A number of girls were discussing just how they would register, the discussion of course inspired by Mrs. Crocker's declaration that she is a farmer. Many thought that they would follow Elizabeth Livermore's cue and register as "collectors," almost any girl who has wealth having some fad or collection of some sort that would give her the right to that title. It was suggested that Lillas Wheeler might register as a "sociologist and amateur actress," which would indeed be a combination. A number of society girls do settlement work of some sort, and can truthfully write themselves down as social service workers. Some might without challenge claim that they are dog fanciers, musicians, artists, writers, in fact it would be difficult to find a society girl who could not make some claim to occupation other than that of playing her part in the smart set.—News Letter.

Fastidious Tramp Was He, Indeed

The San Mateo Times tells this entertaining story of a fastidious tramp:

"He was just the ordinary hobo so far as dress and general appearance went. Unshaven, unshorn, raggedy-patch clothes of [illegible] assortment, indifferent, serene, impudent, perhaps, and nervy. He strolled into Levy Bros. store and with discriminating eye surveyed the collection of good things on display in the grocery department. His little tale of woe appealed to Joe Levy, so he made him up a package containing potatoes and onions, a little coffee and other odd things, and felt very well satisfied that he had performed a good deed. The traveler took the package with an air of indifference, as a sort of matter of [illegible] seized with a new thought he turned about and said: 'Oh, by the way: I hear that your water is not of the most sanitary character; perhaps you wouldn't mind giving me a bottle of filtered water?' 'I am sorry,' returned Mr. Levy, when he had recovered, 'but the filter is not working today. I hope you'll pardon the oversight.'"—Candid Friend in News Letter.

This is the second of a series of sketches revealing the intimate side of the lives of the future rulers of the world's great countries. The third concerning the Prince of Wales will appear next Sunday.

THE exile of Dantzic, Crown Prince Frederick William, is back in Berlin, after two years at the head of his Death's Head hussars. He comes to Berlin to study war plans and administration under the guidance of the able soldiers of the general staff. He could not have come at a better time if he really desires to work and learn. Preparations for increasing the army under the terms of last year's armament bills are well under way, and the staff is loaded with work of a highly practical executive nature.

The crown prince will probably not stay at Berlin long. He will be instructed by past masters in strategy, the mobilization of troops, in all that can be taught from maps at a desk. Then he will be sent to some other regiment to take up again the practical work of soldiering. By inclination as well as training, young Frederick William appears to be a thorough soldier. He may find himself some day in a position where he will have to use his knowledge of the war game. There are many reasons to be apprehensive of this, although the horizon is now fairly clear. War clouds roll up quickly in Europe. In the formal phrase of democracy, Germany's relations with all other powers are "correct." That means that there is no immediate cause for apprehension that some neighboring country will make a sudden and unexpected descent on the fatherland's frontier.

But more cannot be said, for the neighboring European nations do not like Germany. Former Chancellor von Bülow, in reminiscences published only a short time ago, declared flatly that France has never forgiven Germany for the defeat of 1870-71 and the annexation of Alsace-Lorraine and that she never will.

Envy Germany's Growing Commerce.

The men that rule Germany—the kaiser at the head—are bitterly aware of the feelings of their neighbors. They know that to grudges borne from older days there is being added the envy that Germany's growing commerce and trade are bringing. New points of friction are developing daily, offsetting the efforts of statesmen to develop harmonious relations. And so Germany has been compelled to build up the most effective army in the world, with nearly 900,000 members in peace times, and the second greatest among the world's navies. Any single nation attacking Germany would probably be crushed; any two would win a Pyrrhic victory.

In the keeping of Germany, with its tremendous military machine and its comparatively great population, rests, to a greater degree than is the case with any other nation, the problem of maintaining the peace of Europe. All Europe is, today as for years, a great powder magazine, full of idiots, who insist on smoking and throwing cigar stubs and burning matches carelessly about them. Germany has its share of these individuals. To them, every concession is a weakness. They do not understand, or profess not to understand, why a strong man should not always be eager to show his strength.

As long as William II. sits on the German throne there will be no war unless it is forced upon Germany. But William will not rule forever. There are, to be sure, no reasons to expect that many years of life will not be spared him yet, but one must reckon with all contingencies. Some day, worn out by cares of state, he will lay down his burden. Who then will take it up, and what manner of a man is he? Will the peace of Europe be safe in his hands, as it was in those of his father? Will he use all his energies to upbuild German trade and commerce? Will he show an intelligent interest in art and music and literature? Will he devote himself, heart and soul, to the welfare of his people?

Only two of the foregoing questions can be answered, and both of those with qualifications. The man who will take the burden up will be the present crown prince, Frederick William, provided he be spared until that day, and he will devote himself to what he considers making for the welfare of his people.

War Cloud Hovered Near.

But as to the peace of Europe?

War between Germany and England and France was near in the late summer of 1911. Just how near was not realized until later. Proceedings in the Moroccan conflict had dragged along to a compromise. It was admittedly not favorable for Germany, which got a few thousand miles of territory infested with the sleeping sickness and the tsetse fly, and with a climate in which white men cannot permanently live. The settlement was bitterly attacked in the German reichstag. Herr von Heydebrand, "the uncrowned king of Prussia," made a violent, saber rattling speech on Nov. 10. He made the German eagle soar aloft and scream, talked of the ignominy of "a folk in arms" submitting to such infamy, and all but declared in so many words that war was preferable to the settlement attained.

During Von Heydebrand's speech a slender young man, dressed in the uniform of the Death's Head hussars, sat in the imperial box. He nodded his head as Von Heydebrand proceeded, nodded it more vigorously as the speech grew warmer, and beat with his clinched fist on his knee as the speaker made his appeal to armed force. The young man who thus manifested his disapproval of the government's policy was the crown prince.

The emperor was highly displeased at this treason within his own household. Young Frederick William was summoned to the Potsdam palace, and there is no doubt that he received a vigorous lecture from a father who would have spanked him twenty years before—for the kaiser, it is known, sometimes found moral suasion alone insufficient to induce his children to walk in the way they should go. The crown prince retired to the exile of his military post in Dantzic, and the fears of the pacific politicians died down

It was realized that the crown prince was young—although, as a fact, he was as old as his father when the latter ascended the throne—and his applause of Von Heydebrand was ascribed to the exuberance of a youth who had been made a colonel at a time when the average nonroyal German becomes a captain. Misgivings over the affair had nearly died out when there was published, only last summer, a book called "Germany in Arms." The preface and first article were contributed by the crown prince. Here are some thoughts from that preface:

Says Sword Is Decisive Factor.

"Badly protected through its unfavorable geographic position, not regarded with affection by all nations, the German empire, more than all others, has the duty of maintaining in a state of the greatest preparedness, its army and navy. Only thus, supported by our good sword, can we attain the place in the sun which is our desert, but which is not willingly accorded us."

"We are living in a period . . . which only too readily vaunts its international citizenship and indulges itself in fervent dreams of the possibility of a lasting peace. This conception is un-German and does not become us. The German who loves his folk . . . must not let himself be lulled into a slothful sleep by this lullaby of the Utopians."

"Diplomacy, of course, can and should postpone conflicts for a time, and occasionally prevent them. . . . But, even as lightning equalizes the loads of two unequally charged layers of atmosphere, so the sword will remain in the last analysis the decisive factor until the end of the world."

"If, then, the whole German people are determined gladly to offer their possessions and their life, the world may be full of devils, armed and arrayed against us, and we shall conquer them."

The crown prince's conduct during Von Heydebrand's speech and the excerpts from his writings noted above are all the material available to form a foundation for a judgment as to the likelihood of his following in his father's steps as conservator of the peace of Europe. It must be confessed that a great many thoughtful observers are disquieted by the future emperor's glorification of war and rejection of peace ideas. They realize, of course, that great authority is likely to have a sobering effect, and they recall that the present kaiser flourished the sword a great deal before he came to the throne, only to develop into a potent peace lord instead of a war lord. They realize, too, that youth is inclined to exalt the spectacular deeds of war over the more prosaic victories of peace. But when, they ask, are we to regard the crown prince as settled in character? When shall we cease hearing excuses based on his youth? He is now two years older than was William II. in 1888. If he still exalts war over peaceful compromise—and his remarks in "Germany in Arms" followed two years after the reichstag incident—is it likely that he will ever change?

Future Course in Doubt.

The crown prince's only other venture into politics is of recent date. That was his letter to Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, protesting against permitting Ernest August to ascend the throne of Brunswick without a formal renunciation of his claim to the throne of Hanover. This act, like his conduct in the Morocco affair, earned for him the applause of the "crown prince party," composed of those pan-Germans who are, in the old phrase, plus royaliste que le roi. They saw, or affected to see, in it an indication that the future emperor is not an opportunist.

Further than that nothing is known of the political proclivities of the future kaiser.

In one respect Frederick William will have a great advantage over his father. How well he is able to understand and sympathize with the common man was shown by the Sohst incident. About a year ago the kaiser surprised a congress of agriculturists at Berlin by appearing and addressing the meeting. His address dealt with his majesty's estate at Cadinen. He described alleged reforms he had instituted there, and declared that his tenant "amounted to nothing, and so I threw him out."

The assembled farmers laughed with dutiful heartiness at the imperial "raus-mit-ihm." But Herr Sohst, the supposedly thrown out tenant, did not laugh. He declared that he was still managing the farm, and should continue to do so under his contract. His neighbors held indignation meetings and passed resolutions defending Sohst from the charge of "amounting to nothing." On the contrary, they declared, he was an unusually capable farmer.

The crown prince went to his imperial father. He told him what was going on, that the kaiser had done an injustice to a good man, and that it should be righted. The next day Herr Sohst received a decoration and a sum of money to compromise his rights under his contract.

His ruling passion is hunting. Only a few months ago he published a book entitled, "From My Hunting Diary." The spirit of the ardent hunter is apparent on every page.

Good Sport but No Champion.

Next to hunting and soldiering come sports. The future ruler is an ardent sportsman. He has ridden as a gentleman jockey and won prizes, and is part owner with other officers of a racing stable which has many wins to its credit. He is a skillful yachtsman, and there is no doubt he would have gone to Marblehead last summer and sailed his own yacht in the sonderclass races if his father would have permitted it. He plays tennis fairly well, but, reading between the lines of a sycophantic description of his game published in a highly loyal paper during the tournaments of last summer at Zoppot, where the crown prince participated, one judges that he is no champion. "The crown prince," said this naive article, "plays an excellent game. His forehand stroke has not yet been perfected, but when it is, and when he shall have developed an effective backhand stroke, he will give a good account of himself. In other words, his strokes are bad, but when they are good he will be a good player.

It is interesting to note in conclusion the crown prince's attitude toward the Socialists. During his attendance at Bonn university, which he attended from June, 1901, until February, 1903, he said, speaking to workmen of Oels, who had tendered him an ovation: "You have shown through your reception of me that you have and will have no community of interest with those despicable persons (jene elenden) who have dared," etc. By "despicable persons" he meant the Socialists. The official report of the speech referred to "those elements" (jene elemente), but that was not what the crown prince said or thought.

Every year that keeps him from the throne adds to the strength of "those despicable persons." They polled 35 per cent of the empire's total vote at the reichstag elections in February, 1912, and the outlook is that their number will be greatly increased before the crown prince ascends the throne. Will he revise his opinions as to them, or as to the futilities of the peace prophets?

It all rests on the lap of the gods.

Dear sir; I beg to address this to you in the hope that you will think me worthy of consideration for a position as a packer. I also send pictures of myself showing that I know the business.
This picture shows me in the act of packing that delectable breakfast food, sauerkraut. Need I say more? If this picture does not fully explain my method of packing I will be pleased to furnish you with more explicit information.
Have handled so much canned goods that I may say without boasting that I am familiar with the innermost tricks of the trade.
You may consider this a preposterous statement, nevertheless I am sure that I can improve on the method of packing used on the "L" roads. Of course I will admit this is nearly impossible but not so to a man of my experience and ingenuity.
I am at present engaged in packing my trunk, so I will be ready, to come to on a moments notice. Packing my clothes I close. Yours truly Simp Simpson.
Dear sir:- You had better unpack your trunk. If we were in the business of canning we could use you. that is, we would "can" you the first day. Yours P. Acker.

It was a hazardous undertaking, but he would risk it. With his own eyes he had watched the thief with a spy glass.

With a bull dog grip he held the slender cord that suspended him in mid-air.

Made mad with victory so near, he chanted in coarse but tender tones. He fairly hissed the words.

A hand reaching out of the darkness was the answer, a sharp click of steel-against steel, a snapping, and then—a dull, heavy thud.

And Pussyfoot sprawled on the ground.

TRAPPED AS SHE TAKES MONEY

Settlement Worker in Jail on Charge of Extortion

Mrs. Lillian Evarts Hounded Another, Is Complaint

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—Trapped with marked money in a rendezvous prepared by the police, Mrs. Lillian May Evarts, a member of the Women's Political League, social settlement worker, and prominent figure in and about the courts, is in the city prison facing a charge of extortion.

Mrs. Evarts, an associate of Mrs. Mary Vaughn, the aged woman convicted of attempted grand larceny for an alleged endeavor to blackmail Judge Robert Widney, of Los Angeles, was first brought before the public eye January 28. That day Superior Judge Lawlor publicly denounced her from the bench for meddling with a case on trial and ordered her never to set foot inside his courtroom again.

The woman apparently sought the quiet of seclusion for a few days, only to resume her trips to the Hall of Justice when the storm of battle had blown over. She is now charged with a deliberate attempt to hold up Mrs. Virginia Holland, a stenographer employed by the Citizens' Alliance, for $500.

CAUGHT WITH COIN.

Mrs Holland who lives at 1525 Hyde street, threatened, cajoled and ridiculed, she says, by Mrs. Evarts, [illegible] the police into her confidence yesterday. By dint of wire tapping and scheming on the part of Detective Manuel de La Guerra, Mrs. Evarts was caught with marked coin and bills in her possession late this afternoon. She denies her guilt, claims to have a written contract with Mrs. Holland, and protests that she is the victim of a villianous plot.

Mrs Evarts resides at 625 Taylor street and declares that she is in receipt of a monthly income which enables her to live sumptuously, the money coming from the East. Despite this fact, Mrs. Holland declares that Mrs. Evarts approached her and demanded $500, half of the sum she received from George E. Murber, whom she recently prosecuted in Superior Judge Lawlor's court for criminal conspiracy for buncoing her, she alleged, out of $2500.

HARASSED, SHE CHARGES.

Mrs. Holland informed Captain of Detectives Mooney that for weeks Mrs. Evarts had been ringing her up on the telephone, threatening to make trouble for her if she did not hand over $500 immediately. She declared that Mrs. Evarts told her she would put her behind the bars, she would force her out of town, she would have her prosecuted, if she did not "come through."

When the case was put in the hands of De La Guerra, that officer arranged to listen to a telephone conversation between Mrs. Evarts and Mrs Holland. Mrs. Evarts wanted to meet Mrs. Holland by appointment in a room on Ellis street. As De La Guerra feared that he could not arrange a secret hiding place if such a plan was carried out, he motioned Mrs. Holland to refuse. The deal was finally completed through Mrs. Evarts agreeing to meet Mrs. Holland in the rest room at the Emporium.

CHARGED WITH EXTORTION.

Behind silken draperies, De La Guerra concealed himself. He waited near Mrs. Holland, and when Mrs. Evarts came she was handed $300 in marked bills and $125 in marked coin. She placed the money in her purse, and De La Guerra rushed forth from his hiding place. Alarmed at the sight of the officer, she dashed into a closet. De La Guerra followed, forced the door and obtained the money

Ball Players Tricked By Fake Badger Fight

PLEASANTON, March 7.—The time-honored training camp joke, the fake "badger fight," was worked here last night on two Oakland club recruits, and as a result everybody but the two victims is in excellent humor. Pitcher Ramey, the Pittsburg southpaw, and Infielder Lobby Murphy of Virginia were the two innocents who "bit."

None of the usual accompaniments was missing. The side bets among the players reached into the hundreds of dollars, with the odds favoring a sleepy Spitz dog of ancient lineage. "Rube" Gardner, Elmer Zacher and Pitcher Barenkamp were the chief conspirators. The players finally gathered at midnight in the backyard of a saloon, where careful provision was made against "interference by the police." With excitement at fever heat, the unsuspecting Ramey was induced to yank the "badger" out from a barrel by a convenient string.

After Ramey had sufficiently recovered the entire party repaired to another lot where the same trick was pulled off on Murphy.

In each case the victim yanked into view a white bowl full of tin cans.

Stanford to Celebrate Founding Tomorrow

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, March 7.—Leland Stanford Junior University will commemorate its founding by Senator Leland Stanford and Mrs. Jane Lathrop Stanford 24 years ago, by declaring Monday a university holiday and celebrating the date with appropriate celebrations. The work and classes will be suspended.

Miss Rebecca Abrahamson, who expresses sorrow for prisoner.

Miss Abrahamson Shows Lenient Attitude Toward Youth Accused of Libel

"Jealousy drove Mr. Davis to do this," said Miss Rebecca Abrahamson, the pretty high school student who caused Davis' arrest yesterday on a charge of criminal libel. "I think he could not have realized what he was doing. The letters he wrote to me were awful. I could not read them. But I think that he was almost crazy or he would not have done this."

Solomon Davis was arrested on a charge of criminal libel yesterday. He is only 18 years of age, and was certified by Judge Mortimer Smith to the juvenile court for trial. The cause of complaint consisted of a number of letters sent to the girl. They contained charges against her and against members of her family.

It is posible that the matter may be taken up by the United States Federal authorities, and that Davis will be charged with sending offensive matter through the mails. This has not as yet been decided. The letters in question have been declared to be in Davis' handwriting by Professor Carl Eisenschimmel, although this is denied by Davis.

"I think he was crazed by jealousy," said Miss Abrahamson. "But I feel sorry for him. If they press him too far I will ask that he be shown mercy."

TWO OFFICERS OF PROGRESSIVES QUIT

Vice - President Smith and Secretary Morse of Committee Out

Two resignations marked yesterday's meeting of the Alameda county central committee of the Progressive party, when City Clerk Frank M. Smith withdrew from the office of vice-president, pleading press of his own work, and Miss Blanche Morse, the secretary, retired to devote more time to her projected fight for the office of county school superintendent. Smith's place was filled by W. H. Graham and Harry Irwin, of Berkeley, was chosen as the new secretary of the organization. J. W. Stetson, chairman of the committee, presided at the meeting.

The speech of the afternoon was delivered by John M. Eshleman, railroad commissioner and candidate for the office of lieutenant-governor. A large crowd packed the south room of the Hotel Oakland, where the meeting was held.

"The issue of progressivism," declared the speaker, "is national and state, but at present we need not deal with any but the local matters, for it is these that immediately concern us here. The national issue is in the necessity of people thinking alike and getting together to accomplish things, and, in a measure, the same need exists in the coming campaign. It makes no difference what name we adopt if we get together to secure popular government and accomplish the ends we desire, but it is certainly time that we must solve the problems of today with the brains of today and with the methods of today.

QUESTION OF CONTROL.

"If people who think as we think, and believe in the things we believe in, are separated into several different parties, each with regulations urged upon them, and are kept separate in such parties by the people holding a selfish interest in government, and holding the balance of power, we canot get control of either of the groups, and it would be impos-

HELEN KELLER HAS HOPE FOR HEARING

Sense Will Return to Her, She Believes, After Sensation

LOS ANGELES, March 7.—Helen Keller is entertaining no false hope tonight that her sense of hearing may be restored to her, as the result of listening to the high notes taken by Mme. Minnie Saltzman-Stevens at a private recital here. Miss Keller believes she actually heard certain notes, but agrees that her undeveloped sense of hearing is so closely interwoven with her susceptibility to vibration that to distinguish between them is impossible.

Through her teacher, Mrs. Macy, Miss Keller told of the delights she experienced at Mme Saltzman-Stevens' music. Only the higher notes were "audible," but these she said, caused unusually pleasurable sensations. She believes that some unusual timbre of Mme. Saltzman-Stevens' voice caused it to penetrate her consciousness more keenly.

HER VOICE TINKLED.

"Her voice tinkled," Miss Keller said. "I am sure I know how water sounds when it falls from a height, and this was the same."

Asked if she was able to distinguish between notes or was aware of the melody, Miss Keller said:

"I could easily follow the variation of volume, and I am sure that the sound really penetrated to my brain. Of course, I was not able to appreciate shades of tone."

Miss Keller had heard music and shrill noises before, but never had experienced real pleasure at the sound.

Prize Fighters Sent To Jail for Loafing

CHELSEA, Mass., March 7.—Sandy Ferguson, prize fighter, was sentenced today to six months in the House of Correction, two months for being "idle" and four for assault. Sandy objected to the sentence for "idleness" and appealed.

SENATOR TO 'SMOKE OUT' WILSON

Questions May Start Something at the Capitol

WASHINGTON, March 7.—President Wilson will be asked Monday to assume a frank attitude on the Mexican situation. Senator Fall, admitted foe of the present "watching and waiting" policy, said tonight that he will do this in person. His action may precipitate in the upper house of Congress developments which will show for the first time just what is really behind the entire policy of the administration in dealing with Mexico.

Even the Senators who have accepted without question the suggestions of the president that the less said about that republic the less may later be regretted, are chafing under the secret attitude of President Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan. Bryan, heretofore loquacious on Mexican affairs, not only emulates the sphynx, but when asked direct questions on subjects, the innermost secrets of which are ascertainable from public documents, simply declines to reply to the questions. This was especially noticeable today, when, asked regarding the truth of a report of what the president had already denied, he assumed an angry pose, and snapped out: "I do not care to discuss newspaper theories about state department problems."

ATTITUDE BEING SOUGHT.

While admitting that there may be a very good reason for this attitude, the "Commoner's" friends tonight accept much of the criticism that has been addressed against him in Congress. This is expected to aid Fall in his attempt Monday to smoke the administration out into the open on the entire Mexican situation.

A singular fact commented on by certain legislators tonight is that a similar attitude has been taken by the British officials. This adds to the belief that from now on England and the United States will be found far more in accord about the Mexican situation than in the past.

From this, the chief supporters of the administration argue that the time of worry about foreign complications in Mexico is past and that a general plan of concerted action has already been agreed upon. This plan, it is said, was suggested by Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, and is now being carried to the British government by Sir Lionel Garden, the British minister to Mexico, now en route to London. But the cry that has been raised that the Wilson administration has become Anglomaniac has so disturbed the president that there will be no public admission made of this until after Mexico is tranquil and a foreign office "blue book" becomes part of contemporary history.

GRAVE FEAR EXPRESSED.

There is no real chance of any trouble resulting to either this government or England in northern Mexico, it was believed tonight. Since the Carranza forces have been in control there, most of the foreigners who are serious factors in politics or finance have crossed to the United States and are directing their affairs from north of the Rio Grande. But it was pointed out that in the federal territory this is not so and there has been very grave fear in this country and in the chancellories of Europe that some night some radical in Mexico City would leave the club and make a street corner speech, following which would come an attack upon foreigners and a situation would be manufactured which would require armed intervention.

Washington officials believe, however, that the report that Huerta will take the field in person, means that he has had explained to him that England and the United States consider their interests in common and that such an outbreak must be prevented no matter what the final outcome of the Mexican revolution.

Pioneer Town Off Map; People Leave

BAKER, Ore., March 7.—Copperfield, in its day pioneer mining camp of the Northwest, tonight is formally and finally off the map. T. E. McManus, railroad agent at the border town, arrived here tonight with the statement that he was the last to leave, save some 50 people who are still packing. Since the visit of Miss Fern Hobbs, Governor West's Joan of Arc in the anti-booze crusade, the town has been dry and desolate.

McManus declared the only people remaining were the governor's civic committeemen—with nothing to do—and a few others who are waiting for next wek's train. The railway station was boarded today and hereafter the trains will stop there only on signal.

No industries of any kind remain, he said, and the only prospect of a renaissance is the prospective work on the Oxbow power project on the Snake river, which may make the town a center for workmen's camps.

Foreign Exchange Comes High in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, March 7.—The rate of foreign exchange here reached the new high point today of 350 for 100.

Rattler Strikes and Sinks Fangs in Hat

A stiff hat saved a boy from death last week, according to the story told by two young sons of Superintendent A. J. Washburn, of the Ransome-Crummey Company, who declare that one of them, while walking in the hills near Exchequer, on the Yosemite Valley line, was attacked by a large rattler, which imbedded its fangs in his hat. The boys returned to their home in Melrose yesterday carrying with them a rattler's skin, with 18 rattles, as a souvenir of their fight.

The boys had entered an old and deserted quarry and had passed by a ledge on which the snake was coiled, when it struck at them. One of the boys felt the impact and his hat dropped to the ground. Turning, he saw the rattler clinging to it. The boys attacked the reptile with sticks and succeeded in killing it.

The snake's skin measures [illegible] feet. The boys will have it cured and will keep it at their Leona Heights cabin.

Mrs. Booth to Speak To Folsom Prisoners

SACRAMENTO, March 7.—Mrs. Ballington Booth, head of the Volunteers of America, visited Folsom prison this afternoon with her daughter. Both are well known in religious work. The two women will remain at the prison over night and talk with the prisoners tomorrow.

This is the first time in the history of Folsom prison that a woman will have addressed the convicts and the second time since the big prison break that women have been allowed through the prison.

Willie Hoppe Still Champion Billiardist

CHICAGO, March 7.—Running up a string of 500 while his opponent was gathering 225, Willie Hoppe, world's champion 18.2 balkline billiardist, tonight vanquished George Sutton. Hoppe's high run was 157, and he averaged 62½ for the eight innings. Sutton's high run was 77 and his average 32 1-7 for the seven innings.

Sutton and Hoppe were tied in the number of wins up to tonight in the all-star tourney at Auditorium hall. Hoppe pulled down first money, $960, by tonight's win, and his championship title is [illegible].

Stanford Is Winner Of Honors at Soccer

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, March 7.—Stanford wins the soccer cup this year as a result of a 2-to-2 tie game played with California on the Cardinal field this afternoon. Out of the ten scheduled games Stanford has already won four and tied three, thus assuring the Cardinal of the trophy.

Stanford scored in the first half and California in the second. Albert Steinhardt was the Cardinal star. Blodgett also played a great game.

Asks Court to Give Slain Fiance's Name

PENDLETON, Ore., March 7.—Mrs. Edith Cook, former wife of Charles Cook, who shot down David Rowan shortly before Mrs. Cook was to have married him, later committing suicide, today petitioned the county court to change her name from Cook to Rowan. She declares in her petition that but for the murder she would have borne his name, and as a mark of devotion to her slain fiance is seeking to bear it still. Judge Maloney set April 11 as the date for hearing her petition.

Debutantes Dance in Flimsiest Draperies

CHICAGO, March 7.—Carefully chaperoned by their mothers a dozen society debutantes, bare-legged and swathed in the airiest of draperies staged the first of a series of Lenten dances on a specially-built stage in the Congress hotel this afternoon. Sea nymphs and wood maids who have been rehearsing for weeks whirled before the matrons. Frank Parker, who played the role of Pan in mythological fantasy, was the only man in the room.

Arrest Employes for $50,000 Store Theft

PORTLAND, Ore., March 7.—Alleged thefts amounting to about $50,000 from the firm of Fleischner, Mayer & Co., by two trusted employes were made known here today, following the arrest of seven persons late last night. The standing of the prisoners ranges from prominent business men to alleged drug users. The thefts from the firm, which deals in wholesale dry goods, extended over a period of two years and linen goods only were stolen.

Wilson Undergoes Examination of Eyes

PHILADELPHIA, March 7.—A big crowd cheered President Wilson when he arrived today for a two hours' visit with his oculist. The President has been having his eyes examined annually for a score of years. His desire to have the same physician look after them brought him to Philadelphia. He planned to return to Washington tonight.

Tris Speaker Is to Get $58.44 an Hour

BOSTON, March 7.—Statistical fans have figured that Tris Speaker's salary of $15,000 a year amounts to $[illegible] a game or $58.44 an hour. Mayor Curley, President Lowell of Harvard and Chief Justice Rugg get but $10,000 each, while Governor Walsh is $10,000 behind baseball fame with a salary of but $8,000.

UNEMPLOYED WILL BE ORDERED BACK TO S. F.; PETERSEN THREATENED

'General' Kelly Would Have 'Army' Return to Oakland to Make Trouble for Police Chief

SACRAMENTO, March 7.—The unemployed army will be asked tomorrow morning to return to San Francisco.

This announcement was made here tonight by City Commissioners Bliss and Gallagher, following a conference with Governor Johnson and a later meeting with Sacramento county officials.

"General" Charles Kelly tonight voiced his first open threat of violence. It came when rumors reached him that the city authorities had decided to return his army to San Francisco.

"My army," he said, "does not want to return to San Francisco. If we are forced to go back to any of the bay cities we want to be landed in Oakland.

"My boys want a chance at Police Chief Petersen and the members of his force. They treated us like dogs. And if we go back there, well, there is going to be something doing."

Official notice that the army must leave or submit to arrest for trespassing will be served upon Kelly and William Thorn at 9 o'clock Sunday morning.

If the men refuse to leave it was said the 1197 members of the army would be arrested for trespassing upon a 20-acre lot owned by the Southern Pacific which adjoins its station here.

The citizens' committee tonight deposited money to provide transportation by boats for the army to San Francisco. It was not believed the army would accept the offer. The commissioners also made it plain that no food would be provided for its members by either Sacramento county or the city of Sacramento.

KELLY ANGRY.

The unemployed army faced its first serious predicament since leaving San Francisco here tonight. Its progress in the "On-to-Washington" movement was blocked so far as free transportation was concerned.

"Consent to return to San Francisco," a citizens' committee told Leaders Charles Kelly and William Thorne, "and Sacramento will furnish you transportation, either by train or boat. Otherwise stay in Sacramento and starve."

"General" Charles Kelly paled with anger when served with this ultimatum.

"My men," he said, "will not return to San Francisco. The Governor of this State has said that 'a man must eat.' We are going to stay here until we are furnished transportation east. My 'soldiers' will not suffer from hunger, either. Governor Johnson may do what he pleases about calling out the militia. We are going to eat, and what's more, Sacramento is going to furnish transportation for us to Reno."

GUARD TREASURY.

As a precaution in case of trouble with the unemployed the Capitol guards at the state treasury in the capitol building have been reinforced by ten men, while 100 members of various companies of the state militia have been stationed by Adjutant General Forbes in the new $100,000 armory at Twelfth and W streets to guard $25,000 worth of powder, rifles, pistols, wagons, etc., comprising the state arsenal.

General Forbes stated Saturday night that such action does not mean that Sacramento is under martial law, but that he believed he would be criticized if some precautionary action was not taken because of the big influx of strangers.

"The unemployed army in Sacramento has been most peaceful," said General Forbes. "I do not believe there will be any necessity for calling out of the militia."

STARVATION IS PLAN.

As the State laws forbid Sacramento officials ordering the men to leave town, they planned to starve out the army. The county also was expected to decline to feed the men. If the army resorts to violence, then force may be used in driving it from the city. Otherwise it may stay as long as its leaders see fit. And both Kelly and Thorne said they would remain until means of transportation to some point east of Sacramento was furnished.

Sharp answer to Governor Johnson's denunciation of the army was voiced here tonight by William Thorne.

"Governor Johnson," he said, "said our men were worthless because three of them declined jobs he offered them. He says we do not present an 'unemployed problem.'

HAD SEEN GOVERNOR BEFORE.

"I wish to say that we personally applied to the Governor for aid when he was in San Francisco a month or more ago. At that time he said he could do nothing for us. The city of San Francisco provided work for as many of the unemployed men as it could. There were four men for every job. The Goernor knows this, too. Why didn't he offer to do something for us then? Instead, he waits until we get to Sacramento, after we had been idle for weeks in San Francisco, and then offers jobs to just three of the men. Because they decline he characterizes the unemployed army as 'a bunch of worthless bums.' These men who waited on the Governor today and who refused his offer of a job are officers in the unemployed army. They left San Francisco with the determination of staying with it until we reached Washington. They were men—not traitors or deserters."

ENLISTED AS FUGITIVE.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—The story of how he spied upon "General" Charles Kelly's and William Thorne's unemployed armies for two weeks was told here today by Detective LePlace of the San Francisco Police Department, who "deserted" Kelly's army at Richmond after posing for days as an unemployed man and an escaped convict from the federal penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth. Both armies, according to the allegations of LePlace, are composed mostly of loafers, former convicts and fugitives from justice.

CHILD INJURED BY MOTORCYCLE

After-Dinner Walk Out With Father Has Unfortunate Ending

Confused by the suddenly approaching machine while crossing East Fourteenth street with her father, 5-year-old Isabel De Costa, daughter of George De Costa, of 1822 Eighteenth avenue, was hurled to the pavement by a motorcycle driven by Julius Moller last night. The child's head struck the curb in her fall and a probable basal fracture of the skull resulted. She was removed to the Emergency hospital by a passing automobilist and later taken to the Merritt hospital, where she now lies in a semi-conscious condition. The child's injuries, while of a serious nature, will not, say physicians in attendance, be fatal.

The little girl, with her father, was out last night for an after-dinner walk when the accident occurred. They had started to cross East Fourteenth street, between Nineteenth and Twentieth avenues. Moller was driving his machine toward Oakland, and as he neared the two, blew his horn. According to witnesses, the father of the girl became alarmed, hesitated, and then attempted to drag her from harm's way. The motorcycle struck the girl a glancing blow, throwing her toward the sidewalk.

Moller, who lives at 1403 Foothill boulevard, accompanied the injured child to the hospital. He declares that the accident was not through his fault and that he slowed down when he saw that the father was confused by his approach. The police are investigating the accident.

DETECTIVES SEEK BOLD BANK THIEF

Branch at Sacramento Loses $2000 in Gold to Bandit

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—Frederick H. Colburn, secretary of the California Bankers' Association, left today for Sacramento in company with a private detective to investigate the robbery there of a branch of the Sacramento Bank. A reward of $100 was offered for the arrest and conviction of the robber. He is described to the association as about 5 feet 7 inches in height, about 140 pounds weight, blond complexion and blue eyes. He wore a dark slouch hat and a dark suit, and left behind him a glove in which the third and middle fingers had been cut off and sewed up, seeming to indicate that the corresponding fingers of one hand were missing, but that may have been a blind.

The exact loss is reported to the association as $3300, not covered by insurance.

SACRAMENTO, March 7.—Walking into the Oak Park branch of the Sacramento Bank, a lone bandit, heavily armed and unmasked, held up Cashier Gordon Culver today and escaped with about $2000 in cash.

The robbery, one of the boldest in the history of Oak Park, was perpetrated during the noon hour. Culver was busily engaged on his books when he was startled by the command of the desperado. [illegible] looked up and found himself confronted by an unmasked man holding a pistol of large calibre within a few inches of his head.

Culver was forced into a toilet room and relieved of his keys.

The robber then rushed back into the bank, scooped up all the money he could lay his hands on, and disappeared.

The man, evidently aware of the fact that the city was unprotected by police because of the arrival of the unemployed, [illegible] this fact and did his job with neatness and dispatch.

All of the city and county peace officers were in conference at the county courthouse discussing the problem of dealing with the invasion. Sheriff Ahern and detectives were hurried to the scene.

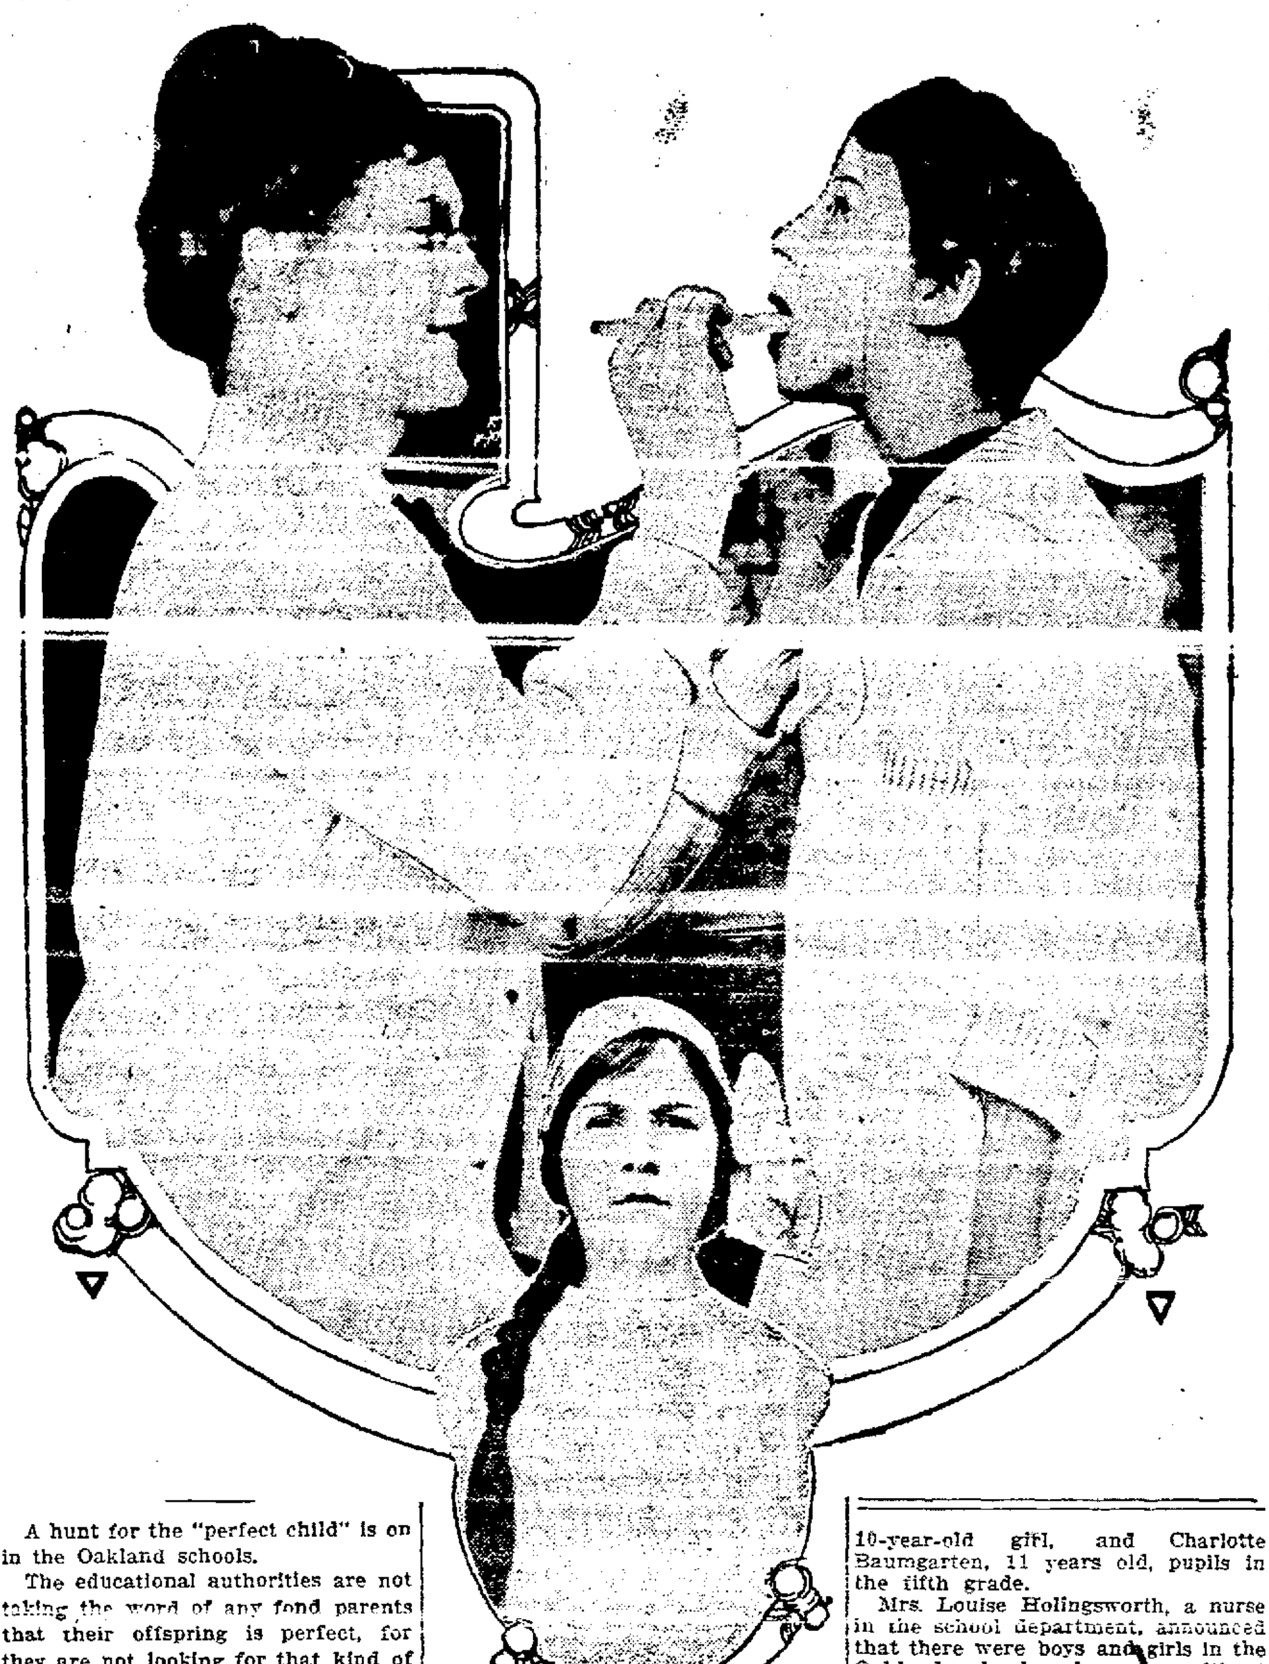
"PERFECT CHILD" HUNT IS ON

SCHOOLGIRLS EXCEL THE BOYS



FINDING OAKLAND'S PERFECT CHILD: MRS. LOUISE HOLINGSWORTH, A SCHOOL NURSE, EXAMINING LITTLE ALICE LEMER. (BELOW) CHARLOTTE BAUMGARTEN, WHO IS LISTED AS A PERFECT CHILD IN OAKLAND'S SCHOOL CATALOGUE.

A hunt for the "perfect child" is on in the Oakland schools.

The educational authorities are not taking the word of any fond parents that their offspring is perfect, for they are not looking for that kind of perfection.

However, the physical perfection which they are seeking is allied to mental efficiency; in this the Oakland school experts agree with the ancient Greeks. And, what is most significant in the inquiry so far, is the discovery that 50 per cent of the boys and girls in the Oakland schools are normal. This is the statement of Professor G. H. Pfund, supervisor of physical education in the department.

GIRLS IN LEAD.

Next in significance is the disclosure that Oakland schoolgirls are outdistancing the boys in the race toward the goal of ideal physican condition. Their gait is one thing criticised.

"The girls are more perfect than the boys," said Professor Pfund, after examining a class in the Lafayette school. "That is the case in all the schools. The boys are not as careful about their gait as the girls and they stoop more than their sisters do."

EXERCISES HELP.

These and other defects are being corrected by exercises, which are prescribed by Professor Pfund, who makes a thorough study of the child with regard to the curve of the spine and posture.

There were found to be many "perfect" children in the Lafayette school. Among them were Lulu Feucht, a 10-year-old girl, and Charlotte Baumgarten, 11 years old, pupils in the fifth grade.

Mrs. Louise Holingsworth, a nurse in the school department, announced that there were boys and girls in the Oakland schools who were without physical defect. In the Lafayette school she found the majority of the little folks defectless. Alice Lemer, a student in the third grade of that school, was a splendid type of a healthy child. She was complimented by Mrs. Hollingsworth, with many others in that institution who were examined.

NURSES ADVISORS.

Splendid advice is given the youngsters by the nurses who daily visit the schools. The laws of perfect health are preached and the means of obtaining it are imparted by the teachers.

Professor Pfund is making his semi-annual examination of the pupils' postural condition and before the close of the present term he will make his official physiological report to the Board of Education.

Each child is carefully examined and told exactly how to improve physical defects. He or she receives a card, which contains a report of the examination made by Professor Pfund and which is afterward signed by the parents.

Much time and attention is devoted to the health of the children of the public schools of this city. The nurses examine the throat and eyes of the boys and girls. They also make recommendations for improvements in their mode of living and their personal care.

WILSON IS TO BE ASKED TO EXPLAIN

General Francisco Villa that the United States would consider it an unfriendly act should Villa carry out his threat to send Luis Terrazas II, a military prisoner, to the rebel firing line at Torreon to be shot down by the bullets of the federal defenders. Villa had declared he would adopt that method of executing his prisoner if General Luis Terrazas, the elder failed to met the rebel's demand for $250,000 ransom by Sunday night.

While waiting for his train at the Juarez depot, Letcher declined to discuss the matter. The outline of his instructions came from one of the officers who refused, however, to state his authority. This officer declared Letcher had been ordered to show Villa where an attempt to carry out his threat would further alienate American friendship and weaken his cause in the eyes of the world. At a late hour tonight, it was stated that General Terrazas had not paid any part of the ransom demanded nor is there any reason to believe that it will be paid at the expiration of the time limit.

COMMISSION DISSOLVED.

The commission appointed by General Venustiano Carranza to investigate the death of William S. Benton, an Englishman, and the disappearance of Gustave Bauch, an American, today examined witnesses but will make no report until the inquiry is concluded.

The American-British commission is believed to have been dissolved. Charles Arthur Percival, British consul at Galveston, is still here taking testimony which will be included in his report to the British ambassador. But it is not believed the joint commission will ever be called upon to go to Chihuahua City to examine Benton's corpse.

General Carranza's wife and two daughters arrived here tonight and will remain until Carranza reaches Juarez from the west. He and his escort tonight are at Agua Prieta, opposite Douglas, Arizona.

O'SHAUGHNESSY INCENSED.

MEXICO CITY, March 7.—Incensed at the procrastination of Minister of War Blanquet in locating Innocencio Benavides, the Texan arrested by the federals at Nuevo Laredo and taken into the interior, Charge O'Shaughnessy tonight personally put the matter up to General Huerta. Huerta promised O'Shaughnessy immediate action.

Secretary of State Bryan previously had sent a formal demand that Benavides be immediately released. Blanquet replied that he was unable to locate the Texan.

Because of General Huerta's government plan for the issue of flat currency, American dollars were worth from three and one-half to four dollars, Mexican, here today.

Huerta's plan, as provided by a decree ready for his signature today, provides for a new government bank, authorized to issue 400,000,000 pesos ($200,000,000) in paper money, to be backed by $160,000,000 in bonds.

The establishment of the government bank is the strongest financial move of Hureta's career.

WOMAN CHARGED WITH EXTORTION

Settlement Worker Jailed as She Takes Marked Coin in Police Trap.

from her. She was taken to the city prison and charged with extortion.

"This woman nearly frightened me to death," said Mrs. Holland this afternoon. "I offered her $100 to call it quits, but she wouldn't."

Detective De La Guerra claims to have sufficient evidence to justify the charge placed against the woman.

Mrs. Evarts declared that she had a written contract with Mrs. Holland whereby she was to receive one-half of the money obtained from the Murber prosecution.

WOMAN TELLS HER STORY.

"Mrs. Holland went several places and was refused a warrant for Murber," she averred. "She came to me and I told her that I would arrange to have the warrant and would hire attorneys for her, but that she must give them half of such money she got in payment for their services. We then got the warrant."

Mrs. Holland and Murber went into a deal for the purchase of a shoe store. Mrs. Holland declares that she was buncoed out of her investment of $2500. Murber was released on probation by Judge Lawlor in consideration of paying $1000 cash to Mrs. Holland.

Mrs. Evarts was ejected from Judge Lawlor's court January 28, on the accusation of Charles Adler, the contractor who took a shot at Judge Trabucco when the latter decided a case against him several years ago. Adler was on trial for forgery. Dramatically, he pointed a finger at Mrs. Evarts. "This woman approached me," he said, "and told me she could do more for me than most attorneys, and that for $250 she would get the case dismissed. She said the officers around the Hall of Justice were afraid of her and that she would use her influence to get me out. She said she was not working for her health, and after much bickering with her, the price was reduced to $100."

ORDERED OUT OF COURT.

Judge Lawlor ordered the woman to the stand.

"I am innocent," she cried, breaking into tears. "I have not done this thing."

"I have seen you about this courtroom very many times," replied his honor. "Facts have developed here leading me to suspect your motives. I want you to keep out of this courtroom. I want to give you this advice: don't approach any witnesses or defendants in the future."

GRANTED PROBATION.

QUINCY, March 7.—In the Juvenile Court the cases of Henry Foot and S. H. Kim were disposed of. Foot was released and Kim was put on probation until his twenty-first birthday. These minors were charged with delinquency and grand larceny, respectively.

Kim, a native of Korea, who pleaded guilty to stealing $350 from B. F. Chandler, was able to make a showing in his application for probation that he could get a job with T. Huskinson, of Quincy.

ILLINOIS ATHLETE IS KOLEHMAINEN'S VICTOR

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 7.—Joseph W. Ray of the Illinois Atheletic club of Chicago, defeated Hannes Kolehmainen, Finnish distance star, in th two-mile event of the annual indoor track meet held in Convention hall tonight. Ray was 125 yards in the lead at the finish and clipped 16 seconds from the Western A. A. U. indoor record. Ray made the distance in 9 minutes 30 seconds. Kolehmainen's friends explained his defeat by saying he was not in condition. He seemed overweight and was in pain the last mile. Ray trailed the Finn for the first mile but steadily pulled away at the finish and finished nearly a lap ahead.

Mel Sheppard of the Irish-American A. C., of Chicago easily defeated Charles O'Donnell of the Illinois A. C. in a special 880-yard event, winning in the slow time of 2:02¼. Missouri defeated Nebraska in the one-mile relay and Kansas won from Oklahoma. Nearly 10,000 witnessed the events.

Dotta has transferred his cows to Sierra valley where feed is more plentiful and cheaper. In the meantime, however, the housewives are compelled to resort to canned milk for their cooking. The babies are the chief sufferers.

sible for us to get together and stay together.

"The question is, whether the people like the government they had or the government they have, and whether they are going to ask for some more of the same kind we are giving them. The issue in this state is whether the administration under Governor Johnson should be repudiated or whether under his administration we shall continue to progress.

"In this campaign the opposition should be prevented from fighting in generalities, in alleging expense and then refusing to deliver concrete instances of the things vaguely objected to. If the opposition is honest and not seeking offices only, it will do this. If any commission is thought extravagant, let the opposition say which should be abolished and why. Unless this is done, we need not heed such criticism."

Several county committee reports were read at the meeting and routine business transacted. Permanent organization of the county committee will be completed in two weeks.

Mary T. Goldman's Gray Hair Restorer
Will Restore the Original Color to Gray and Faded Hair

—And We DO Prove It!

For years we have displayed in drug store windows a woman with gray hair on one side of her head, the other half of her hair being restored to the original color by Mary T. Goldman's Gray Hair Restorer. Those who have seen this display have seen with their own eyes the truly wonderful powers of Mary T. Goldman's Hair Restorer to restore the original color to gray and faded hair.

The Original Preparation

All good things are copied. Mary T. Goldman's Gray Hair Restorer is the original preparation, so beware of imitations with names that look and sound like the original. There are now many imitations being sold. They have copied labels, boxes and style of bottle as nearly as they dare. But it's what's inside the bottle that counts. Poor imitations made to sell at a low wholesale price are found at dealers' who want to make 50 to 75 per cent more than they can make by selling the original Mary T. Goldman's Gray Hair Restorer. Some dealers buy these poor imitations so cheap that they can and do pay their clerks 10c commission on every bottle they sell. And you pay the commission and get a worthless article besides. Think it over. Then insist on the genuine

Further Proof at My Expense—$1 Bottle FREE!

Mary T. Goldman's Gray Hair Restorer is as clean and pure as water and contains no thick, heavy Lead and Sulphur that must be shaken up. It does not give the hair a "dyed" appearance because it is so mild.

The hair will be restored to its original color in from four to eight days. Where the hair is just beginning to turn gray, the grayness will simply disappear with one or two applications.

It is absolutely harmless and over 100,000 satisfied users have proved it.

This offer is only for those who have not used Mary T. Goldman's Gray Hair Restorer, and this offer is good for 10 days only, so write today. Remember, we send the full-size bottle that is regularly sold for $1.00. Every bottle is sent prepaid.

KELLY OF UNEMPLOYED WOULD RETURN HERE

to worm your way into the good graces of a band of men of the calibre composing the two unemployed armies," said LePlace. "I wanted to find out what the men were doing, what they intended to do and what some of them had done, so I joined the army.

"I got away with it in great shape. I enlisted under my own name and when I told the 'soldiers' that I was a fugitive from justice they took me into the fold and told me all about themselves.

SAW NO DESIRE TO WORK.

"A number of the men are either escaped convicts or former convicts. [illegible] They don't want work.

"Through my knowledge of drill work and ability to command, I soon became 'General' Kelly's right-hand man, next in command to the leader himself. He's a queer guy and cares just about as much for the men under him as I do. He always sees to it that he doesn't want for anything, and lives on the best in the land.

"The actual reason for the army leaving San Francisco when it did never has been told. It was not because of any anxiety to hurry to Washington, but it was because Kelly feared that Thorne would succeed in drawing most of the men to his own standard.

"There was a small riot while the army was encamped at Richmond. When the trouble started a deputy sheriff jumped at me and knocked me cold. Out of the 1197 men I was the only one to be beaten up. I reckon Kelly will be mighty glad to hear that, when he learns of how I double-crossed him and thinks of the many things he told me in confidence. All I have to say is that the army had better not come back to San Francisco. If they do, I'll help make it mighty hot for the bunch of bums, crooks and convicts."

SUGESTS HIGHWAY WORK.

BERKELEY, March 7.—Urging upon Governor Johnson to put to work on the state highways the 2000 unemployed men who reached Sacramento today, Mayor Charles D. Heywood addressed a letter to the executive this afternoon. Mayor Heywood declares the problem of these unemployed is one for the state rather than the cities to solve, and suggests that work on the highways is a good solution for the problem.

Mayor Heywood's letter followed a meeting of the council at which a number of Socialists and others and Commissioner of Finance John A. Wilson protested against the action of the police in assisting the Oakland police to drive the men out of Oakland. Following is Mayor Heywood's letter to the governor:

"As you are no doubt aware, there passed through this municipality a few days ago an army of over a thousand men, many of its members being native sons and citizens of our own state. These men claim they are in search of work at adequate living wages and I believe that a large majority are earnest and sincere in their efforts to secure a decent living. There are some, no doubt, who are actuated by a spirit of adventure, and others who would not work, no matter what the inducements might be, as long as they could keep soul and body together without it.

SITUATION GRAVE.

"Without doubt, no one appreciates better than yourself this serious and grave condition and the great problem which now faces our commonwealth and which will continue to grow until it reaches a magnitude that may endanger and jeopardize our very government. Conditions in this regard from now on will undoubtedly continue to become worse, rather than better, unless immediate and decisive steps are taken for its solution.

"Under the Constitution and laws of this state and of the United States, I realize the legal difficulty of dealing with this question, and you no doubt realize how impossible and how unfair it is to each town, city, municipality and county to provide these men with provisions and transportation beyond its boundaries and also how unjust and unfair it is to the community to which they have been transported.

"The gravity and seriousness of this problem is beyond denial. The towns, cities, municipalities and counties of this state are unable physically to cope with such an army and in most cases are financially unable to supply these men with work or the necessities of life for more than a few days.

SAYS STATE HOLDS KEY.

"It therefore appears to me that it is advisable for the state officials of California to solve this present question and to provide a method for preventing subsequent demonstrations of this nature, which are so detrimental to the welfare of our state.

"It has occurred to me, therefore, that the State Highway Commission, with your assistance, might devise a [illegible] the construction of some of our highways without violating the laws requiring that bids be called for. If absolutely necessary, bids might be called for and if too high, rejected and the work commenced by the state, using these men for that purpose. I understand there is at present a portion of $18,000,000 which might be used for the construction of highways throughout the state.

This would be a basis for segregating worthy men from the unworthy and dealing with them accordingly.

This great state, I think it safe to say, will not permit honest and worthy men to die of starvation, neither should the state be imposed upon and required to furnish a living to unworthy men.

A construction camp, in my opinion, properly conducted to meet the requirements of such an exigency as this, would be the solution of this problem or at least afford temporary relief.

WILSON PROTESTS.

Protesting against the action of the police, Commissioner Wilson presented the following statement to the council:

"It becomes my unpleasant duty to criticize the official acts of those with whom I am daily associated.

"I am therefore impelled to express my unqualified disapproval of the action taken by the police forces of Oakland and Berkeley, when armed with clubs and rifles they drove out of Oakland the poor and defenseless men whose only sin is one of enforced unemployment.

"The act was an unconstitutional and cowardly assault upon helpless humanity and the offense was aggravated by the fact that the police force of Berkeley were taken to another city, thereby neglecting their own city, to aid in the violent enforcement of this heartless measure.

"I have frequently spoken of our chief of police in terms of unmeasured praise, pointing to him as a model that chiefs of other cities should emulate. But my idol has fallen. No longer as formerly can I point to him as the Golden Rule chief.

"On which side, let me ask, would He have cast His lot had the author of the Golden Rule been present when the police were driving their helpless brothers out of town?

BLAMES COUNCIL ALSO.

"But I don't wish to cast the blame wholly upon August Vollmer. Not less guilty than he, are the members of the Council, if they sanction such a short-sighted and inhuman policy. Do they fancy that by driving a Lazarus or two from our doors they have freed themselves from the question, 'Am I my brother's keeper?' Do they fancy they can put a few men [illegible]ond their vision and thereby solve this ever increasing and menacing problem of unemployment? There yet remain thousands of other poor people who are idle. Why not drive them out also? And while we are on the job, why not drive out the idle rich? Then we may be virtuous, prosperous and happy.

"It will not suffice to answer the question by saying, these men were offered work by the Southern Pacific at 20 cents per hour and that they refused the offer. What would be the fate of those who are receiving a [illegible] more than 20 cents, if the others accepted the offer and 'scabbed' on their brothers. They would simply change places with the disemployed under still more hopeless conditions.

"And, by the way, I want to add that if there were two more Socialists, or even one more like Ex-Mayor J. Stitt Wilson, on the Council, Chief Vollmer would have been wiser.

"This question of poverty is the great vital problem of our civilization, it is a problem that must be met and solved or our nation will be ultimately destroyed."

I. W. W. NOISESOME IN N. Y

NEW YORK, March 7.—"This town will see something next week that will make it sit up and take notice. We will show the police of New York that the I. W. W. is a force to be reckoned with."

This was the declaration of I. W. W. leaders here tonight, after they had been prevented by the police from holding a public mass meeting in Union Square to raise funds for the defense of Frank Tannenbaum and the 190 "raiders" in jail for having boisterously invaded St. Alphonsus church in their "right-to-eat campaign." The I. W. W. tonight held a meeting in their headquarters in West street to make plans for next week's activities.

"We will hold many meetings next week," their leaders said. "If we can get permits for them we will hold open meetings. If not we will hold the meetings anyway. This town will see something next week."

Max Appel, secretary of the International Workingmen's Defense League, declared that raids on churches would be kept up and that Temple Emmanuel, a Jewish synagogue on Fifth avenue, would be among the churches visited. He declared that William Heywood would take part in the fight and that it would be continued until "all of the 350,000 unemployed men and women in New York are organized."

"If it is necessary," said Appel, "we will put this town in utter darkness for a whole night or until our rights are recognized, just as we did in Paterson."

Appel declared labor unions, Socialists and anarchists had already contributed $30,000 for the defense of Tannebaum, who is still in jail here.

Of five other "raiders" taken with Tannebaum three were sentenced tonight by Magistrate Campbell. One, James Riley, disclaimed I. W. W. affiliations and escaped with ten days. Isador Wissotsky, 18, a Russian, said to be Tannebaum's aide, got sixty days, the most severe sentence yet imposed. The trials of the other prisoners are expected to be proceeded with dispatch.

COXEY ON RAMPAGE.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 7.—An army of 2000 unemployed men will march on Cleveland churches tomorrow in an effort to impress church members with conditions as they exist here. General J. S. Coxey of Coxey's army fame, announced tonight in an address here.

"I want men out of work in Cleveland to do the same as the men did in New York," said Coxey. "Why should churches take up collections on Sunday to aid thousands of Bulgarians in Bulgaria and Christianize heathens in uncivilized countries when men and women on our own doorsteps are starving? I want Cleveland Christians to see with their own eyes the men in Cleveland without work and with families starving. Churches should open their doors to the unemployed and afford sleeping quarters to those without homes."

Police Chief Rowe said the police would not interfere with such a demonstration provided it was orderly.

HOOD RIVER BERRIES TO GO ON TO NEW YORK

HOOD RIVER, Ore., March 7.—Hood river strawberry growers, bent on widening the market for the enormous yield of fruit expected to begin ripening within the next few weeks, today decided to break into the New York market by using small-sized berry boxes. A standard pint measure will be used for the sake of ventilation and smaller bulk pressure.

ORGANIZED BALL PRAISED AT BOARD

Big Banquet Hears Famed Men in Laudatory Addresses.

NEW YORK, March 7.—Whasha, whasha, shmatter orshanized baseball? Noshing. Ef ya don't believe it, ya should'a been at sha banquet at sha, at the Biltmore tonight an' sheen an' heard all the nishe shings what we said about sha grand ol' game and' sha a grand old guys whut has made sha game possible.

It wush shum feed, an' everbody what has ever figgered in tha uplift up sport wuz there.

But seriously, and dropping the thickness of conversation which generally pervaded the Biltmore late tonight, organized baseball treated itself to a grand blowout in welcoming the returning tourists. There were a dozen speakers, more or less, and the grand old game reached heights which it never reached before, climbed pinnacles heretofore believed beyond reach, and wound up in a blaze of glory.

Ban Johnson declared organized baseball to be the "greatest organization in the United States," which remark is certainly batting well above 300. He praised everyone from the bat boy to the managers.

Charles Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, was accorded probably one of the most remarkable demonstrations any man in baseball ever received.

The "Old Roman," weak from the illness he suffered abroad, was at his place at the banquet table, but his strength would not permit his speaking. At every mention of his name more than 700 diners packed in the banquet hall rose as one man and cheered him to the echo. His head bent, his face buried in his hands, the "Old Roman," the "brains" of the American League, silently received the tribute paid him. After lauding Comiskey, Johnson, in his speech, launched into a defense of organized ball. He declared organized baseball was built on business principles, was established on staple conditions, and everything done above board.

Governor Tener, as president of the National League, declared that the sport had grown until "no profession, no business and no calling was greater than that of the professional baseball player."

John J. McGraw and Jimmy Callahan, managers of the two teams which toured the world, paid high tribute to the players, to Tener and Johnson, and to each other.

NOTORIOUS WOMAN IS CHARGED WITH THEFT

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—Thelma Le Roy, a woman notorious in the half world, who made startling revelations resulting in the indictments of Policeman Peter Fanning and an alleged graft expose, was arrested tonight. The charge again her is grand larceny and she was taken into custody along with Nellie Masey, an inmate of a resort on Washington alley, and Belle Minnis, the housekeeper. John Oasonof, a rancher of Los Angeles, claims that the three women konked him down, sat upon him, and took $80 from his pocket after he had spent $25 in the place. The Le Roy woman appeared in the Superior Court against Fanning, who, however, was acquitted of the charge against him. The publication of a story of an alleged graft ring in the tenderloin caused a sensation nearly four years ago.

ENDORSE BOND ISSUE.

CHICO, March 7.—The Chico Business Men's Association last night voted to endorse the calling of an election to vote on issuing bonds of $60,- [illegible] building for the high school.

A committee of five real estate men was named to outline promotion work and raise funds. Chico has no Chamber of Commerce. The committee is composed of F. M. Eaton, H. K. Sears, H. A. Roth, O. E. Tracy and I. G. Marks.

Harry Butters Hurt During Polo Game

BURLINGAME, March 7.—Harry Butters, nephew of Charles Butters the millionaire mining operator, a well known clubman and poloist, broke his left arm this afternoon while playing polo on the field with Francis J. Carolan.

He was removed to his home in Oakland tonight by Dr. W. C. Chidester.

Buters and his mount dashed madly down the field toward the goal post. He failed to rein quickly enough as he passed the goal and his horse tore through a fence, collided with a tree and threw him.

He was picked up by Walter Hobart, Captain R. Chaplin, and W. L. Breeze, and rushed to the Red Cross hospital in Gordon Tevis' automobile. It was found that one of the bones of the forearm had been broken.

San Francisco Bandit Holds Up Street Car

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—The car bandit put in an appearance again tonight and at 11:30 o'clock held up Conductor Albert Shoux of the Ninth and Larkin street line. It was just as Shoux was putting his trolley on the wire at Ninth and Brennan streets, that the highwayman appeared out of the darkness, put a revolver to his head and demanded his money. The robber obtained $12.50 and escaped amidst a hail of shots sent after him by the crew.

There were no passengers on the car. The description of the culprit tallies with that of the man who held up Conductor Patrick McCarthy of the Kentucky street line early this morning. At midnight the police arrested a suspect who is being held pending a further investigation.

BEATEN BY THUGS.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—J. M. Neto, of 851 Alabama street, a wood finisher, was set up by a gang of hoodlums in a saloon at Sixteenth and Potrero avenue, at 11:30 tonight and an attempt made to rob him. He managed to save his purse but not his face. He was badly beaten about the forehead, eyes and nose.

Suits and Coats of the Season

A SUIT that has not a short jacket is no suit at all this season! A suit that is not built with a peplum skirt is likewise beyond the pale of the fashionable. And the jacket is the cause of the skirt or the skirt the cause of the jacket, whichever way you want to state it. At any rate, our hips have grown larger, or seem to have done so, with a fluffy, peplumed and flounced bouffancy that no jacket which respects its own dignity would attempt to cover; so jackets remain short. Visit Heeseman's Ladies' Suit Department tomorrow and we'll be pleased to show you all of the new Spring styles without obligation. You'll find here Suits different from those elsewhere in Oakland.

Breathe Through The Nose

Nose breathing is essential to good health. Drawing the air h the nose warms it, strains out the dust and presents it to gs in a fit state, guarding the lungs against chilling and the ects of dirt. The lungs need plenty of fresh air every day, to ly oxidize the blood. Plenty of oxygen in the blood burns e dross and renders it ready for excretion. Then with the laxative health can be easily maintained.

Tonic-Laxative

Next to fresh air is the importance of regular bowels. In all of sluggish bowels a tonic laxative should be used. To combine tonic qualities with a laxative is the latest achievement in al science. Laxatives naturally depress. The tonic element ves that objection. Peruna should be in every household be- it fulfills every quality to make it an effective tonic laxative. people who have used Peruna are able to say truthfully, "I w enjoying perfect health."

INSTITUTE IS IMALLY OPENED

-sive Ceremony Marks dication of School of Medical Research.

FRANCISCO, March 7.—To vice of humanity in the relief eses was dedicated this after- the Affiliated Colleges the Williams Hooper School of Research. The ceremonies nted one of the most important efforts in behalf of curative in this country. The program addresses and music and was a lareg number of interested the speakers including several the best known medical men of try.

for the afternoon was furnished by the University Orchestra, the direction of Paul Steindorff, the University Glee Club, under leadership of Clinton B. Morse. ocation was delivered by Rev. Dutton of the First Unitarurch. The manner and purpose of the Hooper gift to the university by the widow of the late lum-, was outlined by Judge Curtis idley. He paid warm tribute to ooper and to the lofty purposes endowment.

SEASE CAN BE STUDIED.

Henry Smith Pritchett, president the Carnegie Foundation for vancement of Teaching, spoke e Value of Medical Research to City." Dr. Richard M. Pearce, ch professor of medicine in the rsity of Pennsylvania, spoke of Opportunity of the University in al Research." His address in as as follows:

great immediate interest is the on of the opportunity offered niversity in the way of fields of gation. Problems in medical gation may be grouped roughly eral, that is, those common to mmunities; or local, as those deed by some peculiar condition mate or geographical location, industries, or density and charof population and so forth. The aphical situation of San Francisco determines one at least of the ms which should, through its oundation, immediately engage ention of the University of California. The port of San Francisco, g as it does the Orient and soon the influence of the Panama offers an opportunity for the of tropical and unusual importease not open to any other city temperate zone. The intensive igation of tropical diseases and the allied fields of protozoology and comparative pathology is sure to yield results of the greatest value to scien- [illegible] and will at the same time allow this university to assist the state in even greater extent than in the past, in the solution of problems concerning the health and welfare of its citizens. In this field alone the Hooper Foundation will undoubtedly take a prominent part, active and advisory in the affairs of the community.

CHRONIC DISEASES.

"Another field which this institute may enter with great promise of success is that of the chronic diseases. These have been for the most part neglected. This is to some extent due to the difficulties which surround these problems, but in large part is the result of the influence of bacteriology, which, on account of its amazing development in the past 30 years, has focused the attention of investigators upon the acute infectious diseases. This influence, while of the greatest importance to medicine, and responsible for much of the endowment of research in this country, has had a tendency to retard the study of diseases not due to bacteria or protozoa. The pendulum now, however, is swinging the other way, and the diseases of advanced life—the chronic or degenerative diseases of the heart, the kidneys, the blood vessels—are beginning to receive an attention commensurate with their incidence and importance. This field demands methods and training and facilities other than those of the bacteriologist. Here the methods of the physiologist and chemist come into demand.

"Of other fields of labor, two I consider to be of the greatest importance in the solution of the difficulties which oppose human progress. One is cancer investigation and the other the study of diseases of unknown etiology, as scarlet fever, measles, etc. I realize fully that we have already in this country four research foundations devoted to the study of cancer, but the problem is one of such magnitude that I believe it is the duty of every institute that can afford it, to give of its resources to this work."

BAKERSFIELD TO VOTE ON NEW CITY CHARTER

BAKERSFIELD, March 7.—The petition calling on the board of city trustees to hold an election to choose freeholders who will draw up a new city charter was filed with the board here. As soon as the names are checked up the election will be called.

It is probable that the voters will be asked on the same date to decide on a bond issue for public parks. The plan is to purchase sites for several parks in the city limits and a bond issue of many thousands of dollars will be needed. It is generally believed that the bonds will carry. The passage of the freeholders' election is predicted and it is hoped to have the new charter ready to submit to the new legislature. Bakersfield at present is under a charter of the fifth class which is designed for cities under 10,000 population. Bakersfield now has close to 20,000 inhabitants.

JIU JITSU HOLD-UP PAYS BETTER THAN GUN

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—Herman Klint, of 14 Guy place, was passing First and Harrison streets this morning when his hands were seized simultaneously and twisted behind his back by two strong arm men. Holding him in this position, they took $7.50 from his pocket and ran. Patrolmen Coleman and Hanrahan searched the neighborhood for them, but could not find them.

K. Lakana, of 2228 Washington street, was held up by two Chinese youths dressed in American clothes, in front of 823 Stockton street at 1 a. m. The robbers dragged him into a doorway, held the gun to his head and took $3 in coin from his trousers pocket.

CITY-OWNED POLICE STATION IS PROPOSED

Chief of Police Walter J. Petersen plans to purchase a lot and erect a new police station in Melrose to take the place of the present station, which is rented by the city. The present station is unsatisfactory from several points of view, and the chief has long desired to have a permanent station, owned by the city, erected in this district.

It is estimated that the site and building for a new station will cost the city about $10,000. The station will house a fire engine department as well as the police department. The money will probably be appropriated in next year's budget.

OPERATING FORCE IS ORGANIZED FOR CANAL

WASHINGTON, March 7.—First steps toward organization of the Panama canal operating force were taken today when Lieutenant-Commander H. V. Butler, U. S. N., was detached from the battleship Utah and assigned to duty as captain of a terminal port in the canal zone. The regulations for the permanent government of the zone provide that a naval officer shall be in charge of the handling of ships in the anchorage at each end of the canal and during their passage through the waterway.

Furuseth Would Permit Chinese Seamen to Land

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Andrew Furuseth of San Francisco, president of the International Seamen's Union, told the House marine committee today he would let the Chinese seamen come ashore in the United States and re-ship at better wages rather than to keep them aboard at the Chinese wage standard. He was pressing for favorable action on the LaFollette seamens' bill. He said that his union always had refused to admit Asiatics to membership, but that if legislation which would build up the merchant marine were refused he saw no reason why they should not welcome the Chinese, the Lascar and the Japanese.

Wounds Sleeping Captor With a Water Pitcher

GREAT FALLS, Mont., March 7.—Harmon C. Snyder, a prisoner arrested in Calgary this week on an embezzlement charge in Denver, attacked his captor, Detective D. J. Boyle with a heavy water pitcher while the detective was asleep in bed in a hotel here today. Boyle and Snyder were on their way to Denver, staying here over night to make train connections. Boyle permitted Snyder to occupy a double room with him instead of putting the prisoner in jail. Boyle drove off Snyder at the point of a revolver and after managing him, fell in a faint from loss of blood.

RAID IS MADE ON "HOP JOINTS" OF TAF

TAFT, March 7.—A hop raid in the Chinese district last night resulted in the capture of a can of opium, but no Chinamen or white drug fiends. Sam Ferguson, Henry Skelton and Jim Quinn made the raid on a Chinese laundry which had a reputation for handling the drug. When the back room and basement were searched they were found vacant of human occupants. The opium and a suitcase of hops were confiscated. The owner of the latter has not shown up to claim it.

Constable Sam Ferguson intends to rid the town of the undesirable drug fiends, and is keeping a sharp lookout for suspicious looking persons and places. While last night's raid resulted in no arrests, it had the effect of driving a number of hopheads away from their customary haunts. Today an inspection of Chinatown revealed not a single person with the opium appearance.

DEL NORTE SEEKING BOUNDARY LINE CHANGE

EUREKA, March 7.—Judge John L. Childs of Crescent City and other well-known residents of Del Norte county have started a movement whereby Del Norte county is to move its southern boundary line to the north bank of Klamath river and cede 10,000 acres of valuable redwood timber land to Humboldt county.

This will be considered by the supervisors of Del Norte county. The plan is to ask Humboldt county to pay two-thirds of the cost of building the State Highway bridge over the Klamath river in return for the 10,000 acres of timber land. Del Norte county has a low assessed valuation. The cost of the bridge is estimated at $10,000.

If Humboldt county is willing to take up the project the legislature will be asked to change the boundary line.

DINUBANS DECIDE ON CONCRETE PAVEMENTS

DINUBA, March 7.—An enthusiastic meeting of citizens was held in the city council rooms here to decide on the material to be used in paving the streets. Different committees have been sent to other towns to investigate which pavement is the most practical. The committee of trustees decided after careful investigation that the asphalt macadam was the proper kind to use. A committee composed of property owners decided otherwise and so it was left to the property owners to decide. A petition was circulated which resulted in favor of a concrete foundation with an asphalt cover. This petition was presented to the meeting last night and resulted, after a long discussion, in the trustees having the city attorney draw up a resolution of intention, indorsing the concrete base.

The deeds and the virtues of the patron saint will be extolled in oration and song and a musical program including soprano and baritone solos as well as a solo in Gaelic will be rendered by talent selected both from this city and San Francisco. The program which will be an elaborate one promises to be one of the best ever rendered in this city and already hundreds of tickets have been disposed of, remonstrating that success is assured. The hall will be elaborately decorated and everything possible is being arranged to accomodate all who attend.

END OF WORLD MAY LIE IN POCKETS

Prof. Comstock Points to Possibilities of Free Hydrogen Danger.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 7.—Should it so happen that this earch should encounter one of those mysterious "pockets" of free hydrogen that learned men talk so glibly about, why then the Biblical prophecy of the destruction of the world will be fulfilled and, as predicted, it will be consumed by fire.

Prof. Daniel F. Comstock of the [illegible] Technology in a statement issued today sees no reason why such a calamity should not occur, under right conditions, but he himself believes it to be impossible that it should come to pass in our age.

"Should it happen that the world entered a mass of free hydrogen, absolute destruction by fire would ensue," says the Professor. "These masses of free hydrogen undeniably exist, but all the masses of gaseous substances are not composed of this particular element.

FRICTION IS DANGER.

"It is not because of any peculiar heating property that is possessed by free hydrogen that a conflagration would ensue, but because of the firiction of the earth coming in contact with it. The earth, as it travels around the sun, passes through an immense vacuum. Therefore there is no friction.

"We can picture the possibility of the earth in contact with one of these masses of gas. Revolving and rushing forward at its speed of hundreds of miles per second, friction would follow the contact, and such is the terrific speed of the earth's revolution and flight through space that inconceivable and immeasurable heat would be almost instantaneously developed.

"A clash of earth and one of these masses of free hydrogen would destroy the earth in a very few hours. Everything would shrivel up before the heat friction. Rivers and oceans would evaporate. The earth would become a huge ball of fire.

COULD BE FORESEEN.

"Such a calamity, however, could be foreseen many years beforehand and in many ways.

"These large masses of free hydrogen and other gases are by no means uncommon. Some are visible and many can not be seen even with the aid of a telescope.

"The earth alone would not suffer because of these masses of gas straying across its orbits. We would see a demoralization of the solar system, with the planets running hither and thither from their own orbits while the fiery consummation went on.

"But after all there is little that can be said on the subject of these nebulae. We know of no reason why signs of their possible approach could not be seen tomorrow.

BLAZE-UPS FREQUENTLY OCCUR.

"But, of course, it would be a considerable time before we realized the significance of the signs. All we can say is that it has not happened to us yet

"It is in these nebulae that the blaze-ups of the stars we so frequently see are caused. For years and years the stars have been observed to have undergone no change. Then suddenly they blaze up and disappear.

"The star Perseus is a notable example. I think it was in 1901 that this star first attracted the attention of astronomers by its brilliant blaze-up, which must have happened more than a century ago, so long did it take the light to travel through space to the earth. It is quite possible that this star came in contact with masses of free hydrogen or nebulae, but science, as yet, had not given much thought to the possibilities of earth meeting a like fate.

"It is possible, but because I say this none need make any immediate preparations for a departure from mother earth, for I can assure everybody that it won't happen in our time."

DIRECTS VERDICT FOR CHESAPEAKE-OHI OROAD

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 7.—Judge E. B. Dyer, in the Circuit Court here today, directed the jury to bring in a verdict for the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company, defendant in the action of Mrs. Anna Hall, who sued to recover $25,000 damages, alleged to have been sustained when she was shot during the miners' strike last year. Judge Dyer, after hearing testimony, decided the plaintiff had not made out a case, and told the jury that if it found otherwise, it would be necessary for him to set aside the finding. Mrs. Hall alleged she had been shot in both legs from the armored train which passed up the Paint Creek branch of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad the night of February 7, 1913.

This was the first of a number of similar actions growing out of the battle of Holly Grove.

CLUB WAITER INHERITS FORTUNE IN DENMARK

PORTLAND, Ore., March 7.—Tom Svenson, waiter at the Press Club, served the newspaper boys with light step tonight, instead of in the discouraged, plodding manner of yore. During the afternoon he had received notice from the Danish vice-consul that his uncle in Denmark had died, leaving him $10,000. Svenson will start for the old country next week, with money advanced by the consul.

TRASK DENIES RUMOR OF HOME ART EXCLUSION

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—John E. D. Trask, chief of the department of fine arts of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, has other means of keeping busy from the man's-size job of looting the art galleries of the world to fill the palace of fine arts, which is only a quarter of a mile long. Between times he has been managing the Palace hotel exhibit of the masterpieces of the ten exposition mural painters. His latest achievement has been the stern chase of a baseless rumor which has caused perturbation and grief in the studios all the way from Santa Barbara and Carmel to the Latin quarter over against the exposition grounds, said rumor being to the effect that not one of all the California painters would be permitted to show his canvases in the galleries of the palace of fine arts at the exposition—William Keith alone excepted—all other space having been gobbled up (so ran the rumor) by the hordes of foreign and eastern competitors.

Mr. Trask, having run this wind-footed rumor to earth, paused in the act of nailing the lie yesterday long enough to remark:

"There is not a word of truth in it. For several reasons I am extremely sorry that there should be such a rumor abroad. In the first place such a report, if credited, is calculated to aggrieve many good painters; in the second place, such a rumor presupposes Mr. Trask to be an ass. I never made any such statement and never had any such thought, and if I [illegible] hold my present position in the exposition. The department of fine arts will not, itself, select the paintings to be included in the exhibition. These will be selected by a jury composed of eminent artists, and the work of any American painter, wherever resident, will be gladly received and submitted to the jury of selection for its approval. Upon acceptance by the jury the paintings will be hung without thought of whether the painter himself resides in San Francisco, New York, Milpitas or Kalamazoo."

REPRESENTS FARMERS IN GRAIN INVESTIGATION

WASHINGTON, March 7.—At the hearing on Representative Manahan's resolution for Congressional investigation of Chicago, Duluth and Minneapolis grain exchanges, the interests of Middle Western grain farmers were represented by J. W. Shorthill, of Nebraska. He urged a full investigation and said that the farmers wanted to find out just what the effect of eliminating future dealings in grain would be. It had been suggested, he said, [illegible] give the moneyed elevator interests control of the cash grain market. He said also that the effect of future grain dealings on the credit of the farmer in the country banks should be investigated.

David F. Simpson, of the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce, said he believed the grain exchanges of the country would welcome a broad, thorough investigation, and insisted that they had not eliminated competition nor combined to reduce the price of grain to farmers.

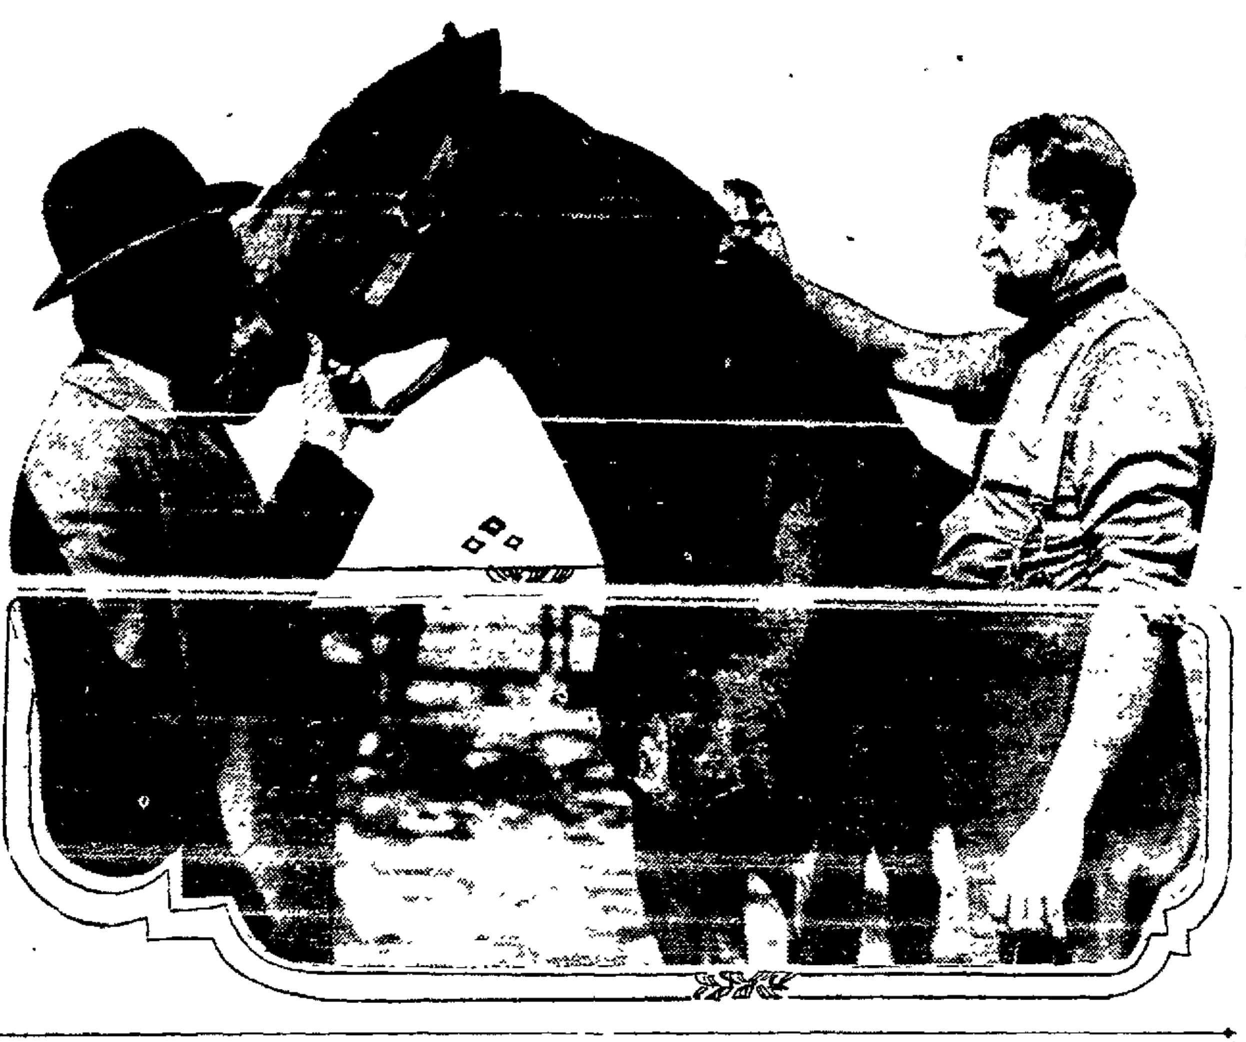
Horse Receiving Human Pasteur Serum Is the First Case in Veterinary History



DR. J. A. HILL ADMINISTERING PASTEUR TREATMENT TO THE RABIES-INFECTED HORSE OF MRS. J. H. STORRARD.

The experiment of using human pasteur serum for treatment of a horse exposed to the rabies is being tried, so far successfully, for the first time in medical or veterinary history at the hospital of Dr. J. A. Hill, where a valuable thoroughbred animal owned by Mrs. J. H. Stoddard, of 2242 Forty-first street, is responding to the treatment, and, according to Dr. Hill, will probably recover safely. The experiment sets a new mark in medical science and is attracting wide attention among experts.

The horse, an extremely valuable animal, was bitten by a dog later found to be rabid, and the animal was at once rushed to Dr. Hill. The veterinary surgeon, knowing that Pasteur's first experiments were on animals and believing that, with the possible variation of the dose, the human treatment would have the same effect on a horse, proceeded with his work, securing the serum for the treatment from the Cutter laboratory in Berkeley.

One injection of the serum was made at once, two the first day thereafter, two the second, and one a day is now being administered. The applications are made in the neck of the animal, and n each instance the swelling and pain that signifies the action of the serum has taken place.

Mrs. Stoddard's animal is the first to be reported as receiving treatment at the State Hygienic Laboratory although Dr. Hill declares that he has before now treated dogs with the serum. The disease comes from hydrophobia-infected saliva that is introduced under the skin by fangs of infected animals, and the serum is manufactured from this same poison treated bacteriologically. From all indications the horse will entirely recover according to Dr. Hill. Minute reports are being made of the matter to the state laboratory.

Restaurant Owner Is After Chicago Cubs

CHICAGO, March 7.—John R. Thompson, restaurant owner, who made President Tener of the National League and Charles P. Taft an offer to buy the Cubs, was hopeful tonight that he could put through a deal, despite a report from New York that arrangements for the transfer of the club to John T. Connery, Chicago coal man, were practically complete.

"One thing I will insist upon," said Thompson, "that is, that if I and my associates buy the Cubs we will buy them with no strings attached. We mean business and are ready to pay any reasonable price."

"ARMY'S" BLUDGEONS IN POLICE STATION MUSEUM

A small collection of clubs and bludgeons of assorted sizes, which for several days have graced the captain's office of the central police station, were last night officially placed in the police "museum." These were souvenirs of the police raid on "General" Kelly's unemployed army(driven from their lot and sent on their way to Sacramento last week.

Kelly, who had threatened trouble and had evidently planned it, left the clubs behind him in his precipitate flight. They were gathered and taken to the central station, where they were tied in a neat bundle, on a desk until a janitor sought to burn them for firewood. This resulted in their being labelled and filed away for future reference. About twelve clubs are in the collection.

HUSBAND OF SLAIN WOMAN WILL RECOVER

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—With kind neighbors looking after five broken-hearted children and with his own wounds troubling him as the day passed, Tony Klicinovich, who was shot by Marks Skarich, was removed tonight to the city and county hospital.

His condition is still serious, although there seems no doubt of his ultimate recovery. Klicinovich became very feverish tonight as the result of worry about his children and grief over the tragedy which had cost him the life of his faithful wife.

The body of Mrs. Frances Klicinovich was removed to an undertaking establishment this evening, but that of the murderer and suicide remains on a slab at the morgue.

TAXPAYERS' COLUMN

All Communications to the Editor of THE TRIBUNE must bear the signature and address of the writer.

IT WAS DIFFERENT.

EDITOR TRIBUNE: I am not a newspaper writer. I ahm only an old man now, nearly 76 years of age, and I have recently come to Oakland from that war-ridden and bandit-controlled country, Mexico. And believe me, how my heart bleeds and cries out against the contemptible cowards beyond the Rio Grande. For 43 years I was a resident of that country and I helped in my small way to develop and build up northern Mexico. My life's work has been spent there and by hard work and economy I succeeded in building up a comfortable fortune. But now it is all gone. Robbed, destroyed, confiscated, but worst of all, my family is also gone with it—murdered. Oh, my God, my three sons are now sleeping in graves made so by the assassin's hand, and the shame I have of it. I have cried out for protection to my country. Once the country of the true and the brave, but no attention has been given to my cry; and hundreds of others have made the same appeal for help and for protection, but with the same result, and the result is Mexico is today dotted with the graves of American murdered citizens. And the crimes of the murders have been withheld from the American public and the world at large, and while this exists the head of our government sits at Washington and employs every means to keep the fact from the American public.

As you say in today's editorial, it was different once. Yes, thank God, it was different once. There was a time when the American people were considered to be a brave people and as a government we commanded the respect of the civilized world. But today it is different. We are the laughing stock and held up to the ridicule of all the nations of the earth, brought about by the cowardly attitude of this great government of ours. And while we suffer and are held in contempt by the world at large our citizens, our relatives and our friends are being murdered by the hellish fiends of Mexico and the government at Washington looks on complacently and permits the cowardly hell-hounds beyond the Rio Grande to continue in their murderous work and to our national dishonor.

COUNTY LIBRARY FOR WILLOWS IS URGED

WILLOWS, March 7.—A resolution of intention was published by the county supervisors yesterday for a hearing on the question of establishing a county library. Miss Harriett Eddy was here from the state library, urging the idea.

Branches will be established in all parts of the county. To form the library it will be necessary to lay an additional tax levy of 2 cents on the $100 valuation.

The matter will come up for hearing on April 6. Mrs. J. A. Randolph, Mrs. George W. Orr, Mrs. R. H. Green, Judge William M. Finch, Prof. H. G. Rawlins, J. M. Silvey and other local people appeared, urging the formation of the library.

FALLS INTO ROCK CRUSHER.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—J. G. Sheehan of 67 Ross street fell into a rock crusher at Fourteenth and Harrison streets this afternoon and was painfully hurt. He sustained multiple abrasions of the face and head, which were treated at the Central Emergency hospital.

Artist and Soulmate Guilty of Kidnaping

ROMORANTIN, France, March 7.—Ferdinand Pinney Earle, artist-affinity, and Miss Charlotte Herman, his latest soulmate, were fined and sentenced to prison here tonight for kidnaping Harold, the son of Earle, and his divorced wife, Amme Marie Fischbacher, but both were allowed to leave the courtroom free because the presiding judge held that they had been punished sufficiently by their confinement before trial. Earle was sentenced to two months in prison and fined 25 francs ($5). Miss Hermann was given one month and fined 16 francs ($3.20). The court ruled that as both defendants had been in jail since their arrest in Norway two months ago, their sentences should count from the first hour of their incarceration. Thereupon both the artist and Miss Hermann were free to depart when Earle paid the cash fines. The prosecuting attorney, in his summing up, held that Earle and the woman had committed no crime, but merely a violation of the "civil rights" of Mme. Fischbacher and the child.

NO "BLIND PIGS" FOUND IN TEHAMA TOWN

LOS MOLINOS, March 7.—Two days of diligent search on the part of a detective from a San Francisco detective agency has disclosed the fact that there are no "blind pigs" or "bootleggers" operated in this town.

This fact has been known to every inhabitant since the town went dry, but it so excited the detective that he forgot himself entirely and went into a telephone booth to wire the news to his chief, talking loud enough that other persons became aware of his business.

PHELAN EXPLAINS REMARKS AT CLUB

Meant No Offense in Reference to Spain, Meaning to Give Praise.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—Jas. D. Phelan's remarks, made before the Commonwealth Club, in which his reference to Spain as a "decadent nation" nearly precipitated a fight, were the cause of further trouble when a telegram from the Spanish ambassador was received here demanding an explanation.

In order to soothe the angry Spaniards, Phelan has issued the following statement, setting forth his side of the case:

"I spoke to the Commonwealth Club in a very informal manner on the relations of Europe to America and of the courteous reception given Romanones, at San Sebastian, then described an automobile tour, stating that between Burgos and Madrid, a distance of 150 miles, I was surprised to find old Castile looking so barren and the farmers using the most primitive agricultural implements, and that I was obliged to carry my gasoline and food supplies on account of the character of the settlements en route.

DIFFERENT IN SPRING.

"The country certainly appeared as I described it, although in the spring and summer I am informed it looks quite different on account of the growing grain crops. It is, however, treeless and looks desolate from the wagon road in the fall of the year.

"I then stated that I had met Professor Bernard Moses in Madrid, who was of the opinion that Spain was a decadent nation and its national life could not extend over a period of forty years. This was not my opinion, but the opinion of another, in which I did not share.

"I was about to describe the fertility and industrial activity of Andalusia and Catalonia when I was interrupted by a Spanish gentleman in the audience, and the interruptions prevented me from finishing my address, which was limited in time by the rules of the club; so as a matter of fact the interruption was the cause of the false impression going abroad.

DELIGHTFUL, HE SAYS.

"Spain is the mother of California. I have a great affection for the old land on account of our historic associations with it, and I have found no more delightful country than Andalusia anywhere in Europe. Spain industrially is making great progress, and I believe that Professor Moses will find his prognostications to be mistaken, which time will demonstrate.

"I wrote a letter to the gentleman who interrupted me immediately after the meeting, as follows:

"'I regret that you should have felt so keenly my comment on Spain in my desultory talk yesterday before the Commonwealth Club.

"'I have a great liking for Spain, and was treated there with courtesy, and, had you not interrupted me, I would have given the other side of the picture in Seville, Granada and Barcelona.

"'I understand your feelings as a Spaniard, and do not feel any resentment, however, for your interruption. The Latin quality, which you manifested, is in itself admirable, and I love a man who loves his country—right or wrong.

"'Some day I will more calmly go over the facts with you and I hope you can dissipate my superficial impressions.'

NO OFFENSE MEANT.

"He accepted this in good part, and the Spanish consul-general, Count De Salazar, whom I have since met, understands that no offense was meant by me.

"I may be pardoned for mentioning that last year I erected a summer residence in the Santa Clara valley, and have named it 'Villa Montalvo,' after the great Spanish romancer, who first mentioned California in his 'Sergaz De Esplandian,' and that I have there erected in his honor a memorial tablet in bronze.

"I am sure that the Spanish government will understand that, far from harboring any ill-will toward Spain, I have deep and abiding affection for the old land, which has done so much for America and which has suffered so much. I do not know of any sentiment in California hostile to Spain, and I believe that all Americans bear only the best of good will toward her and her work of artistic and industrial revival, which is now going on with every prospect of success."

PROFESSOR TO TELL OF AZTECS' CALENDAR

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—Professor T. T. Waterman of the University of California will lecture Thursday evening, March 12, under the auspices of the San Francisco Society of the Archaelogical Institute of America, on the Aztec calendar. The lecture will be given at 8:15 o'clock, at the San Francisco Institute of Art, California street, corner of Mason, opposite the Fairmont hotel. The public will be welcome.

It is a well known fact that the calendars of most civilized as well as uncivilized peoples depends upon the changes of the moon. Thus the weeks depend upon the quarters of the moon and, as among the Mohammedans, the 12 lunar months comprise the year. If changes and allowance of considerable extent are not made, great confusion and uncertainty are the result; because the 12 lunar months make up only about 340 days, whereas the course of the sun determines the seasons, and the course of the sun requires a little over 365 days to complete a cycle.

Among the Aztecs the calendar was a problem for deep study. There it was based not upon the course of the moon but upon that of more remote planets. It is very exact, and has for us the further interest that it seems to have formed a considerable part of the religion of the people. Many symbols connected with the calendar were used in religious worship. These symbols have been discovered in large numbers and will serve to illustrate Professor Waterman's lecture.

PREDICTS STRIKES OF 250,000 COAL MINERS

CHICAGO, March 7.—Coal mine strikes which will throw 250,000 miners out of work in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania are predicted by George D. Cushing, in the current issue of Black Diamond, a mining magazine.

"Since the joint interstate wage conference adjourned last week at Philadelphia without a new contract between the operators and the miners, it seems that strikes in the four states are certain," says Cushing. "The length of time the mines will be shut down depends on the ability of the employers and the employes to agree on new contract terms."

DISPUTE OVER POST-OFFICE STILL RAGING

YUBA CITY, March 7.—A movement started to change the postoffice from Pleasant Grove proper to the Pleasant Grove station on the line of the Western Pacific railroad is causing considerable excitment in the erstwhile quiet burg.

Petitions are being circulated for and against the change. Several buildings have been erected at the railroad station, but those opposed to this change of site hold that the postoffice will give best service where the population and business center are the larger.

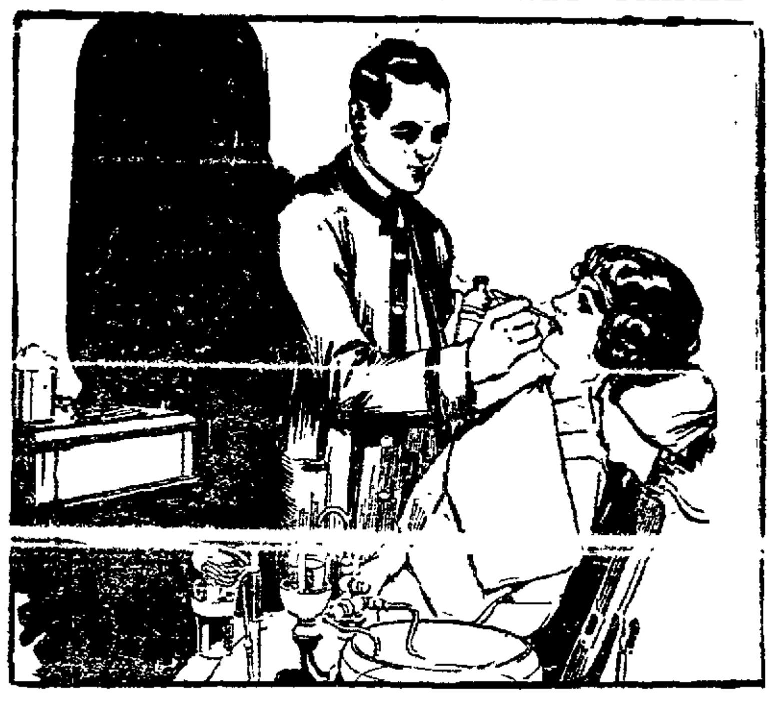
LET ME FILL ONE TOOTH FOR YOU

I WANT TO CONVINCE YOU THAT I HAVE MADE DENTISTRY ABSOLUTELY PAINLESS



There are lots of people who don't believe that I can fix sensitive teeth without causing pain. They think I'm [illegible] to do the impossible, and all the argument on earth wouldn't change their opinion.

The only way I can positively prove to you that Terrysthesia eliminates the tortures of the dental chair is by actual demonstration. As the man from Missouri says, "Seeing is believing."

Now, if you have some teeth that need filling or crowning, you certainly don't want to suffer while they are being fixed if you can avoid it. You would much rather go to a dentist who doesn't hurt, provided his charges are reasonable. All I ask is that you allow me to fill one tooth for you. If I cause the least bit of pain, then you are at liberty to walk right out of my office without being obligated in any way.

I do high class dental work of every kind and back it up with an iron clad guarantee. My prices are no higher than those of ordinary dentists, yet I offer you something that you can't secure elsewhere — complete freedom from pain.

I try to make a friend of every person who comes to me. That I have succeeded in the majority of cases is shown by the fact that I have more regular patrons than any other dentist in town.

You may say what you please, but Terrysthesia is the grandest discovery in the history of dental science. It saves human suffering, and there is nothing else so important. When Terrysthesia is applied to a bad tooth the nerve feeling leaves but the patient does not lose consciousness. It produces no ill effects whatever.

No matter what condition your teeth are in you can come to me without thought or fear of pain. If any of your teeth are missing I can replace them with my Rex Alveolar method without the aid of plates or bridgework, provided you have at least two sound natural teeth left. Rex Alveolar teeth are put in the jaws to stay, and they won't come out. They look, feel and act like natural teeth. Don't think of having a plate made until you learn more about my Rex Alveolar method.

Call at once and let me examine your teeth. I'll tell you candidly just what is required and exactly what the work will cost without obligation on your part. Consultation free to all. Hours, 8:30 to 5:30; Sundays, 10 to 12.

Those who cannot call should write for the free book explaining my Terrysthesia and Alveolar methods.

TANGO TAUGHT TO GIRLS IN FACTORIES

Fun for the Employes of Great Concern Not Limited to Lunch Hour Chats.

(By CARLTON TEN EYCK)

NEW YORK, March 7. — The tango, like Banquo's ghost, will not down. Every assault on the gyrating genius of the cabaret, the dance hall, the ballroom and the drawing-room but serves, apparently, to make the dance more popular. Like the salamander, the tango goes unharmed through fire; like Phoenix, it rises anew from its own ashes; like the Wandering Jew it cannot die, springing up with renewed youth each time it is suspposedly cut down.

The latest hot-beds of the tango in New York are the big factories. The thousands of girls employed in the big plants of the city, tango during their noon hours. In several of the larger establishments, tango teachers are employed who come at noon and instruct the working girls in the steps of the popular craze. The innovation was started in a shirt-waist factory where one hundred and twenty-five girls are employed. It is considered one of the model factories in New York. The management was one of the first to provide a lunch-room for its employes. Seeing the girls dancing during the lunch hour, the management conceived the idea of encouraging the pastime, and employed several expert tangoists to teach the girls to dance properly. A phonograph was put in by the head of the factory to furnish the requisite music.

HAS NEW CURE.

Magistrate Freschi of the Municipal Court believes he has found a brand new solution for the drink evil. He thinks a man should always pay his wife twice as much as he pays for liquor.

The case that called forth Magistrate Freschi's statement on drink was that of an habitual drunkard brought to the bar of justice to show cause why he should not be forcibly restrained. The policemen who went to notify the wife of her husband's condition, arrived just in time to prevent her from jumping off the fire-escape of the flat from which she [illegible] near death from starvation and scarlet fever. Was it any wonder that his honor's indignation rose to white heat?

"It's nobody's business but mine how much I drink," sullenly said the culprit. Now, Magistrate Freschi, sitting often in night court, has to deal with more inebriates perhaps than any other man in New York. He had heard the plea before and was ready for it. Also he knows his rubiyat. Said he:

"Omar Khayyam has sung his praise of wine for the man who has no one depending upon him. But, for a man like yourself, who has a family, there is no falling back upon the plea of personal liberty. You have boasted on your right to drink, but let me say that what may be right for the man who is not married, may be a social crime for a man who has taken upon himself the responsibilities of married life.

"A man who quaffs the exhilarating drink leaves sorrow for his wife to sup. Wine has increased the woes of your wife. The drunkard foils no one but himself. I believe that every time a man takes a drink he ought to be compelled to pay his wife just twice as much as the drink cost him." The magistrate paused a moment as though thinking up something else to say to the self-constituted disciple of Omar.

"You are the most despicable man I ever knew," was the way he finally wound up his remarks to the thoroughly shamed husband.

GRAFT IN TOMBS.

Miss Kate Davis, the woman commissioner of corrections in Mayor Mitchel's new cabinet, has started out by finding graft in the Tombs, graft of the most sordid kind. How, nobody ever suspected that the huge stone pile at the Misery end of the Bridge of Sighs was free from corruption, but it took a woman commissioner to bring the ugly facts to light. Miss Davis arranged to have two of her men deputies arrested for speeding an automobile. They were sent to the Tombs for ten days each and in that time they found out that everything that made life in the prison bearable cost money. They were at first assigned to cells in the negro ward and had to pay the keepers to get other cells. They then were practically starved until they tipped for their meals. For tips they got easy work. Their report, filed with the District Attorney, is expected to cause a great shake-up in the Tombs.

CONGRESSMEN DISTURBED AT HOSTILE LEGISLATION

(Special Correspondence.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 7.—Democratic members of Congress from California are very much disturbed at the apparent hostile attitude of the administration toward that State. Scarcely a week passes that some move is not made, or legislation proposed, detrimental to California's interests.

The tariff bill was admittedly unfair to California injuring industries that the people of that State had labored years to establish. Foreign importers of products in competition with California apparently had the sympathy of the Ways and Means committee. It is not surprising that the New York lemon importers held a banquet in that city in honor of the chairman of the Democratic Ways and Means committee and the chairman of the National Democratic Congressional committee to celebrate the removal of practically all the duty on lemons.

Congressman Joseph [illegible] Knowland of Alameda has recently compiled figures from official sources showing that the effect of this Democratic tariff tinkering is beginning to be felt throughout California. During the months of October, November and December, 1913, the first three months under the operation of the law, lemons were imported to the value of $902,666 as against $270,107 for the corresponding period in 1912. This is an increase of 234 per cent. This will not be pleasant news to the lemon growers of Southern California.

FOREIGN IMPORTERS PROFIT.

It must be kept in mind that the foreign importers have not had their agents out long and it is probable that importations will steadily increase. The consumer, in whose interests this Democratic revision was supposed to be made, has not purchased his foreign or domestic lemons, or in fact anything else, at a reduced price. In other words, the money is being taken from the pockets of California lemon growers and handed to the foreign importers and the Italian producers.

The raisin growers of Fresno and other California counties will be interested to learn that there has been over 56 per cent increase in the importations of raisins. The increase in unshelled almonds has been large and importations for the three months valued at $501,393 as against $157,097 for the corresponding three months in 1912, an increase of 219 per cent.

IMPORTATION OF CHINESE EGGS.

Those interested in the poultry industry in California can well be disturbed when government records show that the importation of eggs for December, 1913, was 1,514,296 dozens as contrasted with 122,293 dozens for the month of December, 1912, an increase of 1236 per cent. Petaluma poultry raisers are up in arms over the importation of Chinese eggs under the new tariff, and an attempt was made to have the Department of Agriculture declare them unfit for food. The department took up the matter and instead of relieving the situation gave the Chinese eggs a clean bill of health which assisted in advertising the oriental product. Several sugar beet factories are closed and it is feared others may be forced to do so later. Many other instances could be cited.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE.

Another serious blow to California has been the attitude of the administration in bringing suit for the unmerging of the Southern and Central Pacific railroads. The California Railroad Commission and practically every commercial body in that State, and newspapers irrespective of party, have protested most vigorously against the action of the attorney general. A committee of representative Californians came to Washington to make a personal appeal. The attorney general's answer to their plea was to bring suit the day following their visit. It is gen[illegible] that should the suit of the attorney general be successful a great injury will be done California. The committee pointed out to the attorney general that he was supposed to act in the interest of the shippers and the people generally, but that in this instance the benefit would redound solely to certain Wall Street interests and be a severe blow to California. The contention of those familiar with railroad conditions in California is that the joint lines of the Central and Southern Pacific railroads can be more conveniently and economically managed as one local system than by the substitution of two incomplete local systems and two agencies to perform the service now being carried on by one complete system in charge of one agency. This was the attitude of the State Railroad Commission.

SUFFRAGE AND CANAL TOLLS.

Then came the Democratic caucus action against suffrage and the attempt of the President to side-step the issue by declaring that he could not assist the cause of equal rights for women because the Democratic platform did not mention that subject. As a final blow to California the repeal of important sections of the Panama Canal Act are being urged to meet the objections of Great Britain. The Democratic platform adopted at Baltimore declared in favor of free tolls for American coastwise ships and against the railroad domination of that waterway. The President could set aside a platform plank but could not mention suffrage because of the same platform.

Before Congress acted in 1912 our treaty obligations were fully discussed and a determination reached that our rights were unquestioned. The concensus of opinion of those senators present when the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was ratified was that as far as coastwise traffic was concerned (no British ship being permitted to engage in that trade) we had a perfect right to allow free tolls for coastwise ships following a policy adopted in regard to the waterways throughout the United States upon which the government of the United States has expended over $600,000,000.

OPINION OF SENATORS PRESENT.

Senators who were present when the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was ratified have stated that their interpretation of the treaty when they voted for it was that we had the absolute right to favor American coastwise ships. This is the opinion of Senators Lodge, Perkins, Clapp and Bard.

Great Britain now questions our right to pass even our own battleships without tolls, although we have expended $400,000,000 in the construction of the canal. Exception is also taken to the provision which seeks to prevent transcontinental railroads from operating ships through the canal in competition with themselves, Great Britain fearing that those Canadian transcontinental railroads which make reports to the Interstate Commerce Commission will be subjected to the same restrictions as American railroads.

A RAILROAD FIGHT.

Representative Doremus, chairman of the National Democratic Congressional committee, declared in a public speech that the question was whether the canal was to be run "in the interest of the tax payers and consumers of the United States or in the interests of the transcontinental railroads that have always opposed the canal and would now destroy its beneficial use to the American people."

It is not surprising that the Democratic members of Congress from California are worried.

An election was recently held in the Second Congressional district of Iowa to fill a vacancy. The district is Demoratl and a Demorat was eleted. Chief interest, however, centered in the relative showing of the Republican and Progressive parties. An analysis of the returns demonstrate that in Iowa, as well as all other States, Progressives are returning to the Republican fold. Roosevelt's vote in this district in 1912 was 13,602. The Progressive candidate vote in the recent election was 3,672, a Progressive loss of 9,930. The Taft vote in 1912 was [illegible] while the Republican candidate for Congress in the recent election polled 10,435 votes, a Republican gain of 2532.

DR. E. H. HALDOCK TO LECTURE ON AUTHORS

Dr. Edwin Harvey Haldock, president of the International Education Association and College of Authorship, will deliver a lecture at the Ebell Society Building, 1440 Harrison street, on "Great Short Stories and Their Writers."

The lecture will be given Saturday afternoon, March 14, at 2:30 o'clock. This lecture was recently given before clubs and literary societies in Los Angeles and San Francisco. In it Dr. Haldock speaks of the few great short stories that have been produced at intervals by the greatest writers of short fiction. He traces the history of short story writing from the crudest form of literary productions, and mentions the factors which have developed the story into its present artistic form. He mentions the influence of the short story upon the character and development of national life, and dwells at length upon the place and power of the short story as produced in current fiction. The lecture will be open to students, teachers, writers and all others interested in short stories as a distinct literary production.

TO SUPPRESS SKATERS SPEEDING BEFORE HOTEL

Youthful skaters, whirling about corners and speeding along sidewalks before the Hotel Oakland may soon be curbed. A woman guest of the hotel was yesterday nearly run down and her complaint may be the cause of a policeman stationed to watch the hotel block. The management declares that the children must skate elsewhere, that the practice is against the law, anyhow, and should be barred at least in downtown sections. Manager Victor Reiter and Maitre d'Hotel C. L. Petersen have taken up the matter since the near-accident of yesterday, when Mrs. C. T. Holling, hastening from the Harrison street entrance, narrowly escaped a youthful skater, whirling along on a single skate.

"We do not allow this in Germany or in any other country," declared Manager Reiter. "Of course, I know the children need exercise, and this is the most healthful that they can take—but in the business section of the city—no! The same applies to bicycling on sidewalks. That has happened here, too."

PASTOR TO ADDRESS Y. M. C. A. MEETING

Rev. Henry Quickenden, pastor of the Union Street Presbyterian church, is announced as the speaker of the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. His subject is "Men Ought Always to Pray." An invitation is extended to all men to attend this meeting.

NOVEL MUSIC AT BIG CLUB RECITAL

Hughes Trio Among Features Planned by Orpheus Members.

Beginning with the first concert of their twenty-first season, the Oakland Orpheus club will introduce several new numbers of keen interest musically. The first appearance of the Hughes instrumental trio on this side of the bay will be a feature. Miss Feranda Pratt, contralto, will be vocal soloist and Glenn H. Woods, musical director of the Oakland city schools, will handle the baton, while the chorus renders his composition "To Arion." Mr. Woods has personally conducted the rehearsals of his difficult number and its rendition will serve to demonstrate his high rank as a composer.

The trio is made up of Mrs. Robert Hughes of this city, pianist; Hother Wismer, violinist, and Herbert Riley, cellist. They have given a series of concerts of chamber music in San Francisco, and appreciation of the excellence of the organization from an artistic standpoint has grown steadily. The trio will render Kirchner's Novelletten, and other numbers yet to be announced. Mrs. Hughes is the regular accompanist for the Orpheus club and the hundreds of friends she has made in this capaciay follow in her new venture.

Miss Feranda Pratt is well known about the bay and her voice is winning her wide recognition. She will include several Irish songs in honor of St. Patrick's day.

The chorus numbers which will develop the full strength of the seventy-five men's voices of the club, will include Dudley Buck's musical setting to Longfellow's poem "The Nun of Nidaros." The several tenor solos which occur in this work will be given by Maurice Anger, a regular member of the club. Mr. Anger's voice is a fine tenor of even quality and good range and control.

The concert will be given Tuesday evening, March 17, at Yet Liberty Theater. Edwin Dunbar Crandall will be conductor.

QUARREL AND FIGHT REUNITES OLD FRIENDS

KENNETT, March 7.—Quarrel of long standing between John Dillon, former saloon porter, and Sherman Orton, cook, culminated in a shooting affair in the Diamond saloon.

Dillon shot Orton in the left side above the hip. The bullet made a flesh wound only. It passed through the back of a chair and buried itself in a wall. The saloon was crowded at the time. Prior to the shooting Orton had stabbed at Dillon, clashing his coat. Dillon then went outside and armed himself.

Both men were arrested on the spot by Night Watchman Bergin, who chanced to be in the saloon. After spending all night in jail each declared he would not prosecute the other. There is a probability that both will be released.

Both are men standing well in the community. Neither had been drinking, but there had been bad feeling between them for months.

It seems that the stabbing of one and the shooting of the other has mended the breach and made them friends as of old.

HOLDS ALLEGED BURGLAR UNTIL POLICE ARRIVE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—Taking the law into his own hands, John Taboas, of 984 Jackson street, seized an alleged burglar, who had just run from his home at 7:15 this morning, and held him for the police. Mrs. Taboas, his wife, had gone to the corner grocery to purchase bread for breakfast. Returning she saw two men leaving her home, one of them carrying her new coat. She hurried in, called her husband, and the latter took up the chase. He captured Adolph Sanchez, but could not catch the man with the coat. Patrolmen Campbell and Fowle responded to a call to the house, took Sanchez into custody and placed him in detinue.

SOCIETY GIRL SAVES FAMILY FROM BLAZE

NEW YORK, March 7.—Miss Agnes Carpenter, daughter of Mrs. Miles B. Carpenter, of 54 East Fifty-seventh street, was awakened at 1 o'clock by smoke in her room.

Hastily putting on a fur coat, the young society girl aroused her mother, the seven maids in the house and the butler, and then telephoned to fire headquarters.

When the firemen arrived Miss Carpenter had found out that the blaze was in the cellar. She directed the firemen how to get at the fire.

Through the smoke-filled house Miss Carpenter went back to her room to get her jewelry, which she put on to be sure it was safe, and then helped to remove valuable furnishings.

WAITING IS RULE ON WALL STREET

Orders Are Small Owing to the Mexican Situation and Disastrous Storm in East.

NEW YORK, March 7.—Wall street resumed its waiting attitude this week, and despite absence of large buying orders, prices were fairly well maintained throughout the week.

Buyers who profited by the January rise withheld taking profits through liquidation, apparently waiting to determine the outcome of what was admitted to be a serious turn in Mexican affairs, and awaiting further information about the proposed reorganization of the Rock Island railway system. Consequently there was little doing on either side of the market.

The disastrous storm in the East interrupted telegraph communication and was another deterrent effect. Perhaps the feature in the market occurred early today when stocks here reflected the break in London that was based on the charges directed at the St. Paul road. The explanation of the president of the St. Paul had not been cabled to London and traders there took an extreme view of the situation, which caused a depression in American railroad stocks. The market here did not fully recover from the effect of this break at London [illegible]

MISSING MODESTAN IS FOUND DEAD IN LAKE

MODESTO, March 7.—The body of a man identified at the coroner's inquest here was that of Alfred Medsen, a farmer of the Westport district, who disappeared from his home about three weeks ago, was found yesterday afternoon by H Raymond, in the Ed Brush lake. The body was half submerged in the water with the side of the head entirely blown away, apparently by a shotgun charge.

The pockets in the clothes were filled with twenty-five pounds of rocks, and it is supposed that the man stood in or near the river as he discharged a shotgun at his own head, falling in the water. Although the body was in a decomposed state, as if it had been in the water two weeks or longer, the clothes and other marks identified the party as Medsen.

Sheriff Dingley has been searching for Medsen since receiving information that he had disappeared from his home on fourteen acres on the Grayson road, February 13. When last seen he talked with a neighbor, saying that he was followed by persons who meant to kill him He was undoubtedly suffering from a deranged mind

"While I am an ardent advocate of temperance, I am intuitively persuaded that prohibition cannot be enforced in this country," continued Cardinal Gibbons. Pinkerton and Fair Directors Met Without Inviting Chief White

Tetrazzini Returns To City in Which Her Rise Began

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—Rumors of a positive sort have it that all is not calm and serene between Presi- [illegible] low exposition directors and the Police Commissioners and Chief White. From the latter set of police dignitaries, together with some of their friends, comes the story that they are peeved over a slight by the fair authorities. A few weeks ago Moore and his confreres had a pow-wow with Detective "Billy" Pinkerton, who happened to be in the city from Chicago. They conferred with the Lake City sleuth about catching foreign and all other high-class, or expert, crooks who are bound to come to the exposition as a fertile field for their operations when the crowds flock in from all points of the compass. They had a long sitting and Pinkerton gave them his ideas and plans about nabbing the guilty law violators or spotting them on their arrival and warning them away. From his ability and experience, Pinkerton gave the directors many excellent suggestions. A contract, said to be tentative, was signed with him. He is to come back for another conference. At the late gathering White and the commissioners were not invited. They think they should have been. Hence their frictional mood. A fair director informs me the board had no idea of ignoring the local police because it believes in their efficiency and realizes the work the fair will put on the shoulders of the department. According to him, the conference with Pinkerton was a preliminary one. When they have a final talk with him the local police officials will be called in. He thinks Pinkerton will naturally expect that as well as all of the fair officials. So there's the whole rumor of the friction and the reason why it is going the rounds.

Richelieus Feted at Mardi Gras

I notice by a New Orleans paper that the Duke and Duchess de Richelieu, who were visiting the city last winter, have been extensively entertained at the Mardi Gras carnival in that Southern metropolis. From there the interesting couple go to New York and Europe. In the late spring months the titled young couple are to visit the aged Empress Eugenie, who has for years been very friendly with the Richelieus and who has expressed a desire to meet the American wife of the last representative of the family of the famous Cardinal Richelieu. The young duchess was a Miss Eleanor Douglas Wise, a Baltimore society girl. Her husband's mother was a New Orleans girl, Alice Heine, daughter of Michael Heine, a banker. When she married the Duke de Richelieu, father of the present duke, her fortune was considered one of the largest in America. On the death of her husband she married Prince Albert of Monaco, but later separated from him. On her death the present duke will inherit her large fortune. The duchess, whose father is an admiral in the United States Navy, has several relatives here, including Mrs. Peter Martin and Mrs. William Babcock. While in the city they were frequently entertained by the Sharon, Tevis and other prominent families. They were here at the time so much social attention was being paid Madame Emma Eames de Gogorza and her husband. The former trained the Duchess de Richelieu's voice in Paris before she met her titled husband. A promising and splendid voice, she did not continue her music after her marriage at the request of her husband. The Empress Eugenie they are soon to visit is now 86 years of age and has lived in exile for about forty-three years. She is said to still like to retain in her home the royal etiquette she enjoyed at the height of her fame and beauty as the wife of Napoleon III.

Lauder Tells Maclaren Story Well

Off the stage as well as on it, Harry Lauder is full of humor and abounding in many irresistible stories. Original in his fun, the Scotchman is also remarkably well posted about the humorous stories credited to various of his countrymen of more or less prominence. At a late supper the other night he was the life of the small party, regaling its members, among other things, with some of the delightful things Ian Maclaren, the author, has put into book form. Passing by what Lauder quoted from "Beside the Bonnie Briar Bush," he alluded to and told inimically a story Maclaren has in one of his essays about Dr. Maclead, the chaplain of Queen Victoria, who was the idol of the Scotch heart. As the story runs and omitting Lauder's quaint dialect and expressive words:

"One day the minister of the next parish to that of Dr. Maclead was sent for to see a workingman who was dangerously ill. After he had visited him in his bedroom, he came into the kitchen to have some conversation with the man's wife.

"'Your husband is very low. I hope he may be spared. I'm afraid it's typhus fever.'

"'Aye, aye,' the wife replied, with mournful pride. 'It's no ordinary trouble.'

[illegible] want to ask him questions. Do you attend St. Luke's Church?'

"'Na, na,' with a fine flavor of contempt both for St. Luke's and its minister. 'We gang to Norman's.'

"'Well, that's all right. You couldn't go to a better. But why did you send for me?'

"'Losh bless ye, sir! div ye think that we wad risk Norman wi' typhus fever?'"

Wherein Woman Excels

Women can vote in California. So there being no signs of race suicide in the State, it is a matter of occasional occurrence for the active or potential married suffragist to have a baby. One of the very active kind I have in mind. A zealous member of woman clubs, social and politic, she worked hard for the suffrage in California. Ever since that victory she has been faithful in attending political meetings and is known to have made one or two very creditable political talks. It is all to her credit that she has shown this interest in outside affairs without neglecting her home duties. Her domestic life is admirable and her husband praises her for her interest in public affairs. They have had another baby, too, and as the story runs the baby is getting its meals in the good, old natural way. This is very pleasing to hubby and papa. But a woman friend and sometimes caustic critic of the mother don't like the idea. An active and ambitious married woman in outside affairs, her friend does not like to see her treat babies as they should be treated. To this visitor and critic, the mother made a laughing and clever reply. At least her doting husband says so. He's fond of telling about it to his intimates. In a confidential mood, he says:

"You know what the madam said: 'I'm more than pleased to know right now that there is beyond doubt one thing a man cannot do better than a woman.'"

Hadn't Support of Marriage License

Al. Bloch, man about town at certain hours and with an unconventional set, has his philosophy of life. Not to know Bloch is to betray your knowledge of San Francisco in all its variety. Pleasing manners, a liberality with his money and long a quiet, unobtrusive and permanent guest at the St. Francis, has given him a certain standing with a lot of people who do not know, or knowing do not care. Over a year ago the pretty Marie Albert, generally known at that time as Marie Bloch, eloped East and married Henry Keilus, scion of a wealthy and prominent family. Unknown to the management of the hotel, Bloch and the pretty Marie were not married, though they had been living at the place as a wedded couple. Marie long ago came back alone and is ready to secure her final decree of divorce. It is reported Bloch is really going to marry the beautiful woman now. They have done so by this time. But to return to Bloch's philosophy of life allied with a bit of prophecy. Marie left him a note when she eloped.

"She'll be back in a year, probably before. Even she can't find life worth while with that reckless young fellow who is just tasting life but really don't know it."

To most of their friends Bloch and Marie were a fine couple, happiness contrasted and accentuated by occasional spats. To his male friends his quiet demeanor over the elopement and his prophecy of her return was inexplicable. They thought he should get a gun and make hot pursuit.

"But I haven't got a marriage license to back me up," he explained to a few.

That was the first they knew the couple were never married. But they thought he cared a whole lot beneath his studied indifference.

Tetrazzini "at Home" Again

Luisa Tetrazzini, the famed diva, is back in her beloved San Francisco again. At her two concerts this week she drew large and wildly enthusiastic crowds, an attendance equal certainly to the throngs that Patti at the height of her glorious career could draw in this city, and which reminded one vividly of what Robert Grau in his absorbing volume, "The Stage in the Twentieth Century," about two years ago said of the Italian songstress. Grau, among other things, stated:

"At last there is everything to indicate that after a half century reign without a rival appearing on the horizon, the mantle of Adelina Patti, queen of song, is about to fall upon Luisa Tetrazzini."

Competent judges today have it that Grau's prophecy was true and that the Italian diva now wears the Patti mantle. At the old Tivoli before the fire Tetrazzini sang four times a week for $350. Before she left there the furore she created caused an increased honorarium. Now and for some years past she commands a price of four figures for each performance. I have no means of knowing what is paid Tetrazzini. But it is a matter of record that for twenty-five years Patti received not less than $4000 a night and at times $5000. Whatever her nightly compensation may be, the Italian singer is popular everywhere and has accumulated a large bank account in consequence. So has her manager, W. H. Leahy, of this city, who first managed her affairs at the Tivoli. Her anger against Cleofanti Campanini, manager and conductor of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, has by no means subsided and she threatens him with a big damage suit. Companini is her brother-in-law and she takes vigorous exception to his alleged statements:

"That Melba, anyway, is the world's greatest [illegible]"

Campanini is said to have made these criticisms of her in explaining why he had not engaged her to sing with the Chicago Grand Opera Company. She is represented as planning a damage suit for no less than a quarter of a million dollars. With all this fuss, anger, harsh criticism of a golden-throated voice and the prospects of a big suit that is delighting talented lawyers, Tetrazzini's pet poodle, the smallest Mexican hairless dog in the world, is [illegible] satisfied and more than ever pleased with his fond and devoted mistress.

How Finds Legal Specializing Pays

Jared How, the Eastern railroad attorney who has been arguing this week before the California Railroad Commission on the proper legal and business method to compute the physical valuation of a section of the Southern Pacific Company's road running northeasterly from Mojave, has made a specialty of this subject. At large fees, How is said to have cases of this kind all over the country. His work in this direction will greatly increase as the Interstate Commerce Commission progresses with its important work of preparing physical valuations of railroads, telegraph and telephone lines and other common carriers and begins to base rates, or charges, on those valuations. C. A. Prouty of Vermont recently resigned after a long tenure of office on the commission in order to head this vast and significant work under the commission. The country has been divided into several grand districts for the purpose. R. A. Thompson, formerly chief engineer of the California Railroad Commission, was recently appointed as the chief engineer of the division on this coast. He has main offices in the Wells-Fargo building of this city. Eventually Thompson expects to have 700 men at work. Thompson aims to utilize the work along this line of the Railroad and Public Utility Commissions in the several states under his jurisdiction. This explains some of the present active work of Attorney How out here.

The piece of road out from Mojave whose physical value is in dispute before the commission was recently built. The company's books show it cost $5,000,000, which included full fares for workmen in traveling over Southern Pacific lines and regular freight rates on all material hauled for construction. The engineers of the commission fixed the value at $4,130,000, allowing 5 per cent for depreciation, although the line is only twenty months old. They also cut off $650,000 on the ground that the company should have hauled workmen and material at cost. The principal of proper computation involved in the case is large and far-reaching. The money involved in the case is a matter of $53,000, or thereabouts, in annual interest. The railroad wants a schedule of rates that will give it a fair, or say 6 per cent, interest on the five million cost. How has argued the problem from alpha to omega and thrown much light on a difficult but vitally interesting subject.

Mining Exhibits Will Be Separate

California mining exhibits at the Panama-Pacific Exposition are to be displayed by the separate counties possessing minerals. There is not to be one big collective display of this character. There will be plenty of them from this big State so rich in such resources but some of the mining men are wondering how these exhibits by counties will compare with massed or bunched similar exhibits from the various mining States of the country and from the showing in this regard that will be made by foreign countries; also how the scattered mineral displays of California will impress the stranger. At the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at St. Louis, Japan had a wonderful mining exhibit, the best there in many respects. Word comes from Japan that she will try at the local fair to exceed her St. Louis display. She lacked there as she will lack here the variety and value of mineral exhibits which California can boast, but her big collective show, with a perfect working model, caught the eye and won much praise at another exposition.

Speaking again of Japan at the 1915 exposition, it is said Japanese gardeners are remarkably clever at enlarging or exaggerating the trees and flowers of their country. Take, for instance, plums and cherries. These are cultivated in Japan, not for the fruit, but for the flower. By a peculiar treatment the gardeners so improve the blossoming qualities that the blooms become as large as roses; indeed, plum blossoms have been seen four times the size of American cabbage roses.

Prince Cupid Seeks Health

Jonah Kuhio Kalanianaol of Honolulu, the Hawaiian delegate to Congress and familiarly known among his friends as Prince Cupid, was at the Palace the other day en route to an interior resort for health and recreation. The Princess Kawananakoa, much favored in local and London society, married his late brother, Prince David. Prince Cupid, like Colonel Sam Parker, another famous Hawaiian and frequent visitor to this city and the Bohemian Club, is fond of frogs' legs cooked in cream and placed in the middle of an omelet; also of poi, delectable product of tara root and far famed as Hawaii's national dish. The prince laughingly explained to some city friends that probably those and some other favorite dishes had caused his lassitude and ennui. Anyhow, he wanted a change of scenery, air and dishes and had come to the mainland for a few weeks to get them. Had Liliuokalani not lost her throne by the annexation of the islands to the domain of Uncle Sam, the prince would now be king of the islands. On this account he is said to be the only heir to a throne who ever graced the halls of Congress. I think he has been elected a delegate five or six times but seemingly does not take the same interest in politics he did a few years ago. He is an immense favorite with the natives and presumably can retain his delegateship for some time to come. President Wilson's appointment of L. E. Pinkham as governor of the islands was displeasing to him. Governor Frear, Pinkham's predecessor, was also an official he did not like. Taft would not remove him, however, to please the prince. Frear saw fit to resign. Otherwise he might have held on to the job to this time.

Mrs. Whitelaw Reid Expected Soon

The many warm friends of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, a daughter of the late D. O. Mills and widow of the late American ambassador to the Court of St. James, are expecting her arrival within a few days. She owns the famous Mills country home at Millbrae down on the peninsula and will spend most of her time there while on the coast. Mrs. Reid and her brother, Ogden Mills, inherited the large fortune left by the father. They gave part of the million dollars with which St. Luke's Hospital was modernized. They also gave a large sum of money to build the new Red Cross hospital at San Mateo. Like the father, the daughter and son are very generous in an unostentatious way and have never forgotten their old California home. It is familiar and recent history of how Mrs. Reid and her distinguished husband lived in splendor in Dorchester House, Park Lane, London. They occupied a veritable palace and entertained on a most splendid scale. It was while living in London that their daughter was married to the Hon. John Ward, a brother of Lord Dudley. Her brother's daughter also married the Earl of Granard. D. O. Mills is supposed to have left to his son and daughter a fifty-million-dollar estate. When Whitelaw Reid was minister to France, Mrs. Reid built a home in Paris for young American men and women who were there as art students. The work that Mrs. Reid inspired is still being carried along in a large building under the direction of Mrs. Grace Whitney Hoff of Detroit.

Schwab to Inspect Union Iron Works

I see where Charles M. Schwab has arrived at Pasadena in his private car, Loretta, with his wife and a party of friends. Later on he will inspect his Union Iron Works property here and the Heffernan Shipbuilding and Drydock plant at Seattle, which is owned by his Seattle Construction and Drydock Company. Through recent arrangements with the navy authorities Schwab will soon have a big drydock plant on this side of the bay. Macgregor, his resident manager, will go to Southern California tomorrow to confer with Schwab about improvements to be made here. I am told the business of the Union Iron Works is much better than for several years past. A financial paper the other day had much to say in praise about his steel plant at Bethlehem, Pa., where he has over 12,000 men employed. He has become a big independent factor in that industry since his retirement as the first and highest paid president of the steel trust. He has also become immensely wealthy since the days he was known as one of the "eighteen promising young men of Andrew Carnegie." The new private car, Loretto, he is traveling in, is said, by the way, to be the most expensive in the country, costing over $140,000. It is of steel. The interior is of solid mahogany and, in many places, is inlaid with gold and silver filigree and pearl, while the carving is of the most pleasing and attractive sort. There is a modern bathroom built entirely of Italian marble.

Dr. Hegemann Revives Regrets

Dr. Werner Hegemann of Berlin said some very wise and suggestive things about "City Planning" at the Commonwealth Club luncheon at the Palace Hotel the other day. Being an expert on the subject and familiar with the problems of Paris, Berlin, Boston and other large cities, his criticism of how the important matter has not been well handled by San Francisco was both caustic and impartial. He regretted the city did not follow the plans of Burnham after the 1906 fire. Many prominent people here have the same deep regrets at least for some of those plans and others that were suggested at the time of the catastrophe. Better buildings followed the fire, but the old street plans were rigidly adhered to. Many thoughtful men I know regret that the bond scheme failed to carry by which it was proposed to extend the panhandle of Golden Gate Park to the junction of Van Ness Ave. and Market St. That would have been a fine improvement for the city. Some day the project will be carried out, but it will cost a pot of money. I remember how it was proposed to widen Montgomery street after the fire. On its western side all the buildings of consequence had been destroyed. The owners on the eastern side wanted it widened twelve feet along the western line and were willing to pay all expenses, including a price for the strip of frontage used. Meeting after meeting was held, but agreement was impossible. It was also proposed to use the new city hall site for a union depot, tracks entering from the south. There were words and words, but that was as far as it got. A dozen other suggestions were made. They all ended in smoke. Some of them will be revived in the years to come. Dr. Hegemann is wise and correct as a critic on city planning, but we are not ready to make living realities of his ideas and ideals.

PADEREWSKI MAKES SIXTH LAND PURCHASE IN FOUR STATES

preferred the charges, with the assistance of an engineer, W. W. Breite by name. Supervisors Powers and Andrew J. Gallagher aided that worthy couple all they could or dared to do. Supervisor Emmet Hayden aired the whole miserable affair at one of the hearings when he said with much force and feeling, "it has been demonstrated to my mind that these charges are a flimsy pretext to discredit this administration. They have been made for purely political purposes." The evidence was so overwhelmingly in favor of good, honest work that the Rolph administration gains in prestige where the hope of those back of the charges was to throw mud and have some of it stick. Rolph in his report scores those making the charges, but mentions nobody by name. He regrets that anybody should have brought them "in the hope of obtaining temporary political or other advantage." The investigation and its result means that Rolph and Gallagher have come to the parting of the political ways. Gallagher wants to be the next mayor. Rolph wants another nomination. Both have their friends at work all over town in a quiet way booming and "knocking." The Gallagher clique are past masters at "knocking," but the steel work investigation has for awhile, at least, taken the force out of their knocks. Rolph's best friends are glad now the investigation and its result ensued for two reasons.

They consider them a strong political factor for him.

They believe Rolph now realizes the motives of Gallagher and will temporize or trim with him no longer. They think he kept him in the house of his friends too long in the face of repeated warnings.

Perjury Suit Lorimer Case Aftermath

Only the other day a dispatch from Chicago told of how another witness in the celebrated Funk case had been held on a charge of perjury. Long ago the charge against Funk was broken down and shown to be a vile conspiracy. It was an unsavory aftermath of the election to the United States Senate by bribery of William Lorimer from Illinois. Funk at the time of Lorimer's election was general manager of the International Harvester Company. Because of his activity in exposing the means by which Lorimer was selected as Senator by the Illinois Legislature, Funk was charged by the husband with having alienated the affections of Mrs. John C. Henning. Mrs. Henning on the stand swore she had never seen Funk except in the courtroom. The names of the "higher-ups" in the bold conspiracy were never brought out in court. But it was always alleged that one or more prominent men inspired the alienation suit in revenge for Funk's testimony in the Lorimer case wherein he quoted Hines, the lumberman, as stating that it cost $100,000 to "put Lorimer over." Hines was later expelled from the exclusive Union League Club of the Lake City after the Lorimer scandal had been aired from coast to coast. About two years ago when Funk was visiting this city, he told me as well as others of his now famous stand against Lorimer. Hines asked Funk and others to contribute to a fund to reimburse Lorimer's friends who had spent much money for his election. Funk refused to have anything to do with the case. Later on he told Editor Kohlsatt of the Chicago Record-Herald. The latter published an editorial and steadfastly refused to give the name of his informant. When Kohlsatt was threatened with imprisonment for contempt in refusing to divulge the name, Funk come to the front and told all. Then the alienation suit was sprung for $50,000 damages. Funk had never heard of Henning and his wife. The former was a hotel steward and his wife a checker in the same place at $15 a month. [illegible] A lot of perjury cases followed and the end is not yet.

Waterfront Deal Stiffens Land Values

The sale of 275 acres of waterfront property in the neighborhood of Hunter Point for a reported consideration of $600,000 to F. W. Van Sicklen, C. O. G. Miller, Fred Morgan and others is a late noteworthy and suggestive realty deal. One immediate result has been a stiffening of land values in the southern part of town, particularly along the southern bay front, and rumors of other large deals in that general neighborhood. The deal cannot help but enhance land values elsewhere on the waterfront of this city and county and likewise all along the east bay shore. The action of the buyers is, of course, due to their strong and withal reasonable belief that this kind of property will be in greater demand than ever after the opening of the Panama canal, the increase of the bay as a great shipping center, a rapid increase in population and the favorable business and financial results that must come from the 1915 exposition. Senator James G. Fair was wise in his day when he got a lot of north bay front land. His two daughters own it now. The Law brothers hold extensively in the same locality. All of this property is now being used as part of the big fair site. This general section is pretty well held by men of means. It is in the southern section where one must look for and expect much activity for speculative as well as permanent business purposes. The south bay section fronts the Potrero district of San Francisco. Realty experts look to this district for many sales in the near future. The city is forcing a growth in that direction and the Southern and Western Pacific and Santa Fe have many ambitious designs there.

Land Sales for Year Two Millions

Speaking last Wednesday night of the report from Paso Robles to the effect that Paderewski, the pianist, had, through certain representatives, closed negotiations for purchasing 2500 acres of land in that vicinity, including the Merritt Springs property of 1000 acres, a leading realty broker, with a large country lands department, informed me the price the artist is to pay is in the neighborhood of $200,000. My friend considers the deal a very good one for Paderewski and remarked that a friend of the latter the other day informed him that this makes the sixth land purchase in four American States that the Polish gentleman has consummated. The broker, as part of his business and because of it being one of his hobbies, keeps what he considers a fairly accurate record of California farm land sales to people from other States and counties from year to year. Last year his record shows two million of such sales were made. Three years ago the record ran up to six millions. All these transactions were north of Bakersfield and Santa Barbara. He expects a fine record of these transactions this year and for 1915.

Sebastian Encouraged Colonist Rates

I noticed the death of John Sebastian of Chicago the first of the week. For a number of years and up to the end of last year, Sebastian was vice-president of the Rock Island system in charge of all passenger traffic. He was a great believer in low rates for passengers to California in the winter time and for very cheap tourist rates during the spring and fall months. In this respect he was always a strong factor with the roads terminating in the State in helping them to get their reduced rate programs indorsed by all the lines in the Western and Transcontinental Passenger Associations. Clinton Jones, the retired wealthy railroad man of this city, was for years the general agent of the Rock Island here. Jones worked under him and frequently entertained Sebastian. Fred Thompson, who succeeded Jones, and now lives here in charge of all coast business for the Rock Island, was a protege and apt pupil of Jones and Sebastian. The latter retired the end of last year on a $20,000 pension for the first year and $5000 annually thereafter as long as he lived. He died two months after his retirement and while arranging to move to Berkeley for a permanent home in his old age.

Gen. Barry Meets Many S. F. Friends

Major-General Thomas Barry and William Carter, U. S. A., met many old army and civilian friends while in the city on their way to their respective new posts of duty in the Philippines and Hawaii. Barry succeeds General Franklin J. Bell, who has been transferred to the Mexican frontier in Texas. Carter succeeds General Funston, who recently was ordered to the Texas frontier. General Barry has a host of friends here. He was with the First Infantry at the Presidio when General Shafter was its colonel. He was born in New York City and graduated from West Point in 1877. In the Pine Ridge campaign of 1891, he was promoted to a captaincy. Promotion was rapid during the Spanish-American war. Both Barry and Carter were two of the five or six brigadiers who were appointed over the head of Funston to a major-generalcy. For awhile Barry was stationed here as a brigadier. He went from this coast to be superintendent of the West Point military academy in succession to Colonel H. L. Scott with the title of major-general. It was the occasion of much comment that a major-general should be chosen for the superintendency. The authorities had made up their mind that the place should be filled by a general officer and have ever since rigidly adhered to the rule. On the death of General Fred Grant, Barry succeeded to the command of the eastern division with a New York headquarters. He leaves that fine billet to go to the Philippines and will be succeeded there by General Wood, now chief of staff and whose army career is as interesting as that of General Fred Funston.

Miss Keller Would Do as Others Do

Helen Keller, who in spite of her blindness and dumbness, has obtained a fine education and mental training and done things to stamp her as a most remarkable character, will have crowded houses the two times week after next she is to speak in this city. Thousands know her story in all the details and are anxious to see her and hear what she has to say. Of the mass of material that has been printed in book and newspaper form about Miss Keller, I recall where one of her sympathetic friends and teachers remarked about two years ago that she always tried to be "like other people," and so her habit of speaking of things as they appear to those who see and hear has become second nature with her. The same authority also states that Miss Keller's whole life since her education was begun has been a series of attempts to do whatever other people could do. And this unconquerable desire has manifested itself not only in her mental achievements, but in her physical accomplishments as well. There is not any form of outdoor sport, except where sight is an absolute requisite, such as tennis and golf, in which Miss Keller has not taken an interest and made some progress.

Once this authority and friend went riding with her on a fine tandem bicycle and the former tells this story:

"One day we were out with a party of other cyclists who we soon outdistanced. This seemed to Miss Keller a fine opportunity to play a joke. 'Let's pretend we've had a spill,' she eagerly said. 'We'll muss up the road a bit, put the machine against that stump over there (how she knew of the existence of the stump I never learned) and then lie down as if we had been bowled over.'

"The stage-setting for the affair was perfect as she designed it.

"When the rest of the party arrived a little later and, jumping from their wheels, ran to the assistance of the supposed victims, Miss Keller sprang to her feet with shouts of laughter and fairly danced about in her delight at the success of her scheme."

"After he married her," said Oliver, "James learned that there was no truth in the report that I had given her $30,000 or any other large sum and so, after treating her cruelly, he left her."

Oliver was formerly president of the bank at Climax, Ga., and a spectacular figure in this section. According to his story it was his half brother, and not himself, who was the bigamist. He says he intends going into the banking business again. His wife, or former wife, desires to return to him, it is said.

NOT ASHAMED OF PAST.

"I am going to locate right here in Americus," says Oliver, "and I want the people to know all about me before I begin business. I am not going to try to hide my past in the least, for I am not ashamed of it. I am not guilty of the crime for which I was sentenced. It sounds funny for a man who has been messed up in the courts to say he is going into the banking business, but that's just what I am going to do. I don't ask anybody to deposit a cent in my bank unless he wants to."

Oliver was arrested in November following the escape from a prison at Aberdeen of L. Charles Harding, whom Oliver resembles. Harding is said to be safe in Honduras. After serving several months Oliver obtained a writ of habeas corpus and was taken before a chancellary, where he established an alibi and was released.

SINGERS ABROAD VOICE PROTESTS

Moral Attacks by Alma Gluck and Walter Damrosch Arouse Students.

BERLIN, March 7.—American opera singers in Germany and Austria, hundreds of American girl music students, vocal teachers and "Pension" or boarding house keepers in Berlin, Dresden, Leipzig, Coburg, Munich and Vienna are greatly aroused over the statements of Walter Damrosch, the famous orchestra leader, and Alma Gluck, the Metropolitan opera prima donna, and attacks by certain music journals on the moral conditions surrounding American girls in Europe and the alleged immoral conduct of students themselves. It has reopened the old controversy and question, "Are the morals of European—especially German—cities lower and worse than those of New York, Boston and other American cities?"

CALL IT SLANDEROUS ATTACK.

American women singing in operas in the various German cities characterize the intimation that no girl can get a position in German operas without "paying the price—and that price, her honor," as a "slanderous attack upon their character." The protest of American women who are singing in German operas, however, is as a tempest in a teapot compared to the storm of indignation aroused among the hundreds of American girls by the statement of Alma Gluck that the leisure time of the American music students "is given up chiefly to swapping lies and exchanging bedfellows." The keepers of "pensions" would like to get their fingers into Miss Gluck's locks for her assertion that the "pensions are breeding places of vice and filth of the worst sort." Eleanor Painter, the American prima donna at the Deutsche opera, which under Director George Hartmann, has become the largest and most successful opera in Berlin and is giving the Kaiser's own opera a hard run, said: "Miss Gluck's assertion is a libel upon every American girl singing or studying in Germany and with but very few exceptions our girls over here are 'straight.'" Miss Painter is a Colorado girl of the true independent Western type. She has been called the most beautiful woman on the German operatic stage and also the "Billie Burke" of opera because of her very charming personality. Three years ago she was leading soprano in Dr. Parkhurst's church in New York. Unlike many others, she has not been the protege of some prominent operatic star or wealthy person but has had to fight her own way until she is now one of the leading American singers in Germany.

"I think it is a shame for our own people to attack our characters so unjustly. I have studied and sung in New York, London and Berlin. The moral conditions on the stage here are not worse than in New York. There are not half as many 'Johnnies' hanging around the stage entrance here as in New York nor near the number of wealthy young men with nothing else to do than to offer temptations to girls. 'Behind the scenes,' as a matter of fact, American girls, serious minded, determined to keep straight and with nerve enough to slap a man in the face, have given the German operatic stage a new tone. I quite agree however that girls in their teens should not be sent to Berlin unchaperoned to study, any more than I would approve of them being sent to New York under similar conditions."

CALIFORNIA GIRLS INDIGNANT.

Marcella Craft and Maud Fay, two California girls, who have attained international operatic fame by their singing in the famous opera of Munich, also joined in denouncing the statements of Walter Damrosch and Miss Gluck. Miss Craft said: "I have spent the past twelve years in study and in singing in Italy and in Germany. I have lived in many pensions in both countries and have been in close touch with musical conditions here and constantly in touch with the American student element. I feel therefore that I am perhaps as well qualified to speak with authority as Miss Gluck who apparently has spent but nine months in Europe. I have lived in many pensions. I have sung in many cities. I have seen nothing of conditions described by Miss Gluck. As far as I have been able to observe, in every theater the American stands for the better element and is respected accordingly. American girls in Germany are proving that immorality is not a necessary concomitant to the artistic life."

AMERICAN PASTOR PROTESTS.

Rev. Dr. John D. Crosser of Chicago, pastor of the American church in Berlin, protested against the assertion of Damrosch and Miss Gluck as being misleading, too sweeping and an injustice to hundreds of American girls. At the same time he also warned American parents against sending either young boys or girls to European cities to study without protection. Dr. Alice Luce, principal of the fashionable Willard School for American girls where many prominent Americans send their girls for a finishing course, declared that New York could throw no moral stones at Berlin. Miss Luce, because of her many years of educational work in Berlin and Leipzig, is a recognized authority on educational training of American girls abroad. She formerly was dean of the New England Conservatory of Music and Professor in Oberlin college, Ohio.

WEDS AT BEDSIDE TO SATISFY DYING MOTHER

STURGIS, Mich., March 7.—Lying on her deathbed, a victim of the white plague, Mrs. Jennie Birely, aged 48 years, called her daughter, Gladys, to the bedside and said:

"Gladys, I am going to leave you soon. This disease has me in its grip and I'm unable to stand it much longer. Will you grant one request before I die?"

"Why, yes, mother. What is it?"

"I want you to marry Glenn Tattan. I know you love him, and he wants you. [illegible] married. Will you?"

"Why, certainly—that is, I'll speak to Glen about it."

The following day Miss Birely's bedroom was the scene of a solemn wedding. The aged woman, weak from suffering, lay on her pillow and listened as the marriage vows were taken. A smile broke over her countenance. Then she lapsed into unconsciousness and a short time afterward died.

ENGINEERS INQUIRE INTO FLOOD CAUSES

WATSONVILLE, March 7.—Engineer Phelps of the Southern Pacific staff, and Engineer Charles Ploda of the Spreckles Sugar company were here this week to investigate the causes of the floods and overflow of the Pajaro river. They will return here next Tuesday to make a more exhaustive investigation and their report will be considered at a mass meeting of citizens to be held in the near future. The two engineers intend to travel from the Logan quarry to the mouth of the river, a distance of about 15 miles in a boat next Tuesday and they believe that they can submit several plans to conquer the flood waters.

NEEDED VACATION, SO HE JUST FADED AWAY

CHICAGO, March 7.—The mystery of the disappearance of George A. Griffin, Brooklyn eyeglass manufacturer, missing since February 10, solved itself in part when he walked into the Palmer House and asked the clerk for his room key.

Mr. Griffin glanced ove rthe array of mail—most of it in his wife's writing, and then sent a dozen telegrams.

"This is awfully embarrassing. It's my punctuality, Harry," he said to Harry Anderson, a New York jewelry salesman. "I have written to my wife every night since we were married, so when she didn't get a letter she was scared stiff.

"It's none of the public's business," he said to a reporter. "I felt that after all these active years in business my brain needed a vacation. I've been with some prominent people, mostly doctors."

BOURNE OUT OF RACE.

PORTLAND, Ore., March 7.—In a telegram received today from Washington, D. C., former United States Senator Jonathan Bourne Jr. of Oregon announced that he would not be a candidate in the coming Republican primary for the United States senatorial nomination.

CLARK DENOUNCES ACADEMIC CRITIC

Speaker Exonerated by House of Charges Concerning Lobby Vote.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Speak Clark signalized his sixty-fourth birthday today by denouncing from the rostrum of the House an address by Charles Zueblin of Winchester, Mass., former professor of sociology in the University of Chicago, assailing the Speaker's counting of votes on the report of the committee that investigated the Mulhall lobby charges. Democrats, Republicans and Progressives cheered and paid tribute to the speaker when he had finished. Clark had read to the House a published article quoting Zueblin's attack on his methods and the alleged arbitrary dictation of the speaker and also Democratic Leader Underwood.

as "untrue, brazen and outrageous" and a reflection on the integrity of the House. He related the progress of the Mulhall vote, pointed out that any member wishing to vote had four opportunities to do so, and added:

"I have been lied about so much I have sort of gotten used to it."

Representative Mann of Illinois, Republican leader; Republican McDonald of Michigan, Progressive Republican Butler of Pennsylvania, Republican and others [illegible] ing the speaker and paying tribute to his fairness and honor.

Mann's allusion to the speaker's sixty-fourth birthday produced applause and shouting. He declared no one could question Speaker Clark's honor, integrity or fairness as Speaker.

NEW ROAD PLANNED BY MINING INTERESTS

AUBURN, March 7—Sheridan will probably become a railroad junction and the transfer point for shipping of machinery and supplies to the Dairy Farm mine now under control of the Guggenheim interests as Manager M. A. Newman for the mine owners, appeared before the board of supervisors to ask a franchise for the building of a narrow-gauge railroad from the mine to Sheridan.

The franchise asks permission to construct the proposed narrow-gauge railroad along the county roads, a distance of six miles. The matter was referred to a committee consisting of Supervisors Hanna, Brennan and Collins, who will file a report on the feasibility of the proposition at the next meeting of the board.

The Dairy Farm mine contains large copper values and it is expected will be developed into a great enterprise and may be the beginning of the development of other copper-bearing ledges in that vicinity. It is situated a few miles south Bear river and twelve miles northeast of Auburn. Vantrent is the nearest post-office.

BILLIE BURKE COMING WEST
LONDON ENGAGEMENT IS OFF

THOSE WHO STAR ALONG NEW YORK'S GREAT WHITE AND BLIGHT WAY.

MISS BILLIE BURKE

(By ROSWELL DAGUE.)

NEW YORK, March 7.—Billie Burke, so her press agent informs us, has cancelled her London engagement in "The Land of Promise" and instead will appear in San Francisco shortly in a repertoire of her successes. Just when that engagement will begin the publicity promoter has not made public, nor has he announced the names of the plays in which the Frohman star will appear. Of one thing there can be certainty, however, and that is that her present vehicle by W. Somerset Maughan will be one of her principal offerings.

When, early in the season, the announcement was made from the Frohman offices that Mr. Maugham had written a serious play and that Miss Burke would have the leading part, there were many shakings of heads. "The English Clyde Fitch," Mr. Maugham had been called. That was in the days—only a few years ago—when his "Lady Frederick" was Ethel Barrymore's vehicle, his "Jack Straw" and "Smith," two popular plays, with John Drew and his "Mrs. Dot," a society playlet, in which Miss Burke romped for a year or two.

MOST BEWITCHING.

And as for Miss Burke, no one has ever before accused her of being much more than a bewitching personality bewitchingly gowned.

Consider the difference, then, which "The Land of Promise" offers.

Northwestern Canada is that region of futures. And Billie is first an English lady's companion and then wife of a hired man on one of these Canadian ranges!

But to tell the story of the play, Norah (Miss Burke) has been the companion [illegible] man living in a country place near London. She has had her board and room and £30 a years, in return for which she has exercised the dogs and otherwise been a slave, though still a "lady" to her exacting mistress. The latter is dead when the first act opens and the family is assembled to hear the will read.

BUILDS CASTLES.

Norah has been led to believe that she will receive a pension of some £300 a year for her devotion to her employer. She has built glorious castles in Spain of life abroad; a life free from financial worry and bodily slavery. Imagine her feelings, then, when she finds that the old lady had neglected to change her will and she is left without a cent. Ten years of her life gone and no prospects except further servitude of the same sort.

In this extremity she decides to accept the offer of a home made her by a brother who has taken up a homestead in Canada. There the second act finds her. There she finds herself woefully helpless, for she cannot cook, she cannot wash, she cannot do one of the things a farmer's wife must be able to do out on the plains. To make the matter worse, her brother, far from home and friends, has forgotten his "gentility" and has married a waitress in a railroad station lunch counter.

CALLS ON TO MARRY HER.

Between the two women there is not only complete lack of sympathy and understanding, but actual antagonism. Matters grow from bad to worse, quarrels follow nagging, and finally when Norah's sister-in-law demands an apology for what she considers an insult, Norah throws herself at the head of the hired man who wants a housekeeper on his own homestead. In sheer pique she calls upon him to marry her and take her away, which he does.

The third act brings Norah and her new husband to their new home, the crudest sort of a log cabin. Norah and the man, Frank, have quarreled since their first meeting, yet by some queer notion Norah believes she will have fulfilled her duty when she has cooked and kept house for him. He wants a wife as well as a housekeeper. In a splendid scene, without a suggestion of vulgarity, Maugham gives his version of the "taming of the shrew." Frank means to be master in his own household. Brute strength conquers.

Yet the degree of the conquest remains to be shown in the final act, several months later. It is true Frank has made Norah his mate, but in return she has softened him. He is no longer the domineering male of the earlier act, but a gentler "strong man." So, when money comes from England, enough to take Norah back to her old life there, it is this new man and her regard for him which makes her choose to stay in "the land [illegible]

NOT A CRITICISM.

There is a strong resemblance between the two last acts and the theme of the late William Vaughan Moody's drama, "The Great Divide." Yet this is distinctly not a criticism of Maugham's play. The two authors arrived at their situations differently, equally logically and with almost equal effectiveness. Mr. Moody's play treated the situation with greater psychological insight, but Mr. Maugham's is admirably concise and dramatic.

It would be absurd to compare Miss Burke and Margaret Anglin, the Ruth of "The Great Divide," yet amazing as it may seem, Miss Burke succeeds in filling the picture as Norah. For the first time in her career she really acts throughout the play. She showed she could in one scene from Pinero's "The Mind-the-Paint' Girl" last year, but only for one scene. Although she has occasional moments when she tosses her head, poses with hand on hip and gurgles, she achieves a general air of straightforwardness which is as welcome as it is surprising.

THE BEST ACTING.

The best acting of the play, however, is done by Shelley Hull as the young rancher-husband. Here is a young actor who is not only prepossessing in appearance, but with a genuine equipment for characterization, something far better than being able to act good-looking young society men agreeably. His distinction between the hired man of the second act and the husband of the last is as fine an exhibition in graduation of character as one would want to see. Here is a man who is more than likely to achieve stardom before many years have passed. That he is a brother of Henry Hull, husband of Margaret Anglin, is an interesting bit of personal gossip.

Most certainly, when Miss Burke is seen on the Coast, "The Land of Promise" is one of her plays not to be missed. She may affect her "cute" mannerisms in "Mrs. Dot" and other of her former comedies, but if she plays "The Land of Promise" as she has been doing it here, the promise of her achieving the title of actress some day comes very near fulfillment.

CITY PLANNING TO PREVENT SMOKE

> It promotes trade by supplying direct and easy ways for the extension and development of commerce; fosters city growth by making it easier and cheaper to conduct all classes of business; increases and insures all property values by preventing the many evils of haphazard building; makes every citizen a more efficient and more effective worker by saving time and money in transit of goods and people; and, above all, it assures to that city which adopts it a future citizenship sound in body, mind and morals.
> CHARLES H. WACKER.

Ideal city planning purposes scientific smoke prevention. This may be less important in Oakland than in some other cities, but it is somewhat important and will become increasingly so as Oakland increases in population and diversity of industry.

Twenty-five per cent loss of light from smoke in the air is the estimate in many important cities of the United States. Dr. Herbert H. Kimball, expert in meteorology in the federal weather bureau, has recently concluded an important study which he has embodied in a report. Dr. Kimball shows that the loss of light because of the presence of smoke in Pittsburg is much more than 25 per cent. The amount of light there is only about 60 per cent of what it is in Sewickley, a residential suburb.

REDUCES SEEING DISTANCE.

Dr. Kimball's study was made in co-operation with the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research of the University of Pittsburg and his calculations on the loss of light present data which proves that Pittsburg deserves the name of "smoky city." Dr. Kimball brings out the fact that in the business section of Pittsburg the presence of smoke and fog reduces the distance at which things may be seen to about one-tenth of the limit in the open country.

The people of Pittsburg realize that the smoke nuisance is causing huge economic loss of the lessened amount of light afforded for work during the day and the damage done by smoke to buildings and merchandise. The Mellon Institute has been conducting a series of studies of the smoke problem for months, and four other reports, similar to that which has been written by Dr. Kimball, have been issued. The Smoke and Dust Abatement League of Pittsburg has been formed, and its literature is regarded as a model for similar work in other cities.

STATEMENT BY LEAGUE.

In summarizing the facts of the smoke problem the Pittsburg League has issued this statement:

"Smoke is not only a cause of expense to the maker of it, but a nuisance and a cause of expense to every man, woman and child in the community. It is injurious to health; it destroys vegetation; it increases the density and aids in the persistence of fogs; it cuts off sunlight; it increases the cost of living through laundry and cleaning bills and extra household expense, and it causes the deterioration of buildings and building materials.

"In the study of the smoke problem, made in both Cleveland and Chicago, business men estimate that the cost from smoke to the people in their cities amounted to more than their taxes. The presence of any smoke in the air, engineers say, destroys to a degree any beauty that buildings may possess, increases the cost of cleaning buildings, carpets, furniture and clothes, and causes great loss in drygoods each year to merchants because of the soiling received from the smoky atmosphere before the goods are sold."

WHAT PLANNING INVOLVES.

City planning involves the careful study of topography, waterfronts, railways and terminals, together with the direction of the wind, and would so adjust the industrial district to such a physical relationship to the residential and shopping districts that the smoke would not blow across the latter. This is but one of the many practical problems which are taken up and studied scientifically by the expert city planner.

Some most interesting illustrations of these ideas may be seen in the great exhibit of American and foreign city planning which Oakland is joining with the other east bay cities to bring to the coast and which will be held in the new Oakland city hall March 13 to 22. Admission will be free: the doors will be open from 11 a. m. to 10 p. m. daily. All citizens of Oakland should make it their business to see how careful city planning pays.

TO VISIT FRESNO.

PORTERVILLE, Mar. 7.—Knights of Pythias have made arrangements for a special train to take the knights of the East Side to Fresno on the evening of March 18, when a valley celebration is to be held. Upwards of 150 of the members of the Tulare county organizations are expected to attend the Raisin City celebration.

Beware of Cocaine and Arsenic in Dentistry

Cocaine and arsenic are dangerous drugs and injurious to the human system. By using them some dentists do so-called painless dentistry, but the aftereffects are painful and dangerous.

Neither cocaine or arsenic are ever used in Painless Parker offices in any form whatever, yet all our operations are done without pain to the patient, and because we have eliminated these drugs from our practice there are no injurious after-effects. Thousands of people neglect their teeth and thereby injure their health and suffer in silence because of fear of pain in the dentist's chair.

For 25 years I have been giving my patients, numbering now more than 700,000, real painless dentistry, and what I have done for them I can do for you.

Because my dentistry is done without pain, it is properly done. The best dentist in the world cannot do his work properly if the patient is constantly flinching with pain. My dentistry is also done more rapidly because the patient is always at ease. Fewer and shorter visits are necessary than by the old-style dental methods, and a saving of time is a saving of money both for myself and my patients.

I buy dental supplies cheaper than the average dentist because I have the largest dental business in the world, and purchase in wholesale quantities. This saving is one factor in my moderate charges for High Class Dentistry.

All my work is guaranteed. If by any chance you should have trouble with any work done in my office in this city, no matter where you are, you can go into any Painless Parker office—there are five in California—and we look up the record of your case, which is always kept on file, and that work is made satisfactory without charge. Is not such a guaranty worth something?

Consultation and examination free. Hours 8:30 A.M. to 6 P.M. Closed Sundays.

KING AND QUEEN'S VISIT TO BE UNIQUE

PARIS, March 7.—When King George V and Queen Mary of England next April pay their first official visit to France, the event will be set down in history as unique of its kind. Up until now no king or queen of England have ever paid an official visit to Paris together. In 1855, just after the Crimean war, Queen Victoria and her prince consort spent a few days here as the guest of Emperor Napoleon II. But the prince was in no wise a king though married to a queen. Later, in 1807, King Edward and Queen Alexandria spent two weeks in Paris together, but this time they came as private subjects, or rather as the Duke and Duchess of Lancaster and were not officially received. Prior to the death of King Edward, in 1908, King George, then the Prince of Wales, and his wife spent a few days in Paris but in their private capacity, registering as Lord and Lady Killarney.

Preparations are already under way to give the couple a literally double royal welcome. It is said that their visit will cost the French government several hundred thousand francs as the intention is to make their stay here the most brilliant ever accorded reigning sovereigns. Grand Galas at the opera, state balls, sham battles, military reviews, visits to historic castles and museums about Paris, etc., will be on the program.

PLUNGES 25 FEET FROM PILE DRIVER; MAY DIE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7—Plunging 25 feet from pile driver number 7 at the Hooper Lumber Company's wharves in the Potrero district before noon, A. C. McKay, 37 years old, of 637 Haight street, was seriously and perhaps fatally hurt.

When picked up McKay was unconscious and was taken to the Potrero hospital. An examination showed that his skull was fractured, his collar bone broken, and his body badly

PALO ALTO GIRL TO WED STANFORD MAN

PALO ALTO, Earch 7.—Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Geneva Swain to A. D. Borden of Palo Alto. Miss Swain is a daughter of L. H. Swain of Palo Alto and sister of Professor L. E. Swain of the chemistry department at Stanford University, and is widely known in Palo Alto and on the campus. Borden is a member of the 1913 class at Stanford, and is registered in the botany class. He is a member of the Sigma Xi science fraternity.

The date of the marriage has not yet been decided upon, though it is planned for the early part of summer.

WOULD HAVE COUNTY PAY CAR FARE HOME

RED BLUFF, March 7.—The jury which found Frank Dillifield not guilty of appropriating $1.25 he had collected while employed by S. Ossry, a tailor, and on which charge he was brought back from Woodland by a policeman, also recommended that the county pay the man's fare back to Woodland.

Ossry claimed that Dillifield had collected $1.25 and kept it. The man acknowledged having collected it, but said that it was due him. The jury thought so and let him go.

APPRENTICE ELECTRICIAN BURNED AT OIL WORKS

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—Hugh O'Hara, a 17-year-old boy of 1201 Connecticut street, was terribly burned about the head, arms and hands in an accident at the Union Oil Works this morning. O'Hara is an apprentice electrician. He was connecting wires when a fuse blew out, and his clothing caught fire. He was treated at the Union Iron Works' hospital.

deed, It Is Truth.

Next year every foot of Oakland's business district will be worth 12 per cent more than it is today. You look at the real estate transfers next year and see if it isn't. And the year after, will be worth that much more, and the next year and the next year and every year after that will see the same steady rise.

Wherever a great railway traffic and a great deep-water and inland river traffic meet, the city built at that strategic point continues to grow steadily and to double its values in about eight years' time, and this process it keeps up until the counties tributary to its commerce cease to increase their populations and activities. That is a law of economics which never fails.

At Oakland the sea and the transcontinental lines and the river traffic of California meet. The great inland region of California is capable of supporting in comfort a population as large as that of France. It has now less than a twentieth of France's [illegible]. The overseas commerce with China, Japan, the Philippines, New Zealand and Australia will increase steadily for years and years to come. So there are here precisely the same conditions which have built enormous London and gigantic New York. Nothing, except an unthinkable cataclysm, can prevent this city from becoming one of the world's capitals.

We should take our city's prospects seriously. There is no need at all to talk buncombe. The actual facts are enough, the actual conditions sufficient. There is no spot on earth where a man can invest money and labor with a more absolute certainty of great and constant gain than right here.

There are children now old enough to read these words who will see with their own eyes, before they die, this city containing from three to four millions of inhabitants, who will see miles of magnificent business structures stretching away in all directions from the present center of trade, who will see land which their parents could now buy for a thousand dollars selling for more than that price by the square foot, who will see here a city ranking in population, in riches, in commerce and in renown with the great and famous cities which now dominate the trade and the relations of the civilized world.

And every word of this is sober truth.

Passing of "The Army."

After all, what a fuss there was about the "army" of the unemployed. The battalion, with as many generals as has Mexico. is simply tramping back from whence it came—the East. When the warm climate of California stands out in bold contrast with that of the blizzard-struck Atlantic, an "army" of the unemployed heads this way. It has been a yearly affliction ever since the water came up to Montgomery street and when we used to shoot ducks on Lake Merritt.

The "army" has not given us a very good advertisement in one way, but in another good will come of evil. The news that only honest men who want to work are welcome in California has gone out and will have an effect on the idlers who would "hoboe" this way in hope of living on stray dimes and breadfruit.

There were undoubtedly many deserving men among the chaps that marched through San Francisco and Oakland. But a man who independently seeks for a position for himself and is willing to work hard and faithfully for it has a better chance than he who tries to get his employment by "military" methods of the Kelly sort.

Helen Keller and the Marvels of the Age.

Helen Keller has heard the vibrations of music and has felt the thrill of its softening influences. The wonderful woman, who has surprised the world with her aptitude in acquiring knowledge of persons and things, through that strange but always effective intuition that gives to the very flowers an unconscious, but nevertheless pronounced life, has listened to the notes of song of Wagner music and has been entranced.

In Helen Keller the world has had an example of mankind's ability to do things. But how many of us have taken advantage of the opportunities that are, or have been, offered us? This blind child of genius has made for herself a record that many of the most ingenious of women would be proud of, and yet misfortune marked her for its own from the time of her birth.

While the world wags on it would seem that some of us would pause to study the marvel of the woman who deprived of sight and hearing has given to all of us an example of the onward spirit of the race. Invention made for Helen Keller what nature had deprived her of. She, herself, a master of the mind, was helped by masters of minds and matter. True, the world is an entity that transcends, though it includes the mysteries of time and space.

Now that he has satisfactorily demolished the Barbary Coast and the Immaculate Conception, we trust that Dr. Aked will next turn his attention to the cotton boll weevil.

Mr. Sidney Van Wyck, who is reported to be a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, has furnished the Stockton Mail with a letter containing less than 30,000 words, explaining that he favors the short ballot. After reading some of the letter we are prepared to announce that we are in favor of anything shorter.

Merely Natural Reaction.

Hiram Gill was elected Mayor of Seattle in 1912. Gill's chief of police, Wappenstein, was caught grafting. He went to the penitentiary and Gill was recalled. Now he has been elected again by 14,000 majority.

Gill is the same Gill he always was, smokes the same corncob pipe, wears the same old flannel shirt, trains with the same old crowd and will run municipal affairs in the same old way. There is no change in Gill, who, to do him justice, is no hypocrite.

[illegible] recall a year and a half ago to triumphant re-election? The people of Seattle got tired of Gill's opponents. That's all. The leader of them is a sensational preacher, who was once a short-card gambler and is now a long-[illegible] notoriety-seeker.

Gill's election was only the inevitable and invariable reaction [illegible] a dose of fakery and hysteria, liberally salted with snivel-[illegible].

Remember Deserving Children of Poor.

Child life that is pure and simple, as most child life is, lends to the softening of our every day toils and makes for life an alloy for its bitterness. A tot of a girl in San Francisco while keeping lonely vigil for her mother who had to be at work for the living of herself and offspring, fell from the window of the room from which she watched other children at play and broke her leg. When she tried to rise she crumpled to the sidewalk and cried, "What will mamma think of me?" In New York a day or so ago a little boy while trying to cook some food for his father who was at work with the street department gang shoveling snow, set fire to his frock and was fatally burned. His words on arriving at the emergency hospital were, "Papa works hard and he won't have anything to eat when he comes home."

These pathetic examples of child heroism set the world a new pace for good. They point a moral for older folk and put the keen blade of criticism to some so-called charities. The sacrifices of the children mentioned in the dispatches were merely preludes to the unfathomed mysteries of many a child's life. We know only of their sufferings and their forbearance and courage when publicity brings their painfully pathetic existences to attention through accidents.

There are too many children for the good of the world who are born to toil. Honest men and women come of such little ones as those two of whom we speak. But there are many youngsters who are driven to crime by cruelty of parents or of lack of foresight. The organized charities might make a splendid record for betterment of human race by ferreting out cases of children who needed help and who readily respond to the sort of assistance that they require according to the shades of their natures. Concentrating of charity on deserving children would do much toward molding the little ones of our communities for the future of citizenship. Deserving poor children should be made the especial objects of training by those who have money to spend in philanthropy.

Probably you have noticed how manfully, amicably, tactfully and wisely former President Taft has borne himself since his defeat. He grows every day in the esteem of thinking people. We think history will do him justice, and write him down as an able man, a good President, a courteous, kindly, upright gentleman and the victim of as mean and as baseless calumny and abuse and lying as ever disgraced American politics.

It is estimated that it takes an acre of spruce timber to make the paper required for one edition of a twenty-page newspaper, printing 10,000 copies. We have in mind some sinful daily wastes of good wood.

WHAT GRAND OPERA MEANS

The grand opera season was a financial success this year. It paid for itself. The guarantors did not have to go into their pockets to make up the deficit. This is remarkable, almost unprecedented. It has been the rule for [illegible] years that grand opera loses money, and the difference between income and outgo must be made up by the state or by private endowment by the rich.

The grand opera season is a splendid thing for Chicago commercially. It brings money to the town from the surrounding country, money that otherwise would either stay at home or go to New York. Grand opera makes dressmakers, automobile companies, railroads, hotels and restaurants more prosperous. The presence of the song birds, their whims, pouts and temperamentalities, as well as their golden music, add to our delight and gayety.

[illegible] grand opera during the season. This is probably not a tenth of the money spent collaterally to keep the affair going. The whole enterprise tends to make Chicago more of a metropolis, less of an overgrown village. This city owes a considerable debt of gratitude to the men and women who brought grand opera here and nursed it until it could walk alone.—Chicago Tribune.

Twenty Years Ago Today

The citizens in the vicinity of Dwight way station, Berkeley, have become tired of poor streets and sidewalks and their inability to obtain electric lights, so last evening they formed the nucleus of a political club to be known as the Dwight Way Improvement Club. The following officers were elected temporarily: Chairman, E. Edwards, secretary, E. Lockyer, treasurer, Jacob Mohr; sergeant-at-arms, D Clark.

Water street, between Broadway and Franklin, is to be opened. For years past the subject has been agitated. A short time ago John Rosenfeld Sons purchased the property from the [illegible] Coal company and have finally settled on the plans. The part of the work essential to the loading of deep water vessels has already started and a dredger is deepening the water to sixteen feet at low tide. The next improvement will be the laying of a spur track.

The ladies of the Co-operative Aid Society are determined to establish their cheap lodging house and are straining every nerve to get it in running order. Mrs. Drake, prime mover in the matter, stated that she had commenced to make definite arrangements for the place. The proposed institution will serve meals at 10 cents apiece and a night's lodging at the same price to the worthy unemployed.

A meeting was called for the purpose of completing the organization of a Berkeley branch of the Associated Charities. The directors chosen were Mrs. F. K. Shattuck, Miss Fannie McLean, Mrs. George Haight, Miss Tillie Curtis and Mrs. W. C. McCleave; Father Phillips, Rev. E. B. Payne, Dr. Eastman and J. L. Barker.

George Van Haltren is enjoying his vacation in Oakland this winter. The Oakland favorite is expected to do some great field work for New York in the season of 1894. He will be traveling in such company as Roger Conner and John M. Ward.

London Colds Are Costly

London might well be described as one vast sneeze at the present time. "There is undoubtedly a sort of epidemic just now," said a busy physician. "There are four distinct bacilli that causes colds, in addition to the bacillus influenza—the true influenza germ. They are.

Pneumococcus—Cold in the chest, often leading to pneumonia.

Micrococcus catarrhalis—The ordinary sneezing cold.

Micrococcus septus and streptococcus—Feverish and "stuffy" colds sometimes like influenza.

"I am distinctly of the opinion that people suffering with colds should not be allowed to come into contact with people who are not. A short stay in bed is in itself the very best medicine science has yet been able to evolve for the cure of a cold. Early treatment is essential. One of the best treatments I know is a nasal douche—the douche consisting of a teaspoonful of salt, with about five drops of eucalyptus added to a pint of water.

A medical officer says that colds cost London quite £2,000,000 a year.

"It is quite fair to assume," he said, "that one-half of London's population is unable to work two days a year—a very low estimate—owing to colds or influenza, and if each person's services are worth only 5s a day to his or her employer you get a loss of £2,000,000."—London Mail.

LIFE'S LESSONS FROM A CITY PARK

Between Sixteenth and Eighteenth streets, Adeline and Poplar streets, is De Fremery park. It is a thing of beauty and a joy the whole year round. No Oaklander need hesitate to bring a visitor to this garden of delight. Its magnificent oaks make it a veritable oak-land and easily suggest the source of our city's name.

Rev. J. B. Orr

THE PLAYGROUNDS.

The park appeals to one's entire nature—physical, mental, social, moral, patriotic, spiritual.

The physical responds to grass, flowers, trees, sports and pure, fragrant air. The playgrounds teem with young life, finding health and happiness. The well-kept lawn affords pleasure and profit to mothers and children, maids and babies, nurses and invalids, elderly women and men, as well as many a passerby who stops to rest.

FIRST VISIT.

No sign reads: "Keep Off the Grass!" On my first visit to Central park, New York, I started across a stretch of green, only to hear a policeman shout "Keep off the grass." I told him, pleasantly, I was from San Francisco and Golden Gate park, with its acres of green for use as well as beauty.

This West Oakland park appeals to the artistic eye. Here are color, form, symmetry. The trees group themselves in graceful poses. Time was when artists painted trees brown, but here one discovers brown and blue, green and grey, and the longer one sits or saunters amid this luxury of beauty the more he sees. Emerson says he never hurried when in the woods. Nature is our teacher of appreciation and one sees best with trained eyes.

"A poem hangs on the berry bush
When comes the poet's eye,
And the whole street is a masquerade
When Shakespeare passes by."

The park, too, cultivates our social instincts through games directed by competent teachers on the ball courts and in the house, which has just been enlarged and beautified.

DEMOCRACY IN TWO WAYS.

The park teaches democracy in two ways—All people are welcome and all receive equal care. The children are from all classes and races, but as they play together one might well say: "E pluribus unum." The park directors teach them democracy by this kind of appeal on boards: "This park is for your pleasure; help us to protect it." Here are ownership and self-government. Each person realizes the park is his to use and enjoy, but to injure would in turn harm his own pleasure. This is the basic truth of our democratic institutions.

DUTY TOWARD SOCIAL ORDER.

Morals are not far away when we ask ourselves what our duty is toward the social order of which we are a part. What is wrong or right? Such a course of conduct that if we all followed it we would have social ruin or social welfare.

What kind of a park would this park be
If every visitor were just like me?

Apply this rule to home, store and society everywhere.

The park makes its spiritual appeal. Grass and trees grow and look up and out. Man is the only animal who stands erect. Grass and trees belong to two worlds—earth and sky. They require the smile of father-sky and the embrace of mother-earth. Similarly man needs both worlds—earth and sky. Earth represents realism, sky idealism. Earth sustains body and brain—sky illumines the soul. He who is satisfied with either earth or heaven robs himself of God's gifts. Julius Caesar willed Romans gardens, arbors and walks, but we have public parks. Jesus willed the robber on the cross a garden: "Truly I say unto you today shalt thou be with me in paradise." When our savior arose on that first Easter Sunday He found Himself in a garden. Earth is so beautiful, what must heaven be?

THE FIRST ATLANTIC WIRELESS

Wireless communication across the Atlantic, long just below the horizon, has now risen into plain view as an established fact.

Emperor William has sent a brief message to President Wilson. It covered a distance of 4062 miles, from Hanover to the New Jersey coast.

Mr. Marconi, questioned during the autumn as to the possibilities of the immediate future, backed and filled, hemmed and hawed, and coyly refused a definite answer. The officials of the German company that sent the message were equally secretive, save for a general statement of their ambitions. They were especially so as regarded the whereabouts of their American terminal, now disclosed as at Tuckerton, N. J. But it is better to promise little and perform much than to promise much and perform nothing.

The Goldschmidt system, which accomplished the feat, depends on a "singing wheel" machine that permits the making of high-speed wireless communication at low cost and also permits, through an instant adjustment to any desired wave length, the sending of secret messages.

Neither cheapness nor secrecy, however, has marked the exchange of messages between the heads of the two nations. The event was one calling for a certain ceremonial "spread" and the imperial and presidential correspondents were able to rise to the [illegible] cago Record-Herald.

LINGUISTIC OFFENSES

Somebody has gone and muddled up the wells of English undefiled on Britain's Isle. Far from blaming Americans for all the corruptions of pronunciation and idiom, Dr. Bridges, poet laureate, and Thomas Hardy, Nobel prize winner, propose a reformation of England's English.

An Oxford professor is guilty of "quesh-jon" for "question." Dr. Bridges' tract tells us: "nacheer" is rapidly taking right of way within earshot of Bow Bells, where it used to be "nature"; one professor of English language and literature habitually says "audins" for "audience," and the younger generation prefers "pawing" to "pouring."

In the United States we sometimes have "su-jest" for "suggest." "Ak-rut" for "accurate" is not infrequently heard from cultured lips. But Dr. Bridges, by his indictment of Englishmen for their ripping discourtesy to their mother tongue, proves that not all linguistic sins are "made in America."—Indianapolis

TYPIST IS BRIDE OF MILLIONAIRE

Husband's Fortune in Mine Is Revealed by Kick of a Mule.

CHICAGO, March 7.—There was a wedding in the Great Northern Hotel recently and it provided another beneficiary of the $14,000,000 kick of a Pacific coast mule.

Jacob Goetz, 60 years old, multi-mil[illegible] Spokane, Wash., married Miss Isabella N. Sweeney, formerly an hotel stenographer at Portland, Ore. She is 35—and heiress-apparent to the great fortune that the mule kicked out a mountainside in the Coeur d'Alenes in the early '80s.

Goetz and his bride will be here for several days before returning to their own hotel in Spokane.

The foundation of the Goetz fortune happened like this.

Goetz, a thrifty German, to whom the prospecting game had always seemed a bit too uncertain for his personal taste, decided to do a little gold-hunting by proxy. He and his partner grub-staked two men. One item in the outfit with which he provided his men was a mule.

It was a bad tempered animal. The men thought more than once of carrying their own packs rather than negotiate with the beast. They took him along, however, and prospected in vain until their food ran short. Then they started back. The mule decided to stay where he was.

When his master beat him he kicked lustily, missed the men, but hit a mountain that happened to be within range. The men looked where the mule had kicked and saw some gold.

They gave the mine a name, and thus far it has paid $14,000,000 in dividends. Goetz has taken his one-fourth share and built another large fortune on top of it.

BABY LIVELY WITH 23 BUTTONS IN STOMACH

ELGIN, Ill., March 7.—Blanche Hoover, 3-year-olds daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hoover of 320 Park street swallowed 23 buttons and was apparently none the worse for her experience. The child's mother returned from a shopping trip and placed a card of three dozen buttons on the table. Soon she discovered the child had them on the floor and 23 were missing.

FAMILY RECEIVES STRANGER'S MONEY

Irishman Interests Himself in Needy Ones Because They Are Countrymen.

TOLEDO, March 7.—A receipt bearing a large seal was received in Probate court Friday from Londonderry, Ireland, as evidence that work of providing something for the widow and five small children of one of his countrymen had been accomplished by Cornelius C. Collins, 2130 Monroe street.

The paper was an acknowledgment that Mrs. Maggie McDonnell of Londonderry, had received $3,000 from the Lake Shore railroad for her husband's death. This was almost entirely the result of the work of Collins, who had never known the husband nor any of his family and had never seen McDonnell until after he was dead.

McDonnell, who gave his name as M. J. Donnell in this country, was killed July 17 by a Lake Shore train. Collins read in the paper of the death of this countryman of his who, the paper said, had no relatives in this country. Collins found the body at the undertaker's where it was sent by the coroner, got the pallbearers and arranged a funeral service for Donnell.

Collins inquired among the men whom Donnell had been working with on the railroad and found out what his correct name was and where he had come from. Having learned this, Collins found that the widow and the five children were in Ireland. He then had the Probate court appoint him as administrator of Donnell's estate so he could take up the claim against the railroad for causing the man's death. The claim was settled out of court for $3000 and the funeral expenses. Collins sent every cent of of the money to the widow and the children.

And he did it all because Donnell was an Irishman in a strange country without a friend.

SAYS MARRIAGES BOOM BECAUSE GIRL'S PROPOSE

NEW YORK, March 7.—How many women propose?

According to J. H. Mack, Chicago's official Cupid, the girls are doing the asking this year. He says.

"Times have not been good, but marriages for the last six months have increased 15 per cent. I tell you the girls are proposing. My wife as much as proposed to me. She showed me that she wanted me, and what I said was: "Well, when shall we get married?"

There was once a lecturer who asked all men present whose wives had proposed to stand and be counted.

The only sound heard was the tearing of coat tails grabbed suddenly by better halves of the male auditors.

TALKS ON TEETH —BY— Dr. J. B. SCHAFHIRT

Personal Appearance

From a social standpoint

Every woman realizes that social success depends upon personal appearance. A smile disclosing white, even teeth is her greatest asset. There is nothing which so surely indicates good breeding as well-cared-for teeth, and nothing, not even clothing, is so quickly noticed as the condition of one's mouth. How often have you heard the remark, "Miss So-and-so has such pretty teeth," and how often have you been interested in a pretty woman's face, to be disappointed when she smiles, revealing teeth unsightly and decayed?

In this age of modern progress, where we have the porcelain filling which matches the natural tooth so exactly that it cannot be detected, and the Schafhirt method of restoring missing teeth without plates so cunningly that they seem to grow out of the jaw, neglect of one's teeth seems inexcusable, especially as my prices are so reasonable and I have the latest and most expensive equipment for performing any kind of dental work absolutely without pain.

My office is open from 9 to 5:30; Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings from 7 to 9, and Sunday mornings from 10 to 12.

Some of Oakland's best-known society women are my patients. Their names will be furnished on request. I am not running a dental company nor connected with any other dental office; this is the main office, no branch. [illegible] tion.

MUSEUM OPENS NEW 'ASIA ROOM'

Valuable Permanent Addition to Collection Will Be on View Sunday.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, March 7.—A new permanent addition to the collection has been installed at the University of California museum of anthropology at the Affiliated Colleges and will be opened to the public for the first time tomorrow as the "Asia room."

[illegible] lected all the way from the Holy Land to China and Japan, and with its color scheme in a key of Oriental red, easily forms one of the most attractive displays that the museum so far possesses. Its inauguration is in line with the museum's policy of making all its treasures—many of which are still in storage—accessible to the public as rapidly as possible.

FAMOUS INDIAN TEMPLE.

The most striking single feature of the exhibit is a fine alabaster model of the famous Taj Mahal of India, perhaps the most beautiful [illegible] facsimile is exact in every detail and renders the delicate white marble tracery and chaste proportions of the original with the greatest fidelity. Like most of the specimens in the room, it is the gift of Mrs Phoebe A. Hearst.

The centerpiece of the collection is a lifelike statue of the Japanese god of thunder in his fiercest awe inspiring demeanor, swinging beaters upon a circle of revolving drums to cause the heavens to reverberate with his peals.

The land of the cherry blossom is also represented by an ancient temple drum notable for its rich painting and carved decoration; a Buddha seated on a flower. This figure is a fine example of the older style of wood carving and coloring, and displays the artistic type of representation of Buddha which originated in India 2000 years ago, but has been preserved with much fidelity among all the varied nations of eastern Asia. Other Buddhas from China and Siam evince a somewhat different style of representation.

BOXER WAR RELICS.

Regimental flags and costumes taken from prisoners and corpses—chiefly the latter—during the Boxer uprising add to the interest of the Chinese portion of the exhibit, as does one of the famous "two man-muskets," 11 feet long.

Four thousand-year-old clay inscriptions from Babylonia, modern Hebrew ritual brass work, delicate lacquer work, cloisonne and soft-shaded potteries from Nippon [illegible] with pageant costumes from Palestine, Arab daggers, palm-leaf books, Hindu goddesses of fertility and gaudy Chinese banners and inscriptions. A cradle in which a succession of Siamese babies, for all anyone knows even twins, have swung themselves to sleep, chain-mail armor from Syria, and scimitars from India, regalia of a chief of far away Formosa, and numerous smaller specimens, complete the exhibit which, while not one of the largest in the museum, is easily the most varied and striking.

The 3 o'clock lecture to be given tomorrow will deal with "Easter Island, the Mystery of the Pacific." It will be illustrated by a large number of slides, as well as by specimens which will be on hand for the inspection of the audience.

Transbay visitors should take car line No. 6 at the ferries. It is the only line running direct to the museum.

"ROBIN HOOD" TO STRIDE ON GREEK THEATER STAGE

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, March 7.—The Hearst Greek theater will have its baptism of light opera music Wednesday afternoon at the scheduled appearance there in "Robin Hood" of the De Koven Opera Company, and there is much interest expressed on the campus in anticipation of the production. Grand opera has been sung in this classic place on more than one occasion, and vocal music of many a kind, but never, with the exception of college written and produced affairs, has light opera ever had place here.

By courtesy of Manager Giesea of the Macdonough theater in Oakland the matinee date at that theater for Wednesday was canceled, and arrangements were made by Professor William Dallam Armes for the appearance of the company at the Greek theater.

The advance sale of tickets for the production has amply justified Professor Armes' judgment in inviting the company here. The sale has been so heavy as to give promise of a well filled theater for the Wednesday presentation. To the students a special and lower rate for tickets has been made by the music and dramatic committee, and many have taken advantage thereof.

HALF-HOUR OF MUSIC AT THE GREEK THEATER

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, March 7.—The half hour of music in the Greek theater tomorrow at 3 o'clock will be given by Miss Lillian M. Robinson, soprano, with Miss Beatrice Clifford as accompanist. Miss Robinson, who is the daughter of the well known landscape artist, C. D. Robinson, has recently returned from New York, where she not only was the soprano soloist in one of the leading churches but also did considerable concert work. Miss Clifford, who recently gave a half hour of music in the Greek theater, received her training as a pianist under the best German masters.

The program that will be given by these two talented young ladies is as follows: "Vieux, mon bien-aime," C. Chamiande; "Wie Melodien zieht es mire," Johannes Brahms; "Die Stille Wasserrose," Alexander von Fielitz; "Die Bekehrte," Max Stange; "In Quelle trine morbide," from Puccini's "Manon Lescaut," "Si, mi chiamone Mimi," from Puccini's "La Boheme;" an aria from the first scene of the third act of Verdi's "Otello;" and "Un bel di vedremo," from Puccini's "Madame Butterfly." In case of inclement weather the concert will not be given.

BLOCK SYSTEM BEING INSTALLED IN ALAMEDA

ALAMEDA, March 7. — The Southern Pacific company is now having a complete block signal system installed in this city. The system will denote to the operators of the many trains and cars the exact location of these on all parts of the system.

This signal system is being installed at great expense and will be one of the most complete in service in the State. The railroad company, since starting the crosstown service, has found that the block system is necessary to prevent collisions in foggy weather and [illegible].

WOMEN ARTISTS TO SHOW THEIR WORK

BERKELEY, March 7. — Considerable interest is being manifested in the approaching exhibition of paintings to be held by the Hillside club, March 13 to 17, owing to the fact that the display this year unlike previous exhibitions held by the club will be limited to the work of the women artists of California.

Work of the following well known artists will be displayed: Sophie Marston Brannan, Anne M. Bremer, Isabelle Hunter, M. de Neale Morgan, Constance Macky, C. Boons, Almira A. Judson, Florence Lundborg, E Charlton Fortune, Nora Cashin, Helen Chandler, Eleanor B. Mitchell, Isabelle C. Percy, Caroline Rixford Johnson, McCloud Batten, Pearle Sturtivant, Charlotte Colby, Bertha Stringer Lee, Evelyn Almond Withrow, Laura Adams Armer, Winifred Rieber, Eda St. John Smitten.

On Saturday afternoon, March 14, an informal reception will be given by the ladies of the Hillside club to the ladies of the Town and Gown, Twentieth Century, Piano, Etude clubs, and Casa Guidi circle, and on Monday evening, March 16, a reception will be tendered the contributing artists by the club.

BERKELEY MINISTER TO RETURN FROM ABROAD

BERKELEY, March 7. — Rev J A B. Fry, the popular pastor of Epworth Methodist church, who has been traveling in Europe, following a nervous breakdown, last October, will return home next Tuesday, and will preach to his church and congregation, Sunday March 15. Landing in the northern part of Germany, Rev. Fry visited a number of interesting points in that country and later in France, thence going direct to London where he spent the greater part of the time in a critical study of the London missions. He returns greatly impressed with the work being done by these agencies.

Since landing in New York, Rev Fry has visited Trinity college and Vanderbilt university, renewing acquaintances of college days, also visiting his aged mother in North Carolina. He returns greatly improved in health.

RESEARCH CLUB IS TO HOLD REGULAR SESSION

ALAMEDA, March 7. — The Research club will be entertained by Mrs. T. Kelly at her home, [illegible] afternoon, March 9. Humorous writings will be discussed. Mrs J Addison will have the current events.

Mrs H H. Delamater was hostess for the club last week when a program on Chinese art was arranged by Mrs. Henry Schneider, she giving a talk on Chinese bronzes and Miss Knowlton on Chinese pottery. The afternoon was both instructive and enjoyable.

WILL PRODUCE ORATORIO.

BERKELEY, March 7. — The Choral association of the First Congregational church of Berkeley will present the "Holy City" by Sir Alfred Gaul on Friday evening [illegible] Mabel Hill-Redfield, organist and director of the association.

The soloists of the Choral association for the occasion are Mrs. Jos. Mills, Steven Champion and Lowell Redfield. The oratorio will be given for the benefit of the organ building fund, and a silver collection will be taken for that purpose. The production of the "Holy City" has been an annual affair at the Congregational church and under the skillful direction of Mrs. Redfield has become an event of artistic prominence about the bay cities.

Conventional Stunts Becoming Obsolete at College

BERKELEY, March 7.—The setting-up exercises of the United States Army, conventional exercise methods for most gymnastic schools of the country, are so far behind the times they can hardly be seen for dust at the Berkeley women's gymnasium. Even the wand and the Indian clubs and dumbbells, though these are still used once in awhile, are becoming somewhat passe.

For the aesthetic dance is the thing. It develops grace and symmetry, say the women of the gymnasium, among them Mrs Robert May and Miss Mary O'Rourke. They not only say it, but believe it, and are illustrating it several times in every week at their gymnasium on Allston way, where Miss Violet Richardson of the public schools is their leader.

The aesthetic dance as they practice it has many variations, but all are planned to bestow upon their participants strength and grace.

Some of the dances are done singly, some in twos and some in groups. Old and young and middle-aged practice them alike. Folk dances are known by many, adapted from the countries of their origin to the purposes of the gymnasium. Later the women of the class may give another exhibition of their work. Their first exhibition proved highly successful and was indicative as well to their many friends of the progress they were making.

PIONEER WOMAN DIES AT CASTRO VALLEY HOME

LIVERMORE, March 7.—Mrs. Annie E. Wright, who, with her family, resided on East avenue, near town, for many years up to eight years ago, when they removed to Castro valley, near Hayward, died last Sunday evening. CONTRA COSTA News of Two Big Counties ALAMEDA

HOW TO BUILD TOWN, IS ADVICE

Prisoner Makes Suggestions to San Leandro After Arrest.

SAN LEANDRO, March 7.—Writing from the county jail, Frederick Glanz, who is waiting trial on a charge of burglarizing the R. V. Rider home and whose capture was brought about by several society women, offers the town advice on street building, "as a small atonement." Glanz had evidently taken stock of what [illegible] needed improvements while in town.

Whether the somewhat vague instructions contained in the following letter of Glanz will have any weight with the authorities is open to question:

"I was apprehended in your town suburbs for burglary and as a small atonement wish to give you a hint as to street building which may benefit the town and serve you for an editorial. I have noted the long stretches of unpaved streets and thought of this plan: the walks are clear on both sides and grading done the next thing to do would be to lay a track on both sides with a connection with the trolley or railroad. Two strings of work cars run thereon. I would place a concrete mixer in the first at point of the work begun, and the same in the parallel car opposite. Chutes extending from the mixers to half way to the middle of the street to be the means of quickly distributing it. If the street was to receive a finish surface the cars behind might be supplied with asphaltum-preparer and materials to easily spread it, the concrete mixer and veneer supplies to be hoisted back to succeeding supply cars as the work went on, the cars loaded before hand as to give space for same. Similar methods might be used for grading."

Lassies Elected to Highest Judicial School Offices

HAYWARD, March 7.—The distinction of being the first girl students of Alameda county to be elected to the highest judicial offices in the grammar school city council has also brought responsibility on the shoulders of Hayward's coming co-eds.

For instance, the girls will have to decide what punishment to mete out when a schoolboy is caught taking surreptitious puffs at a cigarette or cigar, likewise in the case of a school scrap of fisticuffs. But the girl council officers are not dismayed by the problems, somewhat outside the sphere of "skirts," they will be called upon to deal with and they are now busy reading up the law on all matters pertaining to the school civic life.

The Hayward grammar school is one of the two schools in Alameda county to possess a city council of which the pupils are the officers and have the power of dealing with offenses against school etiquette. For the first time in the history of the school city council, the highest offices are filled by the girl pupils, including the offices of justice and mayor.

Here's a lad just 19 years old, plucked out of the preliminary ranks, and set in rapid succession against such men as Frankie Burns, Ad Wolgast, Johnny Dundee, Owen Moran, Frenchy Vaise, Herb White, Sally ... Young Abe Attell and Grover Hayes. Not one of all this array of well known slug... ...was ... Azevedo to the mat or even beat him decisively. Frankie Burns and Johnny Dundee alone took shade decisions over the boy, and he beat Wolgast, Moran, Vaise, White, Salvador, Robinson, Reese, Attell and drew with Hayes. In the case of Dundee, where Joe fought twenty rounds in the south, there was a division amongst the newspapermen over the verdict, many figuring that Joe was entitled to a draw. I want to say right here that I think Dundee is the cleverest lightweight in the business and I look for him to measure Ritchie sure if they ever meet.

It was not my fault if Wolgast was not in shape when he met Azevedo. That was up to him. I'm managing Azevedo, not Wolgast, and I'd be a fine manager, wouldn't I, if I didn't try to give my protege the best of every match? I'd like to know what a manager is for, if it isn't to try and make his man as great a drawing card as is possible by every legitimate means.

I really believe that Azevedo will be some day the light weight champion of the world, provided he will not become self inflated and be spoiled by too much attention and praise. If he can whip Charley White at Racine the week after next, I have Leach Cross in New York three weeks later, and then we will be ready for Rivers in Los Angeles, or back to the coast to take on the winner of the Ritchie-Wolgast battle Thursday night or the winner of the Ritchie-Murphy battle in April.

But in the second they just managed to squeeze out a victory to the tune of 7—5, which score gave them the set and match.

A surprise was recorded in the unexpected defeat of Eddie Smith and Edward A. Klein by C. F. Stickney and I. W. Dinsmore. For some unexplainable reason Klein treated his racquet shamefully in this set. Ere the death of day, it was lying up against the fence twisted and broken, bearing the marks of a terrific battle. Methinks it was not the fault of the racquet.

Eddie in this match failed to live up to his reputation of an overhead killer. Most likely his condition was due to his long absence from the court. On the other hand Stickney and Dinsmore played in good form. Stickney is one of the most reliable players on the court.

The de luxe match of the day was the match between W. P. Ellis and R. L. Gould and N. Harris and N. G. Welburn. This match went 38 games before the contest was settled, during which time some wonderful shots were executed. Gould and Ellis played in good form, but Harris and Welburn had the edge on them, with the result that they were returned victorious by the score of 9—7, 4—6, 8—6, 10—8.

Agnew and Craig came very near taking the measure of W. P. Ellis and Welburn in a little setto that was staged in the afternoon. After a great deal of maneuvering Welburn and Ellis managed to pull out to the good by the score of 7—5, 6—4. When they were questioned as to their seemingly inability to sweep the boards something was heard about "Old German" being the cause.

Yet, it is true, Frederick Ric and Godwin took Klein down the line in three straight sets. Klein gave Godwin a handicap of 15, but notwithstanding this, Klein should have won the match. He gave a miserable exhibition of tennis. Godwin won the match by the score of 6—2, 6—3, 8—6.

Sly, foxy and trickey "Bill" Ellis working with a handicap of 15, took Welburn into camp to the tune of 8—6, 7—5. Welburn made a desperate and pathetic attempt to stay the tide of defeat, but he failed. Welburn lost the match by his eliminating his lobbying game, which act enabled Ellis to take the net where he killed to his heart's content. Soft music, please.

C. Douglas Shepard was proclaimed the singles champion of Lincoln Park in Alameda last Sunday, same being brilliantly achieved by his defeating young and clever Otis Welborn by the score of 6—3, 6—4. Shepard's victory was largely achieved by his fast service and his splendid defense at the net. This young tennis aspirant deserves watching.

A good deal of complaint is heard in Alameda these days concerning the lack of proper facilities for tennis players. Oakland, Berkeley and San Francisco offer much better opportunities to its players. Surely this is too big a proposition ... to the effect that "there is not sufficient funds on hand." Steps should be taken by those interested to bring about this much needed reform. Muster your forces, boys, and go to the bat!

Stanford will award gold watches to the winners of singles and doubles events in the inter-scholastic tournament to be held in the university town in April. Quite an innovation. Stanford has set a good example, now let others follow.

TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP DOUBLES BEING PLAYED

ALAMEDA, March 7.—The Lincoln Park Tennis club championship tourney will be continued ... Johnson have won the championship of the boys' doubles. Douglas Shepard is boys' singles champion; Miss Ruth Avera and Miss Helen De Lorme will play in the girls' singles semifinals, the winner to play Miss Erla Avera for the Misses Avera for the girls' doubles honors.

By and Eldrm Sharpe, brothers, members of the Alameda Tennis club, will settle the question of supremacy tomorrow at the Lincoln park courts.

AMATEUR BASEBALL & SEMI-PRO

Edited by "Bill Crosby"

The Ambrose ball club, which of late has been playing at Fruitvale, has cancelled all games at the grounds in the east side town and hereafter will indulge in independent ball with amateur teams of the bay counties. The team has been drawing enthusiastic crowds at the ball park at Fruitvale, but owing to various disadvantages it has been arranged to play the next few games at the various grounds owned by the different clubs who will compete against the team in the near future.

The first of these games will be played at the St. Mary's grounds today, at 2:30 p. m., with the Pacific Leaguers. The balance of the games will be played in the bay cities and will be announced in THE OAKLAND TRIBUNE. After disposing of the games now scheduled, the club will join one of the country leagues. Manager Mike Biltz has acknowledged himself more than lucky in being able to obtain so many fast players. Stars of the team have been thought good material by the scouts of professional ball clubs.

Biltz himself has shown all the earmarks of one to be considered and has signed with Stockton. The young manager has been covering his territory in the outfield with speed and at the plate he has been hitting the ball to the tune of .260.

Pete Starasinich the star pitcher of the club, has pitched ... victories without a defeat. He will probably be used today against the Pacific Leaguers, where it is expected he will continue his winning streak. "Pinky" Bennallack, another boy who will twirl for the club, is fast rounding into form, and will be able to take his place on the mound in a short while. "Red" Baldwin the catcher of the club, has made more than good. "Baldy" has been batting the ball to all parts of the lot and has shown himself there in the tight places. Baldwin has refused professional offers.

The boys were very much interested and pleased to see the fine showing Bert Loomis put up against the White Sox last Thursday for Oakland. Here is a boy that will sure make good as he is always willing to work and knows the game. He is a clever fielder and can hold down the first sack as good as the next one and he also can hit. In his last game before joining the Oaks he pitched for Kahn Bros against the heavy batting Stanley Giants and allowed them but four scattered hits.

"Speed" Martin, the pitcher who created such a sensation in the Midwinter league, is now playing short for a local team and seems to be making a rep at this position also. He has not made a boot in the last four games played and has handled many hard chances.

"Bud" Sharpe, the clever first sacker of the Boyle and Lawlors, is attracting the attention of the fans these days by his consistent playing and hitting. This boy is no doubt the best first sacker of his age around the bay and he is able to stack up against the best of them.

The Boyle and Lawlors and Court Emeryville of the Foresters will tangle at Bay View park in a game which should be one of the fastest yet played this season. The Emeryville team is determined to take the west end boys into camp as they have signed up some of the fastest players about the bay. Van Morick will do the hurling for the Foresters and he is considered one of the best southpaws about the bay. Drollette will do the receiving. Such stars as Webber, Ulr and Jones of the regular Emeryville team will be seen in the Foresters' lineup and should make it interesting for the Boyle and Lawlors, who are yet to taste defeat.

Bunny Moyles and Lefty McLaughlin will divide the pitching honors for the west enders while the old reliable Pep O'Donnell will be at his old station behind the bat. The Boyle and Lawlors ... Schwartz 2b, Downey rf, Burnett ss, Sprinkle lf, Trant 3b, Sharpe 1b, O'Donnell c, McLaughlin and Moyles p, Conners utility.

Any country teams wishing games address Jerry Lawlor, Junction Cafe, Seventeenth and Peralta streets, or Al Erie of Spalding's.

Sweeney, Mederos and Nattress is a trio that is making good for the Kaloi club in the Inter club league. Sweeney covers centerfield where his clever fielding has cut off many a run. Mederos in left also covers a world of ground and hits the ball hard. Joe Nattress is the ... bringing the club to the top.

Gill Peterson, since shifting to the outfield for the Ambrose Tailors, has got his old time batting eye back and has been hitting the ball hard. Last Sunday he got two clean hits, one going for three bags.

The Piedmont Bears won the first game of their season Saturday from the Upper Piedmonts by the score of 20 to 9. The game was a slugfest throughout, the heavy hitting of Trenchard, McCaw, McKinley and Garnett being the features. Coffee, McCaw and Garnett also stole three bases each. Bears' lineup: McCaw lf, McKinley 2b, Knowland p, Trenshard ss, Garnett 1b, Coffee c, Smith 3b, Sorenson rf, Seacks cf.

A round dozen corking good amateur baseball games will be the menu at the city parks today. At half past nine in the morning the Diamond Stars will try conclusions with the Gems on Bay View diamond number one. At the same time number two diamond at Bay View will be the scene of an encounter between the Greater Oakland nine and the Willets.

The afternoon games at Bushrod park are between the Standard Gas Engine Company team and the Greater Oaklands, and the Federals versus the Alcatraz Stars. These games will be called at 1 o'clock. Then there are two more games at 3 o'clock at the same park, when the Grove Street Merchants play the Ashbys and the Avalons try conclusions with the Jordan Printing Company.

WELL WORTH WATCHING.

Most of the teams put up a fast brand of ball, and their games are well worth watching. The Grove Street Merchants have been selected by some as being the best amateur team in Oakland. On the other hand the Boyle and Lawlor contingent has a host of supporters, and this aggregation certainly plays some games. They have several classy pitchers on their staff, and every man in the field gives up the best that is in him in the way of sterling support. Jerry Lawlor ... team in the field, and he is to be congratulated on the showing of his team. ... provement. While the ... taking a healthy swing at the ball makes the contests exciting for the spectators, there are times when a bit of "inside baseball" would go a long way toward cinching a close game. This brand of ball seems to be entirely foreign to the West Oakland lads.

ANGELS' BOSS PLEASED WITH WORK OF EX-PIRATE

Abstein's Work at the Initial Sack Has Eliminated Charley Moore.

SAN BERNARDINO, March 7.—Since Frank Dillon has practically selected Bill Abstein for the initial sack, Charley Moore has moved his attentions to third, and promises to complete the scrap which is now taking place at that position between Moore, Metzger and Carl Sawyer. ... sack before and the former succeeded in holding the Teuton off for about thirty games at the beginning of the season. If Moore does not beat Metzger it is probable that he will be used at utility, as his hitting and base running are a valuable asset.

Dillon has a strong yearning for either Berger or Blackburne, and has developed a robust hope that one of these men will be allowed to linger with the local club.

With Berger at short, Dillon believes that Billy Page will fill the bill at second, as there is splendid ... between these players. In that event, Johnson could be shifted to third, the same being the position in which he started life's rocky road.

Of course, there is no chance of Johnson being entirely ousted from the infield. The tow-head is a wonder for a two-year-old, and there are many who expect him to prove the sensation of the league this season.

In the event that the Angels get Blackburne, that meteoric young man will strive earnestly to oust Page from second base; Johnson will be left at short, and the custodian of third base will be decided by the simple law of the survival of the fittest, with Moore, Metzger and Sawyer all earnestly striving to survive.

Abstein is famous as one of the few first sackers who ever succeeded in roping Hans Wagner's "nanny."

Hans in those days, meaning 1909, was a man of tremendous might in the region of the right arm. He took a sort of silent delight in ridding his first sackers. Famous for playing a deep field, he did this at long range.

To his chagrin, Abstein did not back up, sidestep or ask for quarter. Wagner then moved closer in, so the story runs, but still Abstein remained adamant and immovable and absorbed everything that Hans had to offer.

This got on the Dutchman's nerve and shortly before the world's series with Detroit he delivered an ultimatum to the effect that either he or Abstein would have to get off the team. At least, this was the report sent out at the time. The ultimatum, however, didn't ultimate. Fred Clark opined that both of them would remain on the team for the big series; and they did.

There are any number of infield combinations possible. Give Dillon either Berger or Blackburne and he will have the material from which to fashion an infield that will both dazzle and delight.

Metzger was switched around, and is playing the leather in a left-handed manner. As a result, the pulse of his batting is noticeably stronger. Not only is he hitting the ball more deftly, but he is getting away from the plate faster. This change in style promises to improve his percentage from 25 to 50 points on the season's work.

Abstein's work to date has been a pleasant surprise. When Berry dug the ex-Pirate out of Memphis there were some who opined that he was guilty of robbing a baseball mausoleum. To the great surprise of the doubting ones, Bill did not appear on crutches.

In practice the big fellow has been hitting the ball a la Hans Wagner. Thus far there has not been much chance to observe his footwork. However, as Abstein is one of the best soccer players in the Middle West, a form of amusement that requires swift legwork, the conclusion that his underpinnings are pliable, elastic and tinctured with speed; seems safe, sane and logical.

CHAPPELL AND SCHALK BY BOUNDARY BIFFS CINCH GAME

Blame It on the Old Right Field Fence, You Seal Enthusiasts.

(By BILLY FITZ.)

Seals, 3; Sox, 5.

IF that new Seal ball park gets finished any sooner than the schedule calls for, ... thank Messrs. Schalk and Chappell of Chicago, who proved to J. Cal Ewing's satisfaction yesterday afternoon that the old park across the bay is far too small. The S. and C. combination kicked the ball over the old right field fence at Recreation park twice in the ninth inning, accounting for the three runs by which the White Sox defeated Del Howard's band of Boyes Springs huskies. Prior to that pair of boundary ... looked extra good for extra innings and the showing made by those Seals was all that could be desired.

"Howling Harry" Hughes, so named because he hits .000 in the Conversation league, and was never known to talk above a whisper, was the "fall guy." Hughes succeeded Baum in the fifth inning with a two run lead, and the Sox slowly but surely cultivated the acquaintance of the Hughes benders, making the welcome a royal one in the ninth.

Ellis Johnson, the young twirler who pitched the last inning and a half for the Sox on Friday, was sent back by Gleason to start the game against the Seals, while Howard chose the veteran fox hunter of the Livermore hills. "Spider" Baum's debut in a Seal suit was all that could be desired. The veteran twirler took his time, and used a curve ball on the outside.

The first half dozen Sox to face Baum went down in succession, but the Spider was surely rescued by his pals in the third. Sam Berger worked the Spider for transportation and Schalk slashed a nasty single to rightfield, on which Berger tried to reach third. The former Angel reckoned without Mundorff, though, for the Rabbitt came in fast and pegged a bullet to third.

O'Leary had plenty of time to gather in the throw and squat directly in the path of the oncoming runner. The only way Berger could have touched the bag would have been to dig a tunnel under O'Leary. Immediately afterward Corhan converted Johnson's imitation of a Texas leaguer into a double play, making a difficult catch and throw to first in time to trap Schalk.

SEALS FIRST TO SCORE.

The Seals were the first to break into the run column, helping themselves to a couple of tallies in the fifth. Corhan singled past Berger, and Sepulveda advanced him by an infield hit too slow for Alcock to handle in time. Hughes' weakly grounded to Johnson, who tried to snuff off Corhan at third and pegged through Lord to the bench, Corhan scoring and the other runners advancing on the error.

No one could advance on Mundorff's infield out, but Sepulveda scored a moment later by beating Berger's throw to the plate on O'Leary's fielder's choice. Schaller's single to left filled the bags again, and Del Howard withdrew himself and sent Cartwright in to bat. Carty's best was a drive to center on which any one but Hughes might have scored. Bodie's perfect throw just nailed the slow moving Seal pitcher and spoiled the situation.

The White Sox, with Hal Chase back again at first, responded to Ted Gleason's urgings and showed symptoms of returning class. Prince Hal seemed restored to all his vitality and grace, and his work around the initial cushion was as spectacular as of yore. In the third inning, Chase knocked down a hard grounder from Mundorff's bat, and just beat the speedy fielder to the cushion by diving at the bag head first.

The Sox went into the eighth inning shy two runs and got them back speedily. Corhan's boot of Berger's grounder, Jasper's single to center, and a pass to Alcock ... rang twice on Lord's single and Chase's sacrifice fly on which Hogan pegged very poorly to the plate.

Downs sent the Seals into the lead again in the same inning when he scored Schaller with a lusty double to center field. This was Downs' second two base swat of the afternoon.

Larry Chappell, the $18,000 beauty, opened the ninth inning with a drive that cleared the rightfield fence so easily we began for the first time to realize why Comiskey separated himself from all that money. The first homer of the year so unnerved Hughes that he walked Berger, or maybe he suspected that Berger had intentions on the same fence. It was the frying pan into the fire, for Ray Schalk, another high priced infant, came to the bat and duplicated Chappell's four cushion slam. The inning and the game closed without further damage, but not without further incident.

ALAS, POOR "PING"!

When those Chicago papers learn of "Ping" Bodie's latest bid for fame, they'll devote another entire section to the ivory dealer. Hughes wafted a fly to Bodie in center for what should have been the exit tally, but Ping was so anxious to make a break to the club house that he made the mistake of trying to squeeze the ball into his pistol pocket.

Now, Ping's trousers are altogether too tight fitting for any such proceeding, and the result was that Ping dropped the ball while trying to put it in his pocket. Held had already called the runner out and turned away when a roar from the crowd apprised him that something was wrong. He turned in time to see Bodie scrambling on the turf after the ball, and he accepted Umpire McCarthy's decision that the ball had been dropped.

Mundorff's infield out but prolonged the game a minute or two, but poor Bodie will hear about that "hole in his pocket" for the next year or two, or until he pulls something equally ivory.

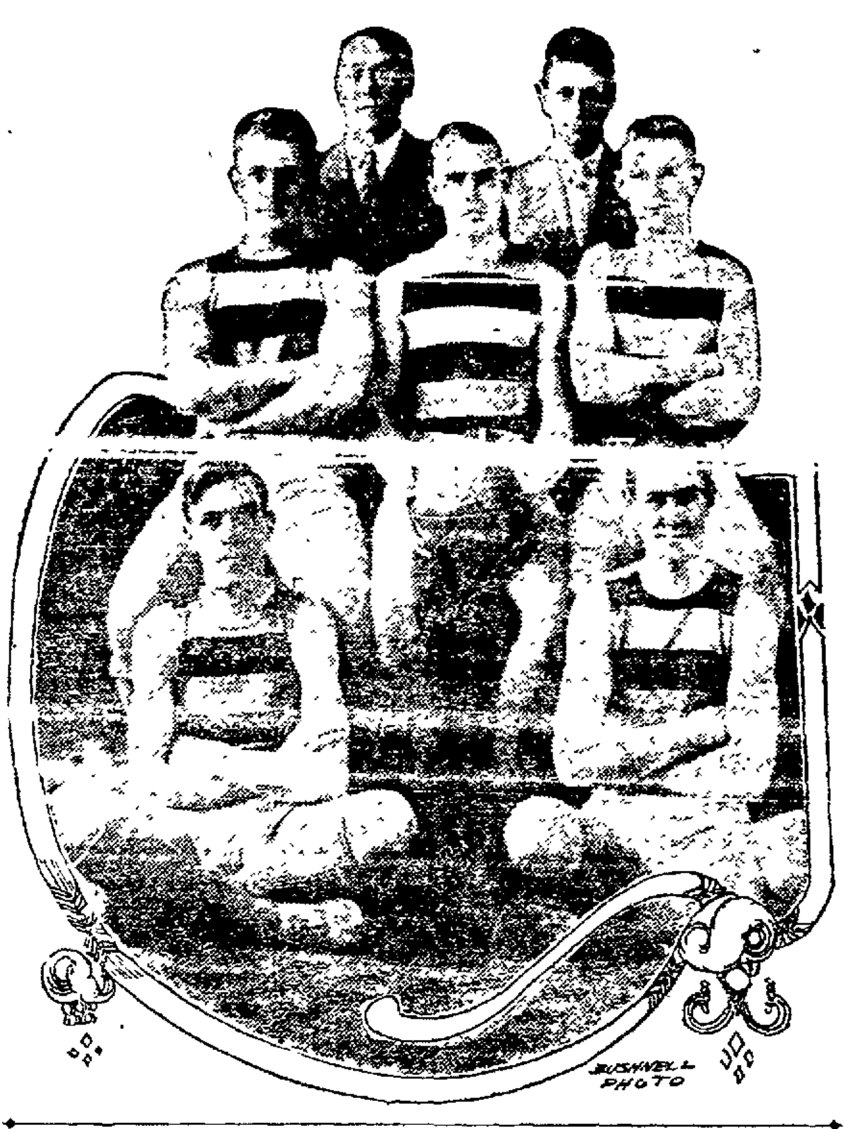
The Intercollegiate Basketball Champions for 1914



THE ST. MARY'S BASKETBALL TEAM, INTERCOLLEGIATE CHAMPIONS OF CALIFORNIA AND NEVADA. TOP—OTTO RITTLER, COACH; MORVIN NEVIS, MANAGER. MIDDLE—R. MOY, FORWARD; E. DILLER (CAPTAIN), FORWARD; J. PRENTICE, GUARD. BOTTOM—J. QUINN, GUARD; W. HANLY, CENTER.

TEAMWORK RESPONSIBLE FOR SUCCESS OF RED AND BLUE

Individual Skill of St. Mary's Five Backed by Good Coaching.

The local collegians have just com- [illegible] basketball history of St. Mary's college. And attached thereto is a record of notable interest. When the season opened the outlook did not contain extraordinary promise, as only two veterans returned, the others having departed through graduation. However, those concerned saw that it was no time for lamentation so an interclass tournament was arranged by Coach Rittler and by these means real basketball quality was discovered among the class aspirants.

It wasn't long until a winning quintet was developed. The initial game was played when a group of St. Mary's candidates journeyed to Fort Barry and opposed the speedy military aggregation. [illegible] returned victors after a hard fought and closely contested game. The men who were selected to go against the soldiers are the men who remained consistent to their tryout by gaining regular positions on the varsity, they are: Moy, Diller (captain), Hanley, Prentice and Quinn.

Others who have figured prominently in first division are Wood, Atwell, Tador and Perovich. These men have proved themselves dependable as substitutes and constituted a reliable reserve. The Fort Barry team opened the season of St. Mary's triumphal year, and from then until the end of its career the red and blue team met and defeated the fastest teams on the coast. Out of 18 games only two were lost and each of these by slight margins. The first to the Olympic club by four points, which were awarded; the second to Livermore.

The Livermore game can not be considered a telling defeat as the local basketers labored under disadvantages. The fact that many of the teams which fell easy victims to the St. Mary's five, have humbled the Livermore crew is enough to justify the locals in their claim.

Such teams as Fort Barry, Kaloi Klub, Polytechnic High school, San Francisco Y. M. C. A., San Francisco, Oakland high school, Stanford, University of California, Company A of the L. C. C., College of the Pacific, St. Ignatius and the Nevada university failed to stand before the St. Mary's aggregation. This enviable record only emphasizes the stellar basketing the collegians have been doing. Splendid results were attained because skill was earnestly coupled to team work, and for this effective union Coach Rittler is largely responsible.

Individually, every member of the team is a star at his post. Captain Diller shadowed all his former records, leading his team from victory to victory and in every game manifesting commendable skill and aggressiveness. Moy, the other veteran and also a forward, was one of the shining lights of the season. His spectacular basket shooting kept the rooters' applause almost continual. Moy's creditable work practically elects him a member of the all star aggregation to be chosen from the intercollegiate teams.

Although Hanley suffered from an injured foot, he played with exceptional speed and created for himself a remarkable record at center. Hanley arose from the ranks of last year's second team and has certainly placed himself in line for State championship on the position he plays.

One of St. Mary's reasons for success is found in the quality of the men who played guards. And these are Quinn and Prentice. Both merit the distinction they have gained. The secret of Quinn's success lies in his splendid defensive work. During the entire intercollegiate series he held his opponents to but five baskets at the same time managing to score seven for his own team. This fact alone should entitle Quinn to consideration in the all star team.

Perhaps one of the best basketball players who ever fought under the red and blue is Jim Prentice. Prentice has not only gained the admiration of his fellow students but also [illegible] who has seen him in action. He has plenty of speed and the fighting spirit which goes to make a good athlete. He will undoubtedly be elected a member of the all star aggregation. Such in brief is the quality of the men who have brought home the champion banner to St. Mary's college.

To the basketball followers of Nevada and California the experiment of an intercollegiate league has outstripped the most conservative expectation. The involved colleges have expressed appreciation for intimate relationship which has sprung up among them. This league opens a field which has remained untried in our western colleges.

Next year there is a possibility of admitting other teams into the competition. Such as Washington and Oregon. Likewise, this test of an extensive relationship among the western colleges may be effectively applied to baseball, track and football.

This year's TRIBUNE banner will be hung among the St. Mary's trophies. "To the victors belong the spoils" and truly the St. Mary's boys are the victors.

CHICAGO FANS AFTER THAT CUB STOCK

CHICAGO, March 7.—A number of Chicago fans will be partners of John T. Connery if his reported efforts to purchase the controlling stock of the Chicago National League Club are successful. Harry Gibbons, former candidate for Sheriff of Cook county, Roger Sullivan, the politician, and Fred Block are among those who take parts of the stock, it was learned today.

John T. Connery is president of a coal company. He was connected some years ago with a prosperous semi-professional team on the North Side.

Charles A. McCulloch and John R. Thompson were reported today to have sent a message to President Tener and Charles P. Taft asking them to fix a price on the Chicago Nationals. McCulloch and Thompson informed the eastern magnates that they wished to be considered as bidders for the Cubs. The two represent a new combination of capital, seeking to enter organized baseball.

NEW RULES FOR 1914 APPEAR.

The new rules for 1914 as well as records of past events on the diamond, schedules for next season and much other valuable information for fans, have just made their appearance for the first time in book form this year, in The Sporting News' Record Book, published by C. C. Spink & Son, St. Louis, Mo. This little book is vest-pocket in size and it is full of valuable and authoritative information compiled by J. G. T. Spink, official scorer of the World's Series. As an argument "settler" for fans it is in a class by itself.

WOLGAST IS WILLING TO ACCEPT ANYONE AS REFEREE

Hitch Over Arbiter Will Not Affect Bout, Say the Promoters.

MILWAUKEE, March 7—The so-called dispute over a referee for the Wolgast-Ritchie battle here next Thursday night will not result in the cancellation of the engagement, according to the promoters, who went ahead today disposing of huge piles of tickets. Wolgast throughout has been content to accept any referee named "even if it should be Ritchie's manager."

The promoter has washed his hands of the referee trouble, passing the buck up to the fighters' managers, who, he says, will name their man Monday. The state boxing commission is firm in its ruling that none but a licensed referee from Wisconsin will be allowed to officiate. Wolgast throughout has laughed at Ritchie's demands for the naming of Ed Smith of Chicago as referee. Milwaukee bugs say the champion regards it more than proper to stir up a row over some part of the procedure.

Meanwhile, if Ritchie has been press-agenting, the Michigan scrapper has been proving his thrift. His training stunts are pulled off in a newly-equipped gymnasium fitted with a regulation ring in which he wallops his training partners. An admission price of two bits is charged those who want to see the bearcat in action.

Wolgast is within two pounds of the limit now and is not denying himself food. Late today he concluded a strenuous program of boxing, driving three helpers around the ring with his old-time skill. He plans to follow the same program during the first of the week.

Odds today remained at 5 to 4 in Ritchie's favor, but many of Ad's backers are holding back their cash, expecting a better margin as the battle approaches.

Apparently undisturbed by rumors of trouble over the referee fans all over the Central West were swamping the management with orders for tickets. Indications are that the 8000 seats will be sold before Thursday. The first visiting fans were expected to arrive Sunday afternoon, ready for a week of celebration, climaxed by the bout.

RITCHIE SUGGESTS SMITH.

CHICAGO, March 7.—Lightweight Willie Ritchie tonight put a new angle on the controversy over naming a referee for his bout with Ad Wolgast at Milwaukee by digging up the fact that Ed Smith of Chicago, whom he favors, was born in Wisconsin. Ritchie said he didn't consider the referee tangle settled by any means and that he hopes to convince the Wisconsin state boxing commission that 40 or more years' residence outside the state does not disqualify Smith from acting.

The champion told friends who watched him work out today that he will play a waiting game and let Wolgast rush things. He was only two pounds overweight when his trainer signalled to stop work this afternoon. Jess Willard, late white-hope fame, was enroute to Milwaukee to help put the finishing touches on Wolgast.

JAP BALL PLAYERS ARE COMING HERE

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, March 7.—Twelve games have been arranged for the Japanese team of the University of Keio, which is expected to arrive in San Francisco April 9th. The Japanese team is coming to California in response to an invitation extended to it by Stanford University.

The games that have been scheduled are three with the Stanford nine and [illegible] St. Mary's Phoenix team, St. Ignatius, University of Santa Clara, University of California, a combined team from Pomona and Occidental colleges, College Alumni, Stockton State League, Sacramento and Fresno.

After finishing their California schedule the Keio players will leave for the east, under the management of Nat. C. Strong of New York, where a number of games are being arranged for them.

MOSSWOOD SENIORS BEAT U. C. BABES

The senior baseball team of Mosswood park defeated the University of California freshmen yesterday on the U. C. diamond. The game was replete with sensations, and ended with the score 8 to 3 in favor of the Oakland boys. The feature of the game was a smashing home run by Pitcher Jones of the victors, which he made in the third inning with two men on the bags. The batteries were: Mosswood, Jones (Scott) and Roumans; U. C. freshmen, Holmes and Cross.

PISTOL SHOOTERS ARE PRACTICING FOR INDOOR MEET

EMERYVILLE, March 7.—Tomorrow will be a busy day at the Emeryville range, and nearly every target will be in use. The Golden Gate Rifle and Pistol club, Germania Schuetzen club, Norddeutscher Schuetzen club, Co. A, Irish Volunteers and the Independent Rifles will be on hand. Some high scores are expected.

Pistol shooting has been especially interesting as some high scores have been made. The score of 1156 out of a possible 1250 is at present the high team mark, and was made by the Pittsburg, Pa., team.

The pistol shooters are now getting ready for the Indoor U. S. R. A. championship which is expected to take place the latter part of this month.

R. S. Wixson showed remarkable form, when the Shellmound team shot against Providence, R. I., by making scores of 231 and 232. Other good scores made were, Frank Poulter, 208; C. M. Kraul, 216; W. H. Christie, 216, W. A. Seibe, 214.

The Shooting Masters held their regular monthly meeting to measure bullseyes that were shot in the special bullseye event and the result was as follows: L. S. Hawxhurst, 38½; Chris Otten, 53; Frank Poulter, 69; F. A. McLaughlin, 74; A. Thompson, 75½; H. W. Klienenbroich, 87¼; W. A. Siebe, 90; C. W. Seely, 104; John Bauman, 116½; E. Schierbaum, 131½; F. Heinemann, 145¾; W. H. Christie, 147¼; K. O. Kindgren, 151½; L. Delavergne, 152; H. Purrmann, 164; Geo. Armstrong, 167; C. W. Randall, 168¼; Dr. R. A. Summers, 228; Henry Gaetjen, 233; C. H. Kraul, 242½; George Larsen, 251¼; L. Ericksen, 264¼, P. Kulick, 282¾.

E. Schierbaum, 151; K. O. Kindgren, 188, F. A. McLaughlin, 223; Al Thompson, 334¼. The latter three names are for the Standing on the 200 yard bullseye shoot.

EASTERN BASEBALL

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 7.—The St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Athletic Yannigans here today for the second time, by the score of 4 to 1.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 7.—The Cardinals today defeated Jacksonville, 3 to 2.

CHICAGO, March 7.—Joe Tinker's troupe of Chicago Federals will steam out of town for training quarters at Shreveport, La., late tomorrow afternoon like a grand opera company on a continental tour. So many rooters and friends of President Charles Weeghman and Tinker will make the trip that the special will carry seven Pullmans.

PITTSBURG, Pa., March 7.—Manager Fred Clarke and 14 of his Pirate crew left here tonight for Dawson Springs, Ky., where they will be joined by other squads of Pittsburg players from St. Louis, Chicago and Cincinnati, and go into spring training. Business Manager John Dailey, part of a local band, and a large party of newspaper correspondents and rooters filled the two Pullman cars of the train that left here tonight. Hendrix and Simon, the battery which went over to the Federals, were the only players missing from the ranks.

WILMINGTON, N. C., March 7.—The Phillies defeated the Atlantic Coast Line team, 5 to 1, in their first full game of the season, here this afternoon. Harold Ireland, a recruit infielder, was injured sliding in the fifth inning.

The score:	R.	H.	E.
Atlantic Coast Line	1	4	2
Philadelphia	5	9	1

Tourists Used Fifty Balls for King

NEW YORK, March 7.—A dispatch from London says: "It has just leaked out that the historic baseball game before King George came to an abrupt end at the close of the ninth inning, owing to the lack of baseballs. The world's tourists took out thirty-six new and fourteen old balls. Many of these were knocked over the foul [illegible] as souvenirs, so that when Umpire Klem called the tenth inning he had only a single ball left. Callahan and McGraw made the hustle of their lives to recover some of the other balls from those who had taken them, and succeeded in getting a few, but it was a close call."

BASEBALL BANQUET SEES 600 NOTABLES TOAST GREATEST OF GAMES

Organized Interests Celebrate in Honor of Tourists and Bay at Feds.

NEW YORK, March 7.—After two days' ceaseless running in circles while the Federal League yelped and barked at its heels, organized baseball celebrated tonight. With magnates, man- [illegible] a banquet was thrown in honor of the world-touring Giants and White Sox who arrived back in the midst of the smoke and fuss of the baseball war yesterday. The banquet was a $10-a-plate affair, so the Federals may be expected to stage an eatfest in the near future at which gold plates will be given away as souvenirs.

After much dashing hither and yon and wildly heralding the acceptance of terms, the magnates had to sit back and watch the Federals throw in the harpoon in a couple of places. Mike Doolan, of Philadelphia signed with the Baltimore Federals. Steve Evans, St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, went to the Brooklyn Federals and as an extra starter, President Gilmore signed up Vincent Campbell, former Pittsburg outfielder, for the Indianapolis team. Campbell has been out of baseball for a year, having retired to go into the automobile business, but declared that tinkering with spark plugs and magnetos had not injured his batting eye.

AFTER DICK EGAN.

Gilmore hurried out of town this afternoon and before leaving said he had not been able to do business with Dick Egan of Brooklyn and Lee Magee of the St. Louis Cardinals. The fight for the tourists thus stood six to two in favor of organized baseball. The lineup put Wingo, Magee, Egan, Crawford, Speaker and Leverenz back with their old clubs, and Doolan and Evans with the Federals.

All indications point to the sale of the Chicago Cubs having been practically set and sealed. John T. Connery of Chicago had repeated conferences with Charles P. Taft and Governor Tener during the day. This afternoon Tener declared that so far as he was concerned the confabbing was over. He would not officially admit that Connery was the man who would take over the Cubs, but about the Waldorf it was declared Tener had personally sought Connery as a man of the type the National league needed to take hold of the property which it was necessary to take out of the hands of C. W. Murphy.

"It is now purely a business proposition between Taft and the prospective purchaser of the Cubs," said the Governor. It was reported that the deal might not be closed here, but that final negotiations would be made in Chicago next Monday or Tuesday.

ANOTHER BIG DINNER.

The army of baseball men will take a special train to Chicago Sunday after recovering as much as possible from the effects of last night's banquet. Another big dinner is to be staged in honor of the tourists Tuesday night in Chicago.

GATHERING IS HISTORIC.

The greatest array of baseball talent, representing both the playing and the swivel chair variety, ever gathered together was on hand at the dinner last night. Both league presidents, Governor Tener and Ban Johnson, were there, and big league and minor league magnates down to the final getting off place of organization leadership drank welcome homes to the tourists.

Edward E. McCall, recent candidate for mayor, acted as toastmaster. The principal speeches were expected from Tener, Johnson, Garry Herrmann, Chas. Comiskey, John J. McGraw and James Callahan, the latter three having headed the round the world romp of the ball players. Irvin Cobb was on deck and negro stories he holds under the reserve clause were trotted out and the Federals defied to sign them.

President Chivington represented the American association. President Barrow, John Conway and other International leaguers were on hand for the eastern near-major league, and managers and [illegible] the big leagues answered the call. The 600 diners included:

President Hempstead, Giants; Ebbetts, Brooklyn; Baker, Philadelphia; Dreyfuss, Pittsburg; Britton, St. Louis; Gaffney, Boston; Navin, Detroit, and other American league moguls. Besides Comiskey, Callahan and McGraw, there was Tris Speaker, the new $18,000 beauty; Sam Crawford, and all other members of the Giant-White Sox party; Mike Sexton, president of the National association of minor league clubs, embracing about 40 leagues, and Secretary John Farrell, representing the smaller organizations.

CHANGE IN SCORING AT P. C. I. MEET WILL BE MADE

Silver and Brown Plaques Are Added to List of Awards.

As a result of the large number of entries, the committee in charge of the Pacific Coast Interscholastic to be held on the University of California campus April 24 and 25, has found it necessary to make the following change in the manner of scoring. The first four places in each event will be counted, receiving respectively five, three, two, and one point. Medals in the form of fobs will be awarded to each point winner. Gold and silver medals to those taking first and second place, while to those finishing third and fourth bronze medals will be given. In the two Greek events which have been added this year, the discus and javelin throw, points will not count towards winning the meet, medals will be given as in the other events.

This year in addition to the medals and cups offered, silver and bronze plaques are being made as special prizes to be kept permanently by the highest individual point winner, the winning team, the winning relay team and the team capturing the swimming meet.

Contracts calling for over $400 of medals have been let during the past week.

Many responses to 606 invitations sent out have been received and from appear- [illegible] tle to San Diego will have representatives in Berkeley. The committee announces that all entries must be in their hands before April 13th.

Joe Sullivan writes to THE TRIBUNE from New York, where he is directing the destinies of Ray Campbell, the lightweight, that the game there is being killed rapidly. Purses are very small, says Sullivan, and there are more promoters than boxers. Everybody seems to have a permit. Campbell defeated Young Brown recently and is now in line for a match with Leach Cross.

Even Boxers Have Baseball Fever

TOM NICKODA, the local middleweight hero, who meets Al Rodgers Tuesday night, showing that he is an adept at more than one game.

Tom Nickola, the local middleweight idol who meets Al Rodgers Tuesday night at Piedmont pavilion, can do a few other things besides rock his opponent to sleep. Tom can wallop a baseball almost as hard as he can hit a rival gloveman on the chin with his fist, which is to say SOME hard. Down in Manila, Nickola played first for the marines against the civilians and had a record as a capable player. If he ever deserts the boxing game it will be to turn professional ball player.

GOSSIP FROM THE Rival Training Camps

Jack Powell, secured in trade for O'Rourke and Sterrett, has at last made known his intentions, and, according to a telegram dated St. Louis, the Powell family will arrive at Los Angeles Sunday, barring accidents. Jack's good work in the American association last year gives rise to the belief that he will get by in the Coast league with flying colors. Although he has faced major league batsmen for a full decade, his services are yet valuable on the market, as he represents no small expenditure on the part of Maier and Hogan.

There will be some warm pitching in the Coast league when Powell or White stacks up against Hughes. These three were for years rival pitchers in the American league, and, although none of them are as young as they used to be, they all know how, and it should be interesting when they face each other.

Chicago should cheer up. Word comes from the East that Ed Walsh, the principal bone of the Windy City in a baseball sense, has succeeded in working most of the rust out of his celebrated "iron arm" and seems confident of regaining the form that for years made him rank with the greatest pitchers of modern times. Walsh is working out his "come-back" along scientific lines, and has temporarily discarded the "spitter," which is said to be wearing on the arm. He has not parted with it for keeps, however, but is merely saving it, as it were, for the regular business of pitching when the season starts.

SANTA MARIA (Portland training camp) March 7.—A number of the new Portland men look extremely promising, four of them being pitchers. Smith, pitcher, comes from Hotchkiss, Colo., and is highly recommended by Tommy Seaton. Hansen, from San Bernardino; Flanbeck, from Rupert, Idaho, and Fittstag, who twirled for Santa Clara college two years ago all give promise. Perkins, catcher from Marshfield, Or., is on the job and working hard.

Buddy Ryan seems to be in good shape as he is already landing on the ball with great regularity. Ryan and Rogers have just returned from a hunting trip in the Cuyama and [illegible] country, so they are in good physical condition.

It is up to Gene Krapp if he is or is not to be a member of the Portland Coast League team this season. It appears that Gene has been using the Federal League gag to back up his demands for the 1914 season and President McCredie is not hurrying himself to fall for the demands of the diminutive pitcher. In fact, the judge has sent a negative reply and since that time Gene hasn't said much.

Krapp probably bases the estimation of his value on his popularity with the fans, but it is a plain fact that popularity with the fans is not much good for a raise in salary without an improved showing in the guide book.

Dan Murray, who last year was the first string backstop for the Portland Colts, is not willing to be classed as a holdout, for he has sent in his signed contract to President McCredie, and is now in line for the 1914 season.

ST. MARY'S 17, OAKLAND 5.

The second baseball team of St. Mary's College defeated Oakland high yesterday afternoon, 17 to 5, at St. Mary's grounds. A home run by Randall and three-baggers by Young, Souza and Mitchell were the features of the game.

Mike Doolan and Evans Jump

NEW YORK, March 7.—The Federal League promoters announced today that they had signed Mike Doolan, formerly of the Philadelphia National League Club and Steve Evans of the St. Louis Nationals. Doolan has been allotted to the Baltimore Club of the Federals, while Evans will play with Brooklyn.

BLUE AND GOLD RUNNERS SCORE 104 POINTS TO RIVALS' 13

Crabbe Takes Half Mile and Wood the Mile in Fast Fashion.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, March 7.—The varsity track team succeeded in walking away this afternoon with the Pastime team of San Francisco to the tune of 104 to 13. The meet brought out several good races and was much more interesting than the one-sidedness of the score [illegible] outside team held on the campus this semester.

The half-mile was one of the feature events of the afternoon. Crabbe of California took the event handily in the remarkable time of 1:59 4-5. Quintett and Cone finished behind him, both pretty well up. The mile was taken by Harry Wood, who covered the distance in 4:26 1-5. The following is a summary of results:

Mile race—Won by Harry Wood, C.; Wright, C., second; Davis, Pastime, third. Time, [illegible].

STEPHENSON KEEPS UP FAST PACE FOR U. C. CREWS

Every afternoon sees a busy scene on the Oakland Estuary where the 'varsity oarsmen are being put through their daily work by coach Stephenson.

Stephenson is well pleased with the way the men are getting next to the stroke, though the work of some of the men is far from what may be expected later in the season. When the final selection is made the crew will probably be the best crew that had represented the Blue and Gold for several years. Merritt and Auger are both showing good work at stroke and it is difficult to [illegible] which one will decorate that position in the final lineup.

The crews are at present made up of the following:

First 'varsity—Merritt, stroke; Georgeson, 7; Shaw, 6; Falk, 5; Lee, 4; Hardy, 3, Halbert, bow, with Howard, coxswain.

Second 'varsity—Auger, stroke; Sutton, 7; Darnell, 6; Denman, 5; Cordes, 4; Hasard, 3; Weber, 2; Huntington, bow; Hutton, coxswain.

The new stroke proves hard on the oars yesterday, three new oars cracking off clean. The condition of the water with the heavy swells from the ferry [illegible] is however the main cause of the smashing of so many oars. Six oars have been put out of commission this week.

GOING TO FRAT HOUSE.

On March 21, the 'varsity crew will start its training table, and the men are to live together at one of the fraternity houses on the campus. This is the first time in the history of rowing in California that the crew has lived together prior to a race.

It is believed that this will get the men to understand one another better and is expected to work to the same advantage as it does for the football team.

ST. MARY'S SECOND DEFEAT BERKELEY

The second varsity basketball team of St. Mary's College defeated Berkeley high 17 to 16, yesterday afternoon in one of the fastest and most exciting games witnessed in Piedmont pavilion this season. Atwell and Cunningham played a star game for St. Mary's.

The Charms of Early Millinery

ARE difficult in the extreme to describe, for they are radical departures from those we have been taught to accept as standards.

This year the color combinations are pleasing, too, and seem to combine just those shades which will produce the most becoming effects. As you know, the hats are slightly raised, showing a little more of the hair, and in many instances tilting smartly to the side.

The shapes are small and a few mediums. The trimmings are arranged in conservative and exaggerated forms. There are no plain hats in the entire showing. The hats are always at SENSIBLE SELLING PRICES.

LINCOLN HIGHWAY BOOSTERS START WORK

BOOSTERS WILL HELP LINCOLN HIGHWAY

Oakland Good Road Men to Stir Up Interest in Work

Starting from the headquarters of the Oakland Commercial Club on Monday morning at 7:30 o'clock, about 50 autoloads of enthusiastic good roads boosters will start for Auburn along the route of the Lincoln Highway and spend two days in arousing the interest and enthusiasm of the communities along the way in the great transcontinental road. The support of each community will be asked in furthering the project and from the assurances already received from some of the cities and towns the boosters will not only be given big receptions at each stop, but active work in behalf of the highway will be immediately taken up. Motion pictures will be made of the start.

Both the Commercial Club and the Oakland Chamber of Commerce have taken up the Lincoln Highway proposition and are working for its advancement in California, as it means much to both Northern and Central California in the matter of bringing tourists this way. The Lincoln Highway will also be a big advantage in the "See America First" movement and aid in diverting much motor travel which is now going to Europe. H. E. Fredrickson, consul-at large of the Lincoln Highway Association, is just in receipts of statistics gathered by the association as to the number of automobiles which will come over the Lincoln Highway from Eastern points during the Panama-Pacific Exposition, and these figures give a grand total of 25,000 cars.

J. E. CAINE, MANAGING DIRECTOR OF THE OAKLAND COMMERCIAL CLUB, WHO HAS JUST BEEN APPOINTED STATE CONSUL FOR THE LINCOLN HIGHWAY COMMISSION, WITH HEADQUARTERS IN OAKLAND.

With an average of three persons to each car, or a total of 75,000 individuals, and the cash benefit to the cities and towns along the route in California, is analyzed as follows:

Noon stops, 75 cents per person, $56,250; night stops, $3.75 per person, $281,250; 1-day stops, $4.50 per person, $337,500; 10-day stops, $45 per person, $3,345,000. In addition to these figures, the association estimates that an average stay of 10 days per person at the Panama-Pacific Exposition that 75,000 persons will spend $3,345,000 more. The automobile expenses per car while in the State of California is estimated at $50 per car for tires, gasoline, oil and storage, or a total of $125,000 for this time alone for 25,000 cars along the Lincoln Highway.

On such a financial basis as this those interested in the highway project are appealing for assistance in completing one of the most stupendous tasks undertaken by any country. It rivals the Panama Canal and will, upon completion, be one of the wonders of the world. The itinerary mapped out by the good roads enthusiasts who leave Monday morning is as follows:

Monday, February 16—Oakland, 7:30 a. m.; Hayward, Livermore, Tracy, Stockton, Lodi, Woodbridge, Sacramento, 5 p. m. (Night stop).

Tuesday, February 17—Sacramento, 8 a. m.; Auburn, Placerville, Folsom, Sacramento, 7 p. m. (Night stop).

On Wednesday the autoisits will return to Oakland.

The work of putting the various roads along the Lincoln Highway into shape is being pushed forward rapidly in the Eastern States. Lincoln Highway markers have been placed on over 2000 miles of the 3400 mile route of the ocean-to-ocean highway. In many of the rural sections farmers have devoted a week's work and their teams to improving roadways and aiding in the general construction work. Bridges are being put in by cities and towns, and at Chambersburg, Pa., an arch has been erected over the route of the Lincoln Highway, which was also the route of General Lee's army in the march from Chambersburg to Gettysburg.

Among the automobile dealers of Oakland that have tendered the use of cars for the occasion are: G. H. McCutcheon of the Howard Automobile company, who will send a Buick Six; C. H. Burman, of the H. O. Harrison company, who will drive a Hudson Six; E. Linn Matheson, of the Studebaker car agency, who will pilot a Studebaker Six; Ben Hammond, of the Pacific Kissel Kar branch, who will drive a Kissel Six; George Peacock, of the E. L. Peacock Auto company, who will drive a Mitchell Six; W. L. Webber, of the Don Lee house, with a 1914 Cadillac and Frank Gageol, with a Jeffrey car.

LONGEST CLOSED CAR TRIP.

What is undoubtedly the longest trip ever taken in a closed car has just been ended by the return of J. W. Carton and party to Los Angeles, after completing the double transcontinental—from Los Angeles to New York and back—in a Studebaker Sedan. Comfort all the way, regardless of weather conditions, and wonderful freedom from mechanical trouble featured the trip.

FORD FACTORY STILL GROWING IN DETROIT

Just a few months ago many newspapers carried accounts of the gas engine power plant of the Ford Motor company, described as the largest of its kind in the world and one which consumed more than the amount of gas used in the entire city of Detroit, according to a letter received here yesterday by the Veitch & Presley Ford agency.

It is rather significant of the growth of the Ford industry that in spite of the size and newness of this huge power plant a new one is being erected immediately adjoining it. The excavation work is now well under way.

This step was found necessary because the present plant is being crowded to its utmost limit and there will be a still greater demand for power when the huge additions to the Ford plant, now nearing completion, are put in commission. The newest Ford power plant will reveal some exceedingly interesting ideas along the line of power development and fuel consumption—ideas absolutely novel in the engineering world—the exact nature of which will be announced later.

ARRESTS TO BE MADE TOMORROW UNDER LAW

According to information given out late yesterday by the California State Automobile Association officials, commencing tomorrow, Monday, morning, arrests will be made by the police officers in San Mateo and several other towns and counties adjacent to the bay of all autoists who fail to display the 1914 license numbers on their cars.

The California State Automobile Association in order to take care of its members will issue a placard that will be accepted by the peace authorities providing that the application for license has been made to the state authorities. Other motorists who have as yet failed to apply for license should do so through a motor car dealer with authority under an interpretation of the law to lend a "License Applied For" placard to all who have really applied through his house for a state license and accompanied the application with the necessary license fee.

ATTRACTIVE TRIP IN MARIN COUNTY

The motorist who is looking for information concerning road conditions and the most enjoyable trips to make at this season of the year will do well to take what is known as the Marin county trip, according to G. A. Merrill, Oakland manager of Chanlor & Lyon Company, who says:

"We have just received word that the roads between Sausalito and Healdsburg are in good condition—that is, after you get out of the bad stretch of Sausalito. The best way to make the trip if one can afford the time is to take the 10 o'clock boat from San Francisco to Tiburon, thence over the road through Belvedere around over the strip following the regular road to Alta. This is easily followed, inasmuch as there are no cut-offs, except into private property, and travel easily marks these. From Alta to San Rafael the road is better than usual. From San Rafael to Petaluma the roads are greatly improved in the last two weeks.

"From Petaluma to Santa Rosa there are three or four spots, maybe 100 feet long, that are rough, but outside of that it is splendid.

"From Santa Rosa to Healdsburg, and from the reports received above there as far as Cloverdale, it is delightful going at this time of the year, with the spring flowers covering the fields that makes it one of the most inviting places to motor.

"In returning one has to come into Sausalito on account of the ferry service and the motorist should remember after leaving Alta to watch the road closely, as it is exceedingly rough and hard on springs and car in general."

Four motorcycles have just been added to the police department of Springfield, Ohio.

FORD OWNER CONVINCES SKEPTICAL ENGLISHMEN

"An English motorist, Mr. Gordon Bennett, of the Central Motor Garage, St Helier, Island of Jersey, recently put his horse power Ford Model "T" through fellow townsmen, according to Ben Hammond of the Kissel Kar branch, licensed Ford dealer in Oakland.

It seems that a good deal of discussion had taken place relative to the car's ability to climb the long flight of steps going up Snow Hill. In consequence arrangements were made to try the car on this task soon after daybreak on a recent Sunday morning.

With only a few yards start, Mr. Bennett covered the stairs as far as the first the remaining portions of the journey were accomplished, stopping only twice, where the acute angles made assistance necessary in turning the car.

One demonstration of the 1914 Haynes with the Electric Gear Shift will convince you of its superiority over the old-style method.

Seldom, if ever, has any automobile improvement created such widespread interest as that manifested in the Electric Gear Shift. This wonderful device not only eliminates the danger of stripping gears, but it provides a safer and simpler method of the control of the gasoline automobile.

Push a button—then, when ready to start or change your speed, throw your clutch. Simple—fool-proof—no chance to strip your gears.

HUDSON Convertible Roadster

You show good judgment in selecting this new-type Roadster.

No car is more comfortable or convenient than the Cabriolet, the latest improvement on the Roadster design.

The HUDSON Light Six Cabriolet is ideally arranged to furnish a closed or open car of the highest type. With top up it is perfectly storm-proof, absolutely protecting its occupants from snow, rain, wind or dust. In pleasant weather the top may be folded and the side windows dropped into recesses in the doors. It then has all the snappy style and attractive qualities of the open roadster.

A Most Useful Model

This Cabriolet—or Convertible Roadster—is a most useful model. Business men who like to drive their own cars find it ideal for going to and from business, and for quick trips through the day.

Ladies like it for shopping. It is delightfully designed for calling and for matinees. Very many women prefer it to the electric.

The motor is started by the pressure of a foot pedal. The car, like all HUDSON Sixes, is easier to handle than an electric. It is faster; its radius of travel is unlimited; it is powerful enough for any hill or any road conditions.

So flexible is the motor, that at every speed and on practically every type of road or hill, the car speed is controlled by the throttle. Shifting of gears is rarely necessary.

Built on the Hudson Six-40 Chassis

The Cabriolet is built on the standard HUDSON Light Six chassis. It is electrically started and lighted. Control is so simple that a young girl can handle the car with ease.

It is an economical car to operate and a very moderate-priced car to buy. It is little more than half the cost of an electric of less capacity and much less power and travel radius.

The car will be sent to your residence, at any time, on telephone request. You may drive it yourself and learn that we have been most modest in our statements of its numerous advantages.

MOTOR CAR VALUE PROVEN BY TOURS

Four-Year-Old Buick Makes a Transcontinental Trip Easily.

Be sure of what your needs are in the way of an automobile and then be sure and buy the automobile that will fill your needs, is the advice of A. T. Haynes of Cape May, N. J., who has just completed an overland trip to San Francisco from his home via the southern route.

Haynes and his wife made the trip in their 30 horsepower Buick roadster, which they purchased in 1910. While in Oakland they visited G. H. McCutcheon, manager of the local Buick headquarters, and gave the following interesting account of their trip:

"We left our home in southern Jersey in the last days of 191 , and headed our little Buick for San Francisco. The machine carried, besides ourselves, over 300 pounds of baggage. Our route took us through Philadelphia, then over the government boulevard, which has been built to connect the historic battle fields of Civil War fame. Gettysburg and Hagerstown were both visited, and then the little Buick was headed southwest to Atlanta, Ga., then northwest to Chattanooga, Tenn., at which point we turned west through Nashville, Tenn. A visit was paid Little Rock, Ark., after which we continued on to El Paso, Tucson, Phoenix, and Yuma to San Diego, where we turned northward to Los Angeles, Bakersfield, Fresno, Oakland and San Francisco. The road conditions varied from the very best to the very worst. The roads in Virginia, Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee were very bad. There were long stretches in the Cumberland mountains wheer the roads were the same as they must have been a hundred years ago.

Between Phoenix and Yuma we drove over a piece of road more than 100 miles long and did not see a house in the entire distance.

We were particularly fortunate in the matter of bad weather. There was lots of rain just ahead and behind us, but we only encountered two and one-half days of rain on the entire trip.

California is certainly to be congratulated upon the interest it is showing in good roads. We left Los Angeles for San Francisco just after the last heavy rain and it seemed that the water had hardly had time to run off the road before the construction gangs were out making repairs, and the sections of State Highway which are now completed are certainly a treat after a journey such as ours. In spite of the fact that our Buick had seen more than three years of hard service we did not experience the least bit of trouble with it, and although we have traveled more than 4000 miles since November 17, the car appears to be running as well now as when we left New Jersey, and I don't expect any trouble on our return trip, upon which we will start within the next few days."

In commenting on Haynes' expressions regarding the care that should be used in selecting a new car, G. H. McCutcheon, Oakland manager of the Howard Auto Company, distributor of Buick cars, says: "The matter of selecting a car should be given just as much care and attention as any other business transaction and once the purchase is made the new machine should be looked upon as an investment and as such should have the same care and attention as any other investment and the longer it is used the more profitable will the investment become.

"No one thinks of trading in or selling a watch or a piano at the end of nine months or a year simply to buy a new one, so why should one dispose of their automobile, which cost a great deal more than either of the above items, provided they got what they wanted in the first place. We know absolutely that a Buick car cannot be worn out in a year's wear. Our records show any number of the older model Buicks that have been driven more than 100,000 miles and are still in active service The new Buicks are much better built than these old veterans, and I am sure that I am safe in saying that any 1914 Buick is capable of at least 150,000 miles before it shows any signs of wearing out."

the roads The signs are large and easily read when one is traveling by in a motor car, and they are placed close enough together to allow one to travel in peace of mind, feeling that they are on the road they wish to go over.

"This is especially appreciated in traveling from Bakersfield to Tehachapi—its great big wide plain with a lot of trails going over it. In fact, a person traveling south from that point could go right not for these signs of the Southern club, one would not know which way to take. In fact, leaving Bakersfield we saw 10 trails, any one of which were well enough marked to invite a person to follow. The signs, however, of the club kept us on the right road all the way over to Tehachapi, and in fact every bit of the road south of Bakersfield.

"The rest of the State has a great deal to learn from what the Southern club has done in this line."

CYCLECAR DATA COMPILED HERE

The Standard Specifications Are Outlined by Fred Hauger.

Manager Fred Hauger of the E. L. Peacock Auto Co, Pacific Coast Distributors of the Mercury Cyclecar has made an interesting comparison of the relation of the cyclecar to the automobile industry. Hauger, in compiling the specifications on what is known as the "Sturdy Standard of Cyclecars," used as his basis the article in the February issue of the Automobile Trade Journal on "The Possibilities of the Cyclecar." A strictly speaking cyclecar is not a cheaply constructed automobile and is much more than a motorcycle. In the experimental departments of several factories they have found that the logical power plant is a two-cylinder V-shaped air cooled motor. Most motors now in use develop 12 horse power, which gives ample power to handle a 500-pound car with two passengers. One hundred inch wheelbase has also been adopted as standards which give easy riding, better distribution of weight, which makes the car stay to the ground at a maximum speed. Low-hung cars, or, preferably, underslung construction, is used. Platform front spring with cantilever on the rear gives easier riding qualities than is attained on a large touring car. A 36-inch tread has been widely discussed but finally decided upon as a standard construction for cyclecars. On country roads with this tread one can follow the path made by two horses, or one wheel can follow the path in the center made by one horse with the other wheels in the regular wagon tread. With a 56-inch tread on an automobile often on roads the pan dragged with the Cyclecar Standard tread it rides on top of this "hump" in the road and can pick the path under the worst conditions, more especially on account of the light weight which rides over heavy, muddy and sandy roads, instead of sinking in. It has also been proven conclusively that a friction transmission is to be used in the cyclecar. Last year in British and Scottish cyclecar tests the friction driven cars with belt won over shaft and chain driven cars The tandem-seating arrangement has been adopted on account of least wind resistance, better stream lines to the bodies and better distribution of weight.

FOLLOW MAIL CAR THROUGH TRAFFIC

"I've been driving a car through city traffic for several years but I learned something today that I'll pass along," remarked the veteran motorist.

"Follow the mail car. That's the sum and substance of it all. If you happen to see one of those delivery cars with 'U. S. Mail' on it, going your way, catch step, if you can; you'll be able to run every crowded crossing on any avenue in this broad land.

"It was purely accident in my case. I was in a hurry and sighed when I drifted up to a traffic cop, just as he had started a stream of cars and horse-drawn vehicles, across my route. As I slowed down, a Studebaker delivery car in the mail service came past me on the outside. The cop gave one look at the mail car, stopped the stream that was starting across our path, and gave us the go-ahead. He almost caught me off guard but I managed to fall in behind the Studebaker and simply ran every crossing for a mile.

"My experience made me curious and I asked a friend of mine in the postal service if it was customary for the mail wagons to get that preference.

"'You bet it is,' was his prompt reply. 'If those cops didn't give the mail wagon boy the go-ahead, he'd probably jam right on through without it. For he's running on schedule with all the rights of a mail train on a railroad, and with the whole prestige of the Federal government behind him.

"'They might not hang a policeman for treason, if he tried to stop one of those cars but they'd sure make it hot for him.'"

The veteran motorist might have carried his investigation farther with discoveries that would probably have been just as interesting. He would have found out that virtually all the motor cars which carry mail about every large city are owned by contractors who give heavy bond to indemnify the government against tardiness. Even a minute off schedule lays them open to fine.

Many of the contractors have worked the delivery system to a finer point than any department store, and have their men working under the orders of a trained dispatcher The wisest ones are already standardizing their equipment so far as possible, using light, fast, handy, electrically equipped delivery cars of the Studebaker type for standard use, with large trucks for heavy work between railroad stations and the main points of delivery.

Two Tires in One!

This is what the "Nobby Tread" Tire practically is— Two wear-resisting Tires in One

The big, thick, tough rubber "Nobs" that prevent skidding, are made on a big, thick, extra strong additional strip.

Then this heavy strip is welded by hand and vulcanized on to an extra heavy, extra strong tire.

You have got to wear out the big, thick, tough "Nobs" of rubber before you even start to wear out the extra strong tire underneath.

Then comes the great big difference in the quantity and the quality of the rubber and of the fabric that is used in "Nobby Treads."

An unusually large amount of rubber and fabric is used in "Nobby Treads," and —only the very toughest and the best rubber, and —only the strongest, especially selected fabric.

Then don't forget this fact,

—rubber quality can differ and fabric quality can differ just as much as the quality of leather can differ.

These are the reasons for the history making mileage records of "Nobby Tread" anti-skid Tires during the past four years, and based upon these mileage records we recently announced that are now sold under our regular warranty—perfect workmanship and material—BUT any adjustments are on a basis of

"Nobby Tread" Tires

5,000 Miles

The unusual wear-resisting quality
—the quantity of rubber
—the quantity of fabric
—the method of construction
all have been rigidly maintained in "Nobby Tread" anti-skid tires, —and maintained regardless of cost,
—and maintained regardless of price competition.

"Nobby Tread" Tires are REAL anti-skid tires, and mile for mile, dollar for dollar, they are by far the most economical tires.

NEW LOZIER FOUR MAKING HIT HERE

Popular Stream-line Design Is Incorporated in the New Models.

Right on the heels of the advent of the new four-cylinder Lozier car on the coast is the announcement given out by the Beekins-Speers Motor Company to the effect that a branch house is being opened in Oakland for the benefit of Lozier car owneds in Alameda county.

The new house opens tomorrow morning in the upper Broadway auto row, at Twenty-fourth street. It will be under the personal supervision of Arthur C. Chisholm, who is well known in local motoring circles and who for the past year has been identified with the Lozier forces in San Francisco. Chisholm will have one of the new four-cylinder Lozier models on display tomorrow morning in the Oakland branch house.

From outward appearances it is hard to distinguish the [illegible] Lozier Four [illegible] the Light Six. There is a more condensed appearance, but only in a slight degree, as the car is a full comfortable seven-passenger vehicle.

One has to go under the bonnet to really find the difference between the Four and Six, and this practically only in the two cylinders less.

There is a compactness about the motor that gives one the impression of being a foreign built power plant; everything is [illegible] and there is [illegible] little in sight that can be handled. Milo Bekins, of the Beekins-Speer Motor Company, agents for the Lozier car in California, in speaking of this new product, says:

"The motor is one of gray iron cast enbloc 4¼ by 6½ of the 'L' head type. It can be seen by this that it is of the long stroke order so popular today. It develops 56 actual horse power, and at the tests has proved to fully come up to this specification. In the extensive tryouts that the car has been given an accurate record of its workings as have been kept, it has averaged 17 miles to the gallon, which is far above what is generally obtained from a four. The valves are all made of Tungsten steel, the best material known for gas engine valves. They are large, giving quick accerlation on all speeds. It has the high tension magneto with auxiliary battery ignition; all wires carried through tubes to their respective spark plugs.

"Accessibility of the engine is seen in the cylinder heads, which are easily removed by turning several nuts; valves can be ground or carbon removed from combustion without taking the motor apart. Valves are adjusted by check nuts reached by removing the valve covers and are protected from dirt and other foreign matter by being completely enclosed.

"Simplicity and the highest type of efficiency are combined throughout in the construction of the motor. The upper half of the crank case is cast integral with the cylinders. This means fewer parts and a reduced vibration. The front and drive of the engine with a silent chain running over the crank shaft, cam shaft and magneto and pump shaft sprockets gives a silence not to be obtained in any other four of today.

Drop-forged castings are used throughout, while the pistons are made of what is known as gun iron.

"The frame is of the rear arched type, with low center of gravity and ample clearance over axles and wheels. This is a much desired property in the car of today. Not only for appearance, but for actual necessity. The multiple diso of asbestos and metallic wires woven tightly together, similar to material used for brake linings that has a high co-efficient of friction that makes it impervious to oil and resist wear to a remarkable degree. These fabric discs operate against hardened steel discs. This arrangement results in a positive, smooth acting clutch without the gripping tendency common to many other kinds of clutches.

"The car has the selective type transmission of Lozier design arranged as a unit with the motor; four speeds forward, one reverse, direct drive on the third.

"On direct drive, that is the third speed, a walking pace to 50 miles and upward is possible. The power is transmitted to the rear axle through the propeller shaft fitted with a universal joint at both ends. The force of the drive is taken through the rear platform springs. The car has four large breaks, two on each rear wheel.

"It is equipped with Gray & Davis starting motor and also the Gray & Davis generator for lighting purposes.

"The car has the famous streamline design first introduced in this country on the Lozier car. There are two different types of body for this chassis. A seven and a five-passenger touring body and a two-passenger roadster."

MARIN COUNTY IS AFTER GOOD ROADS

According to a statement made by an official of the State Highway Commission, the first work done by the commission in Marin county will start on April 15. The stretch of road from Sausalito to Alto will be unit improved. Beside building a new bed, many of the curves will be taken out and a new route taken across the marsh from Marin Heights to Alto. It is planned that the job will be completed by the middle of August. The speaker said that several units of the highway would be built within the county limits this year.

The town of Sausalito has taken on a bonded indebtedness of $100,000, to be expended in putting the main thoroughfare of town in good condition. It is this route that the motorist is familiar with, as it is the main artery leading to the north end of the city, where it connects with the State Highway. Being one of the roughest pieces of road in the county its improvement means much to those who travel the Marin roads. It is the only route out of Sausalito, and, therefore, is the heaviest traveled highway in the county. Work will be started, it is claimed, within the coming 60 days.

The board of supervisors have appropriated Marin's share of the "round the bay" highway fund, amounting to $35,000 if the idea became a reality, and the other counties come up with their ante, the building of the boulevard will afford a short route to the Sonoma valley resorts for motorists. The appropriation was made for the Black Point cut-off, which will extend from the Sonoma county boundary to a point near Novato, where the main up-country road is taken.

[illegible] the proposition of improving and rebuilding, where necessary, many of the scenic drives of the country. A general "good roads" house cleaning is in line, and the motorist will continually find better highways inviting him to tour and enjoy the mountain and valley scenery of Marin.

According to conservative estimates there are now 225,000 motorcycles in use in the United States.

CHAINS USELESS, CLAIMS TIRE MAN

Effective Non-Skid Tire Best Solution of All the Difficulties.

"Chains are useless on any car except when deep snow or mud is encountered," is the doctrine of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, Akron, O., and the behavior of Non-Skid Tires made by that concern bears it out.

Talking along the lines laid down by the Firestone Company in its campaign of education, H. E. Esterly, Oakland manager, declares: "Many motorists seem to feel that the rattling and banging of the chains as they clatter against the fenders provide a sort of immunity against skidding. The fact of the matter is that most of these people never think of the terrific wear and tear which tires receive as a result of the chains grinding back and forth on the tread. Often I have seen a practically new tire with the tread almost torn from the carcass as a result of using chains.

"Of course, it is impossible that some of these people who are slaves to chain have never ridden on a real non-skid tire. A tire which bears a pattern on the tread is not necessarily a good non-skid. Firestone tires with the non-skid letters on the tread, clutch and grip slippery surfaces with a surety which defies the demon Skid himself. The letters, and the hollows between, on these tires form an element of grip and clutch which prevents skidding sideways, or forward, after applying brakes.

"And then, too, in connection with the question of chains, it should be remembered that chains are not always at hand when you want them. If you start out on a little trip, you cannot tell just when you are going to run into rainy weather or slippery going. If you equip with tested and proved non-skid tires before you start, you will be ready for any kind of road—rough, smooth, slippery or whatnot.

"It is very gratifying to us to see that many people who formerly felt that chains were necessary to prevent skidding are rapidly realizing that the right kind of a non-skid tire, scientifically made, tested and proved, is the best possible and ever-ready protection against the one great terror of motorists."

The Wheeling, W. Va., Motorcycle Club is planning an endurance run to Pittsburg, as soon as the roads are in condition.

CYCLECAR ECONOMY ON TIRE STARTLES

"One of the best arguments in the world for the claim of economy of upkeep made by the cycle car adherents, who point to the fact that the whole load including cycle car and passengers of less than a 1000 pounds, is distributed over four tires whose total cost is less than the piece of one automobile tire, is the latest statement of Michelen, the greatest authority on the subject in the world," says Earl L. James, Oakland agent for the Imp Cycle Car. "Michelen states that the tire consumption increases by the cube (not the square) as the weight increases. To put it short and clearly the annual cost of tires in a cycle car and passengers weighing 900 pounds would only be one-eighth of a 1800-pound car, and if one should follow this up to 3200 pounds in the average big car the figures would astonish them. Allowing the usual shrinkage and cutting Michelen's figures in half would give 16,000 miles of tire wear for one set of cycle car tires, or less than one-fifth of a cent a mile."

The Sensation of the Big National Shows Has Arrived

In this New Most Advanced Motor Car the LOZIER Factory Offers a Vehicle With a MOTOR—Built in our own factories; is every inch a Lozier motor. Gray iron, cast en bloc, bore 4¼, stroke 6¾; "L" head type; water jacket and upper half of crank cast integral.

CYLINDER HEAD—Is easily removed by turning several nuts; valves can be ground or carbon removed from combustion chambers without taking motor apart. Cylinder head is fitted with spark plugs, pressure relief, priming cocks, water return tubes and wire tubes—all these are removed from cylinder bloc in unit with the head.

HORSE-POWER—Over 56 actual horse-power.

GASOLINE CONSUMPTION—In preliminary tests car has given an average around 17 miles to the gallon.

VALVES—Solid Tungsten steel, a very expensive material, the best metal known for gas engine valves. The large give quick acceleration on all speeds. Valves are all on the right side and of the easiest possible access through hand hole plates, quickly removed by turning a nickeled hand wheel.

ACCESS FOR ADJUSTMENT—Valves are adjusted by check nuts reached by removing the valve covers and are protected from dirt and other foreign matter by being completely enclosed when the valve cover is in place.

IGNITION—Bosch high-tension magneto with auxiliary battery ignition; all wires carried through tubes to their respective spark plugs.

CARBURETOR—1¼-inch size; heated by hot air from a small baffle plate heater on exhaust pipe. Intake to combustion chamber is through a manifold cast integral with cylinders—another feature tending towards neatness and a compact motor. The whistling sound common to a carburetor has been overcome.

FEWER PARTS—Simplicity and the highest type of efficiency are combined throughout in the construction of the motor. The upper half of crank case is cast integral with cylinders. This means fewer parts; reduced vibration.

FRONT END SILENCE—Engine front end drive employs one silent chain running over the crank shaft, cam shaft and magneto and pump shaft sprockets.

BEARINGS—Connecting rod and crank shaft bearings consist of a bronze shell lined with the best grade of white metal obtainable. Dimensions follow:
Front—2¼x3⅜.
Center—2¼x3.
Rear—2¼x4.
Connecting rods—2x3.

PISTONS—Made of gun iron; strong and light—weigh only 3½ pounds, without rings or pins.

PISTON RINGS—Three concentric rings are used. These are pened on the inner periphery. This results in better fitting and a more uniform pressure of ring all around the groove. Pistons are fitted with three rings in separate grooves.

COOLING SYSTEM—Very efficient, it is impossible to boil radiator with legitimate treatment of car. Water cooled motor; circulation is effected by a centrifugal pump driven by same shaft operating the magneto and tire pump.

LUBRICATION—Pressure system used the flywheel acting as a centrifugal pump, forces oil to the main bearings and front end drive. Troughs are arranged under each connecting rod and a dipper on the end of the rod plunging into these troughs splashes oil on to the connecting rod bearings, pistons and cylinder walls. Any overflow from these troughs drains into the aluminum base, is strained to eliminate foreign matter, is carried back to reservoir and circulated again. This system also forces oil to the cam, pump and magneto shaft bearings. Oil filter is on left side of motor, with a gauge for determining the depth of oil in the reservoir at any time.

TIRE PUMP—Built into the base as a part of the motor.

LOW CENTER OF GRAVITY—Frame is of the rear arched type, with low center of gravity and ample clearance over axles and wheels; frame tapers from 34½ in. rear width to 30 in. front width. This gives a turning radius of 3½ to 6 in.

CLUTCH—Multiple disc type, housed in the engine fly wheel; runs in oil.

SPECIAL ASBESTOS DISCS—Alternate discs are faced with a special material—a fabric of asbestos and metallic wires woven tightly together. Somewhat similar material is used for brake linings. Designed especially for clutch purposes, this material has a high co-efficient of friction, is impervious to oil and resists wear to a remarkable degree. These fabric discs operate against hardened steel discs. This arrangement results in a positive, smooth acting clutch without the gripping tendency common to many other kinds of clutches. The clutch is oiled automatically with the motor.

TRANSMISSION—Made by ourselves at our Plattsburg factory. Selective type arranged as a unit with the motor; four speeds forward, one reverse, direct drive on third.

SPEED—On direct drive (third speed) a walking pace to 50 miles and upward.

FRONT AXLE—I-beam drop forging, with nickeled steel spindles. Speedometer drive inclosed.

REAR AXLE—Full floating type. Driving gears and differential are fitted with adjustable thrust bearings, thus a perfect adjustment may be maintained between the driving gears.

SPRINGS—Semi-elliptic front; platform in the rear. Lozier springs are made of a special alloy steel, heat treated in order to give the longest life and the greatest flexibility. A lug forming an integral part of spring leaf is used instead of the ordinary bolt to keep the spring leaves from shifting. This eliminates any holes through the springs, causing them to break. Lozier cars are noted for the great strength of the springs.

PRESSURE SYSTEM—The famous Lozier pressure system is used to force fuel to the carburetor. Air is supplied to the tank by a plunger pump in one of the valve lifters.

BRAKES—Four large brakes—two on each rear wheel.

STEERING GEAR—Made by ourselves at our Plattsburg factory. Left side steering gear is of the worm and worm gear type irreversible. Both gear and worm are cut from nickeled steel carefully heat treated.

CONTROL—Change gear and brake levers in center, convenient to driver's right hand, and placed so as not to interfere with a person getting in and out of the driver's seat. This allows the change speed lever to be mounted on transmission case, eliminating the rods and connections necessary when the lever is mounted on either side of the frame.

RIMS—Wheels are fitted with latest type demountable rims.

TIRES—36x4½ all around. "Straight side" rims and tires standard equipment. Clinchers are optional.

STARTING SYSTEM—Gray & Davis; starting motor is carried on the transmission case. It drives through a silent chain to clutch shaft.

LIGHTING SYSTEM—Gray & Davis generator is mounted on transmission case just above the starting motor.

BODIES—The famous streamline design first introduced in this country on Lozier car is used in the body of the Lozier Light "Four." There are two different types of body for this chassis. A seven and five passenger touring body and a two-passenger roadster.

EVERY MAKER SETS HIS OWN standard. And on whether he sets the right one depends, more than any other one factor, success or failure.

LOZIER STANDARDS make what the buyer wants—but insist on making it as the maker knows it ought to be made—as it must be made to afford the buyer permanent satisfaction and the maker a lasting reputation.

LOZIER BUILDS FOURS AND SIXES—because Lozier knows one class of buyer wants and should have fours, while another, more limited but easily defined class, demand and should have sixes.

FOURS FOR THAT LARGER CLASS of buyers who have set their limit "around $2,000" and who insist on low maintenance cost as well as a moderate first cost—who, in fact, ask the cost of operation before asking the price. For these, fours—unequivocally.

SIXES FOR THE MORE LIMITED CLASS who want luxury, know that luxury costs, but yet are willing and able to pay for just that—luxury.

BUT LOZIER DOESN'T BUILD big cheap sixes for the one class—nor insist on forcing fours on the few who want sixes and are willing to pay for what they want.

LOZIER EXPERIENCE TEACHES—and Lozier ideals make it imperative that we inform the buyer—that big cheap sixes are cheap only on the sales floor. From that moment they become extravagant.

LOZIER STANDARDS make no concession to popular demand when popular demand is based on ignorance—or an imperfect knowledge of the facts.

NOW DON'T MISINTERPRET THAT Lozier standards approve the $500 car—the $750, the $1,000, the $1,250 car. Lozier standards approve cars at any price—just so long as those cars do not masquerade as anything but what they are—passenger-miles-per-dollar propositions and worth all they cost according to that standard.

IN FACT, IF LOZIER COULDN'T have made a four to sell "around $2,000" and incorporate in it all the quality that Lozier reputation, Lozier pride and Lozier integrity demand and Lozier experience render possible—why then we'd have made it a twin or a single. We'd have been honest at any rate.

AND SINCE LOZIER CAN'T—nor can any other maker—design and build a six that will conform to Lozier standards from motor to rear axle and throughout every detail of body-craft, finish and equipment, and sell it for less than the Lozier Six now sells—$3,400.

WHY THEN, INASMUCH AS THERE WAS an insistent demand for a Lozier "around $2,000"—we made to meet that demand, that need, the now famous Lozier four—the car that has created the greatest sensation this trade has experienced in years.

A BIG, BEAUTIFUL 100% CAR—seating up to seven passengers and yet with moderate wheelbase and light weight, selling for $2,150. A car we can offer the most discriminating—the most exacting buyer—without a mental reservation, confident that it will afford him as much pride of ownership as it affords us to attach the Lozier name-plate and guarantee.

AND THE NEW FOURS are made according to the same standards precisely. So well made, so perfectly adapted to the large class of buyer who, limiting himself to "around $2,000" in purchase price, yet demands, and should have, quality in every detail—quality that means not merely long life mechanically, but quality also in those things that make for pride of ownership—or chagrin as the edges begin to fray and the new car begins to show signs of premature decay.

One of the most startling announcements of the week in the motor car news was the statement given out yesterday wherein G. A. Blanchard was named as the new general manager of the Pacific Motor Car Company of San Francisco, Cole car agent for this territory.

Blanchard has been identified with the automobile business for a number of years, both in the East and in Europé, and is thoroughly acquainted with this industry in all its departments. His local experience, added to his previous activities in the motor car business, will now be used to further the interests of the Cole cars here.

CAUSTIC COMMENT WAGE OF PROGRESS

Advancement in Design Makes Pioneers Target for Sarcasm.

Every advancement made by motor car builders has been male in the face of more or less active hostility. Sarcastic remarks and open ridicule and disparaging comment has ever been the lot of the man who would adopt new ideas or pioneer the way towards making better automobiles for the use of the world. "Thus attribute mankind to scoff at reformers and perforers holds good in all lines o fendeavor," remarked W. B. Cochran, president and general manager of the Haynes Auto Sales Company, "but I think it has been especially virulent in the case of the automobile."

"When the electric self-starting and lighting system first made its appearance as an integral part of the motor car, a great howl went up that it was a fad and would not work; motor car manufacturers in many cases waited a year or two before finally bowing before the public demand for them.

"However, when an appliance has proven itself worthy, and the public will not be satisfied with the motor car that is not equipped with them, the only thing for the makers to do is to equip their cars with self-starting and self-lighting systems.

"Another case in the point is the electric gear shift, which has proven even more remarkable as a saver of time and trouble in driving motor cars than the electric starting system. By shifting gears electrically, the driver of a car has his machine under perfect control at all times; the elemtn of safety is increased fully 50 per cent, as is also the comfort and pleasure of driving.

"When the Haynes first adopted the vulcan electric gear shift, manufacturers of other makes whose cars were not thus equipped did not hesitate to cast doubts upon the reliability and efficiency of this device. It is a satisfaction to every Haynes owner to know, however, that now these same people are planning to [illegible] In other words, the big radical movement in the line of improvements in building motor cars for this season is unquestionably the addition of the electric gear shift.

"The Haynes has again demonstrated the fact that any real improvements and any construction changes that really make them a better automobile, that they are the first to see tendencies of the times and to shape their policy thereby. Factory officials who six months ago would not consider adding this device to their machines are now planning to join the procession."

LOZIER FACTORY NEWS.

Over 50 service men from the establishments of Lozier dealers throughout the country are returning to their homes from the First Annual Service Convention of the Lozier Motor Company, held in Detroit, February 17 and 18. Started as an experiment, the convention proved of such value that arrangements have already been made for next year's meeting.

Ten riders of the "Farthest North" Motorcycle Club of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, recently enjoyed a 50-mile run.

EUROPE TURNS TO LIGHT SIX MOTOR

Interesting Information on the Foreign Motor Car Situation.

It is claimed that Europe gave up the building and use of six cylinder cars. "This is entirely incorrect," says Charles H. Burman, Oakland manager of the H. O. Harrison Company. "Europe never had them to give up. Conditions in Europe are so radically different from those in America that there seemed no call for sixes there. Yet as a matter of fact sixes are growing in favor. Small experimental sixes were entered at the last Grand Prix races and made a remarkable showing, commented on the rapid rise to favor of the six and stated it unquestionably would increase in favor both in England and on the continent. Two of the highest grade English makers build sixes—the Rolls-Royce and [illegible]

"The roads of Europe are like a billiard table. It has been said the worst European road is better than the best American roads. They are hard, level, dry.

"Only the smallest amount of power is needed to drive even a large car. The car runs so smoothly that the vibration, so objectionable and costly on American roads, is almost entirely lacking.

"Then, too, the car owner in Europe is taxed according to horse power and cylinder contents. The aim is to keep the engine rating as low as possible. They have not yet learned to make the small six cylinder. That is coming. The Sunbeam car, a small cylinder six, made a wonderful record in the Grand Prix and attracted a great deal of attention. This promises to result in much interest in the small six. Europe is slow to take up improvements. Until this year they scorned the self-starter.

"G. C. Behn, chief engineer of the Hudson Motor Car Company, who returned from Europe last month, tells how in conversation with English engineers they acknowledged that the Americans had 'slipped one over on them.'

"The foreign makers admitted that they were forced to put on self-starters and electric lights in order to compete with American cars. The same falling into line promises to be the result of the American light six. Already France and England are buying many of these light sixes. Behn found intense interest at the Paris and London shows in the Hudson 6-40, the Hudson light six. It really was one of the features of the show.

"Just as soon as European owners learn they can have all the advantages and pleasures of the six with a lesser fuel consumption, lower tire cost, and reduced repair bills they will demand six cylinder motors. Then Europe will be forced to do just as they have done in the case of the self-starter and electric lights—build six cylinder cars or see their trade taken from them by American makers."

MATHEWSON RESIGNS AS DIAMOND TIRE MANAGER

With the completion of his plans for touring Europe, which he had been making for some time, C. E. Mathewson, Western representative of the Diamond Rubber Company, has sent in his resignation, which will be a surprise to the entire automobile and [illegible] public throughout the country, as Mathewson is the oldest automobile tire man on the Coast, and he has had charge of the Diamond Tire interests here for 12 years. During this long service he has built up the business remarkably, and his hard work has forced him to take a rest and at the same time sever his connection with the company.

He has wished to be relieved of the responsibilities attached to his position for several months. He announced yesterday that he had been planning for his proposed trip abroad for months, and has sent his resignation to the factory to take effect March 21, that he might take the steamer the same day for Japan. He will be away about six months.

It is said that the first man to cross the continent on a motorcycle was George A. Wyman of San Francisco, who performed the feat during the summer of

TRUCK SALESMEN IN BALL LEAGUE

Almost simultaneously with the departure of big league ball teams from the Southland, 21 Packard truck sales managers, gathered by telegraph from coast to coast, assembled at the Packard Motor Car Company, Detroit. They came to attend the Truck Sales Convention, called by Truck Sales Manager C. R. Norton, but in reality to get inside dope on the Packard Truck Baseball League, which began its season March 1. This league is the newest and most novel idea in sales contests.

It consists of 10 teams, which meet each other three times during the "season." The organization is complete from a national commission clear down to the bat boys. The managerial responsibilities have been delegated to President H. B. Joy, Vice-President S. D. Waldon, Vice President and General Manager Alvan Macauley, Sales Manager H. H. Hills, President of Branches M. J. Budlong, Consulting Engineer Russell Huff, Alvan [illegible] Francisco, Earle C. Anthony of Los Angeles and Ginder Abbott of New Orleans.

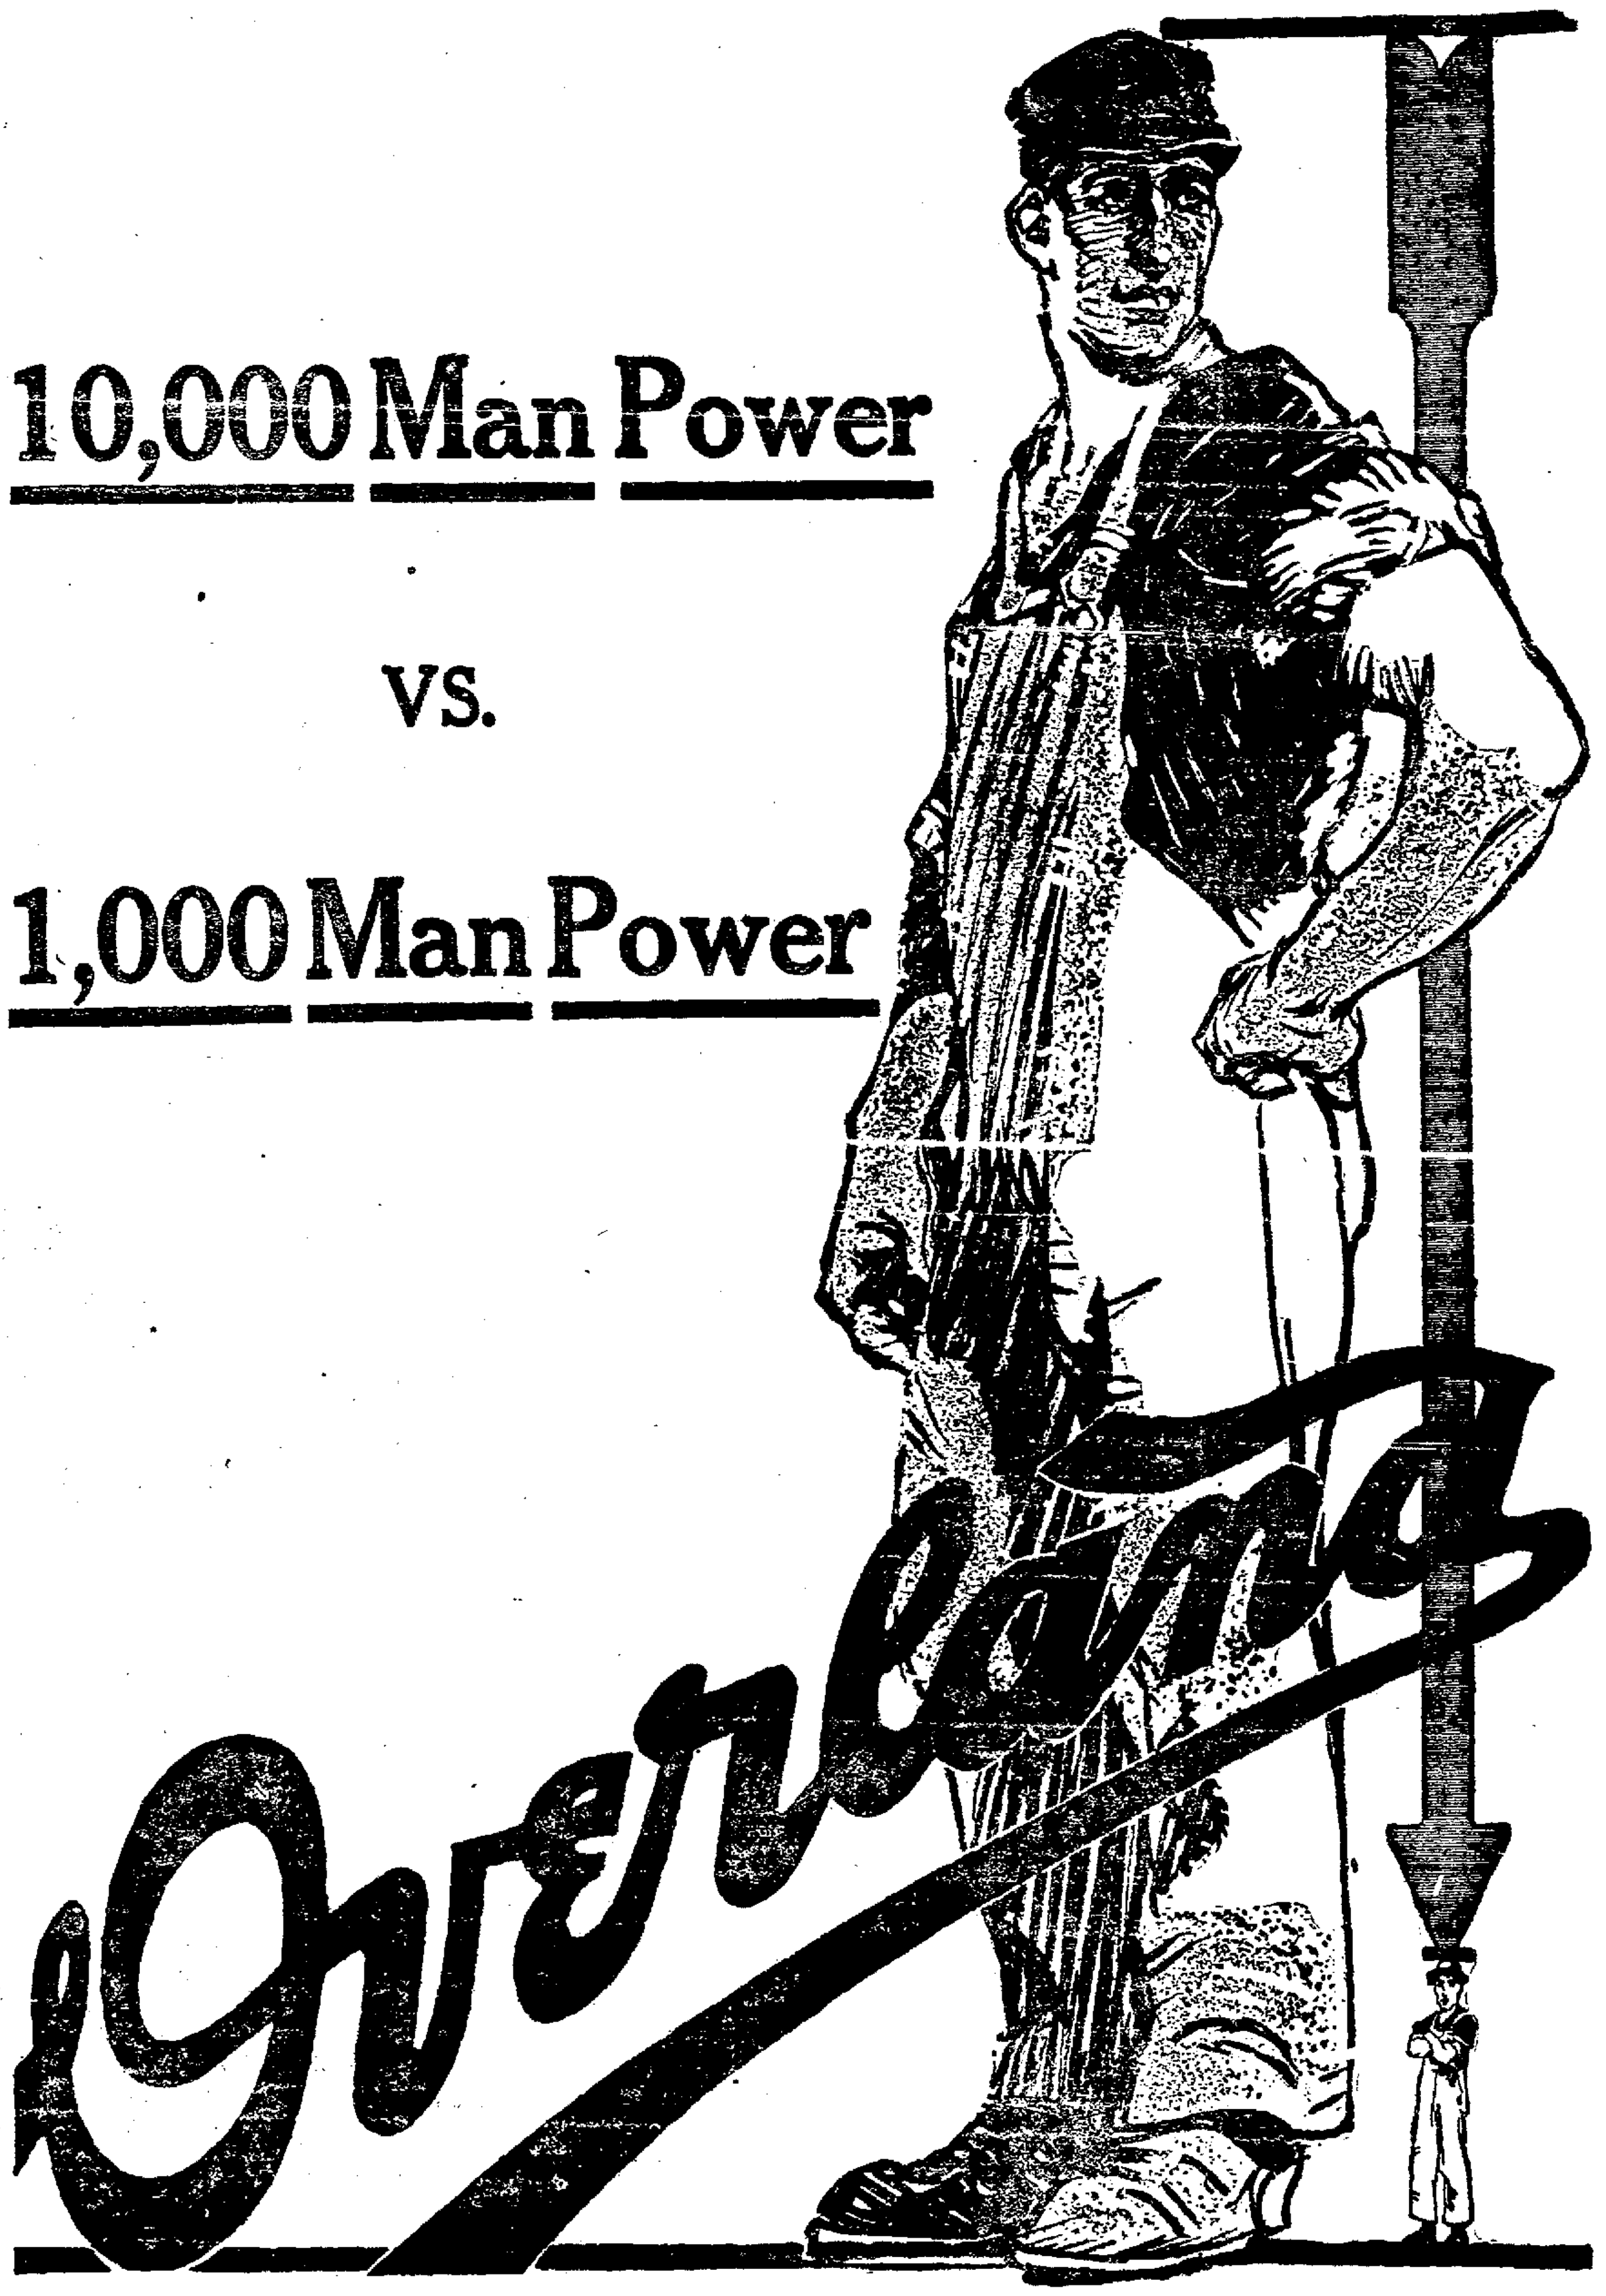
An elaborate plan has been worked out, sales counting as runs. Each player of the league has signed a contract which binds him to play. A sporting extra, "The Packard Winch," is issued daily.

The winning organization gets a pennant and also a $500 English bulldog.

AUTO LUGS BLOODED HOG.

When T. E. Bly of Brewster, Minn., champion hog-raiser of the Northwest, wants to make a delivery at a fair or to a near-by customer, he loads the porker into a specially built trailer and hooks the trailer to his electric-starting Studebaker automobile. The plan works perfectly and is a great time-saver.

A motorcycle club was recently formed at Concord, N. H. It has become affiliated with the Federation of American Motorcyclists.



THE Overland plants employ 10,000 men and produce 200 cars a day. This is the largest production of its kind in the world. Whereas the average factory employs less than 1000 men and often produces only 2 cars a day.

The difference between 10,000 men and 1,000 men and 200 cars per day as against 2 cars per day is so enormous that the number of material manufacturing economies which the larger production can effect must be apparent even to the most uninformed.

And that is why we can market this car for less than any other manufacturer in the business.

See this car at our dealer's. It is beautiful, graceful, powerful, economical and remarkably efficient and it costs you fully 30% less than any other similar car made.

AUTO INDUSTRY SHOWS RAPID GROWTH

Developments of Years Related by Cadillac Dealer

(By DON LEE,

Cadillac Distributor of California, and One of the Veteran Dealers on the Pacific Coast.)

When I stepped into the garage of my Los Angeles branch last week and heard the chug, chug of a one-cylinder Cadillac, how memory flew back to the days when they were the height of luxury.

and two-cylinder motor cars constituted the output of the motor industry. But the advance came quickly and the wonderful vehicles of luxury and utility that we now have mark the greatest industrial progress the world has ever known.

This progress of the motor industry has also seen the improvement of road conditions and the general increasing of the prosperity of the country. Wherever you find good roads and many motor cars you find a rich progressive community, where if you find poor roads and few motor cars, you know without investigation that the district is poor and the people non-progressive.

While I do not look for any radical moves during the next five or ten years, yet there will be substantial improvements and the elimination of the unworthy products. The next few years will mean the strengthening of the positions of the makers of good motor cars.

From 1904 to 1914, ten years, a decade, and yet it has been an age within itself, an era, to the motor industry. Other industries would count this span of years but as a day of their life. In the automobile world, history has been made, unmade and made over again.

No other pursuit, no other industry, has ever made such strides, such rapid advance as that shown by the automobile world. Ten years ago it was little more than nothing, hardly even a factor in statistics; today, it is the fourth largest industry in the world.

New men, new ideas. The infusion of young blood, aggressive mentalities and progressive ideas, with the metals and materials used in the production of self-propelled vehicles made history in this industry almost faster than it could be written.

And so the infant industry was launched. It had no love for old men or old ideas. It was new, modern, snappy and its life was insured by these methods. The failures made were many, but they were the means of further instruction that could not have been found out in such a short period of time under more conservative ideas. Some of the blunders made were gigantic but they proved that the ideas were big even if they were [illegible]. They were not piddling trifles. They were fundamentals, and the dead wood was chopped away as soon as discovered.

The better ideas survived, as they always will, in spite of fads and fancies. This being the case throughout the whole mechanical world devoted to building motor cars, it can be seen why the advances made were fast, as fast as thought. For as soon as the idea dawned it was drafted and then realized in construction. If worthy, it remained, as long as it was far enough in advance; if not, it was discarded.

SIX MAKES APPEAL AT MOTOR EXHIBITS

Current Demand Proven, Says Burman in Discussing Situation.

"When the doors are closed on the national automobile show the trend of the automobile industry will have demonstrated that the six-cylinder car has made the greatest appeal to the general public," says Manager C. H. Burman of the Harrison Co. "According to the exhibitors in the show, a majority of all the cars are of the six-cylinder type. This list includes makers who have in the past devoted their entire output to four-cylinder models exclusively, and in a few cases some makers still make a four. But where a manufacturer builds both sixes and fours the lion's share of the output is of the six-cylinder type.

"In former years the annual show has featured some new advance in motor-car building. One show was heralded as the self-starter show, another brought out the fore-door body, another electric lighting. This year these things are matter of fact equipment. The six-cylinder motor-car is the subject for the motorist's undivided attention.

"Many automobilists have been led to believe that the six-cylinder car is far more costly to operate than the four. For this reason the six has been a little slow in making itself felt. But this year and for several years advocates of six-cylinder construction have convinced four-cylinder users that, given a six and four of equal horse-power, the advantages are in favor of a six. In many cases the six has demonstrated that it requires less gasoline and oil than does the four of the same horse-power under the same conditions.

"That these facts have become thoroughly realized by the motor-car industry, and the manufacturers simply make what the public wants—is evidenced by the fact that there are twenty sixes being shown to the public for the first time, and all of them are the products of makers who formerly made fours exclusively. This certainly proves beyond the slightest doubt the public's realization of the desirability of the six-cylinder car over the four for comfort, economy and efficiency."

THE IMP CYCLECAR INVADES BERKELEY

Tomorrow will mark the opening day for a new garage and automobile accessory supply store in the heart of Berkeley. Invitations were sent out yesterday by W. H. James for the opening event for the new firm which will be known under the name of James and Hunt Motor Car and Supply company.

The new firm has been appointed Berkeley distributor for the Imp cyclecar by Earl James, the Imp cyclecar dealer for this territory. Yesterday the first demonstrator for the clever little cyclecar was sent to Berkeley, where it will be on exhibition at the new garage in University avenue.

MOLINE KNIGHT IS NEW AUTO ARRIVAL

Harry Weihe, Connoisseur on Motors, Secures a Sure Winner.

Beating the San Francisco automobile distributors to one of the best bets of the present motor car season, Harry A. Weihe, newly appointed Northern California distributor for the Moline cars, brought the first Moline Knight car that has been seen in Northern California to his Oakland headquarters yesterday.

Arriving with the car were O. J. Root, stockholder and member of the Moline car factory and the Root & Vandervort gas engine interests, and Leroy G. Spencer, the Moline factory expert. Immediately upon its arrival in Oakland the new Moline Knight was photographed for THE TRIBUNE and then placed on display in Weihe's saleroom, in the Twelfth-street auto row.

Through mysterious channels such the news of the new car's arrival was quickly passed, and local motor critics soon gathered to inspect the Moline Knight, the first really high-grade automobile to adopt the famous sleeve valve Knight motor, and still sell at a popular price. From the critics high praise was tendered to Weihe on his good judgment in securing the territory rights for the new Moline Knight.

In telling of the new car, Weihe says: "Every dealer and motor car owner is candid to admit that the Knight design is more silent than any other type of motor, but the story of its unusual power, economy and flexibility has not been half told.

"If great power and high speeds are desired in the poppet valve motor, high compression, large valves, strong springs and precipitous cams are employed. The high power and great speed produces an uncontrollable, noisy and unreliable motor.

POPPET VALVES WARP.

"The large valves and their seats are very susceptible to warping; because of their large area and with the increased heat of high compression they do not cool properly, and the strong springs necessary to seat them at high speeds soon weaken or actually pound the head of the valve out of shape. This spring action, seating with a force sometimes as great as 300 ponds pressure, has the same effect when the valve is red hot (as it becomes under harder work) as pounding the head in the center with a hammer. As the large head "gives" in the center where the spring is pulling through the stem, the clearance between valve tappet and cam decreases, the timing undergoes change, and adjustment is necessary to bring back the decreased power. To remedy this defect, racing motors are often built with two exhaust valves to the cylinder, so they can be kept small and cool.

"In order to produce a quiet, reliable poppet valve motor, low compression, small valves, weak springs and a gradual opening cam are necessary on account of the difficulties as enumerated. With small valves and weak springs go decreased efficiency, both in the matter of power and fuel consumption. The small valves do not admit sufficient gas to generate high pressure behind the piston, and the weak springs will not properly seat the valves at high speeds, but cause them to lag and foul the mixture by permitting the piston to draw back into the cylinder exhaust gases through the exhaust ports when the spring fails to close this port at the proper time.

PROHIBIT QUIETNESS.

"The powerful poppet valve motor requires a cam capable of opening the valves suddenly and wide, and the very nature of this operation prohibits quietness, because the opening must be more or less in the shape of a hammer blow. Poppet valves of large area require much more power to lift against the exhaust pressure at the end of the power stroke, the weight required to be lifted by the cam increasing in proportion to the area of the valve head exposed to the gas pressures in the explosion chamber.

"When a poppet valve advocate talks power and efficiency his argument is invariably based upon that type of motor which is noisy and unreliable. When he talks smooth running and reliability, he the same efficiency in the quieter type motor put forward with small valves, weak springs, inefficient cam contour and low compression. He does not take the public into his confidence, and the inexpert, knowing nothing of these differences, but believing one poppet valve motor to be the same as another, is deceived by race track performances of special engines into believing that he has the same efficiency in the quiter type smooth running of touring cars.

MOLINE-KNIGHT HAS POWER.

"In the sleeve valve, therfore, it is possible to combine the advantages of both types of poppet valve motors. In the sleeve valve is combined the silence, endurance and reliability of the small poppet vales and low compression, with the high efficiency of the high compression, large valves, powerful springs and precipitous cams of the racing poppet valve motor, and the operator has in the one sleeve valve all the advantages of both types. A standard sleeve valve motor is capable, so far as efficiency is concerned, of delivering all the power of the racer with all the softness and quietness of the inefficient poppet valve motor, and the operator has within his control a surplus of power which he can call into service when needed in emergencies. Of course, with standard bodies, wind resistance and weights of touring cars, nobody expects extreme racing speeds upon country roads, but the power is there when required for acceleration and hill work, as thousands of users testify.

"If these stamenets were not cold facts surely Europe's greatest and most successful motor car makers would not have adopted the Knight motor. European manufacturers are ultra-conservative, never offering their clientele anything that is not the best."

WEDS AFTER FUNERAL; BETROTHED 30 YEARS

DETROIT, March 7.—An engagement between Miss Belle Parry, an assistant principal in the Craft School, and Silas Hopkins that had extended for a period of thirty years was fulfilled in the marriage of the couple beside the casket of the bride's aged mother, Mrs. Aribelle Parry, the wedding ceremony following immediately the funeral services for the dead.

Not till her parents no longer needed her was Miss Parry ready to reward her betrothed. Her father was laid to rest ten years ago and Miss Parry devoted the years since then to the care of her mother, who had passed her 94th birthday.

TWO MEN, SAME NAME, RUN FOR SAME OFFICE

ST. PAUL, March 7.—What's in a name? There are two men in St. Paul who have been attempting for the past two months to figure out just what there is in their names. They both bear exactly the same names down to the very last letter and to the pronounciation. Their name is August Hohenstein. One is a grocer and the other is agent for a life insurance company. Both are old residents of St. Paul and both are today in the running for the city council. Neither is willing to withdraw in favor of his namesake.

Under the state law, the names that appear on ballots cannot have any designating mark. For instance, August Hohenstein, the grocer, could not have "No. 1" placed after his name to set him apart from the life insurance agent of the same name. Compromises, law suits, settlements and grand jury indictments are threatened by both Hohensteins to force each other to withdraw but neither will give in and the prospects are that both names will go on the ballot. The attorneys who are trying to adjust the matter are on the verge of hysterics. They don't even know how they'll tell which one is elected.

PROBING "SPECIAL SERVICES."

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Comprehensive information regarding "the purposes, effects, nature and extent of special services," performed by Eastern railroads for shippers, was called today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The commission desires to know the extent to which these services are such as may be called "free" and the extent to which compensation is received therefore."

LIQUOR MEN PUT TOWN ALL OUT OF SHAPE

SALEM, Ore., March 7.—The peculiar shape of West Woodburn, Marian County, Ore., has got the town into trouble.

It is announced that the suit has been started by the district attorney at the instance of Governor Oswald West to have its incorporation declared void.

The governor insists that the appearance of the town on the map, which he likened to a comet with a tail, is caused by a desire to have liquors sold within its borders, and that it is the sole purpose of the incorporation. It is so set forth in the suit.

Miss Fern Hobbs, the governor's secretary, who made an investigation, reported that in places the town was less than 20 feet wide, being thus contracted to exclude the homes of persons favoring prohibition.

GOES ON VACATION, HIS SECOND IN 27 YEARS

MARYSVILLE, March 7.—After a continuous employment for 27 years in a local livery stable, with only a week's lay-off in the entire time, Jesse McCullom, a buggy washer, has decided that he is entitled to a vacation and will go to the state of Washington for a month's visit and incidentally to look over some property that was recently left him.

McCullom is quite an old man and though he has seen the ment of the stable change hands eral times, and the automobile the old-time stage coach, he has faithfully to his post of washing hicles.

The record of years may be quently surpassed, but it is not lieved that there are many in the who have worked on one job for a length of time with such infrequent vacations, especially in the days the seashore and mountain resort fiends.

HAZARDOUS TRIP OVER THE DESERT

Washouts and Quicksands No Bar to Mitchell Six Machine.

"Out on the desert in floods of water, with the machine almost covered at times with mud and slush, a Mitchell Six was driven to Mojave from Los Angeles recently by Jack Koerner. The car was used to battle with the storm waters on a sandy waste, where the worst rain in 10 years, has recently fallen," says Fred Hauger of the E. L. Peacock Auto Company, agents for the Mitchell cars.

"Mud on the desert was such a novelty that the trip was at first taken as a great joke. The Mitchell was sent over the roads at a pace that prevented all thought of trouble on the part of any member of the crew of four. The car was driven through the Newhall tunnel to Saugus, and then came the question as to which route would be best in order to reach Bakersfield.

"The San Francisquito canyon roads were out of commission. The Bouquet canyon was also out of the question. The Soledad would take the tourers to Palmdale and there was nothing left but the Mint canyon. This was open and the Mitchell was sent through that long strip of interesting country, with every prospect of reaching Mojave by nightfall.

"The road to Saugus was in fine shape. The rains had washed out large stretches of highway in many places, and it was necessary to keep to the beaten paths until Mint canyon was reached.

"The road was worse than it had been for years. Rain had fallen in abundance. The first time in 10 years the desert was flooded. Lakes of water standing in the roads for miles. With rivers in places where formerly had been found dry washes. It was the surprise such as had never been sprung before.

"Ten miles from Willow Spring was encountered a bog. The road was completely washed out. It was beginning to be dark, and rather than risk the car the lights were lit and the trip into the wilderness began. Picking the way through hub-deep slush, the car made Willow Springs, and there met an autoist who warned the party against making the last 14 miles of the run to Mojave.

"Those in the car had started with the idea of reaching Mojave the same night. Out of Willow Springs the road for 10 miles was better than any stretch of the desert that had been found on the entire trip.

"When within one mile of Mojave, however, the worst trough the party had struck on the entire trip was encountered. Here the water had settled and the roads had been obliterated. It was necessary for one to walk ahead of the car and find where the quicksands would permit a dash through the sand and reach firm ground on the opposite side.

"Starting with the car in low gear, the last flight was made and the party reached the Queen City of the Desert, 114.5 miles from Los Angeles, after a run of seven hours."

SAGINAW, Mich., March 7. — The severe weather of the last few days forced the rats in the auditorium to seek warmer quarters, and as a result the $25,000 pipe organ is out of commission. When the organist sat down to the board, the organ refused to respond to her touch. Investigation showed that the rats had eaten away most of the leather in the bellows, built nests in the lower part and had eaten away most of the glue.

TRUCKS SUPERIOR TO HORSE, CLAIM

Arguments Prove Advantages of Motor Vehicles in Delivering.

"One of the most important claims we make for our utility three-quarter ton truck is its longevity," says J. T. Barnes of the J. W. Leavitt & Co. in a recent interview. "As compared to horse transportation methods, our trucks are practically indestructible, or at least so much longer-lived than the horse that this faithful beast of burden makes a very poor showing. There are plenty of records available which show that horses used in rapid transportation service retain their efficiency for only about two years. A Willys-Utility truck, if properly cared for, will last four or five times as long with no lost time for sickness or exhaustion and very little for repairs.

"The proper care of a truck doesn't mean that it has to be worked over all the time it is not in service, either. A superficial daily inspection and a careful inspection once a week gives the owner a thorough knowledge of just what condition his truck is in all the time. These daily and weekly inspections in the aggregate do not require more than an hour or two, and this will take care of all adjustments and minor repairs necessary, too. In other words, the truck is practically trouble-proof, for the ordinary every-day care given to any piece of machinery will keep it in good shape almost indefinitely.

"The horse must be watched and attended to almost as carefully as a child. It must be fed and groomed at regular times; care must be taken in the quality and amount of food given, and there is always the possibility that overwork or unfavorable weather conditions will result in a sick animal. All these attentions increase the cost of horse maintenance, and they are all eliminated in operating and caring for a motor truck.

"The truck is never sick. The extreme heat of summer and the excessive cold or slippery streets of winter have absolutely no effect upon its mechanism or working power. It will travel as far and as fast on the hottest day in summer as it will when the weather is temperate. Slippery streets have no terrors for it. It will plow ahead through snow and over ice without a bit of trouble. The man who drives a motor truck doesn't have to be an expert in his line, for any one with common sense and ordinary intelligence can be taught in a very short time to take care of his machine properly. A horse driver cannot be chosen at random, for it is a well-known fact that careless or ignorant drivers can do more damage to their animals than the hardest work. There are many other points in which the truck is superior to the horse, aside from the ever-present fact that the motor vehicle will do more work in less time and for less money than is possible for its equine competitor."

That manufacturers of trucks and accessories are uniting in their efforts to give truck buyers wanted facts about motor transportation is brought out by the publication of Vol. II. Motor Trucks of America, by the F. B. Goodrich Company, Akron, O. This book contains a buying guide compiled by the Review of Reviews, which greatly simplifies the task of purchasing and ought to be of value to every truck buyer.

It appears that a motor truck can be worked at a profit in almost every class of delivery service, provided that the right type of truck is selected for the particular class of work it must do. And when [illegible] ments, it has been found due to lack of information and consequently wrong selection.

The aim of the book seems to be to supply prospective buyers this needed data about motor transportation that will enable them to select exactly the right truck for their particular service.

This book also contains illustrations and specifications of truck manufacturers whose combined output represents about 90 per cent of the trucks made in this country.

The publication of such a guide for truck buyers is bound to be of much value to the buyer, and will react favorably for the good of the truck industry.

Of especial interest in the volume is an article "Efficiency in Buying and Operating Motor Trucks," by W. A. McDermid, which appeared in The Review of Reviews November, 1913. In this article Mr. McDermid emphasizes the necessity for taking the standards of the engineer as the standards for the Motor Truck operator and explains how to obtain the largest number of productive minutes of time per unit of machinery.

The first announcement of this book flooded the Akron office with requests from all over the country and has compelled a second volume. Prospective truck buyers would do well to write to the B. F. Goodrich Company, Akron, Ohio, who will be glad to send you a copy upon receipt of your request on your business letter head.

PERJURY ALWAYS ON TAP IN HIS COURT

NEW YORK, March 7.—"More perjury is committed in this court than anywhere in the world," declared Magistrate House in Essex Market.

"The reporters are taking that," warned a lawyer.

"Let them. I don't care," responded the magistrate. "I said it and I will not take it back." And the next day he repeated it.

HERE'S SCIENTIFIC BURGLARY.

The microphone is now used by burglars for picking combination locks. In turning the lock a slight sound is made when the proper number comes opposite the working point and this can even be heard by a sensitive ear. However, it is imperceptible to most persons, but by using a microphone it is an easy matter to hear the sounds. A special form of flat telephone receiver is employed, and it is applied against the safe next the lock. A pair of rubber ear tubes are used with the telephone. In this way the sounds are heard which allow of opening the lock.—Scientific American.

MOTOR BENEFITS ENTIRE COUNTRY

Good Roads Stand for Better Health and Wealthier Communities.

"Whenever the subject of retrenchment in State expenditures is agitated," says Manager Ben Hammond of the Kissel Kar interests, "some thoughtless or narrow-minded persons suggest that too much money is being expended for good roads, and attribute the responsibility to the demands of automobile owners. Such people do not seem to take into account the fact that most States collect for an automobile license an amount far in excess of the amount applied to highway improvement.

"The better the roads, the more interest there is in motoring and every increase in the number of car owners means additional revenue to the State. That is plain enough, even though we disregard the manifold benefactions to the community through the development of the automobile.

"The automobile has unquestionably emphasized the necessity for better roads —I say necessity, because the automobile is not a mere plaything, but a profitable utility of the utmost importance. Thousands of cars are driven by commercial travelers, by physicians, by farmers, by countless others in the pursuit of their business. It enables the drummer to cover more territory, the doctor to reach more patients more quickly and conserves the farmer's valuable time by bringing his markets nearer to him.

"The automobile has increased the value of real estate enormously. By its conservation of time it has made accomplishments possible that were never dreamed of before its advent.

Thus no man who thinks twice will begrudge the advantage gained by the automobile through extension of the system of State highways. There is no movement in this country that does more credit to the foresight and intelligence of the people than the nation-wide interest in good roads. It is an investment, not an expense, and an investment that is paying, and will continue to pay, handsome dividends in both health and wealth."

BOWLING POPULAR IN IDEAL WEATHER

Arrangements Being Made by Lakeside Members to Meet San Franciscans.

The charming spring weather which has prevailed throughout the week has drawn a goodly attendance of the votaries of bowling daily to the Lakeside Park bowling green. Yesterday afternoon four rinks were running and several ladies interested in the healthful pastime utilized a rink on the southern half of the green for practice. Mrs. D. Crawford, moreover, pleased the members of the Oakland Scottish Bowling club with the surprise of a service of tea, lemonade, cookies, etc., to refresh them during a brief interval taken by the contesting teams in the tournament, improvised between G. F. McMath and Major Henry Hume.

The teams representing McMath were organized as follows:

No. 1—Rev. H. K. Sanborne, John Rankin, G. B. M. Gray (skip).

No. 2—W. Hepworth, James P. Taylor, G. F. McMath (skip.)

No. 4—A. McInnes, Rev. A. Allen, L. G. Burpee (skip.)

Following were the opposing Hume teams:

No. 1—J. A. C. Macdonald, Dr. E. R. Sill, William Weir (skip).

No. 2—James Rankin, Andrew Proctor, T. Evans (skip).

No. 3—Kenneth Dorward, Henry Hume (skip.)

No. 4—Robert Dalziel, Sr., A. Gilliland, Robert Howden (skip.)

The scores on rink No. 1 were as follows:

The total result was as follows: McMath teams, 74 points; Howden teams, 86 points. The latter won by 12 points.

TEAMS FOR CONTEST.

It has been arranged between the presidents of the San Francisco and the Oakland Scottish Bowling Clubs that the competitions for the Etter perpetual challenge cup and championship shall take place annually hereafter on the first Saturdays of May, June and August.

The teams selected by President Howden to represent the Oakland Scottish Bowling Club in the competition are composed as follows:

Rink No. 1—George B. M. Gray, L. G. Burpee, T. Evans, James P. Taylor (skip).

Rink No. 2—Robert Dalziel Sr., A. Halley, William Weir, Andrew Proctor (skip)

Rink No. 3—J. Smilie, James D. Low, Henry Hume, George F. McMath (skip).

Rink No. 4—Rev. A. Allen, Kenneth Dorward, J. Patulla, Robert Howden (skip).

Extras—James A. Smillie, W. Hepworth, Rev. H. K. Sanborne, W. Weir.

It is proposed to arrange a double-point tournament during the season between bowlers from the San Mateo, San Francisco and Oakland Bowling Clubs, which it is reasonably presumed will increase immensely the general public interest in the healthful sport.

Saturday afternoon, March 28, the annual election of officers of the Oakland Scottish Bowling Club will be held at the Lakeside Park clubhouse. Arrangements will then be made for a tournament of singles to play for the Frank Brown cup, which will become the private property of the player who is thrice the winner. All members are eligible to enter the tournament. Competitors will be chosen by lot.

MUST HOLD PRACTICE.

The teams selected to compete this year against San Francisco for the Etter perpetual challenge cup are expected to assemble on the Lakeside Park bowling green and play practice matches against one another and each Saturday afternoon thereafter until the date for the first match is to be played off with the San Francisco club teams on the Golden Gate Park bowling green.

'BREAD GHOST' IS KINDLY SPECTER

Distributes Fresh Loaves in Back Yards After Midnight.

HUTCHINSON, Kas., March 7.—Hutchinson's "bread ghost," the mysterious personage who has been distributing fresh loaves of bread in back yards, throwing them along alleys and piling loaves high in chicken yards and feed lots, is still at work.

For more than a month the mysterious distribution of bread has continued. Each night a different section of the city is visited. At many places there would be from fifteen to as high as forty loaves, while never fewer than three or four loaves have been left in a yard.

An analysis of several of the loaves has shown that there is no poison in the bread. The loaves apparently are thrown about between midnight and daylight and are fresh when found, showing that they are baked in some local bakery.

But every effort the police have made to locate the bakery has proved futile. The bakery proprietors are investigating, but none have been able to identify the bread.

The theory that it might be an advertising stunt is no longer credited, and the finding of a curiously worded and written note in one loaf of bread indicates that the "bread ghost" is some one who is demented.

John Dickson, a garbage hauler, who has been gathering up the loaves of bread left in wholesale quantities along alleys and hauling them to his home to feed to swine, discovered a note in a loaf reading as follows:

"Cast your bread on the waters and it will return many fold.—John 3:16. The loaves and the fishes were many, and He is the Bread of Life, and ye who asked for bread and they gave you a stone, remember."

Mr. Dickson turned the note over to the authorities. They have concluded that it was written by some one of unsound mind. But the most diligent investigation has failed to disclose where the fanatical man has been getting his bread.

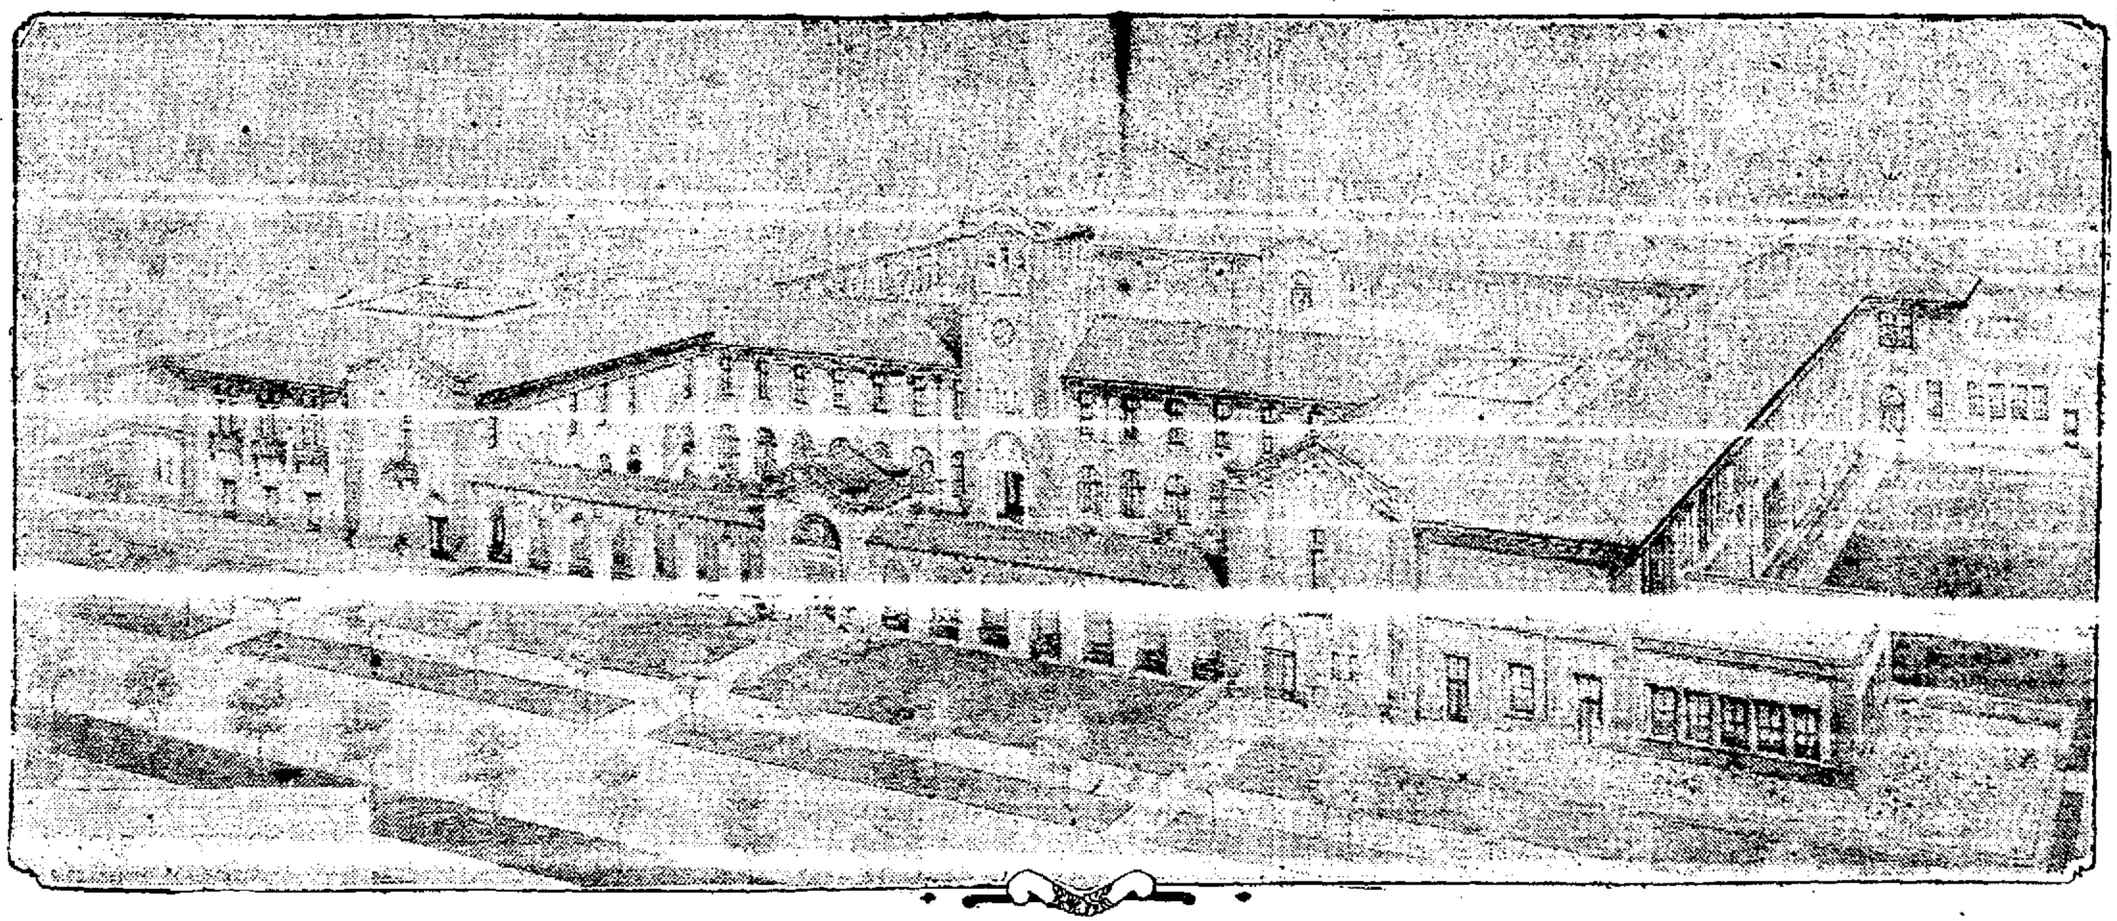
OAKLAND IDEAS PLEASE SACRAMENTO CAPITAL FOLLOWS OUR SCHOOL PLANS



SACRAMENTO'S NEW SCHOOL, DESIGNED BY J. J. DONOVAN. THE BUILDING EMBODIES OPEN-AIR FEATURES OF OAKLAND'S LATEST TYPE OF SCHOOL STRUCTURES.

Supervising Architect Donovan Has Designed Strictly Modern School Building

Open-air features of the new Oakland schools and other modern ideas resulting from local school house construction are embodied in the design for the Sacramento Oak Park grammar and primary school building, which has been prepared by J. J. Donovan, supervising architect of the city of Oakland. The structure, for which bids will soon be asked, is to cost $225,000. Although it is of the open-air and mission type of architecture, the building is to be two stories in height.

The Oak Park school of Sacramento is a graded school, consisting of 23 classrooms, kindergarten, wood-working-room, laboratory, principal's suite, which includes medical room, girls' and boys' lunch rooms, with connecting kitchen, domestic science and domestic arts room, teachers' lunch room and teachers' rest room, assembly hall with seating capacity of 1000, and library which will be used as a branch of the city public library as well as a reading and reference room for the community; also an open-air playroom on the second floor towards the north.

SPLENDID EXAMPLES.

This building, when completed, will be a splendid example of the school building, whose class rooms can be converted into open-air rooms because the corridors, arcades and the classrooms have transoms opening into these arcades.

It will be noticed from the plan that the experimental gardens are in the fore-court and the smaller boys' and girls' playgrounds are in the interior court, divided by an arcade. The larger boys' playground is to the east and the larger girls' playground is to the west of the building.

The orientation of this school is particularly well adapted for the climate of Sacramento. The windows of the rooms face the north and east, the corridors opening onto the south and west.

A very important feature is the two open air play grounds, or play spaces, on the second floor towards the north. These play spaces will extend the entire length of the building and are 35x162 feet in area. They will be open entirely towards the north with windows on the south which are to be closed only during rainy weather. These play grounds will be well illuminated so that they may be used freely at night under the jurisdiction and control of the Playgrounds Department of the city.

The building is 272x396 feet, which includes courts and experimental gardens and arcades. The architecture of the building is of the Italian type and will be constructed of reinforced concrete. The exterior will be trimmed with brick, concrete panels and a red mission tile roof.

CLASSROOM FEATURES.

As regards the open-air classroom feature: the windows occupy five-sixths of the lighting wall space and extend from two feet above the floor to the ceiling. Each window will be divided into thirds and a type of window will be used which can open horizontally, thus having the entire room open on the lighting side. In conjunction with this will be the transoms on the opposite side of the room, thus making each classroom as nearly open air as possible without abandoning windows.

A feature which the Board of Education of Sacramento has adopted is that of having two wardrobes to each classroom, one for boys and one for girls. The girls' is at the rear and the boys' at the front of the room, and in each wardrobe is a watercloset and lavatory. This has been thought out by the Board of Education and adopted by them after very careful consideration on their part.

The experiment gardens are intended to be not only flower gardens, but gardens where the children can be taught botany and the history and growth of plants and flowers.

It is interesting to note the terrace around the entrance to the library and enclosing the kindergarten so that the kindergarten children have a playground entirely their own and separated from the larger children. This paved terrace will be enclosed with a hedge for further protection to the little ones.

The building will be electrically equipped so that evening classes may be held.

The heating and ventilating system will be the dual system—direct heat from radiators under the windows, and the indirect-heated air forced into the rooms.

The plumbing will be of vitreous china for the fixtures, each fixture vented into a utility chamber.

ASKS POLICE AID; TELLS DRUG TALE

Young Bride Who Mysteriously Disappeared Last November, in Adventure.

NEW YORK, March 7.—Search for the supposed assailant of Mrs. Julia Caper, eighteen, of No. 1975 Second avenue, who hysterically appealed to Patrolman Frank Adams at Third avenue and One Hundred and Second street, was begun after she declared she was drugged with a handkerchief saturated with chloroform on a Second avenue "L" train.

Mrs. Caper strangely disappeared last November shortly after her marriage, and her complaint to the police gave them their first intimation that she was not still missing.

At the Harlem hospital Mrs. Caper said:

"I was married last August to Daniel Caper, but we soon separated. I boarded a Second avenue elevated train at Seventy-second street, meaning to get off at the One Hundred and First street station. A stockily built young foreigner attempted to talk with me. I ignored him and he drew a handkerchief from his pocket and for a second held it over my face. That was the last I remembered until I found myself in the street below the elevated station at Hanover square. The next thing I remembered was asking the policeman to help me."

The girl, well dressed in a long black plush coat and blue velvet suit, with hat to match, wore a wedding ring and a diamond engagement ring, a heavy gold bracelet and a watch bracelet. In her pocket were thirty-two cents and a slip of paper on which was written: "P. J. Kelly, Pier 12, foot of Wall street."

"Who is Kelly?" asked detective Veale.

"I don't know," replied the girl.

The ambulance surgeon said there was no sign of drugs or liquor about

DIVORCED FROM DENTIST.

TRUSTEES TURN IT OVER TO BURKE

When interviewed today Mr. Burke stated that the trustees had received from the board of trade the stock of the well known shoe firm of D. Steinberg, 922 Washington street, and had turned the same over to him to be disposed of at once, this statement was affirmed later on by MOSS FEIGENBERG and I. GOLDMAN, trustees. When asked what his intentions were Burke said, "I intend to put on a large force of help to arrange and mark this stock today and you can say for me that I will be ready to open to the public Wednesday morning and furthermore will say that if ever you had an opportunity to purchase shoes right, you will have it now, but just bear in mind, look for the green signs with the name, J. P. BURKE, for if you do you will not be misled by imitators."

SOCCER GAME IS HOTLY CONTESTED

Intermediate Team of Allendale Defeated by De Fremeryites.

The intermediate soccer team of Allendale playground went down to defeat yesterday before the De Fremery lineup by a score of 2 to 1, in the most hotly contested game that was ever seen on De Fremery field. By winning this game, the De Fremery boys have won the championship of Oakland, and will be awarded the medals offered by the recreation department. The two goals for the victors were kicked by Captain Dewey Meads.

Besides the young skipper, the stars in aggressive work were Bertola and Greeg. In the backfield, Leighton, Henderson and Stickel distinguished themselves by peerless work. The last player mentioned is probably the best boy halfback in Oakland, combining dash in charging with accuracy and speed in feeding his forwards.

Allendale's best were Robertson, Stiles and Dolan, the latter being a very aggressive player. Robertson scored the one point for the losers on a penalty award, and was the most dangerous man of the defeated eleven.

The lineups follow:

De Fremery — Mullens, Greeg, Bertola, Nattinger, Meade (McAllister), forwards; Stickel, Liston, Myers, halfbacks; Leighton, Henderson, fullbacks; Dolan, goalkeeper.

Allendale — G. Dolan, Robertson, Foster, Daniels, Stiles, forwards; Hilton, Tuller, Cooper, halfbacks; J. Andy, Teisen, fullbacks; Monk, goalkeeper.

SOCCER CONTEST ENDS.

By a score of 2 to 1, the De Fremery Bantam soccer players defeated the Allendale kids in the final game for the bantam championship of Oakland. The game was played on Allendale field, and was a good exhibition of association football. The De Fremery scores came from a penalty kick in the first half, and field goal scored one minute after the initial whistle of the second half.

After this goal, the home team put up a desperate resistance and succeeded in scoring a goal before the end of the half. The stars of the winning side were Mullens, Band and Cornado. The lineup of the victors was as follows.

Forwards, John Mullens, Bond, Davis, Kammler, Goodfellow (Morris); halfbacks, Pierce, Dolan, Cornado; fullbacks, Lee, Duffy; goalkeeper, Squires.

The quintet of unlimited basketballers representing Mosswood park bested the Bushrod team yesterday in a fast game played on Mosswood court, the final score being 36 to 15. Expert passing, combined with accuracy on the basket, won the victory for the Mosswood boys. Johnson of Mosswood was easily the star of the game, scoring 18 points for his team, while Mahan was the most dangerous man of the losing combination. The lineups follow:

Mosswood — Connolly (Ford), Johnson, forwards; White (Drew), center; Chew (Kemp), Macdonald (White), guards.

DEFEAT BERKELEYITES.

The Olympic bantam baseball team of Bushrod playground defeated the Berkeley Stars Friday in a one sided baseball game that finished with a score of 33 to 6. The teams styled "bantams" by the recreation department league, are composed of players under 12 years in age, and under four feet and six inches in height, but there are among them many promising stars of the diamond.

The teams at Bushrod especially under the expert care of Supervisor Clifford McElrath, have already attained considerable skill in the national game, in spite of their diminutive size and tender age. The Olympics having now completed the conquest of Berkeley, are ready to meet all comers in Oakland.

A strong baseball lineup representing the De Fremery playground defeated the fast combination playing under the Princeton club colors by a score of 8 to 4, after a closely contested game. The De Fremery lineup was: Mason c, McAllister p, Allen 1b, Wood 2b, Mullens ss, Davis 3b, John Mullens rf, Martin cf, McNally lf.

ELDERLY WOMAN KEEPS VIGIL OVER HOMESTEAD

SPOKANE, Wash., March 7.—Alfred Schweizer and four other, including a woman sixty years old, who started housekeeping on December 31 before the door of the Government land office in the Federal building here, were rewarded by filing on the land they have been cultivating. Forty-five other settlers who took their places before the land office door have filed either on lands on which they have lived or on lands claimed by those who had been before them.

The Northern Pacific railway, which has a claim on lieu lands and which was feared by certain homesteaders, did not file on its claims until late in the day.

The land on which the settlers filed is located in Stevens county, Washington, and is opened for the first time for filing.

GREAT BLAST IS MADE IN QUARRY

Material for Three Monster Buildings Is Dislodged.

SALT LAKE CITY, March 7.—The crew at the lower quarry of the local quarry company was considerably surprised when they fired enough powder to blast an ordinary sized boulder and drew down from the side of Little Cottonwood canyon enough stone to build two or three Utah state capitols. The stone slid slowly down the incline of the canyon wall in three huge blocks. It came down quietly and without much jar, they say, but when it struck terra firma its progress did not cease.

The foremost block was forced fully half its height into the earth and large fragments were forced off by the pressure and bounded forward, tearing up the track of a tramway and pushing aside the whole embankment of the roadbed of a switchback. Earth pushed ... a large gully that would easily hold a seven-room house.

The foremost block of stone was the largest and is estimated to weigh approximately 54,288,000 pounds. Each of the two that followed is about half the size of the first. The amount of stone that came down was not due to the size of the blast, but is ascribed to the fact that the stone was loose and needed only a jar to start the slide.

As the first block contains more than enough material for the capitol, the company says it does not expect to blast out any more stone from the quarry during the year.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Try This! Mix Sage Tea and Sulphur, and Brush it Through Your Hair, Taking Strand at a Time.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant; remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

SPORTSMAN IS SOUGHT; SWINDLE IS CHARGED

LOS ANGELES, March 7.—Larry Sullivan, sportsman and promoter, is the object of a police search here today, following the issuance of a warrant charging him with swindling Mrs. Laura Rodgers, a wealthy widow of Kansas City, to whom he is said to have been engaged to be married.

Although the specific complaint charges Sullivan with swindling her out of $334, Mrs. Rodgers tearfully told the county prosecutors that her acquaintance with him had cost her more than $5000. She gave Sullivan the $334, she declared, when he told her he had been arrested in a mining deal and needed the money to keep out of jail.

Estabrook, Colo.—"My father's trouble began on his wrist and kept on going up his arm until near his elbow. It first came as a rash and itched so he was almost wild with it. Then I thought I would try Cuticura Soap and Ointment and it seemed like the first application relieved him so much. Before that he was almost crazy with the burning but when I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment it stopped it. I had to keep his arm done up in soft cloths so as not to rub it and make it itch more. I got two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and they cured him." (Signed) Mrs. Cora Boegel, July 4, 1913.

SOLVES FEMINISM; MAN SOLE CAUSE

Maria Cajafa Finds Modern Loveliness of Male Morally Responsible.

ROME, March 7.—The secret of feminism is out, what it is, why it is, and how to cure it. Incidentally, with all that chivalry for which man has ever—or never—been famous, it can be said right off the bat that the fault is not woman's. For the menace of feminism, man and man alone is guilty.

Maria Cajafa, one of Italy's leading women sociologists and scientists, is the person who claims to have solved this interesting and widespread modern social problem. Where others have figured that it was largely an economic or political question, Signorina Cajafa has found that it is purely a moral one. And the responsibility for the moral decadence that has brought it about is man's.

Feminism has come into being, says "Professoressa" Cajafa, solely because "the modern man no longer loves." The modern man, having failed to fill the life of the modern woman with the only thing that can satisfyingly fill it, modern woman has sought other means for overcoming the void. Let modern man learn once again how to love woman as nature intended she should be loved, and the modern woman will forget in five minutes that she ever wanted to blow up prime ministers, work the fire department to death and break shop windows, according to "Professoressa" Cajafa.

CONSIDERED QUESTION SCIENTIFICALLY.

Professor Cajafa, who has just given to the Italian public her first exhaustive study of "Feminism," has been neither local nor purely modern in her researches and treatment. Instead, she has regarded the subject as a world-wide question and has gone into both historically and scientifically.

Both science and experience, declares the "professoressa," have established that the dominating factor in the life of man is intellect; in that of woman, sentiment. It is for this reason, she explains, that the one has greater vigor and reasoning, and the other in affection; that one is stronger in speculation, and the other in passion; that one is more rigid and authoritative and the other more flexible and pliable; the one more prone to construct, the other to conserve, the one to act, the other to suffer and endure.

HAVE FILLED HER LIFE.

As long, during the ages of the past, as man continued to give woman real love; as long as he made her the real ideal and inspiration of his life; as long as he filled every moment of her life with the sentiment which her nature demands, feminism was unheard of. But now, according to Professor Cajafa, the modern man no longer does this; has, in fact, lost the capacity. For him, woman is no longer what she was in all the highest meaning of that term, but is merely a female serving largely for his mere pleasure. And woman, robbed of the one thing that can fill her life, has begun to look around for other things to take its place.

For the moment, Professor Cajafa says, modern woman has the idea that woman suffrage, political, social and economic equality, and similar so-called feminist movements, can fill her void. The "professoressa," however, is convinced that such things never will suffice.

WOMAN BECOMES DECADENT.

While Signorina Cajafa blames man for having lost this power to give real love to woman, she admits also that woman, as result, has permitted herself to fall into a state of decadence that is anything but calculated to restore her to the ideal place she formerly occupied in man's life. "Surrounded by pleasure, living only for pleasure," she says, "there has succeeded to the severe modesty of the ancient maiden and matron, and to the strength of the former Christian woman, the modern feminist, frivolous, light, decadent victim of the most absurd fashions, which tend more to undress than to dress her, and who seeks constantly to provoke with her dressing and her looks, masculine admiration, the only end for which she sacrifices time and money in adorning herself."

RELATION LOGICAL SEQUENCE.

The relation in which modern man and woman confront each other—that is, not the relation of man and woman, but the relation merely of male and female beings—Professor Cajafa asserts is the logical sequence of the moral decadence that has been going on for a century past. Mankind, step by step, she says, has lost both the moral and religious sense; has lost enthusiasm; has abandoned every faith until there remained but one last thing to cast down—that of holy womanhood—and this has now taken place.

Signorina Cajafa, however, is not without hope. As man's great sphere in life, because of his intellect, is that of science, so, she says, woman's great sphere in life, because of her sentiment, is education. Her plan is to teach girls of the present generation how to grow to be the kind of women who once were loved, idealized and revered by the men.

BAKERSFIELD OFFICER TO APPEAL HIS CASE

carry the case higher. Judge McMahon, who directed the dismissal, will be petitioned to grant a certificate of reasonable doubt, which, if granted, would result in a stay of proceedings.

The marshal contends that he acted under advice of the City Attorney in not closing up the vice district on the ground that juries persistently refused to convict. McKamy has been marshal since 1907.

Woman Taught Thus Learned

MISS HELEN KELLER

Helen Keller, who is now attracting crowds during her tour in Southern California, and who is expected to have an enthusiastic audience in Oakland, at "Ye Liberty Theater" on the afternoon of March 20, has received the comments of many famous men upon her marvelous achievements. Mark Twain once named Napoleon and Helen Keller as the two most interesting characters of the nineteenth century.

"I think he should have included the remarkable woman who has made Helen Keller what she is," said a Philadelphian, after attending Tuesday's "lecture" by this southerner, who is deaf, dumb and blind and her teacher and inseparable companion for twenty-four years, Mrs. John Albert Macy, best known to the world as Miss Anne Sullivan.

All the world knows how the uncommonly bright 19-months-old baby girl, the joy of a rose-bowered home in Tuscumbia, Ala., was robbed of the three major senses by an attack of what the doctors then called acute congestion of the stomach and brain; how this curly haired toddler, who had begun to talk at nine months, and on the day she was a year old had walked half way across her room in pursuit of a sunbeam, was suddenly cast into absolute darkness and stillness by a strange fever, which vanished with the swiftness that had marked its attack.

It is not generally known, however, that this mysterious storm which wrecked her dawning day left her merely a young animal. At two years Helen Keller was a prowless, rudderless little hulk adrift on a sea of blackness, unable to control even the rudimentary of bodily functions. In a household less lighted by love, she might have been neglected or mistreated as an insufferable infliction.

It took a measure of common sense prophetic of the present-day Montessori brand to figure out a policy so wise as the one thus expressed by Miss Sullivan two months later:

"I am beginning to suspect all elaborate and special systems of education," she said. "They seem to me to be built up on the supposition that every child is kind of idiot, who must be taught to think. Whereas, if the child is left to himself, he will think more and better, if less showily. Let him go and come freely, let him touch real things and combine his impressions for himself, instead of sitting indoors at a little round table while a teacher suggests that he build a stone wall with his wooden blocks or make a rainbow out of strips of colored paper. Such teaching fills the mind with artificial associations that must be got rid of before the child can develop independent ideas out of actual experiences."

She was being taught while teaching, as always is the case. Also she was being so harassed and handicapped by the child's inequalities; her progress with Helen was so punctuated by defeats and failures that if she had done nothing more than stick to her post that first year she would be worthy of praise.

It is indeed a far cry from the deaf, dumb and blind little girl of seven, who was little more than an animal, to the exquisitely rounded personality of the charming woman of 33—an age of divine significance—who has mastered all branches of learning, speaks three and reads five languages, plays both the piano and violin, has read more widely than the average college-bred woman and written three successful books, corresponded with the choicest minds of her time, lectured in various parts of the land and, in addition to her activity along progressive lines of social reform, holds the degree of bachelor of arts from one of the foremost woman's colleges in the country.

REV. BAIRD WINNER IN INJUNCTION SUIT

WOODLAND, Yolo co., March 7.—Judge K. S. Mahon of Sutter county, has rendered a decision in the injunction suit of the vestry of S. Luke's church of this city vs. their rector, E. J. Baird, in favor of the minister. After the victory of the two other civil suits, one on ejectment and the other on claim and delivery, some time ago, it was evident that the rector would win the suit to enjoin him from holding services in the church. As he was declared the rector in the other suits, no other decision could very well have been given.

The decision of Judge Mahon reads.

"In the superior court of Yolo county, state of California.

"T. C. Arens et al. plaintiffs, vs. Edward John Baird, defendant.

"The motion of plaintiffs for a preliminary injunction in the above entitled action, having been heretofore made and argued, and the same having been submitted for the decision of the court, it is hereby ordered that said motion be and the same is hereby denied and that said preliminary injunction be and the same is refused.

K. S. MAHON,
"Acting Judge."

SUPERVISORS VOTE $5500 FOR SURVEY

Shasta Hires Engineers to Get Data on Favorite Project.

REDDING, March 7.—The talking stage of the Pit river irrigation project, as opposed to the Iron canyon project, promoted by Red Bluff and Tehama county, has passed. The doing stage has arrived.

The supervisors, having heard the irrigation committee of the Shasta County Promotion and Development Association present its views, agreed to support the enterprise to the extent of $5500, that being the amount needed for immediate purposes.

The development association has already engaged the civil engineering firm of Duryea, Haehl & Gilman, San Francisco, to make a survey of the Pit river project and to make an estimate of the probable cost, together with an estimate of the amount of tillable land it will bring under irrigation.

Haehl will begin work next week, now that the supervisors have virtually authorized the expense. Of course, all these [illegible] fore the United States reclamation bureau with the purpose of enlisting federal aid for the Pit river project as against the Iron canyon project. Shasta people claim the Iron canyon project will be of vast injury to Shasta county, destroying $2,000,000 worth of property.

The development association has also engaged engineers to make an appraisement of the real and potential value of the land in the southern part of the county that will be submerged if the Iron canyon project is carried through.

Those appearing before the supervisors in behalf of the irrigation committee and the Pit river project were Judge W. D. Tillotson, M. T. Howell of Cottonwood, Francis Carr of Redding, M. E. Dittmar and J. C. Brown of Cottonwood.

The committee, which was at work all day, was composed of these: W. C. Barkuloo and Harry Story, Anderson, L. W. Nelson and George Thompson, Pacheco; M. T. Hoell and Ed G. Carter, Cottonwood; E. H. Wilcox and A. J. Shields, Balls Ferry.

The club has assumed the burden of repairing and strengthening the pavilion, owned by the city, preparatory to holding the various programs there. This course was made necessary because the clubhouse auditorium seats only about 500 while the pavilion will accommodate three or four times as many.

INVESTIGATION INTO COAL STRIKE CLOSED

DENVER, Colo., March 7.—After continuing exactly four weeks, the congressional investigation of the Colorado coal mine strike was brought to a close here tonight. The congressmen announced that they had abandoned all the side trips projected earlier, and will start back for Washington tomorrow morning.

Committeemen sat and took testimony for 264 hours. Witnesses numbering 1225 were examined and gave testimony filling 6,000 typewritten pages, or more than 1,500,000 words. Three shorthand reporters, five phonographs and five typists were kept busy 12 hours a day making this record. The company spent 24 days in Trinidad and the remainder in Walsenburg.

L. M. Bowers, personal representative of John D. Rockefeller, testified this afternoon that the Rockefellers own most of the stock in the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, one of the big three companies in the Colorado coal fields. TOM COWLES WINNER OVER DENVER MARTIN

VANCOUVER, B. C., March 7.—Tom Cowler, the British Columbia "white hope," defeated Denver Ed Martin in two rounds at the Steveston arena today. After outclassing his opponent in the first round and putting him to the mat with stiff uppercuts, Martin stopped a hard right cross in the second round that sent him down for the count. He came up week and was dropped again by a left jolt to the jaw. While the seconds were trying to revive him, Referee McDonald raised Cowler's hand. It was a disappointing contest, neither man showing any class.

TO START WORK ON BIG BUILDING

Construction of Elston & Clark Next Development Task in Berkeley.

BERKELEY, Marh 7.—Work starts next week on the new Elston & Clark building which is to represent the next step in the development of Telegraph avenue. It is to be located at the corner of Durant and Telegraph avenues on the site of the former home of Louis Titus and the former Alpha Phi sorority house. A building permit for the structure, estimating its cost at $55,000, has been secured, but it is expected the structure will cost upwards of $100,000 by the time of its completion. It was designed by W. H. Ratcliff, Jr.

The development of Telegraph avenue as a business section has been rapid in the past few years, and is continuing to progress at the present time. The erection of three five-story apartment houses at Bancroft way and Telegraph avenue was the first step, followed soon by the building of the Hotel Carlton of similar height. The Berkeley Inn, at Telegraph and Channing way has been completed and occupied but a comparatively short time, and is one of the most beautiful buildings of its kind in this city. In the past year and a half the block of Telegraph avenue nearest the campus has been steadily building up, lending a more imposing aspect to that thoroughfare up to its terminus at the Sather Gate. The Telegraph avenue branch of the Berkeley Bank of Savings and Trust company has recently been completed in this block.

TO OPEN PARK.

Arrangements are being completed for opening San Pablo park for the use of the public. The grading is completed and the fencing will be done soon. A contract has been let for surfacing the playground part, and an inviting space will soon be provided for the little ones. The baseball grounds are already in shape. Apparatus for calesthenics will be purchased at once. This season $7000 will be expended in making the park attractive, and already there is provision for $7000 to be used next year for the same purpose. A large drawing showing the proposed improvements is on display in the rooms of the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce, and all who are interested are invited to inspect it, with a view to offering suggestions for future improvements.

Among the building permits of recent issuance have been the following:

Two-story 16-room building, Dana and Woolsey street; C. M. Burchalter, owner; cost $8000.

Three-story 20-room apartment house; W. Alexander, owner; Le Conte and La Loma avenues; cost $15,000.

One-story five-room dwelling, Baker near Prince street, United Home Builders, owners; cost $1500. Same, cost $1500.

Two-story seven-room dwelling, Alameda and Tacoma avenues; Nellie Roe, owner; cost $3500.

Two-story six-room dwelling, Hearst and Shattuck avenues; Dora Clark, owner; cost $1500.

Alterations on 14-room dwelling, Piedmont avenue and Parker street; C. L. MacFarland, owner; cost $750.

Two-story six-room dwelling, Walnut and Vine streets; B. F. Sergeant, owner; cost $2000.

NEW SLIPS FOR MARIN TRAFFIC

Organizations of County Work for Plan to Relieve Congestion.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7. — Practically all of the organizations of Marin county have swung into line and are exerting every possible means to put the Powell street ferry slips on the map of San Francisco. This effort will be lent to the Board of Supervisors of San Francisco, which body has taken the matter up with a will, with the intention of greatly relieving the congestion at the ferry, as all traffic from Marin would be landed at the new slips.

Supervisor Vogelsang introduced a resolution to the San Francisco board calling for the estimate of the expense of the construction of the municipal street railway to the foot of Mason or Powell streets at North Beach. A line tapping the heart of the city would be necessary with the inauguration of ferry service at that point. The operation of a ferry at North Beach will work a great saving in time to Marin commuters and, no doubt, prove an important factor in the development of the county as a suburban homeplace.

Congressman Kent has been active at Washington in the endeavor to locate the naval base on the Marin shores. With three deep water harbors favorably situated, he is making a logical request of the War Department. These locations have already been investigated by the department and Secretary of War Roosevelt, who will visit the coast next month, will visit the sites in question. From all indications Marin stands an excellent chance of getting the improvement. The Hunters Point drydock deal is a six-year lease, made, it is understood, in order that the Government might secure the best site on the bay and have time to develop it before occupation.

A concerted effort to raise the county's share of the Tourists Association levy is expected to result in the pledging of the sum, which is very small, within a few days. The Real Estate Board has taken the matter up with the idea of forcing it to a successful issue.

'A WONDERFUL SETTING HAS OAKLAND'

A marked compliment was paid the city of Oakland this week by S. A. Johnstone, a St. Louis capitalist, who is touring California in his motor car.

"I have yet to see a city in America," said, "with such a wonderful setting, in which such beautiful winding roadways, such magnificent scenic drives can be reached in five or ten minutes' time from the business center. I have covered our country pretty well in my travels, but your homesites here in Oakland eclipse the world.

"The thing about it all that is most surprising to me, however, if you will pardon my putting it this way, is the apparent indifference of your own people to the great advantage you possess. I do not hear on all sides a claim of supremacy such as you are clearly entitled to. No one seems overly enthusiastic about it, except possibly a few real estate dealers I have talked with. Such advantages as your city possesses, if given to any number of cities I might name, cause them to begin world campaigns to bring thousands to live with them.

"Your Lake Merritt, your Piedmont home section, your Rockridge and Claremont districts—why, one would almost imagine the street cars did not run to these beautiful places so little do your people seem to regard them.

PREDICTS POPULATION GAIN.

"If you want your city to grow, your merchants to make money and all your people to be happy as they take profits from the sale of lots the have bought, you have only to start to tell the people of the East and the Middle West the truth about your city and they will come. And if you put the enthusiasm that is justified into the telling they will come by the thousands.

"You are going to have a wonderful opportunity in 1915. All over the East they are planning to come to California. If you do your part you will feel splendid results in the years following.

"Every one I have talked with has confidence in the great future of Oakland. They all seem to believe that you are to have a city here that will have a population of over 500,000 in a short time. Yet your present property values do not seem to be based on an expectation of that result. In all large cities that I know of well situated, close-in residence properties command prices way beyond those that prevail here in Oakland. Two hundred dollars and $300 a front foot for desirable residence places is nothing unusual through the Middle West, nor is it in San Francisco or Los Angeles.

"From what I have seen I believe that Oakland offers the finest real estate opportunity of any city that I know of in America. The year 1914 should be most active and great results must necessarily follow the coming of the great numbers of people who will be here the following year."

MODESTO RAILROAD DEPOT.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—The city of Modesto today requested the Railroad Commission to select a site for its new depot and to designate the nature of the structure which the Southern Pacific has been ordered to erect.

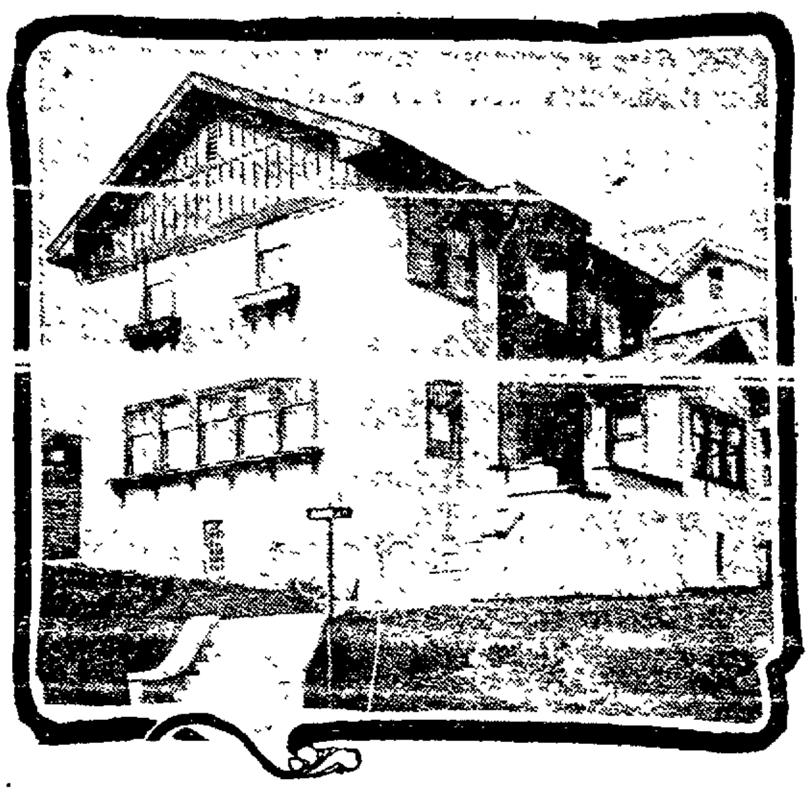
INDIANA LAWYER BUYS $8500 OAKLAND HOME



NEW $8500 RESIDENCE PURCHASED BY CHARLES E. DAILEY, A NEW COMER FROM INDIANA.

The beautiful modern residence at the northeast corner of Rand and Glen View avenues, in the North Lakeside district, was sold this week by John Fletcher to Charles E. Dailey. The premises consist of a dwelling of eight rooms and lot with sixty feet frontage and with lake and park view. Fletcher, a resident of Yuba county, purchased the property for $8500. His business interests calling him to Granada, he resold to Dailey. The latter, a prominent attorney of Indiana, has been in California for the past year, visiting Los Angeles, San Diego and other parts. He ultimately made up his mind that Oakland presented the best future, both for business and residence.

The sale of the Fletcher home to him was made by S. H. Masters, sales manager of the Laymance Real Estate Co.

CANAL DREDGING, RICHMOND PROJECT

Realty Sales in Industrial City Are Greatly on the Increase.

RICHMOND, March 7.—Richmond realty sales are rapidly on the increase. Up and down "realty row," the brokers report many big deals and have great expectations of a bright and prosperous year.

In the Ellis Landing Subdivision, active work has been started in the digging of the Ellis canal. "Los Arboles," the 300-horsepower dredge is pouring mud into the old Ellis property east of Tenth street, which has been surrounded by retaining levees. The elevation of all the marshy land that has been known as the Ellis property will be raised four feet, or as high as the old Tenth street level.

The canal will be 1800 feet long and 120 feet wide with a turning basin at the head 200 feet in diameter. Large wharves will be built on either side of the canal and wide streets laid upon them. The whole canal has already been outlined by the clam shell dredge which was on the property over a month ago and the deeper [illegible]

With the closing of a large realty deal last Wednesday, Harry Parth and William Stiller, well known real estate men of this city purchased forty-seven acres of land adjoining Arlington Terrace owned by A. C. Kerley of this city. The land as above mentioned lies in the vicinity of Grand Canyon park. It will be subdivided and improved.

The widening of Twenty-third street means much to the sales of real estate in that section. Bids for the improvement of that work will soon be called. It will be widened to 80 feet and paved with macadam.

The Herbert F. Brown, and Burg Brothers companies are the first in this city to plant trees along the streets in their resepective tracts. Nearly 5000 trees of the acacia variety have been planted in the Brown-Ardrada tract owned by the former while the latter has placed orders for large consignments of trees. The Richmond Club has also come forward as encouraging such a plan.

Mrs. Mary Peres has let the contract to Fluth & Morton for two modern five-room bungalows, to be built on Thirteenth street, between Nevin and Barrett streets.

Frank C. Gardner, the realty man, returned from Fair Oaks, near Sacramento, where he has secured a 242-acre orange and olive land tract. He has not decided just what he will do with the property.

REDWOOD CITY LOTS SOLD TO SYNDICATE

Four hundred and twelve lots in Central Park, Redwood City, owned by the Maxey Realty company, Phelan building, were sold by Frederick A. Stokes to the Redwood City Syndicate, composed of prominent San Francisco business men, among whose names the following are notable: K. A. Lundstrom, H. W. Hutton, J. Cal Ewing, Dr. J. N. Stowell, Jens Jacobsen and Henry L. Bacigalupi. The purchase price of these lots is $145,000.

On behalf of the syndicate Stokes investigated several propositions in the bay cities, but the Peninsula was preferred, promising increased returns sooner than other investments offered the syndicate, especially since Redwood City's harbor is being rapidly developed and half a million dollars' street improvements have nearly been completed. Stokes and Bacigalupi will act as selling agents for the Syndicate and contracts are being closed with San Francisco contractors to build homes on this tract to be sold on easy payments.

STEALS WEDDING SUIT FROM CLOTHIER'S DUMMY

[illegible], March 7.—Morris Owens needed a new suit to be married in, but not having the price, Morris saw a way of getting a suit while passing the clothing store of J. Williamson on Jefferson street.

Quickly picking up a full dressed dummy, Morris stepped into an alley, stripped off his suit and donned the new togs.

DIGEST OF REAL ESTATE DECISIONS

How Courts Have Viewed the Problems Involving Property.

In a digest of recent real estate decisions rendered by courts involving matters of interest to property owners, the National Real Estate Journal included the following:

No Advantage From Unlawfully Acquired Possession.—A party should be accorded no advantage in an action to quiet the title to real estate by any un- [illegible] sion thereof prior to the commencement of the action. -Supreme Court of Kansas in Juhlin vs. Hutchings, 125 Pac. R., 598.

Fraudulently Obtained Judgments Under the Torrens Act.—The supreme court of Minnesota holds that where, in proceedings under the Torrens act to register title, the judgment is procured by fraud on the part of the applicant in failing to name as parties or serve claimants known to him it is not binding upon such omitted claimants. If the want of jurisdiction due to the failure to serve known claimants appears from the judgment roll itself, the judgment is void as against such claimants, and may be attacked collaterally. Where such want of jurisdiction does not appear from the judgment roll itself, the judgment is not subject to collateral attack, though the applicant fraudulently concealed the existence of a known claimant. Where the existence of such claimant does not appear from the judgment roll itself, or the proceedings, and where such proceedings are absolutely regular on their face, one who purchases from the registered owner for a valuable consideration in reliance upon the judgment and without notice or anything to put him on inquiry, takes the title free from all incumbrances and adverse claims except those noted on the certificate. Henry vs. White, 143 N. W. R., 324.

Decrees Which Are Not Prejudicial to Title.—A person is prejudiced or aggrieved, in the legal sense, the supreme court of Illinois says, when a legal right is invaded by the act complained of or his pecuniary interest is directly affected by the decree or judgment. When it is necessary, in foreclosure proceedings, to make a person a party thereto to adjudicate his rights or interests in property, if he is not made a party he cannot be precluded as to his rights or interests by a statement in the supplemental proceedings, entered after the sale of the property, that he has had notice of such supplemental proceedings. Not being a party to the decree of foreclosure and sale, the supplemental proceedings could have no force or effect whatever upon his rights, which would remain the same as if foreclosure proceedings and sale had never been had.

RIGHTS SAFEGUARDED.

When a decree is not a cloud upon a title when the decree is entered, then the mere lapse of time will not prejudice the owner's rights. If the law were otherwise, no person's rights or property would be safe unless he made daily or weekly examinations of the decrees and judgments entered in the different courts having jurisdiction where his property was located, to see whether or not he was incidentally mentioned in such decrees and judgments. Such is not the law. A cloud on a title is a semblance of a title, either legal or equitable, which, if valid, would affect or impair the title, but which can be shown by extrinsic evidence to be invalid. Where the title claimed is invalid on its face, so that it can never be successfully maintained, it does not amount to a cloud. Glos vs People, 102 N. E. R., 763.

Rights With Reference to Absolute Deeds as Mortgages.—An instrument purporting to be an absolute conveyance of real estate, but intended to be defeasible or as security for the payment of money, is deemed a mortgage, and, the supreme court of Oklahoma holds, must be recorded and foreclosed as such. The holder of a deed absolute, taken as a security for a debt, can only acquire title by a foreclosure of his mortgage, and any agreement of forfeiture is void. Any person having an interest in the mortgaged real estate may redeem from such deed. Every instrument explanatory of any deed or other writing purporting to be a conveyance, but intended to be defeasible or as security for the payment of money, shall be deemed a part thereof, and must be filed and recorded therewith; and, unless such instruments are so filed and recorded together, they and each of them, shall have no other effect than an unrecorded mortgage, and the recording of the principal instrument shall secure no rights to the holder thereof. However, any person purchasing or taking any security against real estate in good faith and without notice from one holding under an instrument purporting to be a conveyance, but intended as security for the payment of money, which instrument has been duly recorded without any other instrument explanatory thereof, shall be protected to the extent of the purchase price paid, or actual outlay occasioned, with lawful interest against all persons except those in actual possession at the time of such purchase or outlay. But any conveyance, other than as above provided, by one holding under an instrument purporting to be a conveyance, but intended as security, shall be deemed and treated as an assignment and transfer of the mortgage rights of any indebtedness due the maker thereof. Krauss vs. Potts, 135 Pac R., 362.

ROCKEFELLER SHOVELS SNOW ON HIS ESTATE

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., March 7.—John D. Rockefeller has taken to shoveling snow for exercise because he can't play golf these days. The heavy fall of snow has spread a layer two feet deep over his Pocantico Hills estate. It is impossible to use his automobile and it is too deep for sleighing. He has about a hundred men shoveling paths through his estate, and he took a shovel and made some paths near his house.

NEW SETTLERS ON FARMS AT GALT

Building in the Rural Districts Stimulated by Incoming Ranchers.

GALT, March 7.—Several new settlers have taken up their residences on small farms in this vicinity during the past two weeks. This movement at this time is attributed to the coming of spring as a larger percentage are people who purchased their holdings some time ago with the intention of taking possession immediately after the winter rains.

The locating of settlers is stimulating [illegible] districts and particularly so in that country lying to the north and west of town, where scores of families have already taken residence, and a number of substantial homes are under construction in this section at the present time.

Farmers are well along with their work. Thousands of acres of crops have been put in since the rains and the alfalfa fields are beautiful carpets of green. The heavy rains of winter have insured the farming public of big crops for the year.

GETS PENSION FOR 31 YEARS AFTER LONG WAIT

CENTRALIA, March 7.—Waiting thirty-one years since the death of her husband, Mrs. Sarah Bennett has been granted a pension by the government and in addition has been given a back pension.

Mrs. Bennett is the widow of John Bennett, one of the first settlers of Lewis county. After serving in the Indian wars from 1855 to 1859 Mr. Bennett campaigned in Texas, Florida and Utah, where he underwent many hardships. In 1880 he took up a homestead on the Cowlitz river, above Toledo, and two years later lost his life while clearing his land.

Mrs. Bennett was left with nine children to raise. The children have since cared for their mother.

FORTITUDE OF OLD MAN.

GRAND FORKS, B. C., March 7.—Drawn into a revolving shaft by being caught by the coat sleeve, Nels Larson had his right arm amputated at the elbow at the Granby power station. Although seventy-four years of age and badly bruised, he regained his feet, closed off the machinery and then advised officials of the accident.

POSTCARD TO TELL OF SPRING

Early spring sunshine makes Oakland a delightful place in which to live. The grass is green and knee high in the meadows. The flowers are blooming, carnations, lilies, geraniums and roses, make hedge rows about Oakland homes.

Seventy-five girls of the Oakland High Schools under the instruction of a rowing teacher, spent two hours in boating on Lake Merritt one day last week. On the estuary, a dozen rowers, stripped to working costumes, were out in their shells at practice all afternoon.

East of the mountains and especially in the extreme eastern portion of the United States, the land is in the grip of the Snow King, trains were stalled and lost in the blizzard, passengers were caught between stations, and for several days traffic had been utterly paralyzed by the cold weather.

These two contrasting pictures, show [illegible] land and California are to be desired as a place of residence. Nothing would impress an Eastern friend of a California resident with this contrast so much as a post-card picture of Oakland as it appears today, received by these Easterners when they are shoveling their way out to the street through snow drifts as high as the eaves of their houses.

The Chamber of Commerce requests every Oakland citizen to think of some Eastern friend or acquaintance and send to that friend a post card showing the flowers, verdure, and the bright warm sunshine that are to be found in Oakland now.

Tell your Eastern friends that next week there will be on display in the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, a collection of hundreds of varieties of flowers in full bloom, grown out of doors in Oakland.

Invitations have been issued for the Spring complimentary flower show by the Alameda County Floral Society to be held at the hall of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce March 12, 13 and 14. The exhibition will open Thursday at noon and close Saturday night at 10 o'clock.

No admission fee will be charged and all residents of the county are invited to make exhibits of cut flowers, flowering shrubs and potted plants. It is expected that there will be a lavish display of daffodils and narcissi if cool weather continues and if the days become warmer it is believed that there will be an abundance of flowering shrubs on display. The committee of arrangements is anxiously consulting all of the weather prophets who indulge in long forecasts so that advance information may be obtained as to the nature of the show.

This will be the second show of the society and the one of last fall was so successful that it is anticipated that the one of this week will be largely attended. To encourage displays and to stimulate competition among the members the society will award ribbons for all kinds of horticultural displays worthy of merit. The judges will be experts who will not be connected in any way with the exhibits.
